BOOK I

Of Man's first disobedience, and the fruit
Of that forbidden tree whose mortal taste
Brought death into the World, and all our woe,
With loss of Eden, till one greater Man
Restore us, and regain the blissful seat,
Sing, Heavenly Muse, that, on the secret top
Of Oreb, or of Sinai, didst inspire
That shepherd who first taught the chosen seed
In the beginning how the heavens and earth
Rose out of Chaos: or, if Sion hill 10
Delight thee more, and Siloa's brook that flowed Fast by the oracle of God, I thence Invoke thy aid to my adventurous song,
That with no middle flight intends to soar
Above th' Aonian mount, while it pursues
Things unattempted yet in prose or rhyme.

And chiefly thou, O Spirit, that dost prefer Before all temples th' upright heart and pure, Instruct me, for thou know'st; thou from the first

Wast present, and, with mighty wings out-spread,
Dove-like sat'st brooding on the vast Abyss,
And mad'st it pregnant: what in me is dark
Illumine, what is low raise and support;
That, to the height of this great argument,
I may assert Eternal Providence,
And justify the ways of God to men.

Say first—for Heaven hides nothing from thy view,
Nor the deep tract of Hell—say first what cause³⁰
Moved our grand parents, in that happy state,
Favoured of Heaven so highly, to fall off
From their Creator, and transgress his will
For one restraint, lords of the World besides.

Who first seduced them to that foul revolt?
Th' infernal Serpent; he it was whose guile,
Stirred up with envy and revenge, deceived
The mother of mankind, what time his pride
Had cast him out from Heaven, with all his host 40

Of rebel Angels, by whose aid, aspiring
To set himself in glory above his peers,
He trusted to have equalled the Most High,
If he opposed, and with ambitious aim
Against the throne and monarchy of God,
Raised impious war in Heaven and battle proud,
With vain attempt. Him the Almighty Power
Hurled headlong flaming from th' ethereal sky,
With hideous ruin and combustion, down
To bottomless perdition, there to dwell 50

In adamantine chains and penal fire,
Who durst defy th' Omnipotent to arms.

Nine times the space that measures day and night

To mortal men, he, with his horrid crew,
Lay vanquished, rolling in the fiery gulf,
Confounded, though immortal. But his doom Reserved him to more wrath; for now the thought

Both of lost happiness and lasting pain
Torments him: round he throws his baleful eyes, 60

That witnessed huge affliction and dismay,
Mixed with obdurate pride and steadfast hate.

At once, as far as Angels ken, he views
The dismal situation waste and wild.

A dungeon horrible, on all sides round,
As one great furnace flamed; yet from those flames

No light; but rather darkness visible
Served only to discover sights of woe, 70
Regions of sorrow, doleful shades, where peace
And rest can never dwell, hope never comes
That comes to all, but torture without end
Still urges, and a fiery deluge, fed
With ever-burning sulphur unconsumed.

Such place Eternal Justice has prepared
For those rebellious; here their prison ordained
In utter darkness, and their portion set,
As far removed from God and light of Heaven⁸⁰
As from the centre thrice to th' utmost pole.

Oh how unlike the place from whence they fell!
 There the companions of his fall, o'erwhelmed
 With floods and whirlwinds of tempestuous fire,
 He soon discerns; and, weltering by his side,
 One next himself in power, and next in crime,
 Long after known in Palestine, and named Beelzebub. To whom th' Arch-Enemy,
 And thence in Heaven called Satan, with bold words 90

Breaking the horrid silence, thus began:—
 "If thou beest he—but O how fallen! how changed
 From him who, in the happy realms of light Clothed with transcendent brightness, didst outshine

Myriads, though bright!—if he whom mutual league,
 United thoughts and counsels, equal hope
 And hazard in the glorious enterprise Joined with me once, now misery hath joined In equal ruin; into what pit thou seest
 From what height fallen: so much the stronger proved 100

He with his thunder; and till then who knew
 The force of those dire arms? Yet not for those,
 Nor what the potent Victor in his rage
 Can else inflict, do I repent, or change, Though changed in outward lustre, that fixed mind,

And high disdain from sense of injured merit,
 That with the Mightiest raised me to contend,
 And to the fierce contentions brought along Innumerable force of Spirits armed,

That durst dislike his reign, and, me preferring, 110

His utmost power with adverse power opposed
In dubious battle on the plains of Heaven,
And shook his throne. What though the field be lost?

All is not lost—the unconquerable will,
And study of revenge, immortal hate,
And courage never to submit or yield:
And what is else not to be overcome?

That glory never shall his wrath or might Extort from me. To bow and sue for grace
With suppliant knee, and deify his power 120
Who, from the terror of this arm, so late Doubted his empire—that were low indeed;
That were an ignominy and shame beneath
This downfall; since, by fate, the strength of Gods,

And this empyreal sybstance, cannot fail;
Since, through experience of this great event,
In arms not worse, in foresight much advanced,
We may with more successful hope resolve
To wage by force or guile eternal war,
Irreconcilable to our grand Foe, 130
Who now triumphs, and in th' excess of joy Sole reigning holds the tyranny of Heaven."
So spake th' apostate Angel, though in pain,
Vaunting aloud, but racked with deep despair;
And him thus answered soon his bold compeer:—
"O Prince, O Chief of many throned Powers
That led th' embattled Seraphim to war
Under thy conduct, and, in dreadful deeds

Fearless, endangered Heaven's perpetual King,
And put to proof his high supremacy, 140
Whether upheld by strength, or chance, or fate,
Too well I see and rue the dire event
That, with sad overthrow and foul defeat,
Hath lost us Heaven, and all this mighty host
In horrible destruction laid thus low,
As far as Gods and heavenly Essences
Can perish: for the mind and spirit remains Invincible, and vigour soon returns,
Though all our glory extinct, and happy state
Here swallowed up in endless misery. 150

But what if he our Conqueror (whom I now
Of force believe almighty, since no less Than such could have o'erpowered such force as ours)

Have left us this our spirit and strength entire,
Strongly to suffer and support our pains,
That we may so suffice his vengeful ire,
Or do him mightier service as his thralls
By right of war, whate'er his business be,
Here in the heart of Hell to work in fire, 160
Or do his errands in the gloomy Deep?
What can it the avail though yet we feel Strength undiminished, or eternal being
To undergo eternal punishment?"

Whereto with speedy words th' Arch-Fiend replied:-

"Fallen Cherub, to be weak is miserable, Doing or suffering: but of this be sure-
To do aught good never will be our task,
But ever to do ill our sole delight,

As being the contrary to his high will 170
Whom we resist. If then his providence
Out of our evil seek to bring forth good,
Our labour must be to pervert that end,
And out of good still to find means of evil;
Which ofttimes may succeed so as perhaps Shall grieve him, if I fail not, and disturb
His inmost counsels from their destined aim.

But see! the angry Victor hath recalled
His ministers of vengeance and pursuit 180
Back to the gates of Heaven: the sulphurous hail,
Shot after us in storm, o'erblown hath laid
The fiery surge that from the precipice
Of Heaven received us falling; and the thunder, Winged with red lightning and impetuous rage,
Perhaps hath spent his shafts, and ceases now
To bellow through the vast and boundless Deep.

Let us not slip th' occasion, whether scorn
Or satiate fury yield it from our Foe. 190

Seest thou yon dreary plain, forlorn and wild,
The seat of desolation, void of light,
Save what the glimmering of these livid flames Casts pale and dreadful? Thither let us tend From off the tossing of these fiery waves;
There rest, if any rest can harbour there;
And, re-assembling our afflicted powers,
Consult how we may henceforth most offend
Our enemy, our own loss how repair, 200
How overcome this dire calamity,
What reinforcement we may gain from hope,
If not, what resolution from despair."

Thus Satan, talking to his nearest mate,
With head uplift above the wave, and eyes
That sparkling blazed; his other parts besides Prone on the flood, extended long and large,
Lay floating many a rood, in bulk as huge
As whom the fables name of monstrous size,
Titanian or Earth-born, that warred on Jove, 210
Briareos or Typhon, whom the den
By ancient Tarsus held, or that sea-beast
Leviathan, which God of all his works
Created hugest that swim th' ocean-stream.

Him, haply slumbering on the Norway foam,
The pilot of some small night-foundered skiff,
Deeming some island, oft, as seamen tell,
With fixed anchor in his scaly rind,
Moors by his side under the lee, while night 220
Invests the sea, and wished morn delays.

So stretched out huge in length the Arch-fiend lay,
Chained on the burning lake; nor ever thence Had risen, or heaved his head, but that the will
And high permission of all-ruling Heaven
Left him at large to his own dark designs,
That with reiterated crimes he might Heap on himself damnation, while he sought
Evil to others, and enraged might see 230
How all his malice served but to bring forth
Infinite goodness, grace, and mercy, shewn
On Man by him seduced, but on himself
Treble confusion, wrath, and vengeance poured.
Forthwith upright he rears from off the pool

His mighty stature; on each hand the flames Driven backward slope their pointing spires, and rolled
 In billows, leave i' th' midst a horrid vale.

240

Then with expanded wings he steers his flight
 Aloft, incumbent on the dusky air,
 That felt unusual weight; till on dry land
 He lights—if it were land that ever burned
 With solid, as the lake with liquid fire,
 And such appeared in hue as when the force
 Of subterranean wind transports a hill
 Torn from Pelorus, or the shattered side
 Of thundering Etna, whose combustible
 And fuelled entrails, thence conceiving fire, 250
 Sublimed with mineral fury, aid the winds,
 And leave a singed bottom all involved With stench and smoke. Such resting found the sole

Of unblest feet. Him followed his next mate;
 Both glorying to have scaped the Stygian flood
 As gods, and by their own recovered strength,
 Not by the sufferance of supernal Power.

"Is this the region, this the soil, the clime,"
 Said then the lost Archangel, "this the seat 260
 That we must change for Heaven?—this mournful gloom

For that celestial light? Be it so, since he Who now is sovereign can dispose and bid
 What shall be right: farthest from him is best Whom reason hath equalled, force hath made supreme

Where joy for ever dwells! Hail, horrors! hail,
Infernal world! and thou, profoundest Hell,
Receive thy new possessor—one who brings
A mind not to be changed by place or time. 270

The mind is its own place, and in itself
Can make a Heaven of Hell, a Hell of Heaven.

What matter where, if I be still the same,
And what I should be, all but less than he Whom thunder hath made greater? Here at least
We shall be free; th' Almighty hath not built
Here for his envy, will not drive us hence:
Here we may reign secure; and, in my choice, 280
To reign is worth ambition, though in Hell:
Better to reign in Hell than serve in Heaven.

But wherefore let we then our faithful friends,
Th' associates and co-partners of our loss,
Lie thus astonished on th' oblivious pool,
And call them not to share with us their part
In this unhappy mansion, or once more
With rallied arms to try what may be yet Regained in Heaven, or what more lost in Hell?" 290

So Satan spake; and him Beelzebub
Thus answered:—"Leader of those armies bright Which, but th' Omnipotent, none could have foiled!

If once they hear that voice, their liveliest pledge
Of hope in fears and dangers—heard so oft
In worst extremes, and on the perilous edge
Of battle, when it raged, in all assaults

Their surest signal—they will soon resume
 New courage and revive, though now they lie Grovelling and prostrate on yon lake of fire, 300
 As we erewhile, astounded and amazed;
 No wonder, fallen such a pernicious height!"
 He scare had ceased when the superior Fiend
 Was moving toward the shore; his ponderous shield,

Ethereal temper, massy, large, and round,
 Behind him cast. The broad circumference
 Hung on his shoulders like the moon, whose orb
 Through optic glass the Tuscan artist views
 At evening, from the top of Fesole,
 Or in Valdarno, to descry new lands, 310
 Rivers, or mountains, in her spotty globe.

His spear—to equal which the tallest pine Hewn on Norwegian hills, to be the mast
 Of some great ammiral, were but a wand—
 He walked with, to support uneasy steps
 Over the burning marl, not like those steps
 On Heaven's azure; and the torrid clime
 Smote on him sore besides, vaulted with fire. 320

Nathless he so endured, till on the beach
 Of that inflamed sea he stood, and called His legions—Angel Forms, who lay entranced
 Thick as autumnal leaves that strow the brooks
 In Vallombrosa, where th' Etrurian shades
 High over-arched embower; or scattered sedge Afloat, when with fierce winds Orion armed Hath vexed the Red-Sea coast, whose waves o'erthrew

Busiris and his Memphian chivalry,
 While with perfidious hatred they pursued 330
 The sojourners of Goshen, who beheld
 From the safe shore their floating carcasses
 And broken chariot-wheels. So thick bestrown, Abject and lost, lay these, covering the flood,
 Under amazement of their hideous change.

He called so loud that all the hollow deep
 Of Hell resounded:—"Princes, Potentates, Warriors, the Flower of Heaven—once yours;
 now lost,
 If such astonishment as this can seize 340
 Eternal Spirits! Or have ye chosen this place
 After the toil of battle to repose
 Your wearied virtue, for the ease you find
 To slumber here, as in the vales of Heaven?
 Or in this abject posture have ye sworn
 To adore the Conqueror, who now beholds Cherub and Seraph rolling in the flood
 With scattered arms and ensigns, till anon
 His swift pursuers from Heaven-gates discern
 Th' advantage, and, descending, tread us down 350

Thus drooping, or with linked thunderbolts
 Transfix us to the bottom of this gulf?
 Awake, arise, or be for ever fallen!"
 They heard, and were abashed, and up they sprung
 Upon the wing, as when men wont to watch
 On duty, sleeping found by whom they dread,
 Rouse and bestir themselves ere well awake.

Nor did they not perceive the evil plight
 In which they were, or the fierce pains not feel;

Yet to their General's voice they soon obeyed
 Innumerable. As when the potent rod
 Of Amram's son, in Egypt's evil day,
 Waved round the coast, up-called a pitchy cloud
 Of locusts, warping on the eastern wind,
 That o'er the realm of impious Pharaoh hung
 Like Night, and darkened all the land of Nile;
 So numberless were those bad Angels seen Hovering on wing under the cope of Hell,
 'Twixt upper, nether, and surrounding fires; 370
 Till, as a signal given, th' uplifted spear
 Of their great Sultan waving to direct Their course, in even balance down they light
 On the firm brimstone, and fill all the plain:
 A multitude like which the populous North Poured never from her frozen loins to pass
 Rhene or the Danaw, when her barbarous sons Came like a deluge on the South, and spread Beneath Gibraltar to the Libyan sands.

Forthwith, from every squadron and each band,
 The heads and leaders thither haste where stood Their great Commander—godlike Shapes, and Forms

Excelling human; princely Dignities;
 And Powers that erst in Heaven sat on thrones,
 Though on their names in Heavenly records now
 Be no memorial, blotted out and rased
 By their rebellion from the Books of Life.

First, Moloch, horrid king, besmeared with blood 420

Of human sacrifice, and parents' tears;
 Though, for the noise of drums and timbrels loud,
 Their children's cries unheard that passed through fire

To his grim idol. Him the Ammonite Worshiped in Rabba and her watery plain,
 In Argob and in Basan, to the stream Of utmost Arnon. Nor content with such Audacious neighbourhood, the wisest heart
 Of Solomon he led by fraud to build
 His temple right against the temple of God 430
 On that opprobrious hill, and made his grove
 The pleasant valley of Hinnom, Tophet thence
 And black Gehenna called, the type of Hell.

Next Chemos, th' obscene dread of Moab's sons,
 From Aroar to Nebo and the wild
 Of southmost Abarim; in Hesebon
 And Horonaim, Seon's real, beyond
 The flowery dale of Sibma clad with vines,
 And Eleale to th' Asphaltic Pool: 440

Peor his other name, when he enticed
 Israel in Sittim, on their march from Nile,
 To do him wanton rites, which cost them woe.

Yet thence his lustful orgies he enlarged
 Even to that hill of scandal, by the grove
 Of Moloch homicide, lust hard by hate, Till good Josiah drove them thence to Hell.

With these came they who, from the bordering flood 450

 Of old Euphrates to the brook that parts
 Egypt from Syrian ground, had general names
 Of Baalim and Ashtaroth—those male,
 These feminine. For Spirits, when they please,
 Can either sex assume, or both; so soft
 And uncompounded is their essence pure,
 Not tried or manacled with joint or limb,
 Nor founded on the brittle strength of bones, Like cumbrous flesh; but, in what shape they choose,
 Dilated or condensed, bright or obscure, 460
 Can execute their airy purposes,
 And works of love or enmity fulfil.
 For those the race of Israel oft forsook
 Their Living Strength, and unfrequented left
 His righteous altar, bowing lowly down
 To bestial gods; for which their heads as low Bowed down in battle, sunk before the spear
 Of despicable foes. With these in troop Came Astoreth, whom the Phoenicians called 470
 Astarte, queen of heaven, with crescent horns;
 To whose bright image nightly by the moon
 Sidonian virgins paid their vows and songs;
 In Sion also not unsung, where stood
 Her temple on th' offensive mountain, built
 By that uxorious king whose heart, though large,
 Beguiled by fair idolatresses, fell
 To idols foul. Thammuz came next behind,
 Whose annual wound in Lebanon allured 480
 The Syrian damsels to lament his fate
 In amorous ditties all a summer's day,

While smooth Adonis from his native rock
Ran purple to the sea, supposed with blood
Of Thammuz yearly wounded: the love-tale
Infected Sion's daughters with like heat,
Whose wanton passions in the sacred porch
Ezekiel saw, when, by the vision led,
His eye surveyed the dark idolatries
Of alienated Judah. Next came one
Who mourned in earnest, when the captive ark 490

Maimed his brute image, head and hands lopt off,
In his own temple, on the grunsel-edge,
Where he fell flat and shamed his worshippers:
Dagon his name, sea-monster, upward man
And downward fish; yet had his temple high Reared in Azotus, dreaded through the coast
Of Palestine, in Gath and Ascalon,
And Accaron and Gaza's frontier bounds.

Him followed Rimmon, whose delightful seat 500
Was fair Damascus, on the fertile banks
Of Abbana and Pharphar, lucid streams.

He also against the house of God was bold:
A leper once he lost, and gained a king—
Ahaz, his sottish conqueror, whom he drew God's altar to disparage and displace
For one of Syrian mode, whereon to burn
His odious offerings, and adore the gods
Whom he had vanquished. After these appeared 510

A crew who, under names of old renown—
Osiris, Isis, Orus, and their train—
With monstrous shapes and sorceries abused Fanatic Egypt and her priests to seek Their wandering gods disguised in brutish

Rather than human. Nor did Israel scape
Th' infection, when their borrowed gold composed

The calf in Oreb; and the rebel king
Doubled that sin in Bethel and in Dan,
Likening his Maker to the grazed ox— 520
Jehovah, who, in one night, when he passed
From Egypt marching, equalled with one stroke
Both her first-born and all her bleating gods.

Belial came last; than whom a Spirit more lewd Fell not from Heaven, or more gross to love Vice for itself. To him no temple stood Or altar smoked; yet who more oft than he
In temples and at altars, when the priest 530
Turns atheist, as did Eli's sons, who filled
With lust and violence the house of God?
In courts and palaces he also reigns,
And in luxurious cities, where the noise
Of riot ascends above their loftiest towers,
And injury and outrage; and, when night
Darkens the streets, then wander forth the sons
Of Belial, flown with insolence and wine.

Witness the streets of Sodom, and that night
In Gibeah, when the hospitable door 540
Exposed a matron, to avoid worse rape.

These were the prime in order and in might:
 The rest were long to tell; though far renowned Th' Ionian gods—of Javan's issue held Gods, yet confessed later than Heaven and Earth,
 Their boasted parents;—Titan, Heaven's first-born,
 With his enormous brood, and birthright seized
 By younger Saturn: he from mightier Jove,
 His own and Rhea's son, like measure found;550
 So Jove usurping reigned. These, first in Crete
 And Ida known, thence on the snowy top
 Of cold Olympus ruled the middle air,
 Their highest heaven; or on the Delphian cliff,
 Or in Dodona, and through all the bounds
 Of Doric land; or who with Saturn old Fled over Adria to th' Hesperian fields,
 And o'er the Celtic roamed the utmost Isles.

All these and more came flocking; but with looks 560

Downcast and damp; yet such wherein appeared Obscure some glimpse of joy to have found their Chief

Not in despair, to have found themselves not lost
 In loss itself; which on his countenance cast
 Like doubtful hue. But he, his wonted pride
 Soon recollecting, with high words, that bore Semblance of worth, not substance, gently raised Their fainting courage, and dispelled their fears.

Then straight commands that, at the warlike sound 570

Of trumpets loud and clarions, be upreared His mighty standard. That proud honour claimed

Azazel as his right, a Cherub tall:
 Who forthwith from the glittering staff unfurled
 Th' imperial ensign; which, full high advanced,
 Shone like a meteor streaming to the wind,
 With gems and golden lustre rich emblazed, Seraphic arms and trophies; all the while Sonorous metal blowing martial sounds:
 At which the universal host up-sent 580
 A shout that tore Hell's concave, and beyond Frighted the reign of Chaos and old Night.

All in a moment through the gloom were seen
 Ten thousand banners rise into the air,
 With orient colours waving: with them rose
 A forest huge of spears; and thronging helms Appeared, and serried shields in thick array
 Of depth immeasurable. Anon they move 590
 In perfect phalanx to the Dorian mood
 Of flutes and soft recorders—such as raised
 To height of noblest temper heroes old Arming to battle, and instead of rage
 Deliberate valour breathed, firm, and unmoved
 With dread of death to flight or foul retreat;
 Nor wanting power to mitigate and swage With solemn touches troubled thoughts, and chase

Anguish and doubt and fear and sorrow and pain

From mortal or immortal minds. Thus they,
 Breathing united force with fixed thought, 600

Moved on in silence to soft pipes that charmed
Their painful steps o'er the burnt soil. And now Advanced in view they stand—a horrid front
Of dreadful length and dazzling arms, in guise
Of warriors old, with ordered spear and shield, Awaiting what command their mighty Chief
Had to impose. He through the armed files Darts his experienced eye, and soon traverse
The whole battalion views—their order due,
Their visages and stature as of gods; 610
Their number last he sums. And now his heart Distends with pride, and, hardening in his strength,

Glories: for never, since created Man,
Met such embodied force as, named with these,
Could merit more than that small infantry
Warred on by cranes—though all the giant brood
Of Phlegra with th' heroic race were joined That fought at Thebes and Ilium, on each side
Mixed with auxiliar gods; and what resounds
In fable or romance of Uther's son, 620
Begirt with British and Armoric knights;
And all who since, baptized or infidel,
Jousted in Aspramont, or Montalban, Damasco, or Marocco, or Trebisond,
Or whom Biserta sent from Afric shore
When Charlemain with all his peerage fell
By Fontarabbia. Thus far these beyond
Compare of mortal prowess, yet observed
Their dread Commander. He, above the rest
In shape and gesture proudly eminent, 630
Stood like a tower. His form had yet not lost

All her original brightness, nor appeared
 Less than Archangel ruined, and th' excess
 Of glory obscured: as when the sun new-risen
 Looks through the horizontal misty air
 Shorn of his beams, or, from behind the moon,
 In dim eclipse, disastrous twilight sheds
 On half the nations, and with fear of change Perplexes monarchs. Darkened so, yet shone
 Above them all th' Archangel: but his face 640
 Deep scars of thunder had intrenched, and care
 Sat on his faded cheek, but under brows
 Of dauntless courage, and considerate pride Waiting revenge. Cruel his eye, but cast
 Signs of remorse and passion, to behold
 The fellows of his crime, the followers rather (Far other once beheld in bliss), condemned
 For ever now to have their lot in pain—
 Millions of Spirits for his fault amerced
 Of Heaven, and from eternal splendours flung 650

For his revolt—yet faithful how they stood,
 Their glory withered; as, when heaven's fire
 Hath scathed the forest oaks or mountain pines,
 With singed top their stately growth, though bare,
 Stands on the blasted heath. He now prepared
 To speak; whereat their doubled ranks they bend
 From wing to wing, and half enclose him round
 With all his peers: attention held them mute.
 Thrice he assayed, and thrice, in spite of scorn,

Tears, such as Angels weep, burst forth: at last

Words interwove with sighs found out their way:—

"O myriads of immortal Spirits! O Powers Matchless, but with th' Almighty!—and that strife Was not inglorious, though th' event was dire, As this place testifies, and this dire change, Hateful to utter. But what power of mind, Forseeing or presaging, from the depth Of knowledge past or present, could have feared How such united force of gods, how such 670 As stood like these, could ever know repulse? For who can yet believe, though after loss, That all these puissant legions, whose exile Hath emptied Heaven, shall fail to re-ascend, Self-raised, and repossess their native seat? For me, be witness all the host of Heaven, If counsels different, or danger shunned By me, have lost our hopes. But he who reigns Monarch in Heaven till then as one secure Sat on his throne, upheld by old repute, 680 Consent or custom, and his regal state Put forth at full, but still his strength concealed— Which tempted our attempt, and wrought our fall.

Henceforth his might we know, and know our own,

So as not either to provoke, or dread New war provoked: our better part remains To work in close design, by fraud or guile, What force effected not; that he no less At length from us may find, who overcomes 690 By force hath overcome but half his foe.

Space may produce new Worlds; whereof so rife
 There went a fame in Heaven that he ere long Intended to create, and therein plant
 A generation whom his choice regard Should favour equal to the Sons of Heaven.

Thither, if but to pry, shall be perhaps
 Our first eruption—thither, or elsewhere; 700
 For this infernal pit shall never hold Celestial Spirits in bondage, nor th' Abyss Long under darkness cover. But these thoughts Full counsel must mature. Peace is despaired;
 For who can think submission? War, then, war
 Open or understood, must be resolved."
 He spake; and, to confirm his words, outflew Millions of flaming swords, drawn from the thighs
 Of mighty Cherubim; the sudden blaze
 Far round illumined Hell. Highly they raged Against the Highest, and fierce with grasped arms
 Clashed on their sounding shields the din of war, Hurling defiance toward the vault of Heaven.

There stood a hill not far, whose grisly top Belched fire and rolling smoke; the rest entire Shone with a glossy scurf—undoubted sign
 That in his womb was hid metallic ore,
 The work of sulphur. Thither, winged with speed,
 A numerous brigade hastened: as when bands 720
 Of pioneers, with spade and pickaxe armed,

A various mould, and from the boiling cells
 By strange conveyance filled each hollow nook;
 As in an organ, from one blast of wind,
 To many a row of pipes the sound-board breathes.

Anon out of the earth a fabric huge Rose like an exhalation, with the sound
 Of dulcet symphonies and voices sweet— 760
 Built like a temple, where pilasters round
 Were set, and Doric pillars overlaid
 With golden architrave; nor did there want Cornice or frieze, with bossy sculptures graven;
 The roof was fretted gold. Not Babylon
 Nor great Alcairo such magnificence Equalled in all their glories, to enshrine
 Belus or Serapis their gods, or seat
 Their kings, when Egypt with Assyria strove
 In wealth and luxury. Th' ascending pile 770 Stood fixed her stately height, and straight the doors,

Opening their brazen folds, discover, wide
 Within, her ample spaces o'er the smooth
 And level pavement: from the arched roof,
 Pendent by subtle magic, many a row
 Of starry lamps and blazing cressets, fed
 With naptha and asphaltus, yielded light
 As from a sky. The hasty multitude Admiring entered; and the work some praise,
 And some the architect. His hand was known 780

In Heaven by many a towered structure high,
 Where sceptred Angels held their residence,

And sat as Princes, whom the supreme King
 Exalted to such power, and gave to rule,
 Each in his Hierarchy, the Orders bright.

Nor was his name unheard or unadored
 In ancient Greece; and in Ausonian land
 Men called him Mulciber; and how he fell
 From Heaven they fabled, thrown by angry Jove 790

Sheer o'er the crystal battlements: from morn
 To noon he fell, from noon to dewy eve,
 A summer's day, and with the setting sun
 Dropt from the zenith, like a falling star,
 On Lemnos, th' Aegaeon isle. Thus they relate, Erring; for he with this rebellious rout
 Fell long before; nor aught availed him now
 To have built in Heaven high towers; nor did he scape

By all his engines, but was headlong sent,
 With his industrious crew, to build in Hell. 800

Meanwhile the winged Heralds, by command
 Of sovereign power, with awful ceremony
 And trumpet's sound, throughout the host proclaim

A solemn council forthwith to be held
 At Pandemonium, the high capital
 Of Satan and his peers. Their summons called From every band and squared regiment
 By place or choice the worthiest: they anon
 With hundreds and with thousands trooping came 810

Attended. All access was thronged; the gates

And porches wide, but chief the spacious hall (Though like a covered field, where champions bold

Wont ride in armed, and at the Soldan's chair
 Defied the best of Paynim chivalry
 To mortal combat, or career with lance), Thick swarmed, both on the ground and in the air,

Brushed with the hiss of rustling wings. As bees
 In spring-time, when the Sun with Taurus rides.

Pour forth their populous youth about the hive
 In clusters; they among fresh dews and flowers
 Fly to and fro, or on the smoothed plank,
 The suburb of their straw-built citadel,
 New rubbed with balm, expatiate, and confer
 Their state-affairs: so thick the airy crowd Swarmed and were straitened; till, the signal given,

Behold a wonder! They but now who seemed
 In bigness to surpass Earth's giant sons,
 Now less than smallest dwarfs, in narrow room

830

Throng numberless—like that pygmean race
 Beyond the Indian mount; or faery elves,
 Whose midnight revels, by a forest-side
 Or fountain, some belated peasant sees,
 Or dreams he sees, while overhead the Moon
 Sits arbitress, and nearer to the Earth Wheels her pale course: they, on their mirth and dance

Intent, with jocund music charm his ear;

At once with joy and fear his heart rebounds.
840

Thus incorporeal Spirits to smallest forms Reduced their shapes immense, and were at large,
Though without number still, amidst the hall
Of that infernal court. But far within,
And in their own dimensions like themselves,
The great Seraphic Lords and Cherubim
In close recess and secret conclave sat,
A thousand demi-gods on golden seats,
Frequent and full. After short silence then,
And summons read, the great consult began.850

BOOK II

High on a throne of royal state, which far Outshone the wealth or Ormus and of Ind,
Or where the gorgeous East with richest hand
Showers on her kings barbaric pearl and gold,
Satan exalted sat, by merit raised
To that bad eminence; and, from despair
Thus high uplifted beyond hope, aspires Beyond thus high, insatiate to pursue Vain war with Heaven; and, by success untaught,
His proud imaginations thus displayed:— 10
"Powers and Dominions, Deities of Heaven!—
For, since no deep within her gulf can hold Immortal vigour, though oppressed and fallen,
I give not Heaven for lost: from this descent Celestial Virtues rising will appear
More glorious and more dread than from no fall,
And trust themselves to fear no second fate!—
Me though just right, and the fixed laws of
Heaven,

Did first create your leader—next, free choice
 With what besides in council or in fight 20
 Hath been achieved of merit—yet this loss,
 Thus far at least recovered, hath much more Established in a safe, unenvied throne, Yielded with full consent. The happier state
 In Heaven, which follows dignity, might draw Envy from each inferior; but who here
 Will envy whom the highest place exposes
 Foremost to stand against the Thunderer's aim Your bulwark, and condemns to greatest share
 Of endless pain? Where there is, then, no good 30

For which to strive, no strife can grow up there
 From faction: for none sure will claim in Hell Precedence; none whose portion is so small
 Of present pain that with ambitious mind
 Will covet more! With this advantage, then,
 To union, and firm faith, and firm accord,
 More than can be in Heaven, we now return
 To claim our just inheritance of old,
 Surer to prosper than prosperity
 Could have assured us; and by what best way, 40
 Whether of open war or covert guile,
 We now debate. Who can advise may speak."
 He ceased; and next him Moloch, sceptred king,
 Stood up—the strongest and the fiercest Spirit
 That fought in Heaven, now fiercer by despair.
 His trust was with th' Eternal to be deemed Equal in strength, and rather than be less Cared not to be at all; with that care lost
 Went all his fear: of God, or Hell, or worse, 50

He recked not, and these words thereafter spake:—

"My sentence is for open war. Of wiles,
More unexpert, I boast not: them let those Contrive who need, or when they need; not now.

For, while they sit contriving, shall the rest—
Millions that stand in arms, and longing wait
The signal to ascend—sit lingering here,
Heaven's fugitives, and for their dwelling-place
Accept this dark opprobrious den of shame, 60
The prison of his tyranny who reigns
By our delay? No! let us rather choose,
Armed with Hell-flames and fury, all at once O'er Heaven's high towers to force resistless way,

Turning our tortures into horrid arms
Against the Torturer; when, to meet the noise
Of his almighty engine, he shall hear Infernal thunder, and, for lightning, see Black fire and horror shot with equal rage
Among his Angels, and his throne itself 70
Mixed with Tartarean sulphur and strange fire,
His own invented torments. But perhaps
The way seems difficult, and steep to scale
With upright wing against a higher foe!
Let such bethink them, if the sleepy drench
Of that forgetful lake benumb not still,
That in our proper motion we ascend
Up to our native seat; descent and fall
To us is adverse. Who but felt of late,
When the fierce foe hung on our broken rear 80
Insulting, and pursued us through the Deep,

With what compulsion and laborious flight
 We sunk thus low? Th' ascent is easy, then;
 Th' event is feared! Should we again provoke Our stronger, some worse way his wrath may find

To our destruction, if there be in Hell
 Fear to be worse destroyed! What can be worse Than to dwell here, driven out from bliss, condemned

In this abhorred deep to utter woe!
 Where pain of unextinguishable fire 90
 Must exercise us without hope of end
 The vassals of his anger, when the scourge Inexorably, and the torturing hour, Calls us to penance? More destroyed than thus,
 We should be quite abolished, and expire.

What fear we then? what doubt we to incense
 His utmost ire? which, to the height enraged,
 Will either quite consume us, and reduce
 To nothing this essential—happier far 100 Than miserable to have eternal being!—
 Or, if our substance be indeed divine,
 And cannot cease to be, we are at worst
 On this side nothing; and by proof we feel
 Our power sufficient to disturb his Heaven,
 And with perpetual inroads to alarm,
 Though inaccessible, his fatal throne:
 Which, if not victory, is yet revenge."
 He ended frowning, and his look denounced Desperate revenge, and battle dangerous 110
 To less than gods. On th' other side up rose Belial, in act more graceful and humane.

A fairer person lost not Heaven; he seemed For dignity composed, and high exploit.

But all was false and hollow; though his tongue Dropped manna, and could make the worse appear

The better reason, to perplex and dash Maturest counsels: for his thoughts were low-120

To vice industrious, but to nobler deeds
Timorous and slothful. Yet he pleased the ear,
And with persuasive accent thus began:—
"I should be much for open war, O Peers,
As not behind in hate, if what was urged
Main reason to persuade immediate war
Did not dissuade me most, and seem to cast
Ominous conjecture on the whole success;
When he who most excels in fact of arms,
In what he counsels and in what excels 130
Mistrustful, grounds his courage on despair
And utter dissolution, as the scope
Of all his aim, after some dire revenge.

First, what revenge? The towers of Heaven are filled

With armed watch, that render all access Impregnable: oft on the bordering Deep Encamp their legions, or with obscure wing
Scout far and wide into the realm of Night, Scorning surprise. Or, could we break our way 140

By force, and at our heels all Hell should rise
With blackest insurrection to confound

Heaven's purest light, yet our great Enemy,
 All incorruptible, would on his throne
 Sit unpolluted, and th' ethereal mould,
 Incapable of stain, would soon expel
 Her mischief, and purge off the baser fire, Victorious. Thus repulsed, our final hope
 Is flat despair: we must exasperate
 Th' Almighty Victor to spend all his rage; 150
 And that must end us; that must be our cure—
 To be no more. Sad cure! for who would lose, Though full of pain, this intellectual being,
 Those thoughts that wander through eternity,
 To perish rather, swallowed up and lost
 In the wide womb of uncreated Night,
 Devoid of sense and motion? And who knows,
 Let this be good, whether our angry Foe
 Can give it, or will ever? How he can
 Is doubtful; that he never will is sure. 160

Will he, so wise, let loose at once his ire, Belike through impotence or unaware,
 To give his enemies their wish, and end
 Them in his anger whom his anger saves
 To punish endless? "Wherefore cease we, then?"
 Say they who counsel war; "we are decreed,
 Reserved, and destined to eternal woe;
 Whatever doing, what can we suffer more,
 What can we suffer worse?" Is this, then, worst—170

Thus sitting, thus consulting, thus in arms?
 What when we fled amain, pursued and struck
 With Heaven's afflicting thunder, and besought
 The Deep to shelter us? This Hell then seemed

A refuge from those wounds. Or when we lay Chained on the burning lake? That sure was worse.

What if the breath that kindled those grim fires,
Awaked, should blow them into sevenfold rage,
And plunge us in the flames; or from above 180
Should intermitted vengeance arm again
His red right hand to plague us? What if all
Her stores were opened, and this firmament
Of Hell should spout her cataracts of fire,
Impendent horrors, threatening hideous fall
One day upon our heads; while we perhaps,
Designing or exhorting glorious war,
Caught in a fiery tempest, shall be hurled,
Each on his rock transfixed, the sport and prey
Or racking whirlwinds, or for ever sunk 190
Under yon boiling ocean, wrapt in chains,
There to converse with everlasting groans,
Unrespited, unpitied, unreprieved,
Ages of hopeless end? This would be worse.

War, therefore, open or concealed, alike
My voice dissuades; for what can force or guile
With him, or who deceive his mind, whose eye Views all things at one view? He from Heaven's height
All these our motions vain sees and derides, 200
Not more almighty to resist our might Than wise to frustrate all our plots and wiles.

Shall we, then, live thus vile—the race of Heaven
Thus trampled, thus expelled, to suffer here Chains and these torments? Better these than worse,

 By my advice; since fate inevitable
 Subdues us, and omnipotent decree,
 The Victor's will. To suffer, as to do,
 Our strength is equal; nor the law unjust 210
 That so ordains. This was at first resolved,
 If we were wise, against so great a foe
 Contending, and so doubtful what might fall.

I laugh when those who at the spear are bold
 And venturous, if that fail them, shrink, and fear
 What yet they know must follow—to endure
 Exile, or ignominy, or bonds, or pain,
 The sentence of their Conqueror. This is now
 Our doom; which if we can sustain and bear, 220
 Our Supreme Foe in time may much remit
 His anger, and perhaps, thus far removed,
 Not mind us not offending, satisfied
 With what is punished; whence these raging fires
 Will slacken, if his breath stir not their flames.

Our purer essence then will overcome
 Their noxious vapour; or, inured, not feel;
 Or, changed at length, and to the place conformed
 In temper and in nature, will receive 230
 Familiar the fierce heat; and, void of pain,
 This horror will grow mild, this darkness light;
 Besides what hope the never-ending flight Of future days may bring, what chance, what change
 Worth waiting—since our present lot appears

For happy though but ill, for ill not worst,
 If we procure not to ourselves more woe."
 Thus Belial, with words clothed in reason's garb, Counsell'd ignoble ease and peaceful sloth,
 Not peace; and after him thus Mammon spake:— 240

"Either to disenthroned the King of Heaven
 We war, if war be best, or to regain
 Our own right lost. Him to unthroned we then May hope, when everlasting Fate shall yield
 To fickle Chance, and Chaos judge the strife.
 The former, vain to hope, argues as vain
 The latter; for what place can be for us Within Heaven's bound, unless Heaven's Lord
 supreme
 We overpower? Suppose he should relent 250
 And publish grace to all, on promise made
 Of new subjection; with what eyes could we Stand in his presence humble, and receive Strict laws imposed, to celebrate his throne
 With warbled hymns, and to his Godhead sing Forced hallelujahs, while he lordly sits
 Our envied sovereign, and his altar breathes
 Ambrosial odours and ambrosial flowers,
 Our servile offerings? This must be our task
 In Heaven, this our delight. How wearisome 260
 Eternity so spent in worship paid
 To whom we hate! Let us not then pursue,
 By force impossible, by leave obtained Unacceptable, though in Heaven, our state
 Of splendid vassalage; but rather seek Our own good from ourselves, and from our own

 Live to ourselves, though in this vast recess,
 Free and to none accountable, preferring Hard liberty before the easy yoke
 Of servile pomp. Our greatness will appear 270 Then most conspicuous when great things of small,
 Useful of hurtful, prosperous of adverse,
 We can create, and in what place soe'er
 Thrive under evil, and work ease out of pain Through labour and endurance. This deep world
 Of darkness do we dread? How oft amidst Thick clouds and dark doth Heaven's all-ruling
 Sire
 Choose to reside, his glory unobscured,
 And with the majesty of darkness round Covers his throne, from whence deep thunders roar. 280
 Mustering their rage, and Heaven resembles Hell!
 As he our darkness, cannot we his light
 Imitate when we please? This desert soil
 Wants not her hidden lustre, gems and gold;
 Nor want we skill or art from whence to raise Magnificence; and what can Heaven show more?
 Our torments also may, in length of time,
 Become our elements, these piercing fires
 As soft as now severe, our temper changed 290
 Into their temper; which must needs remove The sensible of pain. All things invite

To peaceful counsels, and the settled state
 Of order, how in safety best we may Compose our present evils, with regard
 Of what we are and where, dismissing quite All thoughts of war. Ye have what I advise."
 He scarce had finished, when such murmur
 filled

Th' assembly as when hollow rocks retain
 The sound of blustering winds, which all night long 300

Had roused the sea, now with hoarse cadence lull

Seafaring men o'erwatched, whose bark by chance

Or pinnacle, anchors in a craggy bay
 After the tempest. Such applause was heard
 As Mammon ended, and his sentence pleased,
 Advising peace: for such another field
 They dreaded worse than Hell; so much the fear
 Of thunder and the sword of Michael Wrought still within them; and no less desire
 To found this nether empire, which might rise, 310

By policy and long process of time,
 In emulation opposite to Heaven.

Which when Beelzebub perceived—than whom,
 Satan except, none higher sat—with grave Aspect he rose, and in his rising seemed
 A pillar of state. Deep on his front engraven Deliberation sat, and public care;
 And princely counsel in his face yet shone,
 Majestic, though in ruin. Sage he stood 320

With Atlantean shoulders, fit to bear
The weight of mightiest monarchies; his look Drew audience and attention still as night
Or summer's noontide air, while thus he spake:—
"Thrones and Imperial Powers, Offspring of
Heaven,
Ethereal Virtues! or these titles now Must we renounce, and, changing style, be called
Princes of Hell? for so the popular vote
Inclines—here to continue, and build up here
A growing empire; doubtless! while we dream, 330
And know not that the King of Heaven hath doomed
This place our dungeon, not our safe retreat
Beyond his potent arm, to live exempt
From Heaven's high jurisdiction, in new league
Banded against his throne, but to remain
In strictest bondage, though thus far removed,
Under th' inevitable curb, reserved
His captive multitude. For he, to be sure,
In height or depth, still first and last will reign
Sole king, and of his kingdom lose no part 340
By our revolt, but over Hell extend His empire, and with iron sceptre rule
Us here, as with his golden those in Heaven.
What sit we then projecting peace and war?
War hath determined us and foiled with loss Irreparable; terms of peace yet none Vouchsafed or sought; for what peace will be given

To us enslaved, but custody severe,
 And stripes and arbitrary punishment 350
 Inflicted? and what peace can we return,
 But, to our power, hostility and hate,
 Untamed reluctance, and revenge, though slow,
 Yet ever plotting how the Conqueror least May reap his conquest, and may least rejoice
 In doing what we most in suffering feel?
 Nor will occasion want, nor shall we need
 With dangerous expedition to invade Heaven, whose high walls fear no assault or siege,
 Or ambush from the Deep. What if we find 360
 Some easier enterprise? There is a place
 (If ancient and prophetic fame in Heaven Err not)—another World, the happy seat
 Of some new race, called Man, about this time
 To be created like to us, though less
 In power and excellence, but favoured more
 Of him who rules above; so was his will Pronounced among the Gods, and by an oath
 That shook Heaven's whole circumference confirmed.

Thither let us bend all our thoughts, to learn
 What creatures there inhabit, of what mould Or substance, how endued, and what their power
 And where their weakness: how attempted best,
 By force of subtlety. Though Heaven be shut,
 And Heaven's high Arbitrator sit secure
 In his own strength, this place may lie exposed,

The utmost border of his kingdom, left
To their defence who hold it: here, perhaps,
Some advantageous act may be achieved 380
By sudden onset—either with Hell-fire
To waste his whole creation, or possess
All as our own, and drive, as we were driven,
The puny habitants; or, if not drive,
Seduce them to our party, that their God
May prove their foe, and with repenting hand Abolish his own works. This would surpass Common revenge, and interrupt his joy
In our confusion, and our joy upraise
In his disturbance; when his darling sons, 390
Hurled headlong to partake with us, shall curse
Their frail original, and faded bliss—
Faded so soon! Advise if this be worth Attempting, or to sit in darkness here
Hatching vain empires." Thus Beelzebub Pleaded his devilish counsel—first devised
By Satan, and in part proposed: for whence,
But from the author of all ill, could spring
So deep a malice, to confound the race
Of mankind in one root, and Earth with Hell 400
To mingle and involve, done all to spite
The great Creator? But their spite still serves His glory to augment. The bold design
Pleased highly those infernal States, and joy
Sparkled in all their eyes: with full assent
They vote: whereat his speech he thus renews:—
"Well have ye judged, well ended long debate, Synod of Gods, and, like to what ye are,
Great things resolved, which from the lowest deep

 Will once more lift us up, in spite of fate, 410
 Nearer our ancient seat—perhaps in view
 Of those bright confines, whence, with neighbouring arms,
 And opportune excursion, we may chance
 Re-enter Heaven; or else in some mild zone
 Dwell, not unvisited of Heaven's fair light,
 Secure, and at the brightening orient beam
 Purge off this gloom: the soft delicious air,
 To heal the scar of these corrosive fires, Shall breathe her balm. But, first, whom shall we send
 In search of this new World? whom shall we find 420
 Sufficient? who shall tempt with wandering feet
 The dark, unbottomed, infinite Abyss,
 And through the palpable obscure find out
 His uncouth way, or spread his airy flight,
 Upborne with indefatigable wings
 Over the vast abrupt, ere he arrive
 The happy Isle? What strength, what art, can then
 Suffice, or what evasion bear him safe,
 Through the strict senteries and stations thick
 Of Angels watching round? Here he had need 430
 All circumspection: and we now no less Choice in our suffrage; for on whom we send
 The weight of all, and our last hope, relies."
 This said, he sat; and expectation held
 His look suspense, awaiting who appeared

To second, or oppose, or undertake
 The perilous attempt. But all sat mute, Pondering the danger with deep thoughts; and each

In other's countenance read his own dismay, Astonished. None among the choice and prime 440

Of those Heaven-warring champions could be found

So hardy as to proffer or accept,
 Alone, the dreadful voyage; till, at last,
 Satan, whom now transcendent glory raised Above his fellows, with monarchal pride Conscious of highest worth, unmoved thus spake:—

"O Progeny of Heaven! Empyrean Thrones!
 With reason hath deep silence and demur
 Seized us, though undismayed. Long is the way
 And hard, that out of Hell leads up to light. 450

Our prison strong, this huge convex of fire,
 Outrageous to devour, immures us round
 Ninefold; and gates of burning adamant,
 Barred over us, prohibit all egress.

These passed, if any pass, the void profound
 Of unessential Night receives him next,
 Wide-gaping, and with utter loss of being Threatens him, plunged in that abortive gulf. 460

If thence he scape, into whatever world,
 Or unknown region, what remains him less
 Than unknown dangers, and as hard escape?
 But I should ill become this throne, O Peers,

And this imperial sovereignty, adorned
 With splendour, armed with power, if aught proposed
 And judged of public moment in the shape
 Of difficulty or danger, could deter
 Me from attempting. Wherefore do I assume 470
 These royalties, and not refuse to reign,
 Refusing to accept as great a share
 Of hazard as of honour, due alike
 To him who reigns, and so much to him due
 Of hazard more as he above the rest
 High honoured sits? Go, therefore, mighty Powers, Terror of Heaven, though fallen; intend at home, While here shall be our home, what best may ease
 The present misery, and render Hell
 More tolerable; if there be cure or charm 480
 To respite, or deceive, or slack the pain
 Of this ill mansion: intermit no watch
 Against a wakeful foe, while I abroad
 Through all the coasts of dark destruction seek Deliverance for us all. This enterprise None shall partake with me." Thus saying, rose
 The Monarch, and prevented all reply;
 Prudent lest, from his resolution raised,
 Others among the chief might offer now,
 Certain to be refused, what erst they feared, 490
 And, so refused, might in opinion stand
 His rivals, winning cheap the high repute Which he through hazard huge must earn. But they

Dreaded not more th' adventure than his voice
Forbidding; and at once with him they rose.

Their rising all at once was as the sound Of thunder heard remote. Towards him they bend

With awful reverence prone, and as a God
Extol him equal to the Highest in Heaven. 500

Nor failed they to express how much they praised

That for the general safety he despised
His own: for neither do the Spirits damned
Lose all their virtue; lest bad men should boast Their specious deeds on earth, which glory excites,

Or close ambition varnished o'er with zeal.

Thus they their doubtful consultations dark Ended, rejoicing in their matchless Chief: 510
As, when from mountain-tops the dusky clouds Ascending, while the north wind sleeps, o'erspread

Heaven's cheerful face, the louring element Scowls o'er the darkened landscape snow or shower,

If chance the radiant sun, with farewell sweet,
Extend his evening beam, the fields revive,
The birds their notes renew, and bleating herds
Attest their joy, that hill and valley rings.

O shame to men! Devil with devil damned 520 Firm concord holds; men only disagree
Of creatures rational, though under hope
Of heavenly grace, and, God proclaiming peace,

Yet live in hatred, enmity, and strife
Among themselves, and levy cruel wars
Wasting the earth, each other to destroy:
As if (which might induce us to accord)
Man had not hellish foes enow besides,
That day and night for his destruction wait!
The Stygian council thus dissolved; and forth⁵³⁰
In order came the grand infernal Peers:
Midst came their mighty Paramount, and seemed
Alone th' antagonist of Heaven, nor less Than Hell's dread Emperor, with pomp
supreme,
And god-like imitated state: him round
A globe of fiery Seraphim enclosed
With bright emblazonry, and horrent arms.

Then of their session ended they bid cry
With trumpet's regal sound the great result: ⁵⁴⁰
Toward the four winds four speedy Cherubim
Put to their mouths the sounding alchemy,
By herald's voice explained; the hollow Abyss
Heard far and wide, and all the host of Hell
With deafening shout returned them loud acclaim.

Thence more at ease their minds, and somewhat raised
By false presumptuous hope, the ranged Powers
Disband; and, wandering, each his several way
Pursues, as inclination or sad choice ⁵⁵⁰ Leads him perplexed, where he may likeliest
find

Truce to his restless thoughts, and entertain
The irksome hours, till his great Chief return.

Part on the plain, or in the air sublime,
Upon the wing or in swift race contend,
As at th' Olympian games or Pythian fields;
Part curb their fiery steeds, or shun the goal
With rapid wheels, or fronted brigades form:
As when, to warn proud cities, war appears 560
Waged in the troubled sky, and armies rush
To battle in the clouds; before each van Prick forth the airy knights, and couch their spears,
Till thickest legions close; with feats of arms
From either end of heaven the welkin burns.

Others, with vast Typhoean rage, more fell,
Rend up both rocks and hills, and ride the air
In whirlwind; Hell scarce holds the wild uproar:—
As when Alcides, from Oechalia crowned 570
With conquest, felt th' envenomed robe, and tore Through pain up by the roots Thessalian pines,
And Lichas from the top of Oeta threw Into th' Euboic sea. Others, more mild, Retreated in a silent valley, sing
With notes angelical to many a harp
Their own heroic deeds, and hapless fall
By doom of battle, and complain that Fate
Free Virtue should enthrall to Force or Chance.

580

Their song was partial; but the harmony
(What could it less when Spirits immortal sing?)

Suspended Hell, and took with ravishment
 The thronging audience. In discourse more sweet

(For Eloquence the Soul, Song charms the Sense)
 Others apart sat on a hill retired,
 In thoughts more elevate, and reasoned high
 Of Providence, Foreknowledge, Will, and Fate—
 Fixed fate, free will, foreknowledge absolute,
 And found no end, in wandering mazes lost. 590

Of good and evil much they argued then,
 Of happiness and final misery,
 Passion and apathy, and glory and shame:
 Vain wisdom all, and false philosophy!—
 Yet, with a pleasing sorcery, could charm
 Pain for a while or anguish, and excite Fallacious hope, or arm th' obdured breast
 With stubborn patience as with triple steel.

600

Another part, in squadrons and gross bands,
 On bold adventure to discover wide
 That dismal world, if any clime perhaps Might yield them easier habitation, bend
 Four ways their flying march, along the banks
 Of four infernal rivers, that disgorge
 Into the burning lake their baleful streams—
 Abhorred Styx, the flood of deadly hate;
 Sad Acheron of sorrow, black and deep;
 Cocytus, named of lamentation loud 610
 Heard on the rueful stream; fierce Phlegeton,
 Whose waves of torrent fire inflame with rage.

Far off from these, a slow and silent stream,

Lethe, the river of oblivion, rolls
Her watery labyrinth, whereof who drinks
Forthwith his former state and being forgets—
Forgets both joy and grief, pleasure and pain.

Beyond this flood a frozen continent 620
Lies dark and wild, beat with perpetual storms
Of whirlwind and dire hail, which on firm land Thaws not, but gathers heap, and ruin seems
Of ancient pile; all else deep snow and ice,
A gulf profound as that Serbonian bog
Betwixt Damiatra and Mount Casius old,
Where armies whole have sunk: the parching air
Burns froze, and cold performs th' effect of fire.

Thither, by harpy-footed Furies haled, 630
At certain revolutions all the damned
Are brought; and feel by turns the bitter change
Of fierce extremes, extremes by change more fierce,

From beds of raging fire to starve in ice
Their soft ethereal warmth, and there to pine Immovable, infixed, and frozen round
Periods of time,—thence hurried back to fire.

They ferry over this Lethean sound
Both to and fro, their sorrow to augment, 640
And wish and struggle, as they pass, to reach
The tempting stream, with one small drop to lose
In sweet forgetfulness all pain and woe,
All in one moment, and so near the brink;
But Fate withstands, and, to oppose th' attempt,
Medusa with Gorgonian terror guards
The ford, and of itself the water flies

All taste of living wight, as once it fled
 The lip of Tantalus. Thus roving on In confused march forlorn, th' adventurous bands, 650

With shuddering horror pale, and eyes aghast,
 Viewed first their lamentable lot, and found No rest. Through many a dark and dreary vale
 They passed, and many a region dolorous,
 O'er many a frozen, many a fiery alp,
 Rocks, caves, lakes, fens, bogs, dens, and shades of death—

A universe of death, which God by curse
 Created evil, for evil only good;
 Where all life dies, death lives, and Nature breeds,
 Perverse, all monstrous, all prodigious things, 660

Obominable, inutterable, and worse
 Than fables yet have feigned or fear conceived, Gorgons, and Hydras, and Chimeras dire.

Meanwhile the Adversary of God and Man,
 Satan, with thoughts inflamed of highest design,
 Puts on swift wings, and toward the gates of Hell Explores his solitary flight: sometimes He scours the right hand coast, sometimes the left;

Now shaves with level wing the deep, then soars 670

Up to the fiery concave towering high.

As when far off at sea a fleet descried
 Hangs in the clouds, by equinoctial winds

Close sailing from Bengala, or the isles
Of Ternate and Tidore, whence merchants bring Their spicy drugs; they on the trading flood,
Through the wide Ethiopian to the Cape,
Ply stemming nightly toward the pole: so
seemed

Far off the flying Fiend. At last appear 680
Hell-bounds, high reaching to the horrid roof,
And thrice threefold the gates; three folds were brass,

Three iron, three of adamantine rock,
Impenetrable, impaled with circling fire,
Yet unconsumed. Before the gates there sat
On either side a formidable Shape.

The one seemed woman to the waist, and fair,
But ended foul in many a scaly fold,
Voluminous and vast—a serpent armed 690
With mortal sting. About her middle round
A cry of Hell-hounds never-ceasing barked
With wide Cerberean mouths full loud, and rung
A hideous peal; yet, when they list, would creep,
If aught disturbed their noise, into her womb,
And kennel there; yet there still barked and howled

Within unseen. Far less abhorred than these Vexed Scylla, bathing in the sea that parts
Calabria from the hoarse Trinacrian shore;
Nor uglier follow the night-hag, when, called 700
In secret, riding through the air she comes,
Lured with the smell of infant blood, to dance
With Lapland witches, while the labouring moon

Eclipses at their charms. The other Shape—
 If shape it might be called that shape had none Distinguishable in member, joint, or limb;
 Or substance might be called that shadow
 seemed,

For each seemed either—black it stood as Night,
 Fierce as ten Furies, terrible as Hell,
 And shook a dreadful dart: what seemed his head 710

The likeness of a kingly crown had on.

Satan was now at hand, and from his seat
 The monster moving onward came as fast
 With horrid strides; Hell trembled as he strode.

Th' undaunted Fiend what this might be admired—

Admired, not feared (God and his Son except, Created thing naught valued he nor shunned),
 And with disdainful look thus first began:— 720
 "Whence and what art thou, execrable Shape,
 That dar'st, though grim and terrible, advance
 Thy miscreated front athwart my way
 To yonder gates? Through them I mean to pass,
 That be assured, without leave asked of thee.

Retire; or taste thy folly, and learn by proof, Hell-born, not to contend with Spirits of
 Heaven."

To whom the Goblin, full of wrath, replied:—
 "Art thou that traitor Angel? art thou he, 730 Who first broke peace in Heaven and faith, till then

Unbroken, and in proud rebellious arms

Drew after him the third part of Heaven's sons, Conjured against the Highest—for which both thou

And they, outcast from God, are here condemned

To waste eternal days in woe and pain?
 And reckon'st thou thyself with Spirits of
 Heaven

Hell-doomed, and breath'st defiance here and scorn,

Where I reign king, and, to enrage thee more,
 Thy king and lord? Back to thy punishment, 740
 False fugitive; and to thy speed add wings,
 Lest with a whip of scorpions I pursue
 Thy lingering, or with one stroke of this dart Strange horror seize thee, and pangs unfelt before."

So spake the grisly Terror, and in shape,
 So speaking and so threatening, grew tenfold,
 More dreadful and deform. On th' other side,
 Incensed with indignation, Satan stood Unterrified, and like a comet burned,
 That fires the length of Ophiuchus huge 750
 In th' arctic sky, and from his horrid hair Shakes pestilence and war. Each at the head Levelled his deadly aim; their fatal hands
 No second stroke intend; and such a frown
 Each cast at th' other as when two black clouds, With heaven's artillery fraught, came rattling on Over the Caspian,—then stand front to front Hovering a space, till winds the signal blow
 To join their dark encounter in mid-air.

So frowned the mighty combatants that Hell Grew darker at their frown; so matched they stood;

For never but once more was wither like
To meet so great a foe. And now great deeds
Had been achieved, whereof all Hell had rung,
Had not the snaky Sorceress, that sat
Fast by Hell-gate and kept the fatal key, Risen, and with hideous outcry rushed between.

"O father, what intends thy hand," she cried, 770
"Against thy only son? What fury, O son,
Possesses thee to bend that mortal dart Against thy father's head? And know'st for whom?

For him who sits above, and laughs the while
At thee, ordained his drudge to execute Whate'er his wrath, which he calls justice, bids—
His wrath, which one day will destroy ye both!"
She spake, and at her words the hellish Pest Forbore: then these to her Satan returned:—
"So strange thy outcry, and thy words so strange 780

Thou interposest, that my sudden hand,
Prevented, spares to tell thee yet by deeds
What it intends, till first I know of thee What thing thou art, thus double-formed, and why,
In this infernal vale first met, thou call'st
Me father, and that phantasm call'st my son.

I know thee not, nor ever saw till now

Sight more detestable than him and thee."
 T' whom thus the Portress of Hell-gate replied:— 790

"Hast thou forgot me, then; and do I seem
 Now in thine eye so foul?—once deemed so fair
 In Heaven, when at th' assembly, and in sight
 Of all the Seraphim with thee combined
 In bold conspiracy against Heaven's King,
 All on a sudden miserable pain
 Surprised thee, dim thine eyes and dizzy swum
 In darkness, while thy head flames thick and fast Threw forth, till on the left side opening wide, Likest to thee in shape and countenance bright, 800

Then shining heavenly fair, a goddess armed,
 Out of thy head I sprung. Amazement seized
 All th' host of Heaven; back they recoiled afraid
 At first, and called me Sin, and for a sign Portentous held me; but, familiar grown,
 I pleased, and with attractive graces won
 The most averse—thee chiefly, who, full oft Thyself in me thy perfect image viewing,
 Becam'st enamoured; and such joy thou took'st
 With me in secret that my womb conceived 810
 A growing burden. Meanwhile war arose,
 And fields were fought in Heaven: wherein remained

(For what could else?) to our Almighty Foe Clear victory; to our part loss and rout
 Through all the Empyrean. Down they fell, Driven headlong from the pitch of Heaven,
 down

Into this Deep; and in the general fall
 I also: at which time this powerful key Into my hands was given, with charge to keep These gates for ever shut, which none can pass 820

Without my opening. Pensive here I sat
 Alone; but long I sat not, till my womb,
 Pregnant by thee, and now excessive grown,
 Prodigious motion felt and rueful throes.

At last this odious offspring whom thou seest,
 Thine own begotten, breaking violent way, Tore through my entrails, that, with fear and pain

Distorted, all my nether shape thus grew Transformed: but he my inbred enemy 830
 Forth issued, brandishing his fatal dart,
 Made to destroy. I fled, and cried out Death!
 Hell trembled at the hideous name, and sighed
 From all her caves, and back resounded Death!
 I fled; but he pursued (though more, it seems, Inflamed with lust than rage), and, swifter far,
 Me overtook, his mother, all dismayed,
 And, in embraces forcible and foul Engendering with me, of that rape begot
 These yelling monsters, that with ceaseless cry 840

Surround me, as thou saw'st—hourly conceived
 And hourly born, with sorrow infinite
 To me; for, when they list, into the womb
 That bred them they return, and howl, and gnaw
 My bowels, their repast; then, bursting forth
 Afresh, with conscious terrors vex me round,

That rest or intermission none I find.

Before mine eyes in opposition sits Grim Death, my son and foe, who set them on, 850

And me, his parent, would full soon devour
 For want of other prey, but that he knows
 His end with mine involved, and knows that I Should prove a bitter morsel, and his bane,
 Whenever that shall be: so Fate pronounced.

But thou, O father, I forewarn thee, shun
 His deadly arrow; neither vainly hope
 To be invulnerable in those bright arms,
 Through tempered heavenly; for that mortal dint, 860

Save he who reigns above, none can resist."
 She finished; and the subtle Fiend his lore Soon learned, now milder, and thus answered smooth:—

"Dear daughter—since thou claim'st me for thy
 sire,

And my fair son here show'st me, the dear pledge

Of dalliance had with thee in Heaven, and joys Then sweet, now sad to mention, through dire
 change

Befallen us unforeseen, unthought-of—know,
 I come no enemy, but to set free
 From out this dark and dismal house of pain 870
 Both him and thee, and all the heavenly host
 Of Spirits that, in our just pretences armed, Fell with us from on high. From them I go

This uncouth errand sole, and one for all Myself expose, with lonely steps to tread
 Th' unfounded Deep, and through the void immense

To search, with wandering quest, a place foretold
 Should be—and, by concurring signs, ere now
 Created vast and round—a place of bliss
 In the purlieus of Heaven; and therein placed 880
 A race of upstart creatures, to supply Perhaps our vacant room, though more removed,

Lest Heaven, surcharged with potent multitude,
 Might hap to move new broils. Be this, or aught
 Than this more secret, now designed, I haste
 To know; and, this once known, shall soon return,

And bring ye to the place where thou and Death
 Shall dwell at ease, and up and down unseen
 Wing silently the buxom air, embalmed
 With odours. There ye shall be fed and filled 890
 Immeasurably; all things shall be your prey."
 He ceased; for both seemed highly pleased, and Death

Grinned horrible a ghastly smile, to hear
 His famine should be filled, and blessed his maw Destined to that good hour. No less rejoiced
 His mother bad, and thus bespake her sire:—
 "The key of this infernal Pit, by due
 And by command of Heaven's all-powerful King,

I keep, by him forbidden to unlock
 These adamantine gates; against all force 900

Death ready stands to interpose his dart, Fearless to be o'ermatched by living might.
 But what owe I to his commands above,
 Who hates me, and hath hither thrust me down
 Into this gloom of Tartarus profound,
 To sit in hateful office here confined,
 Inhabitant of Heaven and heavenly born—
 Here in perpetual agony and pain,
 With terrors and with clamours compassed round 910
 Of mine own brood, that on my bowels feed?
 Thou art my father, thou my author, thou
 My being gav'st me; whom should I obey
 But thee? whom follow? Thou wilt bring me soon
 To that new world of light and bliss, among
 The gods who live at ease, where I shall reign
 At thy right hand voluptuous, as beseems
 Thy daughter and thy darling, without end."
 Thus saying, from her side the fatal key,
 Sad instrument of all our woe, she took; 920
 And, towards the gate rolling her bestial train, Forthwith the huge portcullis high up-drew,
 Which, but herself, not all the Stygian Powers Could once have moved; then in the key-hole turns
 Th' intricate wards, and every bolt and bar
 Of massy iron or solid rock with ease
 Unfastens. On a sudden open fly,
 With impetuous recoil and jarring sound,
 Th' infernal doors, and on their hinges grate
 Harsh thunder, that the lowest bottom shook 930

Of Erebus. She opened; but to shut
 Excelled her power: the gates wide open stood,
 That with extended wings a bannered host,
 Under spread ensigns marching, might pass through
 With horse and chariots ranked in loose array;
 So wide they stood, and like a furnace-mouth
 Cast forth redounding smoke and ruddy flame.

Before their eyes in sudden view appear
 The secrets of the hoary Deep—a dark 940
 Illimitable ocean, without bound, Without dimension; where length, breadth, and
 height,
 And time, and place, are lost; where eldest Night
 And Chaos, ancestors of Nature, hold Eternal anarchy, amidst the noise
 Of endless wars, and by confusion stand.

For Hot, Cold, Moist, and Dry, four champions
 fierce,
 Strive here for mastery, and to battle bring Their embryon atoms: they around the flag 950
 Of each his faction, in their several clans, Light-armed or heavy, sharp, smooth, swift, or slow,
 Swarm populous, unnumbered as the sands
 Of Barca or Cyrene's torrid soil,
 Levied to side with warring winds, and poise
 Their lighter wings. To whom these most adhere
 He rules a moment: Chaos umpire sits,
 And by decision more embroils the fray
 By which he reigns: next him, high arbiter,

Chance governs all. Into this wild Abyss, 960
 The womb of Nature, and perhaps her grave,
 Of neither sea, nor shore, nor air, nor fire,
 But all these in their pregnant causes mixed Confusedly, and which thus must ever fight,
 Unless th' Almighty Maker them ordain
 His dark materials to create more worlds—
 Into this wild Abyss the wary Fiend Stood on the brink of Hell and looked a while,
 Pondering his voyage; for no narrow frith
 He had to cross. Nor was his ear less pealed 970
 With noises loud and ruinous (to compare Great things with small) than when Bellona storms

With all her battering engines, bent to rase
 Some capital city; or less than if this frame
 Of Heaven were falling, and these elements
 In mutiny had from her axle torn
 The steadfast Earth. At last his sail-broad vans
 He spread for flight, and, in the surging smoke Uplifted, spurns the ground; thence many a league,

As in a cloudy chair, ascending rides 980
 Audacious; but, that seat soon failing, meets
 A vast vacuity. All unawares, Fluttering his pennons vain, plumb-down he drops

Ten thousand fathom deep, and to this hour
 Down had been falling, had not, by ill chance,
 The strong rebuff of some tumultuous cloud,
 Instinct with fire and nitre, hurried him
 As many miles aloft. That fury stayed—

Quenched in a boggy Syrtis, neither sea,
 Nor good dry land-nigh foundered, on he fares, 990

Treading the crude consistence, half on foot,
 Half flying; behoves him now both oar and sail.

As when a gryphon through the wilderness
 With winged course, o'er hill or moory dale,
 Pursues the Arimaspians, who by stealth
 Had from his wakeful custody purloined
 The guarded gold; so eagerly the Fiend O'er bog or steep, through strait, rough, dense, or rare,

With head, hands, wings, or feet, pursues his way, 1000

And swims, or sinks, or wades, or creeps, or flies.

At length a universal hubbub wild
 Of stunning sounds, and voices all confused,
 Borne through the hollow dark, assaults his ear
 With loudest vehemence. Thither he plies Undaunted, to meet there whatever Power
 Or Spirit of the nethermost Abyss
 Might in that noise reside, of whom to ask
 Which way the nearest coast of darkness lies 1010 Bordering on light; when straight behold the throne

Of Chaos, and his dark pavilion spread Wide on the wasteful Deep! With him enthroned
 Sat sable-vested Night, eldest of things,
 The consort of his reign; and by them stood Orcus and Ades, and the dreaded name

Of Demogorgon; Rumour next, and Chance,
 And Tumult, and Confusion, all embroiled,
 And Discord with a thousand various mouths.

1020

T' whom Satan, turning boldly, thus:—"Ye Powers
 And Spirits of this nethermost Abyss,
 Chaos and ancient Night, I come no spy
 With purpose to explore or to disturb
 The secrets of your realm; but, by constraint
 Wandering this darksome desert, as my way
 Lies through your spacious empire up to light, Alone and without guide, half lost, I seek,
 What readiest path leads where your gloomy bounds

Confine with Heaven; or, if some other place, 1030

From your dominion won, th' Ethereal King
 Possesses lately, thither to arrive
 I travel this profound. Direct my course:
 Directed, no mean recompense it brings
 To your behoof, if I that region lost,
 All usurpation thence expelled, reduce
 To her original darkness and your sway (Which is my present journey), and once more Erect the standard there of ancient Night.

1040

Yours be th' advantage all, mine the revenge!"
 Thus Satan; and him thus the Anarch old,
 With faltering speech and visage incomposed,
 Answered: "I know thee, stranger, who thou art—
 That mighty leading Angel, who of late Made head against Heaven's King, though overthrown.

I saw and heard; for such a numerous host Fled not in silence through the frightened Deep,
 With ruin upon ruin, rout on rout, 1050 Confusion worse confounded; and Heaven-gates

Poured out by millions her victorious bands,
 Pursuing. I upon my frontiers here
 Keep residence; if all I can will serve
 That little which is left so to defend,
 Encroached on still through our intestine broils
 Weakening the sceptre of old Night: first, Hell,
 Your dungeon, stretching far and wide beneath;
 Now lately Heaven and Earth, another world Hung o'er my realm, linked in a golden chain 1060

To that side Heaven from whence your legions fell!

If that way be your walk, you have not far;
 So much the nearer danger. Go, and speed;
 Havoc, and spoil, and ruin, are my gain."
 He ceased; and Satan stayed not to reply,
 But, glad that now his sea should find a shore,
 With fresh alacrity and force renewed
 Springs upward, like a pyramid of fire,
 Into the wild expanse, and through the shock
 Of fighting elements, on all sides round 1070
 Environed, wins his way; harder beset
 And more endangered than when Argo passed Through Bosphorus betwixt the justling rocks,
 Or when Ulysses on the larboard shunned
 Charybdis, and by th' other whirlpool steered.

So he with difficulty and labour hard Moved on, with difficulty and labour he;
 But, he once passed, soon after, when Man fell,
 Strange alteration! Sin and Death amain, 1080 Following his track (such was the will of Heaven)

Paved after him a broad and beaten way
 Over the dark Abyss, whose boiling gulf
 Tamely endured a bridge of wondrous length,
 From Hell continued, reaching th' utmost orb
 Of this frail World; by which the Spirits perverse
 With easy intercourse pass to and fro
 To tempt or punish mortals, except whom God and good Angels guard by special grace. 1090

But now at last the sacred influence
 Of light appears, and from the walls of Heaven
 Shoots far into the bosom of dim Night
 A glimmering dawn. Here Nature first begins
 Her farthest verge, and Chaos to retire,
 As from her outmost works, a broken foe,
 With tumult less and with less hostile din;
 That Satan with less toil, and now with ease,
 Wafts on the calmer wave by dubious light,
 And, like a weather-beaten vessel, holds 1100
 Gladly the port, though shrouds and tackle torn;
 Or in the emptier waste, resembling air,
 Weighs his spread wings, at leisure to behold
 Far off th' empyreal Heaven, extended wide
 In circuit, undetermined square or round,
 With opal towers and battlements adorned
 Of living sapphire, once his native seat;

And, fast by, hanging in a golden chain,
This pendent World, in bigness as a star
Of smallest magnitude close by the moon. 1110
Thither, full fraught with mischievous revenge, Accursed, and in a cursed hour, he hies.

BOOK III

Hail, holy Light, offspring of Heaven firstborn,
Or of the Eternal coeternal beam
May I express thee unblam'd? since God is light,
And never but in unapproached light
Dwelt from eternity, dwelt then in thee
Bright effluence of bright essence increate.

Or hear'st thou rather pure ethereal stream,
Whose fountain who shall tell? before the sun,
Before the Heavens thou wert, and at the voice

Of God, as with a mantle, didst invest
The rising world of waters dark and deep,
Won from the void and formless infinite.

Thee I re-visit now with bolder wing,
Escap'd the Stygian pool, though long detain'd
In that obscure sojourn, while in my flight Through utter and through middle darkness borne,

With other notes than to the Orphean lyre
I sung of Chaos and eternal Night;

20

Taught by the heavenly Muse to venture down
The dark descent, and up to re-ascend,
Though hard and rare: Thee I revisit safe,
And feel thy sovran vital lamp; but thou Revisit'st not these eyes, that roll in vain
To find thy piercing ray, and find no dawn;
So thick a drop serene hath quench'd their orbs,
Or dim suffusion veil'd. Yet not the more Cease I to wander, where the Muses haunt,
Clear spring, or shady grove, or sunny hill, 30
Smit with the love of sacred song; but chief Thee, Sion, and the flowery brooks beneath,
That wash thy hallow'd feet, and warbling flow,
Nightly I visit: nor sometimes forget
So were I equall'd with them in renown, Thy sovran command, that Man should find grace;
Blind Thamyris, and blind Maeonides,
And Tiresias, and Phineus, prophets old:
Then feed on thoughts, that voluntary move Harmonious numbers; as the wakeful bird 40
Sings darkling, and in shadiest covert hid Tunes her nocturnal note. Thus with the year Seasons return; but not to me returns
Day, or the sweet approach of even or morn,
Or sight of vernal bloom, or summer's rose,
Or flocks, or herds, or human face divine;
But cloud instead, and ever-during dark
Surrounds me, from the cheerful ways of men
Cut off, and for the book of knowledge fair
Presented with a universal blank 50
Of nature's works to me expung'd and ras'd,

And wisdom at one entrance quite shut out.

So much the rather thou, celestial Light, Shine inward, and the mind through all her powers

Irradiate; there plant eyes, all mist from thence Purge and disperse, that I may see and tell
Of things invisible to mortal sight.

Now had the Almighty Father from above, 60
From the pure empyrean where he sits
High thron'd above all highth, bent down his eye
His own works and their works at once to view:
About him all the Sanctities of Heaven
Stood thick as stars, and from his sight receiv'd Beatitude past utterance; on his right
The radiant image of his glory sat,
His only son; on earth he first beheld
Our two first parents, yet the only two
Of mankind in the happy garden plac'd 70
Reaping immortal fruits of joy and love,
Uninterrupted joy, unrivall'd love,
In blissful solitude; he then survey'd
Hell and the gulf between, and Satan there Coasting the wall of Heaven on this side Night
In the dun air sublime, and ready now
To stoop with wearied wings, and willing feet,
On the bare outside of this world, that seem'd
Firm land imbosom'd, without firmament,
Uncertain which, in ocean or in air. 80

Him God beholding from his prospect high,
Wherein past, present, future, he beholds,
Thus to his only Son foreseeing spake.

Only begotten Son, seest thou what rage Transports our Adversary? whom no bounds
 Prescrib'd no bars of Hell, nor all the chains
 Heap'd on him there, nor yet the main abyss
 Wide interrupt, can hold; so bent he seems 90
 On desperate revenge, that shall redound
 Upon his own rebellious head. And now, Through all restraint broke loose, he wings his way

Not far off Heaven, in the precincts of light,
 Directly towards the new created world,
 And man there plac'd, with purpose to assay
 If him by force he can destroy, or, worse,
 By some false guile pervert; and shall pervert;
 For man will hearken to his glozing lies,
 And easily transgress the sole command, 100
 Sole pledge of his obedience: So will fall
 He and his faithless progeny: Whose fault?
 Whose but his own? ingrate, he had of me
 All he could have; I made him just and right,
 Sufficient to have stood, though free to fall.

Such I created all the ethereal Powers And Spirits, both them who stood, and them who fail'd;
 Freely they stood who stood, and fell who fell. 110

Not free, what proof could they have given sincere
 Of true allegiance, constant faith or love,
 Where only what they needs must do appear'd,
 Not what they would? what praise could they receive?

What pleasure I from such obedience paid,
When will and reason (reason also is choice)
Useless and vain, of freedom both despoil'd,
Made passive both, had serv'd necessity,
Not me. They therefore, as to right belong'd,
So were created, nor can justly accuse 120
Their Maker, or their making, or their fate,
As if predestination over-rul'd
Their will dispos'd by absolute decree
Or high foreknowledge they themselves decreed
Their own revolt, not I; if I foreknew, Foreknowledge had no influence on their fault,
Which had no less proved certain unforeknown.

So without least impulse or shadow of fate,
Or aught by me immutably foreseen, 130
They trespass, authors to themselves in all Both what they judge, and what they choose; for so

I form'd them free: and free they must remain,
Till they enthrall themselves; I else must change
Their nature, and revoke the high decree
Unchangeable, eternal, which ordain'd Their freedom: they themselves ordain'd their fall.

The first sort by their own suggestion fell,
Self-tempted, self-deprav'd: Man falls, deceiv'd 140

By the other first: Man therefore shall find grace,
The other none: In mercy and justice both,
Through Heaven and Earth, so shall my glory excel;

But Mercy, first and last, shall brightest shine.

Thus while God spake, ambrosial fragrance fill'd
All Heaven, and in the blessed Spirits elect Sense of new joy ineffable diffus'd.

Beyond compare the Son of God was seen 150
Most glorious; in him all his Father shone Substantially express'd; and in his face
Divine compassion visibly appear'd,
Love without end, and without measure grace,
Which uttering, thus he to his Father spake.

O Father, gracious was that word which clos'd Thy sovran command, that Man should find
grace;

For which both Heaven and earth shall high ex-tol

Thy praises, with the innumerable sound 160
Of hymns and sacred songs, wherewith thy throne

Encompass'd shall resound thee ever blest.

For should Man finally be lost, should Man,
Thy creature late so lov'd, thy youngest son,
Fall circumvented thus by fraud, though join'd
With his own folly? that be from thee far,
That far be from thee, Father, who art judge
Of all things made, and judgest only right.

170

Or shall the Adversary thus obtain
His end, and frustrate thine? shall he fulfill
His malice, and thy goodness bring to nought,
Or proud return, though to his heavier doom,
Yet with revenge accomplish'd, and to Hell

Draw after him the whole race of mankind,
 By him corrupted? or wilt thou thyself
 Abolish thy creation, and unmake
 For him, what for thy glory thou hast made?
 So should thy goodness and thy greatness both 180

Be question'd and blasphem'd without defence.
 To whom the great Creator thus replied.

O son, in whom my soul hath chief delight,
 Son of my bosom, Son who art alone.

My word, my wisdom, and effectual might,
 All hast thou spoken as my thoughts are, all
 As my eternal purpose hath decreed; 190
 Man shall not quite be lost, but sav'd who will;
 Yet not of will in him, but grace in me
 Freely vouchsaf'd; once more I will renew His lapsed powers, though forfeit; and enthrall'd

By sin to foul exorbitant desires;
 Upheld by me, yet once more he shall stand
 On even ground against his mortal foe;
 By me upheld, that he may know how frail
 His fallen condition is, and to me owe
 All his deliverance, and to none but me. 200

Some I have chosen of peculiar grace, Elect above the rest; so is my will:
 The rest shall hear me call, and oft be warn'd
 Their sinful state, and to appease betimes
 The incensed Deity, while offer'd grace
 Invites; for I will clear their senses dark,
 What may suffice, and soften stony hearts

To pray, repent, and bring obedience due. 210

To prayer, repentance, and obedience due,
 Though but endeavour'd with sincere intent,
 Mine ear shall not be slow, mine eye not shut.

And I will place within them as a guide,
 My umpire Conscience; whom if they will hear,
 Light after light, well us'd, they shall attain,
 And to the end, persisting, safe arrive.

This my long sufferance, and my day of grace, 220

They who neglect and scorn, shall never taste;
 But hard be harden'd, blind be blinded more,
 That they may stumble on, and deeper fall;
 And none but such from mercy I exclude.

But yet all is not done; Man disobeying,
 Disloyal, breaks his fealty, and sins
 Against the high supremacy of Heaven,
 Affecting God-head, and, so losing all,
 To expiate his treason hath nought left, 230
 But to destruction sacred and devote,
 He, with his whole posterity, must die,
 Die he or justice must; unless for him
 Some other able, and as willing, pay
 The rigid satisfaction, death for death.

Say, heavenly Powers, where shall we find such love?

Which of you will be mortal, to redeem
 Man's mortal crime, and just the unjust to save?
 Dwells in all Heaven charity so dear? 240
 He ask'd, but all the heavenly quire stood mute,

And silence was in Heaven: on Man's behalf Patron or intercessour none appear'd,
 Much less that durst upon his own head draw
 The deadly forfeiture, and ransom set.

And now without redemption all mankind
 Must have been lost, adjudg'd to Death and Hell
 By doom severe, had not the Son of God,
 In whom the fulness dwells of love divine, 250
 His dearest mediation thus renew'd.

Father, thy word is past, Man shall find grace;
 And shall grace not find means, that finds her
 way,

The speediest of thy winged messengers,
 To visit all thy creatures, and to all Comes unprevented, unimplor'd, unsought?
 Happy for Man, so coming; he her aid
 Can never seek, once dead in sins, and lost;
 Atonement for himself, or offering meet, 260
 Indebted and undone, hath none to bring;
 Behold me then: me for him, life for life
 I offer: on me let thine anger fall;
 Account me Man; I for his sake will leave
 Thy bosom, and this glory next to thee
 Freely put off, and for him lastly die
 Well pleased; on me let Death wreak all his rage.

Under his gloomy power I shall not long Lie vanquished. Thou hast given me to possess 270

Life in myself for ever; by thee I live;
 Though now to Death I yield, and am his due,
 All that of me can die, yet, that debt paid,

Thou wilt not leave me in the loathsome grave
 His prey, nor suffer my unspotted soul
 For ever with corruption there to dwell;
 But I shall rise victorious, and subdue
 My vanquisher, spoiled of his vaunted spoil.

Death his death's wound shall then receive, and stoop 280

Inglorious, of his mortal sting disarmed;
 I through the ample air in triumph high
 Shall lead Hell captive maugre Hell, and show The powers of darkness bound. Thou, at the sight

Pleased, out of Heaven shalt look down and smile,

While, by thee raised, I ruin all my foes;
 Death last, and with his carcase glut the grave;
 Then, with the multitude of my redeemed,
 Shall enter Heaven, long absent, and return,
 Father, to see thy face, wherein no cloud 290
 Of anger shall remain, but peace assured
 And reconciliation: wrath shall be no more Thenceforth, but in thy presence joy entire.

His words here ended; but his meek aspect Silent yet spake, and breathed immortal love
 To mortal men, above which only shone
 Filial obedience: as a sacrifice
 Glad to be offered, he attends the will
 Of his great Father. Admiration seized 300
 All Heaven, what this might mean, and whither tend,
 Wondering; but soon th' Almighty thus replied:

O thou in Heaven and Earth the only peace
Found out for mankind under wrath, O thou My sole complacence! Well thou know'st how dear

To me are all my works; nor Man the least,
Though last created, that for him I spare
Thee from my bosom and right hand, to save,
By losing thee a while, the whole race lost.

310

Thou, therefore, whom thou only canst redeem,
Their nature also to thy nature join;
And be thyself Man among men on Earth,
Made flesh, when time shall be, of virgin seed,
By wondrous birth; be thou in Adam's room
The head of all mankind, though Adam's son.

As in him perish all men, so in thee,
As from a second root, shall be restored
As many as are restored, without thee none. 320

His crime makes guilty all his sons; thy merit, Imputed, shall absolve them who renounce Their own both righteous and unrighteous deeds,

And live in thee transplanted, and from thee Receive new life. So Man, as is most just,
Shall satisfy for Man, be judged and die,
And dying rise, and rising with him raise
His brethren, ransomed with his own dear life.

330

So heavenly love shall outdo hellish hate,
Giving to death, and dying to redeem,
So dearly to redeem what hellish hate

So easily destroyed, and still destroys
 In those who, when they may, accept not grace.

Nor shalt thou, by descending to assume Man's nature, lessen or degrade thine own.

Because thou hast, though throned in highest bliss 340

Equal to God, and equally enjoying God-like fruition, quitted all, to save
 A world from utter loss, and hast been found
 By merit more than birthright Son of God,
 Found worthiest to be so by being good,
 Far more than great or high; because in thee
 Love hath abounded more than glory abounds;
 Therefore thy humiliation shall exalt
 With thee thy manhood also to this throne:
 Here shalt thou sit incarnate, here shalt reign³⁵⁰
 Both God and Man, Son both of God and Man, Anointed universal King; all power
 I give thee; reign for ever, and assume Thy merits; under thee, as head supreme,
 Thrones, Princedoms, Powers, Dominions, I reduce:

All knees to thee shall bow, of them that bide
 In Heaven, or Earth, or under Earth in Hell.

When thou, attended gloriously from Heaven,
 Shalt in the sky appear, and from thee send ³⁶⁰
 The summoning Arch-Angels to proclaim
 Thy dread tribunal; forthwith from all winds,
 The living, and forthwith the cited dead
 Of all past ages, to the general doom
 Shall hasten; such a peal shall rouse their sleep.

Then, all thy saints assembled, thou shalt judge
 Bad Men and Angels; they, arraigned, shall sink Beneath thy sentence; Hell, her numbers full, Thenceforth shall be for ever shut. Mean while 370

The world shall burn, and from her ashes spring
 New Heaven and Earth, wherein the just shall dwell,

And, after all their tribulations long,
 See golden days, fruitful of golden deeds,
 With joy and peace triumphing, and fair truth.

Then thou thy regal scepter shalt lay by,
 For regal scepter then no more shall need,
 God shall be all in all. But, all ye Gods,
 Adore him, who to compass all this dies; 380
 Adore the Son, and honour him as me.

No sooner had the Almighty ceased, but all
 The multitude of Angels, with a shout
 Loud as from numbers without number, sweet
 As from blest voices, uttering joy, Heaven rung
 With jubilee, and loud Hosannas filled
 The eternal regions: Lowly reverent Towards either throne they bow, and to the ground

With solemn adoration down they cast 390
 Their crowns inwove with amarant and gold;
 Immortal amarant, a flower which once
 In Paradise, fast by the tree of life,
 Began to bloom; but soon for man's offence
 To Heaven removed, where first it grew, there grows,

And flowers aloft shading the fount of life,
 And where the river of bliss through midst of
 Heaven

Rolls o'er Elysian flowers her amber stream;
 With these that never fade the Spirits elect Bind their resplendent locks inwreathed with beams; 400

Now in loose garlands thick thrown off, the bright

Pavement, that like a sea of jasper shone, Impurpled with celestial roses smiled.

Then, crowned again, their golden harps they took,

Harps ever tuned, that glittering by their side
 Like quivers hung, and with preamble sweet
 Of charming symphony they introduce
 Their sacred song, and waken raptures high;
 No voice exempt, no voice but well could join Melodious part, such concord is in Heaven. 410

Thee, Father, first they sung Omnipotent, Immutable, Immortal, Infinite,
 Eternal King; the Author of all being,
 Fountain of light, thyself invisible
 Amidst the glorious brightness where thou sit'st
 Throned inaccessible, but when thou shadest
 The full blaze of thy beams, and, through a cloud Drawn round about thee like a radiant shrine, 420

Dark with excessive bright thy skirts appear,
 Yet dazzle Heaven, that brightest Seraphim Approach not, but with both wings veil their eyes.

Thee next they sang of all creation first,
Begotten Son, Divine Similitude,
In whose conspicuous countenance, without cloud

Made visible, the Almighty Father shines,
Whom else no creature can behold; on thee
Impressed the effulgence of his glory abides, 430
Transfused on thee his ample Spirit rests.

He Heaven of Heavens and all the Powers therein

By thee created; and by thee threw down
The aspiring Dominations: Thou that day
Thy Father's dreadful thunder didst not spare,
Nor stop thy flaming chariot-wheels, that shook Heaven's everlasting frame, while o'er the necks
Thou drovest of warring Angels disarrayed.

440

Back from pursuit thy Powers with loud acclaim Thee only extolled, Son of thy Father's might,
To execute fierce vengeance on his foes,
Not so on Man: Him through their malice fallen,
Father of mercy and grace, thou didst not doom
So strictly, but much more to pity incline:
No sooner did thy dear and only Son
Perceive thee purposed not to doom frail Man
So strictly, but much more to pity inclined,
He to appease thy wrath, and end the strife 450
Of mercy and justice in thy face discerned,
Regardless of the bliss wherein he sat
Second to thee, offered himself to die

For Man's offence. O unexampled love,
 Love no where to be found less than Divine!
 Hail, Son of God, Saviour of Men! Thy name
 Shall be the copious matter of my song
 Henceforth, and never shall my heart thy praise
 Forget, nor from thy Father's praise disjoin.

460

Thus they in Heaven, above the starry sphere,
 Their happy hours in joy and hymning spent.

Mean while upon the firm opacous globe
 Of this round world, whose first convex divides
 The luminous inferiour orbs, enclosed
 From Chaos, and the inroad of Darkness old,
 Satan alighted walks: A globe far off
 It seemed, now seems a boundless continent
 Dark, waste, and wild, under the frown of Night

470

Starless exposed, and ever-threatening storms
 Of Chaos blustering round, inclement sky;
 Save on that side which from the wall of Heaven,
 Though distant far, some small reflection gains
 Of glimmering air less vexed with tempest loud:
 Here walked the Fiend at large in spacious field.

As when a vultur on Imaus bred,
 Whose snowy ridge the roving Tartar bounds, Dislodging from a region scarce of prey 480
 To gorge the flesh of lambs or yeanling kids,
 On hills where flocks are fed, flies toward the springs
 Of Ganges or Hydaspes, Indian streams;
 But in his way lights on the barren plains

Of Sericana, where Chineses drive
 With sails and wind their cany waggons light:
 So, on this windy sea of land, the Fiend
 Walked up and down alone, bent on his prey;
 Alone, for other creature in this place,
 Living or lifeless, to be found was none; 490
 None yet, but store hereafter from the earth
 Up hither like aerial vapours flew
 Of all things transitory and vain, when sin
 With vanity had filled the works of men:
 Both all things vain, and all who in vain things
 Built their fond hopes of glory or lasting fame,
 Or happiness in this or the other life;
 All who have their reward on earth, the fruits
 Of painful superstition and blind zeal,
 Nought seeking but the praise of men, here find 500

Fit retribution, empty as their deeds;
 All the unaccomplished works of Nature's hand,
 Abortive, monstrous, or unkindly mixed,
 Dissolved on earth, fleet hither, and in vain,
 Till final dissolution, wander here;
 Not in the neighbouring moon as some have dreamed;
 Those argent fields more likely habitants,
 Translated Saints, or middle Spirits hold Betwixt the angelical and human kind.

510

Hither of ill-joined sons and daughters born
 First from the ancient world those giants came With many a vain exploit, though then renowned:

The builders next of Babel on the plain
 Of Sennaar, and still with vain design, New Babels, had they wherewithal, would build:

Others came single; he, who, to be deemed
 A God, leaped fondly into Aetna flames,
 Empedocles; and he, who, to enjoy
 Plato's Elysium, leaped into the sea, 520

Cleombrotus; and many more too long,
 Embryos, and idiots, eremites, and friars
 White, black, and gray, with all their trumpery.

Here pilgrims roam, that strayed so far to seek
 In Golgotha him dead, who lives in Heaven;
 And they, who to be sure of Paradise,
 Dying, put on the weeds of Dominick,
 Or in Franciscan think to pass disguised;
 They pass the planets seven, and pass the fixed,
 530

And that crystalline sphere whose balance weighs

The trepidation talked, and that first moved;
 And now Saint Peter at Heaven's wicket seems To wait them with his keys, and now at foot
 Of Heaven's ascent they lift their feet, when lo
 A violent cross wind from either coast Blows them transverse, ten thousand leagues awry

Into the devious air: Then might ye see Cowls, hoods, and habits, with their wearers, tost

And fluttered into rags; then reliques, beads, 540
 Indulgences, dispenses, pardons, bulls,

The sport of winds: All these, upwhirled aloft,
 Fly o'er the backside of the world far off
 Into a Limbo large and broad, since called
 The Paradise of Fools, to few unknown
 Long after; now unpeopled, and untrod.

All this dark globe the Fiend found as he passed,
 And long he wandered, till at last a gleam
 Of dawning light turned thither-ward in haste 550

His travelled steps: far distant he descries Ascending by degrees magnificent
 Up to the wall of Heaven a structure high;
 At top whereof, but far more rich, appeared
 The work as of a kingly palace-gate,
 With frontispiece of diamond and gold Embellished; thick with sparkling orient gems
 The portal shone, inimitable on earth
 By model, or by shading pencil, drawn.

560

These stairs were such as whereon Jacob saw Angels ascending and descending, bands
 Of guardians bright, when he from Esau fled
 To Padan-Aram, in the field of Luz
 Dreaming by night under the open sky
 And waking cried, This is the gate of Heaven.

Each stair mysteriously was meant, nor stood There always, but drawn up to Heaven sometimes

Viewless; and underneath a bright sea flowed
 Of jasper, or of liquid pearl, whereon
 Who after came from earth, failing arrived

Wafted by Angels, or flew o'er the lake
Rapt in a chariot drawn by fiery steeds.

The stairs were then let down, whether to dare
The Fiend by easy ascent, or aggravate
His sad exclusion from the doors of bliss:
Direct against which opened from beneath,
Just o'er the blissful seat of Paradise, 580
A passage down to the Earth, a passage wide,
Wider by far than that of after-times
Over mount Sion, and, though that were large,
Over the Promised Land to God so dear;
By which, to visit oft those happy tribes,
On high behests his angels to and fro
Passed frequent, and his eye with choice regard
From Paneas, the fount of Jordan's flood,
To Beersaba, where the Holy Land
Borders on Egypt and the Arabian shore; 590
So wide the opening seemed, where bounds were set
To darkness, such as bound the ocean wave.

Satan from hence, now on the lower stair,
That scaled by steps of gold to Heaven-gate,
Looks down with wonder at the sudden view
Of all this world at once. As when a scout,
Through dark and desert ways with peril gone
All night; at last by break of cheerful dawn
Obtains the brow of some high-climbing hill, 600
Which to his eye discovers unaware
The goodly prospect of some foreign land
First seen, or some renowned metropolis
With glistening spires and pinnacles adorned,

Which now the rising sun gilds with his beams:
 Such wonder seised, though after Heaven seen,
 The Spirit malign, but much more envy seised,
 At sight of all this world beheld so fair.

Round he surveys (and well might, where he stood 610

So high above the circling canopy
 Of night's extended shade,) from eastern point
 Of Libra to the fleecy star that bears
 Andromeda far off Atlantick seas
 Beyond the horizon; then from pole to pole
 He views in breadth, and without longer pause
 Down right into the world's first region throws
 His flight precipitant, and winds with ease
 Through the pure marble air his oblique way
 Amongst innumerable stars, that shone 620 Stars distant, but nigh hand seemed other worlds;

Or other worlds they seemed, or happy isles,
 Like those Hesperian gardens famed of old,
 Fortunate fields, and groves, and flowery vales,
 Thrice happy isles; but who dwelt happy there
 He staid not to inquire: Above them all
 The golden sun, in splendour likest Heaven,
 Allured his eye; thither his course he bends Through the calm firmament, (but up or down,
 By center, or eccentric, hard to tell, 630
 Or longitude,) where the great luminary
 Aloof the vulgar constellations thick,
 That from his lordly eye keep distance due,
 Dispenses light from far; they, as they move
 Their starry dance in numbers that compute

Days, months, and years, towards his all-cheering lamp

Turn swift their various motions, or are turned
By his magnetick beam, that gently warms
The universe, and to each inward part
With gentle penetration, though unseen, 640
Shoots invisible virtue even to the deep;
So wonderously was set his station bright.

There lands the Fiend, a spot like which perhaps Astronomer in the sun's lucent orb
Through his glazed optick tube yet never saw.

The place he found beyond expression bright,
Compared with aught on earth, metal or stone;
Not all parts like, but all alike informed 650
With radiant light, as glowing iron with fire;
If metal, part seemed gold, part silver clear;
If stone, carbuncle most or chrysolite,
Ruby or topaz, to the twelve that shone
In Aaron's breast-plate, and a stone besides Imagined rather oft than elsewhere seen,
That stone, or like to that which here below
Philosophers in vain so long have sought,
In vain, though by their powerful art they bind Volatile Hermes, and call up unbound 660
In various shapes old Proteus from the sea,
Drained through a limbeck to his native form.

What wonder then if fields and regions here
Breathe forth Elixir pure, and rivers run
Potable gold, when with one virtuous touch
The arch-chemick sun, so far from us remote,
Produces, with terrestrial humour mixed,

Here in the dark so many precious things
 Of colour glorious, and effect so rare? 670
 Here matter new to gaze the Devil met
 Undazzled; far and wide his eye commands;
 For sight no obstacle found here, nor shade,
 But all sun-shine, as when his beams at noon
 Culminate from the equator, as they now
 Shot upward still direct, whence no way round Shadow from body opaque can fall; and the air,
 No where so clear, sharpened his visual ray
 To objects distant far, whereby he soon
 Saw within ken a glorious Angel stand, 680
 The same whom John saw also in the sun:
 His back was turned, but not his brightness hid;
 Of beaming sunny rays a golden tiar
 Circl'd his head, nor less his locks behind Illustrious on his shoulders fledg'd with wings Lay waving round; on some great charge employed
 He seem'd, or fixed in cogitation deep.

Glad was the Spirit impure, as now in hope
 To find who might direct his wandering flight 690
 To Paradise, the happy seat of Man,
 His journey's end and our beginning woe.

But first he casts to change his proper shape,
 Which else might work him danger or delay:
 And now a stripling Cherub he appears,
 Not of the prime, yet such as in his face
 Youth smil'd celestial, and to every limb
 Suitable grace diffus'd, so well he feign'd:
 Under a coronet his flowing hair 700

In curls on either cheek played; wings he wore
 Of many a coloured plume, sprinkled with gold;
 His habit fit for speed succinct, and held Before his decent steps a silver wand.

He drew not nigh unheard; the Angel bright,
 Ere he drew nigh, his radiant visage turned,
 Admonished by his ear, and straight was known
 The Arch-Angel Uriel, one of the seven
 Who in God's presence, nearest to his throne,⁷¹⁰
 Stand ready at command, and are his eyes
 That run through all the Heavens, or down to the Earth

Bear his swift errands over moist and dry,
 O'er sea and land: him Satan thus accosts.

Uriel, for thou of those seven Spirits that stand
 In sight of God's high throne, gloriously bright,
 The first art wont his great authentick will Interpreter through highest Heaven to bring,
 Where all his sons thy embassy attend; ⁷²⁰
 And here art likeliest by supreme decree
 Like honour to obtain, and as his eye
 To visit oft this new creation round;
 Unspeakable desire to see, and know
 All these his wonderous works, but chiefly Man, His chief delight and favour, him for whom
 All these his works so wonderous he ordained,
 Hath brought me from the quires of Cherubim Alone thus wandering. Brightest Seraph, tell
 In which of all these shining orbs hath Man ⁷³⁰
 His fixed seat, or fixed seat hath none,
 But all these shining orbs his choice to dwell;

That I may find him, and with secret gaze
 Or open admiration him behold,
 On whom the great Creator hath bestowed Worlds, and on whom hath all these graces poured;
 That both in him and all things, as is meet,
 The universal Maker we may praise;
 Who justly hath driven out his rebel foes
 To deepest Hell, and, to repair that loss, 740
 Created this new happy race of Men
 To serve him better: Wise are all his ways.

So spake the false dissembler unperceived;
 For neither Man nor Angel can discern Hypocrisy, the only evil that walks
 Invisible, except to God alone,
 By his permissive will, through Heaven and Earth:

And oft, though wisdom wake, suspicion sleeps
 At wisdom's gate, and to simplicity 750
 Resigns her charge, while goodness thinks no ill Where no ill seems: Which now for once beguiled

Uriel, though regent of the sun, and held
 The sharpest-sighted Spirit of all in Heaven;
 Who to the fraudulent impostor foul,
 In his uprightness, answer thus returned.

Fair Angel, thy desire, which tends to know
 The works of God, thereby to glorify
 The great Work-master, leads to no excess 760
 That reaches blame, but rather merits praise
 The more it seems excess, that led thee hither

From thy empyreal mansion thus alone,
To witness with thine eyes what some perhaps,
Contented with report, hear only in Heaven:
For wonderful indeed are all his works,
Pleasant to know, and worthiest to be all
Had in remembrance always with delight;
But what created mind can comprehend
Their number, or the wisdom infinite 770
That brought them forth, but hid their causes deep?

I saw when at his word the formless mass,
This world's material mould, came to a heap:
Confusion heard his voice, and wild uproar
Stood ruled, stood vast infinitude confined;
Till at his second bidding Darkness fled,
Light shone, and order from disorder sprung:
Swift to their several quarters hasted then
The cumbrous elements, earth, flood, air, fire;
And this ethereal quintessence of Heaven 780
Flew upward, spirited with various forms,
That rolled orbicular, and turned to stars
Numberless, as thou seest, and how they move;
Each had his place appointed, each his course;
The rest in circuit walls this universe.

Look downward on that globe, whose hither side
With light from hence, though but reflected, shines;
That place is Earth, the seat of Man; that light
His day, which else, as the other hemisphere, 790 Night would invade; but there the neighbouring moon

(So call that opposite fair star) her aid
Timely interposes, and her monthly round
Still ending, still renewing, through mid
Heaven,
With borrowed light her countenance triform
Hence fills and empties to enlighten the Earth,
And in her pale dominion checks the night.
That spot, to which I point, is Paradise,
Adam's abode; those lofty shades, his bower.800
Thy way thou canst not miss, me mine requires.
Thus said, he turned; and Satan, bowing low,
As to superiour Spirits is wont in Heaven,
Where honour due and reverence none neglects, Took leave, and toward the coast of earth beneath,
Down from the ecliptick, sped with hoped success,
Throws his steep flight in many an aery wheel;
Nor staid, till on Niphates' top he lights. 810

BOOK IV

O, for that warning voice, which he, who saw
The Apocalypse, heard cry in Heaven aloud,
Then when the Dragon, put to second rout,
Came furious down to be revenged on men,
Woe to the inhabitants on earth! that now, While time was, our first parents had been warned

The coming of their secret foe, and 'scaped, Haply so 'scaped his mortal snare: For now
Satan, now first inflamed with rage, came down,
The tempter ere the accuser of mankind, 10
To wreak on innocent frail Man his loss
Of that first battle, and his flight to Hell:
Yet, not rejoicing in his speed, though bold
Far off and fearless, nor with cause to boast,
Begins his dire attempt; which nigh the birth
Now rolling boils in his tumultuous breast,
And like a devilish engine back recoils
Upon himself; horror and doubt distract
His troubled thoughts, and from the bottom stir

Upbraided none; nor was his service hard.

What could be less than to afford him praise,
 The easiest recompence, and pay him thanks, 50
 How due! yet all his good proved ill in me,
 And wrought but malice; lifted up so high
 I 'sdeined subjection, and thought one step higher

Would set me highest, and in a moment quit
 The debt immense of endless gratitude,
 So burdensome still paying, still to owe,
 Forgetful what from him I still received,
 And understood not that a grateful mind
 By owing owes not, but still pays, at once 60
 Indebted and discharged; what burden then
 O, had his powerful destiny ordained Me some inferiour Angel, I had stood
 Then happy; no unbounded hope had raised Ambition! Yet why not some other Power
 As great might have aspired, and me, though mean,

Drawn to his part; but other Powers as great Fell not, but stand unshaken, from within Or from without, to all temptations armed.

Hadst thou the same free will and power to stand? 70

Thou hadst: whom hast thou then or what to accuse,

But Heaven's free love dealt equally to all?
 Be then his love accursed, since love or hate,
 To me alike, it deals eternal woe.

Nay, cursed be thou; since against his thy will

Chose freely what it now so justly rues.

Me miserable! which way shall I fly
 Infinite wrath, and infinite despair? 80
 Which way I fly is Hell; myself am Hell;
 And, in the lowest deep, a lower deep
 Still threatening to devour me opens wide,
 To which the Hell I suffer seems a Heaven.

O, then, at last relent: Is there no place
 Left for repentance, none for pardon left?
 None left but by submission; and that word Disdain forbids me, and my dread of shame 90
 Among the Spirits beneath, whom I seduced
 With other promises and other vaunts
 Than to submit, boasting I could subdue
 The Omnipotent. Ay me! they little know How dearly I abide that boast so vain,
 Under what torments inwardly I groan,
 While they adore me on the throne of Hell.

With diadem and scepter high advanced,
 The lower still I fall, only supreme
 In misery: Such joy ambition finds. 100

But say I could repent, and could obtain,
 By act of grace, my former state; how soon
 Would highth recall high thoughts, how soon unsay
 What feigned submission swore? Ease would recant
 Vows made in pain, as violent and void.
 For never can true reconciliation grow,
 Where wounds of deadly hate have pierced so

deep:

Which would but lead me to a worse relapse 110
And heavier fall: so should I purchase dear
Short intermission bought with double smart.

This knows my Punisher; therefore as far
From granting he, as I from begging, peace;
All hope excluded thus, behold, instead
Of us out-cast, exil'd, his new delight,
Mankind created, and for him this world.

So farewell, hope; and with hope farewell, fear; 120

Farewell, remorse! all good to me is lost;
Evil, be thou my good; by thee at least Divided empire with Heaven's King I hold,
By thee, and more than half perhaps will reign;
As Man ere long, and this new world, shall know.

Thus while he spake, each passion dimmed his face

Thrice changed with pale, ire, envy, and despair;
Which marred his borrowed visage, and betrayed

Him counterfeit, if any eye beheld. 130

For heavenly minds from such distempers foul
Are ever clear. Whereof he soon aware,
Each perturbation smoothed with outward calm, Artificer of fraud; and was the first
That practised falsehood under saintly show,
Deep malice to conceal, couched with revenge:
Yet not enough had practised to deceive

Uriel once warned; whose eye pursued him down

The way he went, and on the Assyrian mount¹⁴⁰
Saw him disfigured, more than could befall Spirit of happy sort; his gestures fierce
He marked and mad demeanour, then alone,
As he supposed, all unobserved, unseen.

So on he fares, and to the border comes
Of Eden, where delicious Paradise,
Now nearer, crowns with her enclosure green,
As with a rural mound, the champaign head
Of a steep wilderness, whose hairy sides ¹⁵⁰
With thicket overgrown, grotesque and wild,
Access denied; and overhead upgrew
Insuperable height of loftiest shade,
Cedar, and pine, and fir, and branching palm,
A sylvan scene, and, as the ranks ascend,
Shade above shade, a woody theatre
Of stateliest view. Yet higher than their tops
The verdurous wall of Paradise upsprung;
Which to our general sire gave prospect large
Into his nether empire neighbouring round. ¹⁶⁰

And higher than that wall a circling row
Of goodliest trees, loaden with fairest fruit,
Blossoms and fruits at once of golden hue,
Appeared, with gay enamelled colours mixed:
On which the sun more glad impressed his beams

Than in fair evening cloud, or humid bow,
When God hath showered the earth; so lovely
seemed

That landskip: And of pure now purer air
Meets his approach, and to the heart inspires¹⁷⁰
Vernal delight and joy, able to drive
All sadness but despair: Now gentle gales, Fanning their odoriferous wings, dispense Native perfumes, and whisper whence they stole Those balmy spoils. As when to them who fail
Beyond the Cape of Hope, and now are past Mozambick, off at sea north-east winds blow
Sabean odours from the spicy shore
Of Araby the blest; with such delay
Well pleased they slack their course, and many a league 180

Cheered with the grateful smell old Ocean smiles:

So entertained those odorous sweets the Fiend,
Who came their bane; though with them better pleased

Than Asmodeus with the fishy fume That drove him, though enamoured, from the spouse

Of Tobit's son, and with a vengeance sent From Media post to Egypt, there fast bound.

Now to the ascent of that steep savage hill
Satan had journeyed on, pensive and slow; ¹⁹⁰
But further way found none, so thick entwined,
As one continued brake, the undergrowth
Of shrubs and tangling bushes had perplexed
All path of man or beast that passed that way.

One gate there only was, and that looked east
On the other side: which when the arch-felon

saw,
 Due entrance he disdained; and, in contempt,
 At one flight bound high over-leaped all bound
 Of hill or highest wall, and sheer within 200
 Lights on his feet. As when a prowling wolf,
 Whom hunger drives to seek new haunt for prey, Watching where shepherds pen their flocks at eve

In hurdled cotes amid the field secure,
 Leaps o'er the fence with ease into the fold:
 Or as a thief, bent to unhoard the cash
 Of some rich burgher, whose substantial doors,
 Cross-barred and bolted fast, fear no assault,
 In at the window climbs, or o'er the tiles:
 So clomb this first grand thief into God's fold; 210
 So since into his church lewd hirelings climb.

Thence up he flew, and on the tree of life,
 The middle tree and highest there that grew,
 Sat like a cormorant; yet not true life
 Thereby regained, but sat devising death
 To them who lived; nor on the virtue thought
 Of that life-giving plant, but only used For prospect, what well used had been the pledge
 Of immortality. So little knows 220
 Any, but God alone, to value right
 The good before him, but perverts best things
 To worst abuse, or to their meanest use.

Beneath him with new wonder now he views,
 To all delight of human sense exposed,
 In narrow room, Nature's whole wealth, yea

more,
 A Heaven on Earth: For blissful Paradise
 Of God the garden was, by him in the east
 Of Eden planted; Eden stretched her line 230
 From Auran eastward to the royal towers
 Of great Seleucia, built by Grecian kings,
 Or where the sons of Eden long before Dwelt in Telassar: In this pleasant soil
 His far more pleasant garden God ordained;
 Out of the fertile ground he caused to grow
 All trees of noblest kind for sight, smell, taste;
 And all amid them stood the tree of life,
 High eminent, blooming ambrosial fruit
 Of vegetable gold; and next to life, 240
 Our death, the tree of knowledge, grew fast by,
 Knowledge of good bought dear by knowing ill.
 Southward through Eden went a river large,
 Nor changed his course, but through the shaggy hill
 Passed underneath ingulfed; for God had thrown
 That mountain as his garden-mould high raised
 Upon the rapid current, which, through veins
 Of porous earth with kindly thirst up-drawn,
 Rose a fresh fountain, and with many a rill 250
 Watered the garden; thence united fell Down the steep glade, and met the nether flood,
 Which from his darksome passage now appears,
 And now, divided into four main streams,
 Runs diverse, wandering many a famous realm
 And country, whereof here needs no account;
 But rather to tell how, if Art could tell,

How from that sapphire fount the crisped brooks,

Rolling on orient pearl and sands of gold,
With mazy error under pendant shades 260

Ran nectar, visiting each plant, and fed
Flowers worthy of Paradise, which not nice Art
In beds and curious knots, but Nature boon Poured forth profuse on hill, and dale, and plain,
Both where the morning sun first warmly smote
The open field, and where the unpierced shade Imbrowned the noontide bowers: Thus was this place

A happy rural seat of various view; Groves whose rich trees wept odorous gums and balm,

Others whose fruit, burnished with golden rind, 270

Hung amiable, Hesperian fables true,
If true, here only, and of delicious taste:
Betwixt them lawns, or level downs, and flocks
Grazing the tender herb, were interposed,
Or palmy hillock; or the flowery lap
Of some irriguous valley spread her store,
Flowers of all hue, and without thorn the rose:
Another side, umbrageous grots and caves
Of cool recess, o'er which the mantling vine
Lays forth her purple grape, and gently creeps 280

Luxuriant; mean while murmuring waters fall
Down the slope hills, dispersed, or in a lake,
That to the fringed bank with myrtle crowned
Her crystal mirrour holds, unite their streams.

The birds their quire apply; airs, vernal airs,
 Breathing the smell of field and grove, attune
 The trembling leaves, while universal Pan,
 Knit with the Graces and the Hours in dance,
 Led on the eternal Spring. Not that fair field 290
 Of Enna, where Proserpine gathering flowers,
 Herself a fairer flower by gloomy Dis
 Was gathered, which cost Ceres all that pain
 To seek her through the world; nor that sweet grove
 Of Daphne by Orontes, and the inspired Castalian spring, might with this Paradise
 Of Eden strive; nor that Nyseian isle
 Girt with the river Triton, where old Cham,
 Whom Gentiles Ammon call and Libyan Jove,
 Hid Amalthea, and her florid son 300
 Young Bacchus, from his stepdame Rhea's eye;
 Nor where Abassin kings their issue guard,
 Mount Amara, though this by some supposed True Paradise under the Ethiop line
 By Nilus' head, enclosed with shining rock,
 A whole day's journey high, but wide remote
 From this Assyrian garden, where the Fiend Saw, undelighted, all delight, all kind
 Of living creatures, new to sight, and strange
 Two of far nobler shape, erect and tall, 310
 Godlike erect, with native honour clad
 In naked majesty seemed lords of all:
 And worthy seemed; for in their looks divine
 The image of their glorious Maker shone,
 Truth, wisdom, sanctitude severe and pure,
 (Severe, but in true filial freedom placed,)

Whence true authority in men; though both
 Not equal, as their sex not equal seemed;
 For contemplation he and valour formed;
 For softness she and sweet attractive grace; 320
 He for God only, she for God in him:
 His fair large front and eye sublime declared
 Absolute rule; and hyacinthine locks
 Round from his parted forelock manly hung Clustering, but not beneath his shoulders broad:
 She, as a veil, down to the slender waist
 Her unadorned golden tresses wore Dishevelled, but in wanton ringlets waved
 As the vine curls her tendrils, which implied
 Subjection, but required with gentle sway, 330
 And by her yielded, by him best received,
 Yielded with coy submission, modest pride,
 And sweet, reluctant, amorous delay.

Nor those mysterious parts were then concealed;
 Then was not guilty shame, dishonest shame
 Of nature's works, honour dishonourable,
 Sin-bred, how have ye troubled all mankind
 With shows instead, mere shows of seeming pure,
 And banished from man's life his happiest life, 340

Simplicity and spotless innocence!
 So passed they naked on, nor shunned the sight
 Of God or Angel; for they thought no ill:
 So hand in hand they passed, the loveliest pair,
 That ever since in love's embraces met;
 Adam the goodliest man of men since born
 His sons, the fairest of her daughters Eve.

Under a tuft of shade that on a green
 Stood whispering soft, by a fresh fountain side 350

They sat them down; and, after no more toil
 Of their sweet gardening labour than sufficed
 To recommend cool Zephyr, and made ease
 More easy, wholesome thirst and appetite
 More grateful, to their supper-fruits they fell,
 Nectarine fruits which the compliant boughs Yielded them, side-long as they sat recline
 On the soft downy bank damasked with flowers:
 The savoury pulp they chew, and in the rind,
 Still as they thirsted, scoop the brimming stream; 360

Nor gentle purpose, nor endearing smiles
 Wanted, nor youthful dalliance, as beseems
 Fair couple, linked in happy nuptial league, Alone as they. About them frisking played All beasts of the earth, since wild, and of all chase

In wood or wilderness, forest or den;
 Sporting the lion ramped, and in his paw
 Dandled the kid; bears, tigers, ounces, pards, Gambolled before them; the unwieldy elephant,
 To make them mirth, used all his might, and wreathed 370

His lithe proboscis; close the serpent sly, Insinuating, wove with Gordian twine
 His braided train, and of his fatal guile
 Gave proof unheeded; others on the grass Couched, and now filled with pasture gazing sat,

Or bedward ruminating; for the sun,
 Declined, was hasting now with prone career
 To the ocean isles, and in the ascending scale
 Of Heaven the stars that usher evening rose:
 When Satan still in gaze, as first he stood, 380 Scarce thus at length failed speech recovered sad.

O Hell! what do mine eyes with grief behold!
 Into our room of bliss thus high advanced Creatures of other mould, earth-born perhaps,
 Not Spirits, yet to heavenly Spirits bright Little inferiour; whom my thoughts pursue
 With wonder, and could love, so lively shines
 In them divine resemblance, and such grace
 The hand that formed them on their shape hath poured. 390

Ah! gentle pair, ye little think how nigh
 Your change approaches, when all these delights
 Will vanish, and deliver ye to woe;
 More woe, the more your taste is now of joy;
 Happy, but for so happy ill secured Long to continue, and this high seat your
 Heaven
 Ill fenced for Heaven to keep out such a foe
 As now is entered; yet no purposed foe
 To you, whom I could pity thus forlorn, 400 Though I unpitied: League with you I seek,
 And mutual amity, so strait, so close,
 That I with you must dwell, or you with me
 Henceforth; my dwelling haply may not please,
 Like this fair Paradise, your sense; yet such

Accept your Maker's work; he gave it me,
 Which I as freely give: Hell shall unfold,
 To entertain you two, her widest gates,
 And send forth all her kings; there will be room,
 Not like these narrow limits, to receive 410
 Your numerous offspring; if no better place,
 Thank him who puts me loth to this revenge On you who wrong me not for him who wronged.

And should I at your harmless innocence
 Melt, as I do, yet publick reason just,
 Honour and empire with revenge enlarged,
 By conquering this new world, compels me now
 To do what else, though damned, I should abhor.
 420

So spake the Fiend, and with necessity,
 The tyrant's plea, excused his devilish deeds.

Then from his lofty stand on that high tree
 Down he alights among the sportful herd
 Of those four-footed kinds, himself now one,
 Now other, as their shape served best his end
 Nearer to view his prey, and, unespied,
 To mark what of their state he more might learn,
 By word or action marked. About them round 430

A lion now he stalks with fiery glare;
 Then as a tiger, who by chance hath spied
 In some purlieu two gentle fawns at play,
 Straight couches close, then, rising, changes oft His couchant watch, as one who chose his
 ground,

Whence rushing, he might surest seize them both,

Griped in each paw: when, Adam first of men
To first of women Eve thus moving speech, Turned him, all ear to hear new utterance flow.

440

Sole partner, and sole part, of all these joys, Dearer thyself than all; needs must the Power
That made us, and for us this ample world,
Be infinitely good, and of his good
As liberal and free as infinite;
That raised us from the dust, and placed us here
In all this happiness, who at his hand
Have nothing merited, nor can perform
Aught whereof he hath need; he who requires
From us no other service than to keep 450
This one, this easy charge, of all the trees
In Paradise that bear delicious fruit
So various, not to taste that only tree
Of knowledge, planted by the tree of life;
So near grows death to life, whate'er death is,
Some dreadful thing no doubt; for well thou knowest

God hath pronounced it death to taste that tree,
The only sign of our obedience left,
Among so many signs of power and rule
Conferred upon us, and dominion given 460
Over all other creatures that possess
Earth, air, and sea. Then let us not think hard
One easy prohibition, who enjoy
Free leave so large to all things else, and choice Unlimited of manifold delights:

But let us ever praise him, and extol
 His bounty, following our delightful task,
 To prune these growing plants, and tend these flowers,
 Which were it toilsome, yet with thee were sweet.

470

To whom thus Eve replied. O thou for whom
 And from whom I was formed, flesh of thy flesh,
 And without whom am to no end, my guide
 And head! what thou hast said is just and right.

For we to him indeed all praises owe,
 And daily thanks; I chiefly, who enjoy
 So far the happier lot, enjoying thee
 Pre-eminent by so much odds, while thou
 Like consort to thyself canst no where find. 480

That day I oft remember, when from sleep
 I first awaked, and found myself reposed
 Under a shade on flowers, much wondering where
 And what I was, whence thither brought, and how.

Not distant far from thence a murmuring sound
 Of waters issued from a cave, and spread
 Into a liquid plain, then stood unmoved
 Pure as the expanse of Heaven; I thither went⁴⁹⁰
 With unexperienced thought, and laid me down
 On the green bank, to look into the clear
 Smooth lake, that to me seemed another sky.

As I bent down to look, just opposite
 A shape within the watery gleam appeared,

Bending to look on me: I started back,
It started back; but pleased I soon returned,
Pleased it returned as soon with answering looks
Of sympathy and love: There I had fixed 500
Mine eyes till now, and pined with vain desire,
Had not a voice thus warned me; "What thou seest,

What there thou seest, fair Creature, is thyself;
With thee it came and goes: but follow me,
And I will bring thee where no shadow stays Thy coming, and thy soft embraces, he Whose image thou art; him thou shalt enjoy Inseparably thine, to him shalt bear Multitudes like thyself, and thence be called Mother of human race." What could I do, 510
But follow straight, invisibly thus led?
Till I espied thee, fair indeed and tall,
Under a platane; yet methought less fair,
Less winning soft, less amiably mild,
Than that smooth watery image: Back I turned;
Thou following cryedst aloud, "Return, fair Eve;
Whom flyest thou? whom thou flyest, of him thou art,

His flesh, his bone; to give thee being I lent
Out of my side to thee, nearest my heart,
Substantial life, to have thee by my side 520
Henceforth an individual solace dear;
Part of my soul I seek thee, and thee claim
My other half:" With that thy gentle hand Seised mine: I yielded; and from that time see How beauty is excelled by manly grace,
And wisdom, which alone is truly fair.

So spake our general mother, and with eyes
 Of conjugal attraction unreproved,
 And meek surrender, half-embracing leaned 530
 On our first father; half her swelling breast
 Naked met his, under the flowing gold
 Of her loose tresses hid: he in delight
 Both of her beauty, and submissive charms,
 Smiled with superiour love, as Jupiter
 On Juno smiles, when he impregns the clouds That shed Mayflowers; and pressed her matron lip
 With kisses pure: Aside the Devil turned
 For envy; yet with jealous leer malign
 Eyed them askance, and to himself thus plained.
 540

Sight hateful, sight tormenting! thus these two,
 Imparadised in one another's arms,
 The happier Eden, shall enjoy their fill
 Of bliss on bliss; while I to Hell am thrust,
 Where neither joy nor love, but fierce desire,
 Among our other torments not the least,
 Still unfulfilled with pain of longing pines.

Yet let me not forget what I have gained 550
 From their own mouths: All is not theirs, it seems;
 One fatal tree there stands, of knowledge called,
 Forbidden them to taste: Knowledge forbidden
 Suspicious, reasonless. Why should their Lord Envy them that? Can it be sin to know?
 Can it be death? And do they only stand
 By ignorance? Is that their happy state,

The proof of their obedience and their faith?
 O fair foundation laid whereon to build Their ruin! hence I will excite their minds 560
 With more desire to know, and to reject
 Envious commands, invented with design
 To keep them low, whom knowledge might exalt Equal with Gods: aspiring to be such,
 They taste and die: What likelier can ensue
 But first with narrow search I must walk round
 This garden, and no corner leave unspied;
 A chance but chance may lead where I may meet Some wandering Spirit of Heaven by fountain
 side,
 Or in thick shade retired, from him to draw 570
 What further would be learned. Live while ye may,
 Yet happy pair; enjoy, till I return,
 Short pleasures, for long woes are to succeed!
 So saying, his proud step he scornful turned,
 But with sly circumspection, and began Through wood, through waste, o'er hill, o'er dale, his roam
 Mean while in utmost longitude, where Heaven
 With earth and ocean meets, the setting sun
 Slowly descended, and with right aspect
 Against the eastern gate of Paradise 580
 Levelled his evening rays: It was a rock
 Of alabaster, piled up to the clouds, Conspicuous far, winding with one ascent Accessible from earth, one entrance high;
 The rest was craggy cliff, that overhung
 Still as it rose, impossible to climb.

Betwixt these rocky pillars Gabriel sat,
 Chief of the angelick guards, awaiting night;
 About him exercised heroick games 590
 The unarmed youth of Heaven, but nigh at hand
 Celestial armoury, shields, helms, and spears, Hung high with diamond flaming, and with gold.

Thither came Uriel, gliding through the even
 On a sun-beam, swift as a shooting star
 In autumn thwarts the night, when vapours fired Impress the air, and shows the mariner
 From what point of his compass to beware
 Impetuous winds: He thus began in haste. 600

Gabriel, to thee thy course by lot hath given Charge and strict watch, that to this happy place
 No evil thing approach or enter in.

This day at highth of noon came to my sphere
 A Spirit, zealous, as he seemed, to know
 More of the Almighty's works, and chiefly Man, God's latest image: I described his way
 Bent all on speed, and marked his aery gait; 610
 But in the mount that lies from Eden north,
 Where he first lighted, soon discerned his looks Alien from Heaven, with passions foul obscured:
 Mine eye pursued him still, but under shade
 Lost sight of him: One of the banished crew,
 I fear, hath ventured from the deep, to raise
 New troubles; him thy care must be to find.

To whom the winged warriour thus returned. 620

Uriel, no wonder if thy perfect sight,

Amid the sun's bright circle where thou sitst,
 See far and wide: In at this gate none pass
 The vigilance here placed, but such as come Well known from Heaven; and since meridian hour

No creature thence: If Spirit of other sort,
 So minded, have o'er-leaped these earthly bounds

On purpose, hard thou knowest it to exclude Spiritual substance with corporeal bar.

630

But if within the circuit of these walks,
 In whatsoever shape he lurk, of whom Thou tellest, by morrow dawning I shall know.

So promised he; and Uriel to his charge Returned on that bright beam, whose point now raised

Bore him slope downward to the sun now fallen
 Beneath the Azores; whether the prime orb, Incredible how swift, had thither rolled Diurnal, or this less volubil earth, 640
 By shorter flight to the east, had left him there Arraying with reflected purple and gold
 The clouds that on his western throne attend.

Now came still Evening on, and Twilight gray
 Had in her sober livery all things clad;
 Silence accompanied; for beast and bird,
 They to their grassy couch, these to their nests
 Were slunk, all but the wakeful nightingale;
 She all night long her amorous descant sung; 650
 Silence was pleased: Now glowed the firmament

With living sapphires: Hesperus, that led
The starry host, rode brightest, till the moon,
Rising in clouded majesty, at length
Apparent queen unveiled her peerless light,
And o'er the dark her silver mantle threw.

When Adam thus to Eve. Fair Consort, the hour
Of night, and all things now retired to rest,
Mind us of like repose; since God hath set 660
Labour and rest, as day and night, to men
Successive; and the timely dew of sleep,
Now falling with soft slumbrous weight, inclines
Our eye-lids: Other creatures all day long Rove idle, unemployed, and less need rest;
Man hath his daily work of body or mind
Appointed, which declares his dignity,
And the regard of Heaven on all his ways;
While other animals unactive range,
And of their doings God takes no account. 670

To-morrow, ere fresh morning streak the east
With first approach of light, we must be risen,
And at our pleasant labour, to reform
Yon flowery arbours, yonder alleys green,
Our walk at noon, with branches overgrown,
That mock our scant manuring, and require More hands than ours to lop their wanton growth:

Those blossoms also, and those dropping gums,
That lie bestrown, unsightly and unsmooth, 680
Ask riddance, if we mean to tread with ease;
Mean while, as Nature wills, night bids us rest.

To whom thus Eve, with perfect beauty adorned

In order, though to nations yet unborn,
 Ministring light prepared, they set and rise;
 Lest total Darkness should by night regain
 Her old possession, and extinguish life 720
 In Nature and all things; which these soft fires
 Not only enlighten, but with kindly heat
 Of various influence foment and warm,
 Temper or nourish, or in part shed down
 Their stellar virtue on all kinds that grow
 On earth, made hereby apter to receive Perfection from the sun's more potent ray.

These then, though unbeheld in deep of night, Shine not in vain; nor think, though men were none, 730

That Heaven would want spectators, God want praise:

Millions of spiritual creatures walk the earth Unseen, both when we wake, and when we sleep:

All these with ceaseless praise his works behold
 Both day and night: How often from the steep
 Of echoing hill or thicket have we heard
 Celestial voices to the midnight air,
 Sole, or responsive each to others note,
 Singing their great Creator? oft in bands
 While they keep watch, or nightly rounding walk, 740

With heavenly touch of instrumental sounds
 In full harmonick number joined, their songs Divide the night, and lift our thoughts to Heaven.

Thus talking, hand in hand alone they passed
On to their blissful bower: it was a place Chosen by the sovran Planter, when he framed
All things to Man's delightful use; the roof
Of thickest covert was inwoven shade
Laurel and myrtle, and what higher grew 750
Of firm and fragrant leaf; on either side
Acanthus, and each odorous bushy shrub, Fenced up the verdant wall; each beauteous flower,
Iris all hues, roses, and jessamin, Reared high their flourished heads between, and wrought
Mosaick; underfoot the violet,
Crocus, and hyacinth, with rich inlay Broidered the ground, more coloured than with stone
Of costliest emblem: Other creature here,
Bird, beast, insect, or worm, durst enter none, 760
Such was their awe of Man. In shadier bower More sacred and sequestered, though but feigned,
Pan or Sylvanus never slept, nor Nymph
Nor Faunus haunted. Here, in close recess, With flowers, garlands, and sweet-smelling herbs,
Espoused Eve decked first her nuptial bed;
And heavenly quires the hymenaeon sung,
What day the genial Angel to our sire
Brought her in naked beauty more adorned,
More lovely, than Pandora, whom the Gods 770
Endowed with all their gifts, and O! too like

In sad event, when to the unwiser son
 Of Japhet brought by Hermes, she ensnared
 Mankind with her fair looks, to be avenged
 On him who had stole Jove's authentick fire.

Thus, at their shady lodge arrived, both stood,
 Both turned, and under open sky adored
 The God that made both sky, air, earth, and
 heaven,

Which they beheld, the moon's resplendent globe, 780

And starry pole: Thou also madest the night,
 Maker Omnipotent, and thou the day,
 Which we, in our appointed work employed,
 Have finished, happy in our mutual help
 And mutual love, the crown of all our bliss
 Ordained by thee; and this delicious place
 For us too large, where thy abundance wants Partakers, and uncropt falls to the ground.

But thou hast promised from us two a race 790
 To fill the earth, who shall with us extol
 Thy goodness infinite, both when we wake,
 And when we seek, as now, thy gift of sleep.

This said unanimous, and other rites
 Observing none, but adoration pure
 Which God likes best, into their inmost bower Handed they went; and, eased the putting off
 These troublesome disguises which we wear, Straight side by side were laid; nor turned, I ween, 800

Adam from his fair spouse, nor Eve the rites
 Mysterious of connubial love refused:

Whatever hypocrites austerely talk
 Of purity, and place, and innocence,
 Defaming as impure what God declares
 Pure, and commands to some, leaves free to all.

Our Maker bids encrease; who bids abstain
 But our Destroyer, foe to God and Man?
 Hail, wedded Love, mysterious law, true source 810

Of human offspring, sole propriety
 In Paradise of all things common else!
 By thee adulterous Lust was driven from men
 Among the bestial herds to range; by thee
 Founded in reason, loyal, just, and pure,
 Relations dear, and all the charities
 Of father, son, and brother, first were known.

Far be it, that I should write thee sin or blame,
 Or think thee unbefitting holiest place, 820
 Perpetual fountain of domestick sweets,
 Whose bed is undefiled and chaste pronounced,
 Present, or past, as saints and patriarchs used.

Here Love his golden shafts employs, here lights
 His constant lamp, and waves his purple wings,
 Reigns here and revels; not in the bought smile
 Of harlots, loveless, joyless, unendeared,
 Casual fruition; nor in court-amours,
 Mixed dance, or wanton mask, or midnight ball,

830

Or serenate, which the starved lover sings
 To his proud fair, best quitted with disdain.
 These, lulled by nightingales, embracing slept,
 And on their naked limbs the flowery roof

Showered roses, which the morn repaired. Sleep on,

Blest pair; and O! yet happiest, if ye seek
No happier state, and know to know no more.

Now had night measured with her shadowy cone 840

Half way up hill this vast sublunar vault,
And from their ivory port the Cherubim, Forth issuing at the accustomed hour, stood armed

To their night watches in warlike parade;
When Gabriel to his next in power thus spake.

Uzziel, half these draw off, and coast the south
With strictest watch; these other wheel the north;
Our circuit meets full west. As flame they part,
Half wheeling to the shield, half to the spear.850

From these, two strong and subtle Spirits he called

That near him stood, and gave them thus in charge.

Ithuriel and Zephon, with winged speed Search through this garden, leave unsearched no nook;

But chiefly where those two fair creatures lodge,
Now laid perhaps asleep, secure of harm.

This evening from the sun's decline arrived, 860
Who tells of some infernal Spirit seen Hitherward bent (who could have thought?) escaped

The bars of Hell, on errand bad no doubt:

Such, where ye find, seise fast, and hither bring.

So saying, on he led his radiant files,
 Dazzling the moon; these to the bower direct In search of whom they sought: Him there they found

Squat like a toad, close at the ear of Eve, Assaying by his devilish art to reach 870
 The organs of her fancy, and with them forge Illusions, as he list, phantasms and dreams;
 Or if, inspiring venom, he might taint
 The animal spirits, that from pure blood arise
 Like gentle breaths from rivers pure, thence raise
 At least distempered, discontented thoughts,
 Vain hopes, vain aims, inordinate desires,
 Blown up with high conceits ingendering pride.

Him thus intent Ithuriel with his spear 880
 Touched lightly; for no falshood can endure
 Touch of celestial temper, but returns
 Of force to its own likeness: Up he starts Discovered and surprised. As when a spark Lights on a heap of nitrous powder, laid
 Fit for the tun some magazine to store
 Against a rumoured war, the smutty grain,
 With sudden blaze diffused, inflames the air;
 So started up in his own shape the Fiend.

890
 Back stept those two fair Angels, half amazed
 So sudden to behold the grisly king;
 Yet thus, unmoved with fear, accost him soon.

Which of those rebel Spirits adjudged to Hell Comest thou, escaped thy prison? and, transformed,

Why sat'st thou like an enemy in wait,
Here watching at the head of these that sleep?
Know ye not then said Satan, filled with scorn,
Know ye not me? ye knew me once no mate 900
For you, there sitting where ye durst not soar:
Not to know me argues yourselves unknown,
The lowest of your throng; or, if ye know,
Why ask ye, and superfluous begin
Your message, like to end as much in vain?
To whom thus Zephon, answering scorn with scorn.

Think not, revolted Spirit, thy shape the same,
Or undiminished brightness to be known,
As when thou stoodest in Heaven upright and
pure; 910
That glory then, when thou no more wast good,
Departed from thee; and thou resemblest now
Thy sin and place of doom obscure and foul.

But come, for thou, be sure, shalt give account
To him who sent us, whose charge is to keep
This place inviolable, and these from harm.

So spake the Cherub; and his grave rebuke,
Severe in youthful beauty, added grace 920
Invincible: Abashed the Devil stood,
And felt how awful goodness is, and saw Virtue in her shape how lovely; saw, and pined
His loss; but chiefly to find here observed
His lustre visibly impaired; yet seemed Undaunted. If I must contend, said he,
Best with the best, the sender, not the sent,

Or all at once; more glory will be won,
Or less be lost. Thy fear, said Zephon bold,
Will save us trial what the least can do 930
Single against thee wicked, and thence weak.

The Fiend replied not, overcome with rage;
But, like a proud steed reined, went haughty on,
Champing his iron curb: To strive or fly
He held it vain; awe from above had quelled His heart, not else dismayed. Now drew they nigh

The western point, where those half-rounding guards
Just met, and closing stood in squadron joined,
A waiting next command. To whom their Chief, 940

Gabriel, from the front thus called aloud.

O friends! I hear the tread of nimble feet Hasting this way, and now by glimpse discern Ithuriel and Zephon through the shade;
And with them comes a third of regal port,
But faded splendour wan; who by his gait
And fierce demeanour seems the Prince of Hell,
Not likely to part hence without contest;
Stand firm, for in his look defiance lours. 950

He scarce had ended, when those two approached,
And brief related whom they brought, where
found,
How busied, in what form and posture couched.
To whom with stern regard thus Gabriel spake.

Why hast thou, Satan, broke the bounds prescribed

To thy transgressions, and disturbed the charge
Of others, who approve not to transgress 960
By thy example, but have power and right
To question thy bold entrance on this place;
Employed, it seems, to violate sleep, and those Whose dwelling God hath planted here in bliss!
To whom thus Satan with contemptuous brow.

Gabriel? thou hadst in Heaven the esteem of wise,

And such I held thee; but this question asked Puts me in doubt. Lives there who loves his pain!
Who would not, finding way, break loose from
Hell, 970

Though thither doomed! Thou wouldst thyself, no doubt

And boldly venture to whatever place Farthest from pain, where thou mightst hope to change

Torment with ease, and soonest recompense
Dole with delight, which in this place I sought;
To thee no reason, who knowest only good,
But evil hast not tried: and wilt object
His will who bounds us! Let him surer bar
His iron gates, if he intends our stay In that dark durance: Thus much what was asked. 980

The rest is true, they found me where they say;
But that implies not violence or harm.

Thus he in scorn. The warlike Angel moved,

Disdainfully half smiling, thus replied.

O loss of one in Heaven to judge of wise
 Since Satan fell, whom folly overthrew,
 And now returns him from his prison 'scaped, 990

Gravely in doubt whether to hold them wise
 Or not, who ask what boldness brought him hither

Unlicensed from his bounds in Hell prescribed;
 So wise he judges it to fly from pain
 However, and to 'scape his punishment!
 So judge thou still, presumptuous! till the wrath,
 Which thou incurrest by flying, meet thy flight Sevenfold, and scourge that wisdom back to Hell,

Which taught thee yet no better, that no pain
 Can equal anger infinite provoked. 1000

But wherefore thou alone? wherefore with thee Came not all hell broke loose? or thou than they Less hardy to endure? Courageous Chief!
 The first in flight from pain! hadst thou alleged To thy deserted host this cause of flight,
 Thou surely hadst not come sole fugitive.

To which the Fiend thus answered, frowning stern.

1010

Not that I less endure, or shrink from pain, Insulting Angel! well thou knowest I stood Thy fiercest, when in battle to thy aid
 The blasting vollied thunder made all speed,
 And seconded thy else not dreaded spear.

But still thy words at random, as before,
 Argue thy inexperience what behoves
 From hard assays and ill successes past
 A faithful leader, not to hazard all 1020
 Through ways of danger by himself untried:
 I, therefore, I alone first undertook
 To wing the desolate abyss, and spy
 This new created world, whereof in Hell Fame is not silent, here in hope to find Better abode, and my afflicted Powers
 To settle here on earth, or in mid air;
 Though for possession put to try once more
 What thou and thy gay legions dare against;
 Whose easier business were to serve their Lord 1030

High up in Heaven, with songs to hymn his throne,
 And practised distances to cringe, not fight,
 To whom the warriour Angel soon replied.

To say and straight unsay, pretending first
 Wise to fly pain, professing next the spy,
 Argues no leader but a liar traced,
 Satan, and couldst thou faithful add? O name,
 O sacred name of faithfulness profaned!
 Faithful to whom? to thy rebellious crew? 1040
 Army of Fiends, fit body to fit head.

Was this your discipline and faith engaged,
 Your military obedience, to dissolve Allegiance to the acknowledged Power
 supreme?
 And thou, sly hypocrite, who now wouldst seem

Patron of liberty, who more than thou
 Once fawned, and cringed, and servilely adored Heaven's awful Monarch? wherefore, but in hope

To dispossess him, and thyself to reign? 1050
 But mark what I arreed thee now, Avant;
 Fly neither whence thou fledst! If from this hour Within these hallowed limits thou appear,
 Back to the infernal pit I drag thee chained,
 And seal thee so, as henceforth not to scorn
 The facile gates of Hell too slightly barred.

So threatened he; but Satan to no threats
 Gave heed, but waxing more in rage replied.
 1060

Then when I am thy captive talk of chains, Proud liminary Cherub! but ere then Far heavier load thyself expect to feel
 From my prevailing arm, though Heaven's King
 Ride on thy wings, and thou with thy compeers, Us'd to the yoke, drawest his triumphant wheels
 In progress through the road of Heaven star-paved.

While thus he spake, the angelick squadron
 bright
 Turned fiery red, sharpening in mooned horns 1070

Their phalanx, and began to hem him round
 With ported spears, as thick as when a field
 Of Ceres ripe for harvest waving bends
 Her bearded grove of ears, which way the wind Sways them; the careful plowman doubting stands,

 Left on the threshing floor his hopeless sheaves Prove chaff. On the other side, Satan, alarmed, Collecting all his might, dilated stood,
 Like Teneriff or Atlas, unremoved:
 His stature reached the sky, and on his crest¹⁰⁸⁰
 Sat Horror plumed; nor wanted in his grasp What seemed both spear and shield: Now dreadful deeds
 Might have ensued, nor only Paradise
 In this commotion, but the starry cope
 Of Heaven perhaps, or all the elements
 At least had gone to wrack, disturbed and torn
 With violence of this conflict, had not soon
 The Eternal, to prevent such horrid fray, Hung forth in Heaven his golden scales, yet seen Betwixt Astrea and the Scorpion sign, ¹⁰⁹⁰
 Wherein all things created first he weighed,
 The pendulous round earth with balanced air
 In counterpoise, now ponders all events,
 Battles and realms: In these he put two weights,
 The sequel each of parting and of fight:
 The latter quick up flew, and kicked the beam,
 Which Gabriel spying, thus bespake the Fiend.
 Satan, I know thy strength, and thou knowest mine;
 Neither our own, but given: What folly then¹¹⁰⁰
 To boast what arms can do? since thine no more Than Heaven permits, nor mine, though doubled now
 To trample thee as mire: For proof look up,
 And read thy lot in yon celestial sign;

Where thou art weighed, and shown how light,
 how weak,
If thou resist. The Fiend looked up, and knew
His mounted scale aloft: Nor more; but fled Murmuring, and with him fled the shades of night.

BOOK V

Now Morn, her rosy steps in the eastern clime
Advancing, sowed the earth with orient pearl,
When Adam waked, so custom'd; for his sleep
Was airy-light, from pure digestion bred,
And temperate vapours bland, which the only sound

Of leaves and fuming rills, Aurora's fan,
Lightly dispersed, and the shrill matin song
Of birds on every bough; so much the more
His wonder was to find unwakened Eve
With tresses discomposed, and glowing cheek,¹⁰
As through unquiet rest: He, on his side
Leaning half raised, with looks of cordial love
Hung over her enamoured, and beheld
Beauty, which, whether waking or asleep,
Shot forth peculiar graces; then with voice
Mild, as when Zephyrus on Flora breathes,
Her hand soft touching, whispered thus. Awake,
My fairest, my espoused, my latest found,
Heaven's last best gift, my ever new delight!

Awake: The morning shines, and the fresh field 20

Calls us; we lose the prime, to mark how spring
Our tender plants, how blows the citron grove,
What drops the myrrh, and what the balmy reed,
How nature paints her colours, how the bee
Sits on the bloom extracting liquid sweet.

Such whispering waked her, but with startled eye
On Adam, whom embracing, thus she spake.

O sole in whom my thoughts find all repose, 30
My glory, my perfection! glad I see Thy face, and morn returned; for I this night (Such night till this I never passed) have dreamed,

If dreamed, not, as I oft am wont, of thee,
Works of day past, or morrow's next design,
But of offence and trouble, which my mind
Knew never till this irksome night: Methought,
Close at mine ear one called me forth to walk
With gentle voice; I thought it thine: It said,
"Why sleepest thou, Eve? now is the pleasant time, 40

The cool, the silent, save where silence yields
To the night-warbling bird, that now awake Tunes sweetest his love-laboured song; now reigns
Full-orbed the moon, and with more pleasing light

Shadowy sets off the face of things; in vain,
If none regard; Heaven wakes with all his eyes,

And why not Gods of Men; since good, the more Communicated, more abundant grows,
 The author not impaired, but honoured more?
 Here, happy creature, fair angelick Eve!
 Partake thou also; happy though thou art,
 Happier thou mayest be, worthier canst not be:
 Taste this, and be henceforth among the Gods
 Thyself a Goddess, not to earth confined, 80
 But sometimes in the air, as we, sometimes Ascend to Heaven, by merit thine, and see What life the Gods live there, and such live
 thou!"

So saying, he drew nigh, and to me held,
 Even to my mouth of that same fruit held part Which he had plucked; the pleasant savoury smell

So quickened appetite, that I, methought,
 Could not but taste. Forthwith up to the clouds
 With him I flew, and underneath beheld
 The earth outstretched immense, a prospect wide 90

And various: Wondering at my flight and
 change

To this high exaltation; suddenly My guide was gone, and I, methought, sunk
 down,

And fell asleep; but O, how glad I waked
 To find this but a dream! Thus Eve her night Related, and thus Adam answered sad.

Best image of myself, and dearer half,
 The trouble of thy thoughts this night in sleep
 Affects me equally; nor can I like 100

This uncouth dream, of evil sprung, I fear;
Yet evil whence? in thee can harbour none,
Created pure. But know that in the soul
Are many lesser faculties, that serve Reason as chief; among these Fancy next
Her office holds; of all external things
Which the five watchful senses represent,
She forms imaginations, aery shapes,
Which Reason, joining or disjoining, frames
All what we affirm or what deny, and call 110
Our knowledge or opinion; then retires
Into her private cell, when nature rests.

Oft in her absence mimic Fancy wakes
To imitate her; but, misjoining shapes,
Wild work produces oft, and most in dreams;
Ill matching words and deeds long past or late.

Some such resemblances, methinks, I find
Of our last evening's talk, in this thy dream, 120
But with addition strange; yet be not sad.

Evil into the mind of God or Man
May come and go, so unreprieved, and leave
No spot or blame behind: Which gives me hope
That what in sleep thou didst abhor to dream,
Waking thou never will consent to do.

Be not disheartened then, nor cloud those looks,
That wont to be more cheerful and serene, 130 Than when fair morning first smiles on the world;

And let us to our fresh employments rise
Among the groves, the fountains, and the flowers

That open now their choisest bosomed smells,
Reserved from night, and kept for thee in store.
So cheered he his fair spouse, and she was cheered;
But silently a gentle tear let fall
From either eye, and wiped them with her hair;
Two other precious drops that ready stood, 140
Each in their crystal sluice, he ere they fell Kissed, as the gracious signs of sweet remorse
And pious awe, that feared to have offended.
So all was cleared, and to the field they haste.
But first, from under shady arborous roof
Soon as they forth were come to open sight
Of day-spring, and the sun, who, scarce up-risen,
With wheels yet hovering o'er the ocean-brim, 150
Shot parallel to the earth his dewy ray,
Discovering in wide landskip all the east
Of Paradise and Eden's happy plains,
Lowly they bowed adoring, and began Their orisons, each morning duly paid
In various style; for neither various style
Nor holy rapture wanted they to praise
Their Maker, in fit strains pronounced, or sung Unmeditated; such prompt eloquence Flowed from their lips, in prose or numerous verse, 160
More tuneable than needed lute or harp
To add more sweetness; and they thus began.
These are thy glorious works, Parent of good,

Almighty! Thine this universal frame,
 Thus wonderous fair; Thyself how wonderous
 then!

Unspeakable, who sitst above these heavens
 To us invisible, or dimly seen
 In these thy lowest works; yet these declare Thy goodness beyond thought, and power divine. 170

Speak, ye who best can tell, ye sons of light, Angels; for ye behold him, and with songs
 And choral symphonies, day without night,
 Circle his throne rejoicing; ye in Heaven
 On Earth join all ye Creatures to extol
 Him first, him last, him midst, and without end.

Fairest of stars, last in the train of night,
 If better thou belong not to the dawn, 180
 Sure pledge of day, that crownest the smiling
 morn

With thy bright circlet, praise him in thy sphere,
 While day arises, that sweet hour of prime.

Thou Sun, of this great world both eye and soul,
 Acknowledge him thy greater; sound his praise
 In thy eternal course, both when thou climbest,
 And when high noon hast gained, and when thou fallest.

Moon, that now meetest the orient sun, now fly-est, 190

With the fixed Stars, fixed in their orb that flies;
 And ye five other wandering Fires, that move
 In mystick dance not without song, resound
 His praise, who out of darkness called up light.

Air, and ye Elements, the eldest birth
 Of Nature's womb, that in quaternion run Perpetual circle, multiform; and mix
 And nourish all things; let your ceaseless change
 Vary to our great Maker still new praise. 200

Ye Mists and Exhalations, that now rise
 From hill or steaming lake, dusky or gray,
 Till the sun paint your fleecy skirts with gold,
 In honour to the world's great Author rise;
 Whether to deck with clouds the uncoloured sky,
 Or wet the thirsty earth with falling showers,
 Rising or falling still advance his praise.

His praise, ye Winds, that from four quarters blow, 210
 Breathe soft or loud; and, wave your tops, ye Pines,
 With every plant, in sign of worship wave.

Fountains, and ye that warble, as ye flow,
 Melodious murmurs, warbling tune his praise.

Join voices, all ye living Souls: Ye Birds,
 That singing up to Heaven-gate ascend,
 Bear on your wings and in your notes his praise.
 220

Ye that in waters glide, and ye that walk
 The earth, and stately tread, or lowly creep;
 Witness if I be silent, morn or even,
 To hill, or valley, fountain, or fresh shade,
 Made vocal by my song, and taught his praise.

Hail, universal Lord, be bounteous still
 To give us only good; and if the night

Have gathered aught of evil, or concealed,
 Disperse it, as now light dispels the dark! 230
 So prayed they innocent, and to their thoughts
 Firm peace recovered soon, and wonted calm.

On to their morning's rural work they haste,
 Among sweet dews and flowers; where any row
 Of fruit-trees over-woody reached too far Their pampered boughs, and needed hands to check

Fruitless embraces: or they led the vine
 To wed her elm; she, spoused, about him twines
 Her marriageable arms, and with him brings 240
 Her dower, the adopted clusters, to adorn
 His barren leaves. Them thus employed beheld With pity Heaven's high King, and to him called Raphael, the sociable Spirit, that deigned
 To travel with Tobias, and secured
 His marriage with the seventimes-wedded maid.

Raphael, said he, thou hearest what stir on Earth Satan, from Hell 'scaped through the darksome gulf,
 Hath raised in Paradise; and how disturbed 250
 This night the human pair; how he designs
 In them at once to ruin all mankind.

Go therefore, half this day as friend with friend
 Converse with Adam, in what bower or shade
 Thou findest him from the heat of noon retired,
 To respite his day-labour with repast,
 Or with repose; and such discourse bring on,
 As may advise him of his happy state,

Happiness in his power left free to will, 260
 Left to his own free will, his will though free, Yet mutable; whence warn him to beware
 He swerve not, too secure: Tell him withal
 His danger, and from whom; what enemy,
 Late fallen himself from Heaven, is plotting now
 The fall of others from like state of bliss;
 By violence? no, for that shall be withstood;
 But by deceit and lies: This let him know,
 Lest, wilfully transgressing, he pretend Surprisal, unadmonished, unforewarned. 270

So spake the Eternal Father, and fulfilled
 All justice: Nor delayed the winged Saint After his charge received; but from among Thousand celestial Ardours, where he stood Veiled with his gorgeous wings, up springing
 light,
 Flew through the midst of Heaven; the angelick quires,
 On each hand parting, to his speed gave way
 Through all the empyreal road; till, at the gate
 Of Heaven arrived, the gate self-opened wide
 On golden hinges turning, as by work
 Divine the sovran Architect had framed.

From hence no cloud, or, to obstruct his sight,
 Star interposed, however small he sees,
 Not unconformed to other shining globes,
 Earth, and the garden of God, with cedars crowned
 Above all hills. As when by night the glass
 Of Galileo, less assured, observes

Imagined lands and regions in the moon: 290
 Or pilot, from amidst the Cyclades
 Delos or Samos first appearing, kens
 A cloudy spot. Down thither prone in flight
 He speeds, and through the vast ethereal sky Sails between worlds and worlds, with steady wing

Now on the polar winds, then with quick fan
 Winnows the buxom air; till, within soar
 Of towering eagles, to all the fowls he seems
 A phoenix, gazed by all as that sole bird,
 When, to enshrine his reliques in the Sun's 300
 Bright temple, to Egyptian Thebes he flies.

At once on the eastern cliff of Paradise
 He lights, and to his proper shape returns
 A Seraph winged: Six wings he wore, to shade
 His lineaments divine; the pair that clad Each shoulder broad, came mantling o'er his breast

With regal ornament; the middle pair
 Girt like a starry zone his waist, and round
 Skirted his loins and thighs with downy gold³¹⁰
 And colours dipt in Heaven; the third his feet
 Shadowed from either heel with feathered mail,
 Sky-tinctured grain. Like Maia's son he stood,
 And shook his plumes, that heavenly fragrance
 filled

The circuit wide. Straight knew him all the bands
 Of Angels under watch; and to his state,
 And to his message high, in honour rise;
 For on some message high they guessed him bound.

Their glittering tents he passed, and now is come 320

Into the blissful field, through groves of myrrh,
And flowering odours, cassia, nard, and balm;
A wilderness of sweets; for Nature here
Wantoned as in her prime, and played at will Her virgin fancies pouring forth more sweet,
Wild above rule or art, enormous bliss.

Him through the spicy forest onward come
Adam discerned, as in the door he sat
Of his cool bower, while now the mounted sun 330

Shot down direct his fervid rays to warm Earth's inmost womb, more warmth than Adam needs:

And Eve within, due at her hour prepared
For dinner savoury fruits, of taste to please True appetite, and not disrelish thirst
Of nectarous draughts between, from milky stream,

Berry or grape: To whom thus Adam called.

Haste hither, Eve, and worth thy sight behold Eastward among those trees, what glorious shape 340

Comes this way moving; seems another morn Risen on mid-noon; some great behest from
Heaven

To us perhaps he brings, and will vouchsafe
This day to be our guest. But go with speed,
And, what thy stores contain, bring forth, and pour

 Abundance, fit to honour and receive
 Our heavenly stranger: Well we may afford
 Our givers their own gifts, and large bestow
 From large bestowed, where Nature multiplies
 Her fertile growth, and by disburthening grows 350

More fruitful, which instructs us not to spare.

To whom thus Eve. Adam, earth's hallowed mould,

Of God inspired! small store will serve, where store,

All seasons, ripe for use hangs on the stalk;
 Save what by frugal storing firmness gains
 To nourish, and superfluous moist consumes:
 But I will waste, and from each bough and brake, Each plant and juciest gourd, will pluck such choice

To entertain our Angel-guest, as he 360
 Beholding shall confess, that here on Earth
 God hath dispensed his bounties as in Heaven.

So saying, with dispatchful looks in haste
 She turns, on hospitable thoughts intent
 What choice to choose for delicacy best,
 What order, so contrived as not to mix
 Tastes, not well joined, inelegant, but bring Taste after taste upheld with kindest change;
 Bestirs her then, and from each tender stalk 370
 Whatever Earth, all-bearing mother, yields
 In India East or West, or middle shore
 In Pontus or the Punick coast, or where

Alcinous reigned, fruit of all kinds, in coat Rough, or smooth rind, or bearded husk, or shell,

She gathers, tribute large, and on the board
 Heaps with unsparing hand; for drink the grape
 She crushes, inoffensive must, and meaths
 From many a berry, and from sweet kernels pressed

She tempers dulcet creams; nor these to hold 380 Wants her fit vessels pure; then strows the
 ground

With rose and odours from the shrub unfumed.

Mean while our primitive great sire, to meet His God-like guest, walks forth, without more train

Accompanied than with his own complete
 Perfections; in himself was all his state,
 More solemn than the tedious pomp that waits
 On princes, when their rich retinue long
 Of horses led, and grooms besmeared with gold, 390

Dazzles the croud, and sets them all agape.

Nearer his presence Adam, though not awed,
 Yet with submiss approach and reverence meek,
 As to a superiour nature bowing low,
 Thus said. Native of Heaven, for other place None can than Heaven such glorious shape contain;

Since, by descending from the thrones above,
 Those happy places thou hast deigned a while
 To want, and honour these, vouchsafe with us

400

Two only, who yet by sovran gift possess
 This spacious ground, in yonder shady bower
 To rest; and what the garden choicest bears
 To sit and taste, till this meridian heat
 Be over, and the sun more cool decline.

Whom thus the angelick Virtue answered mild.

Adam, I therefore came; nor art thou such Created, or such place hast here to dwell, 410
 As may not oft invite, though Spirits of Heaven,
 To visit thee; lead on then where thy bower O'ershades; for these mid-hours, till evening rise,

I have at will. So to the sylvan lodge
 They came, that like Pomona's arbour smiled,
 With flowerets decked, and fragrant smells; but
 Eve,

Undecked save with herself, more lovely fair
 Than Wood-Nymph, or the fairest Goddess
 feigned

Of three that in mount Ida naked strove, Stood to entertain her guest from Heaven; no veil 420

She needed, virtue-proof; no thought infirm Altered her cheek. On whom the Angel Hail Bestowed, the holy salutation used
 Long after to blest Mary, second Eve.

Hail, Mother of Mankind, whose fruitful womb Shall fill the world more numerous with thy sons,

Than with these various fruits the trees of God

Have heaped this table!—Raised of grassy turf
 Their table was, and mossy seats had round, 430
 And on her ample square from side to side
 All autumn piled, though spring and autumn here
 Danced hand in hand. A while discourse they hold;
 No fear lest dinner cool; when thus began
 Our author. Heavenly stranger, please to taste These bounties, which our Nourisher, from whom
 All perfect good, unmeasured out, descends,
 To us for food and for delight hath caused
 The earth to yield; unsavoury food perhaps
 To spiritual natures; only this I know, 440
 That one celestial Father gives to all.

To whom the Angel. Therefore what he gives (Whose praise be ever sung) to Man in part Spiritual, may of purest Spirits be found
 No ingrateful food: And food alike those pure Intelligential substances require,
 As doth your rational; and both contain Within them every lower faculty
 Of sense, whereby they hear, see, smell, touch, taste, 450
 Tasting concoct, digest, assimilate,
 And corporeal to incorporeal turn.

For know, whatever was created, needs
 To be sustained and fed: Of elements
 The grosser feeds the purer, earth the sea,
 Earth and the sea feed air, the air those fires

Ethereal, and as lowest first the moon;
 Whence in her visage round those spots, unpurged
 Vapours not yet into her substance turned. 460

Nor doth the moon no nourishment exhale
 From her moist continent to higher orbs.

The sun that light imparts to all, receives
 From all his alimantal recompence
 In humid exhalations, and at even Sups with the ocean. Though in Heaven the trees
 Of life ambrosial fruitage bear, and vines Yield nectar; though from off the boughs each
 morn 470

We brush mellifluous dews, and find the ground Covered with pearly grain: Yet God hath here
 Varied his bounty so with new delights,
 As may compare with Heaven; and to taste
 Think not I shall be nice. So down they sat,
 And to their viands fell; nor seemingly
 The Angel, nor in mist, the common gloss
 Of Theologians; but with keen dispatch
 Of real hunger, and concoctive heat
 To transubstantiate: What redounds, transpires 480

Through Spirits with ease; nor wonder; if by fire
 Of sooty coal the empirick alchemist
 Can turn, or holds it possible to turn,
 Metals of drossiest ore to perfect gold,
 As from the mine. Mean while at table Eve Ministered naked, and their flowing cups
 With pleasant liquours crowned: O innocence

Deserving Paradise! if ever, then,
Then had the sons of God excuse to have been Enamoured at that sight; but in those hearts 490
Love unlibidinous reigned, nor jealousy
Was understood, the injured lover's hell.

Thus when with meats and drinks they had sufficed,

Not burdened nature, sudden mind arose
In Adam, not to let the occasion pass
Given him by this great conference to know
Of things above his world, and of their being Who dwell in Heaven, whose excellence he saw Transcend his own so far; whose radiant forms, 500

Divine effulgence, whose high power, so far Exceeded human; and his wary speech
Thus to the empyreal minister he framed.

Inhabitant with God, now know I well
Thy favour, in this honour done to Man;
Under whose lowly roof thou hast vouchsafed
To enter, and these earthly fruits to taste,
Food not of Angels, yet accepted so,
As that more willingly thou couldst not seem 510
At Heaven's high feasts to have fed: yet what compare

To whom the winged Hierarch replied.

O Adam, One Almighty is, from whom
All things proceed, and up to him return,
If not depraved from good, created all Such to perfection, one first matter all,
Endued with various forms, various degrees

Of substance, and, in things that live, of life;
 But more refined, more spiritous, and pure, 520
 As nearer to him placed, or nearer tending
 Each in their several active spheres assigned,
 Till body up to spirit work, in bounds Proportioned to each kind. So from the root Springs lighter the green stalk, from thence the leaves

More aery, last the bright consummate flower
 Spirits odorous breathes: flowers and their fruit,
 Man's nourishment, by gradual scale sublimed,
 To vital spirits aspire, to animal,
 To intellectual; give both life and sense, 530
 Fancy and understanding; whence the soul
 Reason receives, and reason is her being,
 Discursive, or intuitive; discourse
 Is ofttest yours, the latter most is ours,
 Differing but in degree, of kind the same.

Wonder not then, what God for you saw good
 If I refuse not, but convert, as you To proper substance. Time may come, when Men

With Angels may participate, and find 540
 No inconvenient diet, nor too light fare;
 And from these corporal nutriments perhaps
 Your bodies may at last turn all to spirit,
 Improved by tract of time, and, winged, ascend Ethereal, as we; or may, at choice,
 Here or in heavenly Paradises dwell;
 If ye be found obedient, and retain Unalterably firm his love entire,
 Whose progeny you are. Mean while enjoy

Your fill what happiness this happy state 550
 Can comprehend, incapable of more.

To whom the patriarch of mankind replied.

O favourable Spirit, propitious guest,
 Well hast thou taught the way that might direct
 Our knowledge, and the scale of nature set
 From center to circumference; whereon,
 In contemplation of created things,
 By steps we may ascend to God. But say, 560
 What meant that caution joined, If ye be found Obedient? Can we want obedience then
 To him, or possibly his love desert,
 Who formed us from the dust and placed us here
 Full to the utmost measure of what bliss
 Human desires can seek or apprehend?
 To whom the Angel. Son of Heaven and Earth,
 Attend! That thou art happy, owe to God;
 That thou continuest such, owe to thyself,
 That is, to thy obedience; therein stand. 570

This was that caution given thee; be advised.

God made thee perfect, not immutable;
 And good he made thee, but to persevere
 He left it in thy power; ordained thy will
 By nature free, not over-ruled by fate
 Inextricable, or strict necessity:
 Our voluntary service he requires,
 Not our necessitated; such with him 580
 Finds no acceptance, nor can find; for how Can hearts, not free, be tried whether they serve Willing or no, who will but what they must
 By destiny, and can no other choose?

Myself, and all the angelick host, that stand
 In sight of God, enthroned, our happy state Hold, as you yours, while our obedience holds;
 On other surety none: Freely we serve,
 Because we freely love, as in our will
 To love or not; in this we stand or fall: 590
 And some are fallen, to disobedience fallen,
 And so from Heaven to deepest Hell; O fall
 From what high state of bliss, into what woe!
 To whom our great progenitor. Thy words
 Attentive, and with more delighted ear, Divine instructor, I have heard, than when Cherubick songs by night from neighbouring hills

Aereal musick send: Nor knew I not
 To be both will and deed created free;
 Yet that we never shall forget to love 600
 Our Maker, and obey him whose command
 Single is yet so just, my constant thoughts Assured me, and still assure: Though what thou tellest

Hath passed in Heaven, some doubt within me move,
 But more desire to hear, if thou consent,
 The full relation, which must needs be strange,
 Worthy of sacred silence to be heard;
 And we have yet large day, for scarce the sun
 Hath finished half his journey, and scarce begins
 His other half in the great zone of Heaven. 610

Thus Adam made request; and Raphael,
 After short pause assenting, thus began.

High matter thou enjoimest me, O prime of men,
 Sad task and hard: For how shall I relate
 To human sense the invisible exploits
 Of warring Spirits? how, without remorse,
 The ruin of so many glorious once
 And perfect while they stood? how last unfold 620

The secrets of another world, perhaps
 Not lawful to reveal? yet for thy good
 This is dispensed; and what surmounts the reach
 Of human sense, I shall delineate so,
 By likening spiritual to corporal forms,
 As may express them best; though what if Earth
 Be but a shadow of Heaven, and things therein
 Each to other like, more than on earth is thought?
 As yet this world was not, and Chaos wild Reign'd where these Heavens now roll, where Earth now rests 630

Upon her center poised; when on a day
 (For time, though in eternity, applied
 To motion, measures all things durable
 By present, past, and future,) on such day As Heaven's great year brings forth, the empyreal host
 Of Angels by imperial summons called, Innumerable before the Almighty's throne Forthwith, from all the ends of Heaven, appeared
 Under their Hierarchs in orders bright:
 Ten thousand thousand ensigns high advanced, 640

Standards and gonfalons 'twixt van and rear

Stream in the air, and for distinction serve
 Of hierarchies, of orders, and degrees;
 Or in their glittering tissues bear imblazed
 Holy memorials, acts of zeal and love
 Recorded eminent. Thus when in orbs
 Of circuit inexpressible they stood,
 Orb within orb, the Father Infinite,
 By whom in bliss imbosomed sat the Son,
 Amidst as from a flaming mount, whose top 650
 Brightness had made invisible, thus spake.

Hear, all ye Angels, progeny of light,
 Thrones, Dominations, Princedoms, Virtues,
 Powers;
 Hear my decree, which unrevoked shall stand.

This day I have begot whom I declare
 My only Son, and on this holy hill
 Him have anointed, whom ye now behold
 At my right hand; your head I him appoint; 660
 And by myself have sworn, to him shall bow
 All knees in Heaven, and shall confess him Lord:
 Under his great vice-gerent reign abide United, as one individual soul,
 For ever happy: Him who disobeyes,
 Me disobeyes, breaks union, and that day,
 Cast out from God and blessed vision, falls
 Into utter darkness, deep ingulfed, his place
 Ordained without redemption, without end.

670

So spake the Omnipotent, and with his words
 All seemed well pleased; all seemed, but were not all.

That day, as other solemn days, they spent
 In song and dance about the sacred hill;
 Mystical dance, which yonder starry sphere
 Of planets, and of fixed, in all her wheels Resembles nearest, mazes intricate,
 Eccentrick, intervolved, yet regular
 Then most, when most irregular they seem; 680
 And in their motions harmony divine
 So smooths her charming tones, that God's own ear

Listens delighted. Evening now approached,
 (For we have also our evening and our morn,
 We ours for change delectable, not need;)
 Forthwith from dance to sweet repast they turn Desirous; all in circles as they stood,
 Tables are set, and on a sudden piled
 With Angels food, and rubied nectar flows
 In pearl, in diamond, and massy gold, 690
 Fruit of delicious vines, the growth of Heaven.

On flowers reposed, and with fresh flowerets
 crowned,
 They eat, they drink, and in communion sweet Quaff immortality and joy, secure
 Of surfeit, where full measure only bounds Excess, before the all-bounteous King, who showered
 With copious hand, rejoicing in their joy.

Now when ambrosial night with clouds exhaled 700 From that high mount of God, whence light and shade

Spring both, the face of brightest Heaven had changed

To grateful twilight, (for night comes not there In darker veil) and roseate dews disposed
All but the unsleeping eyes of God to rest;
Wide over all the plain, and wider far
Than all this globous earth in plain outspread, (Such are the courts of God) the angelick throng, Dispersed in bands and files, their camp extend
By living streams among the trees of life, 710
Pavilions numberless, and sudden reared,
Celestial tabernacles, where they slept Fanned with cool winds; save those, who, in their course,

Melodious hymns about the sovran throne
Alternate all night long: but not so waked
Satan; so call him now, his former name
Is heard no more in Heaven; he of the first,
If not the first Arch-Angel, great in power,
In favour and pre-eminence, yet fraught
With envy against the Son of God, that day 720
Honoured by his great Father, and proclaimed Messiah King anointed, could not bear Through pride that sight, and thought himself impaired.

Deep malice thence conceiving and disdain,
Soon as midnight brought on the dusky hour
Friendliest to sleep and silence, he resolved
With all his legions to dislodge, and leave Unworshipt, unobeyed, the throne supreme,
Contemptuous; and his next subordinate 730
Awakening, thus to him in secret spake.

Sleepest thou, Companion dear? What sleep can close

Thy eye-lids? and rememberest what decree
Of yesterday, so late hath passed the lips
Of Heaven's Almighty. Thou to me thy thoughts
Wast wont, I mine to thee was wont to impart;
Both waking we were one; how then can now Thy sleep dissent? New laws thou seest imposed;

New laws from him who reigns, new minds may raise 740

In us who serve, new counsels to debate
What doubtful may ensue: More in this place
To utter is not safe. Assemble thou
Of all those myriads which we lead the chief;
Tell them, that by command, ere yet dim night
Her shadowy cloud withdraws, I am to haste,
And all who under me their banners wave,
Homeward, with flying march, where we possess

The quarters of the north; there to prepare Fit entertainment to receive our King, 750
The great Messiah, and his new commands,
Who speedily through all the hierarchies
Intends to pass triumphant, and give laws.

So spake the false Arch-Angel, and infused Bad influence into the unwary breast
Of his associate: He together calls,
Or several one by one, the regent Powers,
Under him Regent; tells, as he was taught,
That the Most High commanding, now ere night, 760

Now ere dim night had disincumbered Heaven,
 The great hierarchal standard was to move;
 Tells the suggested cause, and casts between Ambiguous words and jealousies, to sound
 Or taint integrity: But all obeyed
 The wonted signal, and superiour voice
 Of their great Potentate; for great indeed
 His name, and high was his degree in Heaven;
 His countenance, as the morning-star that guides

The starry flock, allured them, and with lies 770
 Drew after him the third part of Heaven's host.

Mean while the Eternal eye, whose sight discerns

Abstrusest thoughts, from forth his holy mount,
 And from within the golden lamps that burn
 Nightly before him, saw without their light Rebellion rising; saw in whom, how spread
 Among the sons of morn, what multitudes
 Were banded to oppose his high decree;
 And, smiling, to his only Son thus said. 780

Son, thou in whom my glory I behold
 In full resplendence, Heir of all my might,
 Nearly it now concerns us to be sure
 Of our Omnipotence, and with what arms
 We mean to hold what anciently we claim
 Of deity or empire: Such a foe
 Is rising, who intends to erect his throne
 Equal to ours, throughout the spacious north;
 Nor so content, hath in his thought to try 790
 In battle, what our power is, or our right.

Let us advise, and to this hazard draw
With speed what force is left, and all employ
In our defence; lest unawares we lose
This our high place, our sanctuary, our hill.

To whom the Son with calm aspect and clear,
Lightning divine, ineffable, serene,
Made answer. Mighty Father, thou thy foes 800
Justly hast in derision, and, secure,
Laughest at their vain designs and tumults vain,
Matter to me of glory, whom their hate
Illustrates, when they see all regal power
Given me to quell their pride, and in event
Know whether I be dextrous to subdue
Thy rebels, or be found the worst in Heaven.

So spake the Son; but Satan, with his Powers,
Far was advanced on winged speed; an host 810
Innumerable as the stars of night,
Or stars of morning, dew-drops, which the sun
Impearls on every leaf and every flower.

Regions they passed, the mighty regencies
Of Seraphim, and Potentates, and Thrones,
In their triple degrees; regions to which All thy dominion, Adam, is no more Than what this garden is to all the earth,
And all the sea, from one entire globose 820
Stretched into longitude; which having passed,
At length into the limits of the north
They came; and Satan to his royal seat
High on a hill, far blazing, as a mount Raised on a mount, with pyramids and towers
From diamond quarries hewn, and rocks of gold;

The palace of great Lucifer, (so call
 That structure in the dialect of men Interpreted,) which not long after, he Affecting all equality with God, 830
 In imitation of that mount whereon
 Messiah was declared in sight of Heaven,
 The Mountain of the Congregation called;
 For thither he assembled all his train,
 Pretending so commanded to consult
 About the great reception of their King,
 Thither to come, and with calumnious art
 Of counterfeited truth thus held their ears.

Thrones, Dominations, Princedoms, Virtues,
 Powers; 840

If these magnifick titles yet remain
 Not merely titular, since by decree
 Another now hath to himself engrossed
 All power, and us eclipsed under the name
 Of King anointed, for whom all this haste
 Of midnight-march, and hurried meeting here,
 This only to consult how we may best,
 With what may be devised of honours new,
 Receive him coming to receive from us
 Knee-tribute yet unpaid, prostration vile! 850
 Too much to one! but double how endured,
 To one, and to his image now proclaimed?
 But what if better counsels might erect
 Our minds, and teach us to cast off this yoke?
 Will ye submit your necks, and choose to bend
 The supple knee? Ye will not, if I trust
 To know ye right, or if ye know yourselves
 Natives and sons of Heaven possessed before

By none; and if not equal all, yet free,
Equally free; for orders and degrees 860
Jar not with liberty, but well consist.

Who can in reason then, or right, assume Monarchy over such as live by right
His equals, if in power and splendour less,
In freedom equal? or can introduce Law and edict on us, who without law
Err not? much less for this to be our Lord,
And look for adoration, to the abuse
Of those imperial titles, which assert 870
Our being ordained to govern, not to serve.

Thus far his bold discourse without controul
Had audience; when among the Seraphim
Abdiel, than whom none with more zeal adored
The Deity, and divine commands obeyed,
Stood up, and in a flame of zeal severe
The current of his fury thus opposed.

O argument blasphemous, false, and proud! 880
Words which no ear ever to hear in Heaven
Expected, least of all from thee, Ingrate,
In place thyself so high above thy peers.

Canst thou with impious obloquy condemn
The just decree of God, pronounced and sworn,
That to his only Son, by right endued
With regal scepter, every soul in Heaven
Shall bend the knee, and in that honour due Confess him rightful King? unjust, thou sayest, 890

Flatly unjust, to bind with laws the free,
And equal over equals to let reign,

One over all with unsucceeded power.
Shalt thou give law to God? shalt thou dispute
With him the points of liberty, who made Thee what thou art, and formed the Powers of
Heaven
Such as he pleased, and circumscribed their being?
Yet, by experience taught, we know how good,
And of our good and of our dignity 900
How provident he is; how far from thought
To make us less, bent rather to exalt
Our happy state, under one head more near United. But to grant it thee unjust,
That equal over equals monarch reign:
Thyself, though great and glorious, dost thou count,
Or all angelick nature joined in one,
Equal to him begotten Son? by whom,
As by his Word, the Mighty Father made
All things, even thee; and all the Spirits of
Heaven 910
By him created in their bright degrees,
Crowned them with glory, and to their glory named
Thrones, Dominations, Princedoms, Virtues,
Powers,
Essential Powers; nor by his reign obscured,
But more illustrious made; since he the head
One of our number thus reduced becomes;
His laws our laws; all honour to him done
Returns our own. Cease then this impious rage,
And tempt not these; but hasten to appease

The incensed Father, and the incensed Son, 920
While pardon may be found in time besought.

So spake the fervent Angel; but his zeal
None seconded, as out of season judged,
Or singular and rash: Whereat rejoiced
The Apostate, and, more haughty, thus replied.

That we were formed then sayest thou? and the work
Of secondary hands, by task transferred From Father to his Son? strange point and new!
930

Doctrine which we would know whence learned: who saw
When this creation was? rememberest thou
Thy making, while the Maker gave thee being?
We know no time when we were not as now;
Know none before us, self-begot, self-raised
By our own quickening power, when fatal course
Had circled his full orb, the birth mature
Of this our native Heaven, ethereal sons.

Our puissance is our own; our own right hand 940

Shall teach us highest deeds, by proof to try
Who is our equal: Then thou shalt behold
Whether by supplication we intend Address, and to begirt the almighty throne Beseeching or besieging. This report,
These tidings carry to the anointed King;
And fly, ere evil intercept thy flight.

He said; and, as the sound of waters deep,

Hoarse murmur echoed to his words applause 950

Through the infinite host; nor less for that
The flaming Seraph fearless, though alone Encompassed round with foes, thus answered bold.

O alienate from God, O Spirit accursed, Forsaken of all good! I see thy fall
Determined, and thy hapless crew involved
In this perfidious fraud, contagion spread Both of thy crime and punishment: Henceforth
No more be troubled how to quit the yoke 960
Of God's Messiah; those indulgent laws
Will not be now vouchsafed; other decrees
Against thee are gone forth without recall;
That golden scepter, which thou didst reject,
Is now an iron rod to bruise and break
Thy disobedience. Well thou didst advise;
Yet not for thy advice or threats I fly
These wicked tents devoted, lest the wrath
Impendent, raging into sudden flame,
Distinguish not: For soon expect to feel 970
His thunder on thy head, devouring fire.

Then who created thee lamenting learn,
When who can uncreate thee thou shalt know.

So spake the Seraph Abdiel, faithful found Among the faithless, faithful only he;
Among innumerable false, unmoved,
Unshaken, unseduced, unterrified,
His loyalty he kept, his love, his zeal; 980
Nor number, nor example, with him wrought

To swerve from truth, or change his constant
mind,
Though single. From amidst them forth he passed,
Long way through hostile scorn, which he sustained
Superiour, nor of violence feared aught;
And, with retorted scorn, his back he turned On those proud towers to swift destruction doomed.

BOOK VI

All night the dreadless Angel, unpursued, Through Heaven's wide champain held his way;
till Morn,

Waked by the circling Hours, with rosy hand
Unbarred the gates of light. There is a cave Within the mount of God, fast by his throne,
Where light and darkness in perpetual round Lodge and dislodge by turns, which makes through Heaven

Grateful vicissitude, like day and night;
Light issues forth, and at the other door
Obsequious darkness enters, till her hour 10
To veil the Heaven, though darkness there might well

Seem twilight here: And now went forth the
Morn

Such as in highest Heaven arrayed in gold
Empyrean; from before her vanished Night, Shot through with orient beams; when all the plain

Covered with thick embattled squadrons bright,
 Chariots, and flaming arms, and fiery steeds,
 Reflecting blaze on blaze, first met his view:
 War he perceived, war in procinct; and found
 Already known what he for news had thought²⁰
 To have reported: Gladly then he mixed Among those friendly Powers, who him received

With joy and acclamations loud, that one,
 That of so many myriads fallen, yet one Returned not lost. On to the sacred hill
 They led him high applauded, and present
 Before the seat supreme; from whence a voice,
 From midst a golden cloud, thus mild was heard.

Servant of God. Well done; well hast thou fought 30

The better fight, who single hast maintained
 Against revolted multitudes the cause
 Of truth, in word mightier than they in arms;
 And for the testimony of truth hast borne Universal reproach, far worse to bear
 Than violence; for this was all thy care
 To stand approved in sight of God, though worlds

Judged thee perverse: The easier conquest now Remains thee, aided by this host of friends,
 Back on thy foes more glorious to return, ⁴⁰
 Than scorned thou didst depart; and to subdue
 By force, who reason for their law refuse,
 Right reason for their law, and for their King Messiah, who by right of merit reigns.

Go, Michael, of celestial armies prince,
 And thou, in military prowess next,
 Gabriel, lead forth to battle these my sons
 Invincible; lead forth my armed Saints,
 By thousands and by millions, ranged for fight, 50

Equal in number to that Godless crew
 Rebellious: Them with fire and hostile arms
 Fearless assault; and, to the brow of Heaven
 Pursuing, drive them out from God and bliss,
 Into their place of punishment, the gulf
 Of Tartarus, which ready opens wide
 His fiery Chaos to receive their fall.

So spake the Sovran Voice, and clouds began
 To darken all the hill, and smoke to roll 60
 In dusky wreaths, reluctant flames, the sign
 Of wrath awaked; nor with less dread the loud
 Ethereal trumpet from on high 'gan blow:
 At which command the Powers militant,
 That stood for Heaven, in mighty quadrate joined

Of union irresistible, moved on
 In silence their bright legions, to the sound
 Of instrumental harmony, that breathed
 Heroick ardour to adventurous deeds
 Under their God-like leaders, in the cause 70
 Of God and his Messiah. On they move
 Indissolubly firm; nor obvious hill,
 Nor straitening vale, nor wood, nor stream, divides

Their perfect ranks; for high above the ground
 Their march was, and the passive air upbore

Their nimble tread; as when the total kind
 Of birds, in orderly array on wing,
 Came summoned over Eden to receive Their names of thee; so over many a tract Of Heaven they marched, and many a province
 wide, 80

Tenfold the length of this terrene: At last,
 Far in the horizon to the north appeared
 From skirt to skirt a fiery region, stretched
 In battailous aspect, and nearer view
 Bristled with upright beams innumerable Of rigid spears, and helmets thronged, and shields

Various, with boastful argument portrayed,
 The banded Powers of Satan hasting on
 With furious expedition; for they weened
 That self-same day, by fight or by surprise, 90
 To win the mount of God, and on his throne
 To set the Envier of his state, the proud Aspirer; but their thoughts proved fond and vain

In the mid way: Though strange to us it seemed At first, that Angel should with Angel war,
 And in fierce hosting meet, who wont to meet
 So oft in festivals of joy and love
 Unanimous, as sons of one great Sire, Hymning the Eternal Father: But the shout
 Of battle now began, and rushing sound 100
 Of onset ended soon each milder thought.

High in the midst, exalted as a God,
 The Apostate in his sun-bright chariot sat,
 Idol of majesty divine, enclosed

With flaming Cherubim, and golden shields;
 Then lighted from his gorgeous throne, for now
 'Twixt host and host but narrow space was left,
 A dreadful interval, and front to front
 Presented stood in terrible array 110
 Of hideous length: Before the cloudy van,
 On the rough edge of battle ere it joined,
 Satan, with vast and haughty strides advanced,
 Came towering, armed in adamant and gold;
 Abdiel that sight endured not, where he stood
 Among the mightiest, bent on highest deeds,
 And thus his own undaunted heart explores.

O Heaven! that such resemblance of the Highest Should yet remain, where faith and realty 120 Remain not: Wherefore should not strength and might

There fail where virtue fails, or weakest prove Where boldest, though to fight unconquerable?
 His puissance, trusting in the Almighty's aid,
 I mean to try, whose reason I have tried Unsound and false; nor is it aught but just,
 That he, who in debate of truth hath won,
 Should win in arms, in both disputes alike
 Victor; though brutish that contest and foul,
 When reason hath to deal with force, yet so 130
 Most reason is that reason overcome.

So pondering, and from his armed peers
 Forth stepping opposite, half-way he met
 His daring foe, at this prevention more Incensed, and thus securely him defied.

Proud, art thou met? thy hope was to have reached

 The highth of thy aspiring unopposed,
 The throne of God unguarded, and his side 140
 Abandoned, at the terrour of thy power
 Or potent tongue: Fool! not to think how vain
 Against the Omnipotent to rise in arms;
 Who out of smallest things could, without end,
 Have raised incessant armies to defeat
 Thy folly; or with solitary hand
 Reaching beyond all limit, at one blow, Unaided, could have finished thee, and whelmed
 Thy legions under darkness: But thou seest
 All are not of thy train; there be, who faith 150 Prefer, and piety to God, though then
 To thee not visible, when I alone
 Seemed in thy world erroneus to dissent
 From all: My sect thou seest; now learn too late How few sometimes may know, when thousands err.
 Whom the grand foe, with scornful eye askance,
 Thus answered. Ill for thee, but in wished hour
 Of my revenge, first sought for, thou returnest
 From flight, seditious Angel! to receive 160
 Thy merited reward, the first assay
 Of this right hand provoked, since first that tongue,
 Inspired with contradiction, durst oppose
 A third part of the Gods, in synod met
 Their deities to assert; who, while they feel Vigour divine within them, can allow Omnipotence to none. But well thou comest

Before thy fellows, ambitious to win
 From me some plume, that thy success may show

Destruction to the rest: This pause between, 170 (Unanswered lest thou boast) to let thee know,
 At first I thought that Liberty and Heaven
 To heavenly souls had been all one; but now
 I see that most through sloth had rather serve,
 Ministring Spirits, trained up in feast and song!
 Such hast thou armed, the minstrelsy of Heaven,
 Servility with freedom to contend,
 As both their deeds compared this day shall prove.

To whom in brief thus Abdiel stern replied. 180

Apostate! still thou errest, nor end wilt find
 Of erring, from the path of truth remote:
 Unjustly thou depravest it with the name
 Of servitude, to serve whom God ordains,
 Or Nature: God and Nature bid the same,
 When he who rules is worthiest, and excels
 Them whom he governs. This is servitude,
 To serve the unwise, or him who hath rebelled Against his worthier, as thine now serve thee, 190
 Thyself not free, but to thyself enthralled;
 Yet lewdly darest our ministring upbraid.

Reign thou in Hell, thy kingdom; let me serve
 In Heaven God ever blest, and his divine
 Behests obey, worthiest to be obeyed;
 Yet chains in Hell, not realms, expect: Mean while

From me returned, as erst thou saidst, from flight,

 This greeting on thy impious crest receive. 200

So saying, a noble stroke he lifted high,
 Which hung not, but so swift with tempest fell
 On the proud crest of Satan, that no sight, Nor motion of swift thought, less could his
 shield,

Such ruin intercept: Ten paces huge
 He back recoiled; the tenth on bended knee
 His massy spear upstaid; as if on earth
 Winds under ground, or waters forcing way,
 Sidelong had pushed a mountain from his seat,
 Half sunk with all his pines. Amazement seised 210

The rebel Thrones, but greater rage, to see Thus foiled their mightiest; ours joy filled, and shout,

Presage of victory, and fierce desire
 Of battle: Whereat Michael bid sound
 The Arch-Angel trumpet; through the vast of
 Heaven

It sounded, and the faithful armies rung
 Hosanna to the Highest: Nor stood at gaze
 The adverse legions, nor less hideous joined The horrid shock. Now storming fury rose,
 And clamour such as heard in Heaven till now 220

Was never; arms on armour clashing brayed
 Horrible discord, and the madding wheels
 Of brazen chariots raged; dire was the noise
 Of conflict; over head the dismal hiss

Of fiery darts in flaming volleys flew,
And flying vaulted either host with fire.
So under fiery cope together rushed
Both battles main, with ruinous assault
And inextinguishable rage. All Heaven 230
Resounded; and had Earth been then, all Earth
Had to her center shook. What wonder? when Millions of fierce encountering Angels fought
On either side, the least of whom could wield
These elements, and arm him with the force
Of all their regions: How much more of power
Army against army numberless to raise Dreadful combustion warring, and disturb,
Though not destroy, their happy native seat;
Had not the Eternal King Omnipotent, 240
From his strong hold of Heaven, high over-ruled And limited their might; though numbered such As each divided legion might have seemed
A numerous host; in strength each armed hand
A legion; led in fight, yet leader seemed Each warrior single as in chief, expert
When to advance, or stand, or turn the sway
Of battle, open when, and when to close
The ridges of grim war: No thought of flight,
None of retreat, no unbecoming deed 250
That argued fear; each on himself relied,
As only in his arm the moment lay
Of victory: Deeds of eternal fame
Were done, but infinite; for wide was spread That war and various; sometimes on firm
ground
A standing fight, then, soaring on main wing,

Tormented all the air; all air seemed then Conflicting fire. Long time in even scale
 The battle hung; till Satan, who that day Prodigious power had shown, and met in arms 260

No equal, ranging through the dire attack
 Of fighting Seraphim confused, at length Saw where the sword of Michael smote, and felled

Squadrons at once; with huge two-handed sway
 Brandished aloft, the horrid edge came down
 Wide-wasting; such destruction to withstand
 He hasted, and opposed the rocky orb
 Of tenfold adamant, his ample shield,
 A vast circumference. At his approach
 The great Arch-Angel from his warlike toil 270
 Surceased, and glad, as hoping here to end
 Intestine war in Heaven, the arch-foe subdued
 Or captive dragged in chains, with hostile frown
 And visage all inflamed first thus began.

Author of evil, unknown till thy revolt, Unnamed in Heaven, now plenteous as thou
 seest

These acts of hateful strife, hateful to all,
 Though heaviest by just measure on thyself,
 And thy adherents: How hast thou disturbed 280 Heaven's blessed peace, and into nature brought Misery, uncreated till the crime
 Of thy rebellion! how hast thou instilled
 Thy malice into thousands, once upright And faithful, now proved false! But think not here

To trouble holy rest; Heaven casts thee out
 From all her confines. Heaven, the seat of bliss, Brooks not the works of violence and war.

Hence then, and evil go with thee along, 290
 Thy offspring, to the place of evil, Hell;
 Thou and thy wicked crew! there mingle broils,
 Ere this avenging sword begin thy doom,
 Or some more sudden vengeance, winged from God,
 Precipitate thee with augmented pain.

So spake the Prince of Angels; to whom thus
 The Adversary. Nor think thou with wind
 Of aery threats to awe whom yet with deeds Thou canst not. Hast thou turned the least of these 300

To flight, or if to fall, but that they rise
 Unvanquished, easier to transact with me That thou shouldst hope, imperious, and with threats

To chase me hence? err not, that so shall end
 The strife which thou callest evil, but we style
 The strife of glory; which we mean to win,
 Or turn this Heaven itself into the Hell
 Thou fablest; here however to dwell free,
 If not to reign: Mean while thy utmost force,
 And join him named Almighty to thy aid, 310
 I fly not, but have sought thee far and nigh.

They ended parle, and both addressed for fight
 Unspeakable; for who, though with the tongue
 Of Angels, can relate, or to what things
 Liken on earth conspicuous, that may lift

Human imagination to such highth
 Of Godlike power? for likest Gods they seemed,
 Stood they or moved, in stature, motion, arms,
 Fit to decide the empire of great Heaven. 320

Now waved their fiery swords, and in the air
 Made horrid circles; two broad suns their shields Blazed opposite, while Expectation stood
 In horror: From each hand with speed retired, Where erst was thickest fight, the angelick throng,
 And left large field, unsafe within the wind
 Of such commotion; such as, to set forth
 Great things by small, if nature's concord broke,
 Among the constellations war were sprung, 330
 Two planets, rushing from aspect malign
 Of fiercest opposition, in mid sky
 Should combat, and their jarring spheres con-
 found.

Together both with next to almighty arm
 Up-lifted imminent, one stroke they aimed
 That might determine, and not need repeat,
 As not of power at once; nor odds appeared
 In might or swift prevention: But the sword
 Of Michael from the armoury of God 340
 Was given him tempered so, that neither keen Nor solid might resist that edge: it met
 The sword of Satan, with steep force to smite Descending, and in half cut sheer; nor staid,
 But with swift wheel reverse, deep entering, shared
 All his right side: Then Satan first knew pain,

And writhed him to and fro convolved; so sore
 The griding sword with discontinuous wound Passed through him: But the ethereal substance closed,

Not long divisible; and from the gash 350
 A stream of necturous humour issuing flowed
 Sanguine, such as celestial Spirits may bleed,
 And all his armour stained, ere while so bright.

Forthwith on all sides to his aid was run
 By Angels many and strong, who interposed Defence, while others bore him on their shields
 Back to his chariot, where it stood retired
 From off the files of war: There they him laid Gnashing for anguish, and despite, and shame, 360

To find himself not matchless, and his pride
 Humbled by such rebuke, so far beneath
 His confidence to equal God in power.

Yet soon he healed; for Spirits that live throughout

Vital in every part, not as frail man
 In entrails, heart of head, liver or reins,
 Cannot but by annihilating die;
 Nor in their liquid texture mortal wound
 Receive, no more than can the fluid air: 370
 All heart they live, all head, all eye, all ear,
 All intellect, all sense; and, as they please,
 They limb themselves, and colour, shape, or size
 Assume, as likes them best, condense or rare.

Mean while in other parts like deeds deserved
 Memorial, where the might of Gabriel fought,

And with fierce ensigns pierced the deep array
 Of Moloch, furious king; who him defied,
 And at his chariot-wheels to drag him bound 380
 Threatened, nor from the Holy One of Heaven
 Refrained his tongue blasphemous; but anon
 Down cloven to the waist, with shattered arms
 And uncouth pain fled bellowing. On each wing
 Uriel, and Raphael, his vaunting foe,
 Though huge, and in a rock of diamond armed,
 Vanquished Adramelech, and Asmadai,
 Two potent Thrones, that to be less than Gods Disdained, but meaner thoughts learned in their flight,
 Mangled with ghastly wounds through plate and mail. 390

Nor stood unmindful Abdiel to annoy
 The atheist crew, but with redoubled blow
 Ariel, and Arioch, and the violence
 Of Ramiel scorched and blasted, overthrew.

I might relate of thousands, and their names
 Eternize here on earth; but those elect
 Angels, contented with their fame in Heaven,
 Seek not the praise of men: The other sort, 400
 In might though wonderous and in acts of war,
 Nor of renown less eager, yet by doom
 Cancelled from Heaven and sacred memory,
 Nameless in dark oblivion let them dwell.

For strength from truth divided, and from just,
 Illaudable, nought merits but dispraise
 And ignominy; yet to glory aspires
 Vain-glorious, and through infamy seeks fame:

Therefore eternal silence be their doom. 410

And now, their mightiest quelled, the battle swerved,

With many an inroad gored; deformed rout
Entered, and foul disorder; all the ground
With shivered armour strown, and on a heap
Chariot and charioteer lay overturned,
And fiery-foaming steeds; what stood, recoiled O'er-wearied, through the faint Satanick host Defensive scarce, or with pale fear surprised,
Then first with fear surprised, and sense of pain, 420

Fled ignominious, to such evil brought
By sin of disobedience; till that hour
Not liable to fear, or flight, or pain.

Far otherwise the inviolable Saints,
In cubick phalanx firm, advanced entire,
Invulnerable, impenetrably armed;
Such high advantages their innocence
Gave them above their foes; not to have sinned,
Not to have disobeyed; in fight they stood 430
Unwearied, unobnoxious to be pained
By wound, though from their place by violence
moved,

Now Night her course began, and, over Heaven
Inducing darkness, grateful truce imposed,
And silence on the odious din of war:
Under her cloudy covert both retired,
Victor and vanquished: On the foughten field
Michael and his Angels prevalent Encamping, placed in guard their watches

round,
 Cherubick waving fires: On the other part, 440
 Satan with his rebellious disappeared,
 Far in the dark dislodged; and, void of rest,
 His potentates to council called by night;
 And in the midst thus undismayed began.

O now in danger tried, now known in arms
 Not to be overpowered, Companions dear,
 Found worthy not of liberty alone,
 Too mean pretence! but what we more affect,
 Honour, dominion, glory, and renown; 450
 Who have sustained one day in doubtful fight,
 (And if one day, why not eternal days?)
 What Heaven's Lord had powerfullest to send Against us from about his throne, and judged Sufficient to subdue us to his will,
 But proves not so: Then fallible, it seems,
 Of future we may deem him, though till now Omniscient thought. True is, less firmly armed,
 Some disadvantage we endured and pain,
 Till now not known, but, known, as soon contemned; 460

Since now we find this our empyreal form
 Incapable of mortal injury,
 Imperishable, and, though pierced with wound,
 Soon closing, and by native vigour healed.

Of evil then so small as easy think
 The remedy; perhaps more valid arms,
 Weapons more violent, when next we meet,
 May serve to better us, and worse our foes,
 Or equal what between us made the odds, 470

In nature none: If other hidden cause
 Left them superiour, while we can preserve
 Unhurt our minds, and understanding sound, Due search and consultation will disclose.

He sat; and in the assembly next upstood Nisroch, of Principalities the prime;
 As one he stood escaped from cruel fight,
 Sore toiled, his riven arms to havock hewn,
 And cloudy in aspect thus answering spake. 480

Deliverer from new Lords, leader to free
 Enjoyment of our right as Gods; yet hard
 For Gods, and too unequal work we find,
 Against unequal arms to fight in pain,
 Against unpained, impassive; from which evil
 Ruin must needs ensue; for what avails Valour or strength, though matchless, quelled with pain

Which all subdues, and makes remiss the hands
 Of mightiest? Sense of pleasure we may well Spare out of life perhaps, and not repine,
 But live content, which is the calmest life:
 But pain is perfect misery, the worst
 Of evils, and, excessive, overturns
 All patience. He, who therefore can invent
 With what more forcible we may offend
 Our yet unwounded enemies, or arm
 Ourselves with like defence, to me deserves
 No less than for deliverance what we owe.

500

Whereto with look composed Satan replied.
 Not uninvented that, which thou aright

Believest so main to our success, I bring.

Which of us who beholds the bright surface
Of this ethereous mould whereon we stand,
This continent of spacious Heaven, adorned With plant, fruit, flower ambrosial, gems, and
gold;

Whose eye so superficially surveys 510
These things, as not to mind from whence they grow

Deep under ground, materials dark and crude,
Of spiritous and fiery spume, till touched
With Heaven's ray, and tempered, they shoot forth

So beauteous, opening to the ambient light?
These in their dark nativity the deep
Shall yield us, pregnant with infernal flame;
Which, into hollow engines, long and round, Thick rammed, at the other bore with touch of fire

Dilated and infuriate, shall send forth 520
From far, with thundering noise, among our foes
Such implements of mischief, as shall dash
To pieces, and o'erwhelm whatever stands
Adverse, that they shall fear we have disarmed
The Thunderer of his only dreaded bolt.

Nor long shall be our labour; yet ere dawn, Effect shall end our wish. Mean while revive;
Abandon fear; to strength and counsel joined Think nothing hard, much less to be despaired.
530

He ended, and his words their drooping cheer

Enlightened, and their languished hope revived.

The invention all admired, and each, how he
To be the inventer missed; so easy it seemed Once found, which yet unfound most would have thought

Impossible: Yet, haply, of thy race
In future days, if malice should abound,
Some one intent on mischief, or inspired 540
With devilish machination, might devise Like instrument to plague the sons of men
For sin, on war and mutual slaughter bent.

Forthwith from council to the work they flew;
None arguing stood; innumerable hands Were ready; in a moment up they turned Wide the celestial soil, and saw beneath
The originals of nature in their crude Conception; sulphurous and nitrous foam 550
They found, they mingled, and, with subtle art, Concocted and adusted they reduced
To blackest grain, and into store conveyed:
Part hidden veins digged up (nor hath this earth Entrails unlike) of mineral and stone,
Whereof to found their engines and their balls
Of missive ruin; part incentive reed
Provide, pernicious with one touch to fire.

So all ere day-spring, under conscious night, 560
Secret they finished, and in order set,
With silent circumspection, unespied.

Now when fair morn orient in Heaven appeared,
Up rose the victor-Angels, and to arms
The matin trumpet sung: In arms they stood

Of golden panoply, refulgent host,
 Soon banded; others from the dawning hills Look round, and scouts each coast light-armed scour,
 Each quarter to descry the distant foe, 570
 Where lodged, or whither fled, or if for fight,
 In motion or in halt: Him soon they met
 Under spread ensigns moving nigh, in slow
 But firm battalion; back with speediest sail
 Zophiel, of Cherubim the swiftest wing,
 Came flying, and in mid air aloud thus cried.

Arm, Warriours, arm for fight; the foe at hand,
 Whom fled we thought, will save us long pursuit
 This day; fear not his flight; so thick a cloud 580
 He comes, and settled in his face I see Sad resolution, and secure: Let each
 His adamantine coat gird well, and each
 Fit well his helm, gripe fast his orb'd shield, Borne even or high; for this day will pour down,
 If I conjecture aught, no drizzling shower,
 But rattling storm of arrows barbed with fire.

So warn'd he them, aware themselves, and soon
 In order, quit of all impediment; 590
 Instant without disturb they took alarm,
 And onward mov'd embattled: When behold!
 Not distant far with heavy pace the foe
 Approaching gross and huge, in hollow cube
 Training his devilish enginery, impaled
 On every side with shadowing squadrons deep,
 To hide the fraud. At interview both stood
 A while; but suddenly at head appeared

Satan, and thus was heard commanding loud.
600

Vanguard, to right and left the front unfold;
That all may see who hate us, how we seek Peace and composure, and with open breast Stand ready to receive them, if they like
Our overture; and turn not back perverse:
But that I doubt; however witness, Heaven!
Heaven, witness thou anon! while we discharge Freely our part: ye, who appointed stand
Do as you have in charge, and briefly touch
What we propound, and loud that all may hear!
610

So scoffing in ambiguous words, he scarce
Had ended; when to right and left the front Divided, and to either flank retired:
Which to our eyes discovered, new and strange,
A triple mounted row of pillars laid On wheels (for like to pillars most they seemed,
Or hollowed bodies made of oak or fir,
With branches lopt, in wood or mountain felled,) Brass, iron, stony mould, had not their mouths
With hideous orifice gaped on us wide, 620
Portending hollow truce: At each behind
A Seraph stood, and in his hand a reed
Stood waving tipt with fire; while we, suspense,
Collected stood within our thoughts amused,
Not long; for sudden all at once their reeds
Put forth, and to a narrow vent applied
With nicest touch. Immediate in a flame, But soon obscured with smoke, all Heaven appeared,

From those deep-throated engines belched, whose roar
 Embowelled with outrageous noise the air, 630
 And all her entrails tore, disgorging foul Their devilish glut, chained thunderbolts and hail
 Of iron globes; which, on the victor host
 Levelled, with such impetuous fury smote, That, whom they hit, none on their feet might stand,
 Though standing else as rocks, but down they fell
 By thousands, Angel on Arch-Angel rolled;
 The sooner for their arms; unarmed, they might Have easily, as Spirits, evaded swift
 By quick contraction or remove; but now 640
 Foul dissipation followed, and forced rout;
 Nor served it to relax their serried files.

What should they do? if on they rushed, repulse Repeated, and indecent overthrow Doubled, would render them yet more despised,
 And to their foes a laughter; for in view
 Stood ranked of Seraphim another row,
 In posture to displode their second tire
 Of thunder: Back defeated to return 650
 They worse abhorred. Satan beheld their plight,
 And to his mates thus in derision called.

O Friends! why come not on these victors proud Ere while they fierce were coming; and when we,
 To entertain them fair with open front
 And breast, (what could we more?) propounded terms

 Of composition, straight they changed their minds,
 Flew off, and into strange vagaries fell,
 As they would dance; yet for a dance they
 seemed 660
 Somewhat extravagant and wild; perhaps
 For joy of offered peace: But I suppose,
 If our proposals once again were heard,
 We should compel them to a quick result.
 To whom thus Belial, in like gamesome mood.
 Leader! the terms we sent were terms of weight,
 Of hard contents, and full of force urged home;
 Such as we might perceive amused them all, 670
 And stumbled many: Who receives them right,
 Had need from head to foot well understand;
 Not understood, this gift they have besides,
 They show us when our foes walk not upright.
 So they among themselves in pleasant vein Stood scoffing, hightened in their thoughts beyond
 All doubt of victory: Eternal Might
 To match with their inventions they presumed
 So easy, and of his thunder made a scorn, 680
 And all his host derided, while they stood
 A while in trouble: But they stood not long;
 Rage prompted them at length, and found them
 arms
 Against such hellish mischief fit to oppose.
 Forthwith (behold the excellence, the power, Which God hath in his mighty Angels placed!)

Their arms away they threw, and to the hills
(For Earth hath this variety from Heaven Of pleasure situate in hill and dale,) 690 Light as the lightning glimpse they ran, they flew;
From their foundations loosening to and fro,
They plucked the seated hills, with all their load,
Rocks, waters, woods, and by the shaggy tops
Up-lifting bore them in their hands: Amaze,
Be sure, and terrour, seized the rebel host,
When coming towards them so dread they saw
The bottom of the mountains upward turned;
Till on those cursed engines' triple-row
They saw them whelmed, and all their confidence 700
Under the weight of mountains buried deep;
Themselves invaded next, and on their heads
Main promontories flung, which in the air Came shadowing, and oppressed whole legions
armed;
Their armour helped their harm, crushed in and bruised
Into their substance pent, which wrought them
pain
Implacable, and many a dolorous groan;
Long struggling underneath, ere they could wind
Out of such prison, though Spirits of purest light, Purest at first, now gross by sinning grown. 710
The rest, in imitation, to like arms
Betook them, and the neighbouring hills uptore:
So hills amid the air encountered hills,

Hurl'd to and fro with jaculation dire;
 That under ground they fought in dismal shade;
 Infernal noise! war seemed a civil game
 To this uproar; horrid confusion heaped Upon confusion rose: And now all Heaven
 Had gone to wrack, with ruin overspread; 720
 Had not the Almighty Father, where he sits Shrined in his sanctuary of Heaven secure,
 Consulting on the sum of things, foreseen
 This tumult, and permitted all, advised:
 That his great purpose he might so fulfil,
 To honour his anointed Son avenged
 Upon his enemies, and to declare All power on him transferred: Whence to his Son,
 The Assessour of his throne, he thus began.

730

Effulgence of my glory, Son beloved,
 Son, in whose face invisible is beheld Visibly, what by Deity I am;
 And in whose hand what by decree I do,
 Second Omnipotence! two days are past,
 Two days, as we compute the days of Heaven,
 Since Michael and his Powers went forth to tame
 These disobedient: Sore hath been their fight,
 As likeliest was, when two such foes met armed;
 For to themselves I left them; and thou knowest, 740

Equal in their creation they were formed, Save what sin hath impaired; which yet hath wrought
 Insensibly, for I suspend their doom;

Whence in perpetual fight they needs must last Endless, and no solution will be found:
 War wearied hath performed what war can do,
 And to disordered rage let loose the reins
 With mountains, as with weapons, armed;
 which makes Wild work in Heaven, and dangerous to the main.

750

Two days are therefore past, the third is thine;
 For thee I have ordained it; and thus far
 Have suffered, that the glory may be thine
 Of ending this great war, since none but Thou
 Can end it. Into thee such virtue and grace Immense I have transfused, that all may know
 In Heaven and Hell thy power above compare;
 And, this perverse commotion governed thus,
 To manifest thee worthiest to be Heir
 Of all things; to be Heir, and to be King 760
 By sacred unction, thy deserved right.

Go then, Thou Mightiest, in thy Father's might;
 Ascend my chariot, guide the rapid wheels That shake Heaven's basis, bring forth all my war,
 My bow and thunder, my almighty arms
 Gird on, and sword upon thy puissant thigh;
 Pursue these sons of darkness, drive them out
 From all Heaven's bounds into the utter deep:
 There let them learn, as likes them, to despise⁷⁷⁰
 God, and Messiah his anointed King.

He said, and on his Son with rays direct

Shone full; he all his Father full expressed Ineffably into his face received;
 And thus the Filial Godhead answering spake.

O Father, O Supreme of heavenly Thrones,
 First, Highest, Holiest, Best; thou always seek'st
 To glorify thy Son, I always thee, 780
 As is most just: This I my glory account,
 My exaltation, and my whole delight,
 That thou, in me well pleased, declarest thy will Fulfilled, which to fulfil is all my bliss.

Scepter and power, thy giving, I assume,
 And gladlier shall resign, when in the end
 Thou shalt be all in all, and I in thee
 For ever; and in me all whom thou lovest:
 But whom thou hatest, I hate, and can put on 790 Thy terrors, as I put thy mildness on,
 Image of thee in all things; and shall soon,
 Armed with thy might, rid Heaven of these rebelled;

To their prepared ill mansion driven down,
 To chains of darkness, and the undying worm;
 That from thy just obedience could revolt,
 Whom to obey is happiness entire.

Then shall thy Saints unmixed, and from the impure

Far separate, circling thy holy mount, 800
 Unfeigned Halleluiahs to thee sing,
 Hymns of high praise, and I among them Chief.

So said, he, o'er his scepter bowing, rose
 From the right hand of Glory where he sat;
 And the third sacred morn began to shine,

Dawning through Heaven. Forth rushed with whirlwind sound

The chariot of Paternal Deity, Flashing thick flames, wheel within wheel un-drawn,

Itself instinct with Spirit, but convoyed 810
By four Cherubick shapes; four faces each
Had wonderous; as with stars, their bodies all And wings were set with eyes; with eyes the wheels

Of beryl, and careering fires between;
Over their heads a crystal firmament,
Whereon a sapphire throne, inlaid with pure
Amber, and colours of the showery arch.

He, in celestial panoply all armed
Of radiant Urim, work divinely wrought, 820
Ascended; at his right hand Victory
Sat eagle-winged; beside him hung his bow
And quiver with three-bolted thunder stored;
And from about him fierce effusion rolled
Of smoke, and bickering flame, and sparkles dire:

Attended with ten thousand thousand Saints,
He onward came; far off his coming shone;
And twenty thousand (I their number heard)
Chariots of God, half on each hand, were seen;
He on the wings of Cherub rode sublime 830
On the crystalline sky, in sapphire throned, Illustrious far and wide; but by his own
First seen: Them unexpected joy surprised,
When the great ensign of Messiah blazed
Aloft by Angels borne, his sign in Heaven;

Under whose conduct Michael soon reduced
 His army, circumfused on either wing,
 Under their Head imbodied all in one.

Before him Power Divine his way prepared; 840
 At his command the uprooted hills retired Each to his place; they heard his voice, and went Obsequious; Heaven his wonted face renewed,
 And with fresh flowerets hill and valley smiled.

This saw his hapless foes, but stood obdured,
 And to rebellious fight rallied their Powers,
 Insensate, hope conceiving from despair.

In heavenly Spirits could such perverseness
 dwell? 850

But to convince the proud what signs avail,
 Or wonders move the obdurate to relent?
 They, hardened more by what might most reclaim,

Grieving to see his glory, at the sight
 Took envy; and, aspiring to his highth,
 Stood re-embattled fierce, by force or fraud
 Weening to prosper, and at length prevail
 Against God and Messiah, or to fall
 In universal ruin last; and now
 To final battle drew, disdainning flight, 860
 Or faint retreat; when the great Son of God
 To all his host on either hand thus spake.

Stand still in bright array, ye Saints; here stand,
 Ye Angels armed; this day from battle rest:
 Faithful hath been your warfare, and of God
 Accepted, fearless in his righteous cause;
 And as ye have received, so have ye done,

Invincibly: But of this cursed crew
 The punishment to other hand belongs; 870
 Vengeance is his, or whose he sole appoints:
 Number to this day's work is not ordained,
 Nor multitude; stand only, and behold
 God's indignation on these godless poured
 By me; not you, but me, they have despised,
 Yet envied; against me is all their rage,
 Because the Father, to whom in Heaven s'preme
 Kingdom, and power, and glory appertains, Hath honoured me, according to his will.

880

Therefore to me their doom he hath assigned;
 That they may have their wish, to try with me
 In battle which the stronger proves; they all,
 Or I alone against them; since by strength
 They measure all, of other excellence
 Not emulous, nor care who them excels;
 Nor other strife with them do I vouchsafe.

So spake the Son, and into terrour changed
 His countenance too severe to be beheld, 890
 And full of wrath bent on his enemies.

At once the Four spread out their starry wings
 With dreadful shade contiguous, and the orbs
 Of his fierce chariot rolled, as with the sound
 Of torrent floods, or of a numerous host.

He on his impious foes right onward drove,
 Gloomy as night; under his burning wheels
 The stedfast empyrean shook throughout, 900
 All but the throne itself of God. Full soon
 Among them he arrived; in his right hand

Grasping ten thousand thunders, which he sent Before him, such as in their souls infixed Plagues: They, astonished, all resistance lost,
All courage; down their idle weapons dropt:
O'er shields, and helms, and helmed heads he rode

Of Thrones and mighty Seraphim prostrate,
That wished the mountains now might be again
Thrown on them, as a shelter from his ire. 910

Nor less on either side tempestuous fell
His arrows, from the fourfold-visaged Four Distinct with eyes, and from the living wheels
Distinct alike with multitude of eyes;
One Spirit in them ruled; and every eye
Glared lightning, and shot forth pernicious fire Among the accursed, that withered all their strength,
And of their wonted vigour left them drained,
Exhausted, spiritless, afflicted, fallen. 920

Yet half his strength he put not forth, but checked
His thunder in mid volley; for he meant
Not to destroy, but root them out of Heaven:
The overthrown he raised, and as a herd
Of goats or timorous flock together thronged
Drove them before him thunder-struck, pursued
With terrors, and with furies, to the bounds
And crystal wall of Heaven; which, opening
wide,
Rolled inward, and a spacious gap disclosed 930
Into the wasteful deep: The monstrous sight Struck them with horror backward, but far

worse
 Urged them behind: Headlong themselves they threw
 Down from the verge of Heaven; eternal wrath
 Burnt after them to the bottomless pit.
 Hell heard the unsufferable noise, Hell saw Heaven ruining from Heaven, and would have fled
 Affrighted; but strict Fate had cast too deep
 Her dark foundations, and too fast had bound.
 940

Nine days they fell: Confounded Chaos roared,
 And felt tenfold confusion in their fall
 Through his wild anarchy, so huge a rout Incumbered him with ruin: Hell at last Yawning received them whole, and on them
 closed;
 Hell, their fit habitation, fraught with fire
 Unquenchable, the house of woe and pain.
 Disburdened Heaven rejoiced, and soon repaired 950
 Her mural breach, returning whence it rolled.
 Sole victor, from the expulsion of his foes,
 Messiah his triumphal chariot turned:
 To meet him all his Saints, who silent stood Eye-witnesses of his almighty acts,
 With jubilee advanced; and, as they went,
 Shaded with branching palm, each Order bright,
 Sung triumph, and him sung victorious King,
 Son, Heir, and Lord, to him dominion given, 960 Worthiest to reign: He, celebrated, rode Triumphant through mid Heaven, into the courts

And temple of his Mighty Father throned
On high; who into glory him received,
Where now he sits at the right hand of bliss.

Thus, measuring things in Heaven by things on Earth,

At thy request, and that thou mayest beware
By what is past, to thee I have revealed
What might have else to human race been hid;
970

The discord which befel, and war in Heaven
Among the angelick Powers, and the deep fall
Of those too high aspiring, who rebelled
With Satan; he who envies now thy state,
Who now is plotting how he may seduce
Thee also from obedience, that, with him
Bereaved of happiness, thou mayest partake
His punishment, eternal misery;
Which would be all his solace and revenge,
As a despite done against the Most High, 980
Thee once to gain companion of his woe.

But listen not to his temptations, warn
Thy weaker; let it profit thee to have heard,
By terrible example, the reward
Of disobedience; firm they might have stood,
Yet fell; remember, and fear to transgress.

BOOK VII

Descend from Heaven, Urania, by that name
If rightly thou art called, whose voice divine Following, above the Olympian hill I soar,
Above the flight of Pegasean wing!
The meaning, not the name, I call: for thou Nor of the Muses nine, nor on the top
Of old Olympus dwellest; but, heavenly-born,
Before the hills appeared, or fountain flowed,
Thou with eternal Wisdom didst converse,
Wisdom thy sister, and with her didst play 10
In presence of the Almighty Father, pleased With thy celestial song. Up led by thee
Into the Heaven of Heavens I have presumed,
An earthly guest, and drawn empyreal air,
Thy tempering: with like safety guided down
Return me to my native element:
Lest from this flying steed unreined, (as once Bellerophon, though from a lower clime,) Dismounted, on the Aleian field I fall,
Erroneous there to wander, and forlorn. 20

Half yet remains unsung, but narrower bound
 Within the visible diurnal sphere;
 Standing on earth, not rapt above the pole,
 More safe I sing with mortal voice, unchanged
 To hoarse or mute, though fallen on evil days,
 On evil days though fallen, and evil tongues;
 In darkness, and with dangers compassed
 round,

And solitude; yet not alone, while thou
 Visitest my slumbers nightly, or when morn 30
 Purples the east: still govern thou my song,
 Urania, and fit audience find, though few.

But drive far off the barbarous dissonance
 Of Bacchus and his revellers, the race
 Of that wild rout that tore the Thracian bard
 In Rhodope, where woods and rocks had ears
 To rapture, till the savage clamour drowned Both harp and voice; nor could the Muse defend Her son. So fail not thou, who thee implores: 40
 For thou art heavenly, she an empty dream.

Say, Goddess, what ensued when Raphael,
 The affable Arch-Angel, had forewarned
 Adam, by dire example, to beware
 Apostasy, by what befel in Heaven
 To those apostates; lest the like befall
 In Paradise to Adam or his race,
 Charged not to touch the interdicted tree,
 If they transgress, and slight that sole command, 50

So easily obeyed amid the choice
 Of all tastes else to please their appetite,

Though wandering. He, with his consorted Eve,
 The story heard attentive, and was filled
 With admiration and deep muse, to hear Of things so high and strange; things, to their
 thought

So unimaginable, as hate in Heaven,
 And war so near the peace of God in bliss,
 With such confusion: but the evil, soon
 Driven back, redounded as a flood on those 60
 From whom it sprung; impossible to mix
 With blessedness. Whence Adam soon repealed
 The doubts that in his heart arose: and now
 Led on, yet sinless, with desire to know
 What nearer might concern him, how this world
 Of Heaven and Earth conspicuous first began;
 When, and whereof created; for what cause;
 What within Eden, or without, was done
 Before his memory; as one whose drouth
 Yet scarce allayed still eyes the current stream,70
 Whose liquid murmur heard new thirst excites,
 Proceeded thus to ask his heavenly guest.

Great things, and full of wonder in our ears,
 Far differing from this world, thou hast revealed, Divine interpreter! by favour sent Down from the empyrean, to forewarn
 Us timely of what might else have been our loss, Unknown, which human knowledge could not reach;

For which to the infinitely Good we owe 80
 Immortal thanks, and his admonishment Receive, with solemn purpose to observe Immutably his sovran will, the end

Of what we are. But since thou hast vouchsafed Gently, for our instruction, to impart
Things above earthly thought, which yet concerned

Our knowing, as to highest wisdom seemed,
Deign to descend now lower, and relate
What may no less perhaps avail us known,
How first began this Heaven which we behold⁹⁰
Distant so high, with moving fires adorned Innumerable; and this which yields or fills
All space, the ambient air wide interfused
Embracing round this floried Earth; what cause
Moved the Creator, in his holy rest
Through all eternity, so late to build
In Chaos; and the work begun, how soon
Absolved; if unforbid thou mayest unfold
What we, not to explore the secrets ask
Of his eternal empire, but the more 100
To magnify his works, the more we know.

And the great light of day yet wants to run Much of his race though steep; suspense in
Heaven,

Held by thy voice, thy potent voice, he hears,
And longer will delay to hear thee tell
His generation, and the rising birth
Of Nature from the unapparent Deep:
Or if the star of evening and the moon
Haste to thy audience, Night with her will bring, 110

Silence; and Sleep, listening to thee, will watch;
Or we can bid his absence, till thy song
End, and dismiss thee ere the morning shine.

Thus Adam his illustrious guest besought:
And thus the Godlike Angel answered mild.

This also thy request, with caution asked,
Obtain; though to recount almighty works
What words or tongue of Seraph can suffice, 120
Or heart of man suffice to comprehend?
Yet what thou canst attain, which best may serve
To glorify the Maker, and infer Thee also happier, shall not be withheld
Thy hearing; such commission from above
I have received, to answer thy desire
Of knowledge within bounds; beyond, abstain
To ask; nor let thine own inventions hope Things not revealed, which the invisible King,
Only Omniscient, hath suppressed in night; 130
To none communicable in Earth or Heaven:
Enough is left besides to search and know.

But knowledge is as food, and needs no less
Her temperance over appetite, to know
In measure what the mind may well contain;
Oppresses else with surfeit, and soon turns
Wisdom to folly, as nourishment to wind.

Know then, that, after Lucifer from Heaven 140 (So call him, brighter once amidst the host Of Angels, than that star the stars among,) Fell with his flaming legions through the deep Into his place, and the great Son returned Victorious with his Saints, the Omnipotent
Eternal Father from his throne beheld
Their multitude, and to his Son thus spake.

At least our envious Foe hath failed, who thought

 All like himself rebellious, by whose aid 150
 This inaccessible high strength, the seat
 Of Deity supreme, us dispossessed,
 He trusted to have seized, and into fraud Drew many, whom their place knows here no
 more:
 Yet far the greater part have kept, I see,
 Their station; Heaven, yet populous, retains Number sufficient to possess her realms
 Though wide, and this high temple to frequent
 With ministeries due, and solemn rites:
 But, lest his heart exalt him in the harm 160
 Already done, to have dispeopled Heaven,
 My damage fondly deemed, I can repair
 That detriment, if such it be to lose Self-lost; and in a moment will create Another world, out of one man a race
 Of men innumerable, there to dwell,
 Not here; till, by degrees of merit raised,
 They open to themselves at length the way
 Up hither, under long obedience tried;
 And Earth be changed to Heaven, and Heaven to Earth, 170
 One kingdom, joy and union without end.
 Mean while inhabit lax, ye Powers of Heaven;
 And thou my Word, begotten Son, by thee
 This I perform; speak thou, and be it done!
 My overshadowing Spirit and Might with thee
 I send along; ride forth, and bid the Deep Within appointed bounds be Heaven and Earth;
 Boundless the Deep, because I Am who fill

Infinitude, nor vacuous the space. 180

Though I, uncircumscribed myself, retire,
 And put not forth my goodness, which is free
 To act or not, Necessity and Chance Approach not me, and what I will is Fate.

So spake the Almighty, and to what he spake
 His Word, the Filial Godhead, gave effect.

Immediate are the acts of God, more swift 190
 Than time or motion, but to human ears
 Cannot without process of speech be told,
 So told as earthly notion can receive.

Great triumph and rejoicing was in Heaven,
 When such was heard declared the Almighty's will;

Glory they sung to the Most High, good will
 To future men, and in their dwellings peace;
 Glory to Him, whose just avenging ire
 Had driven out the ungodly from his sight 200
 And the habitations of the just; to Him
 Glory and praise, whose wisdom had ordained Good out of evil to create; instead
 Of Spirits malign, a better race to bring Into their vacant room, and thence diffuse
 His good to worlds and ages infinite.

So sang the Hierarchies: Mean while the Son
 On his great expedition now appeared,
 Girt with Omnipotence, with radiance crowned 210

Of Majesty Divine; sapience and love
 Immense, and all his Father in him shone.

About his chariot numberless were poured Cherub, and Seraph, Potentates, and Thrones, And Virtues, winged Spirits, and chariots winged

From the armoury of God; where stand of old Myriads, between two brazen mountains lodged Against a solemn day, harnessed at hand,
Celestial equipage; and now came forth 220
Spontaneous, for within them Spirit lived,
Attendant on their Lord: Heaven opened wide
Her ever-during gates, harmonious sound
On golden hinges moving, to let forth
The King of Glory, in his powerful Word
And Spirit, coming to create new worlds.

On heavenly ground they stood; and from the shore
They viewed the vast immeasurable abyss
Outrageous as a sea, dark, wasteful, wild, 230
Up from the bottom turned by furious winds
And surging waves, as mountains, to assault Heaven's highth, and with the center mix the pole.

Silence, ye troubled Waves, and thou Deep,
peace,
Said then the Omnifick Word; your discord end!
Nor staid; but, on the wings of Cherubim Uplifted, in paternal glory rode Far into Chaos, and the world unborn;
For Chaos heard his voice: Him all his train 240
Followed in bright procession, to behold Creation, and the wonders of his might.

Then staid the fervid wheels, and in his hand
 He took the golden compasses, prepared
 In God's eternal store, to circumscribe
 This universe, and all created things:
 One foot he centered, and the other turned Round through the vast profundity obscure;
 And said, Thus far extend, thus far thy bounds, 250

This be thy just circumference, O World!
 Thus God the Heaven created, thus the Earth,
 Matter unformed and void: Darkness profound Covered the abyss: but on the watery calm
 His brooding wings the Spirit of God outspread,
 And vital virtue infused, and vital warmth Throughout the fluid mass; but downward
 purged
 The black tartareous cold infernal dregs,
 Adverse to life: then founded, then conglobed
 Like things to like; the rest to several place 260
 Disparted, and between spun out the air;
 And Earth self-balanced on her center hung.

Let there be light, said God; and forthwith Light Ethereal, first of things, quintessence pure,
 Sprung from the deep; and from her native east
 To journey through the aery gloom began,
 Sphered in a radiant cloud, for yet the sun
 Was not; she in a cloudy tabernacle Sojourned the while. God saw the light was good; 270

And light from darkness by the hemisphere
 Divided: light the Day, and darkness Night, He named. Thus was the first day even and

morn:
 Nor past uncelebrated, nor unsung
 By the celestial quires, when orient light
 Exhaling first from darkness they beheld; Birth-day of Heaven and Earth; with joy and shout
 The hollow universal orb they filled,
 And touched their golden harps, and hymning
 praised
 God and his works; Creator him they sung, 280
 Both when first evening was, and when first
 morn.

Again, God said, Let there be firmament
 Amid the waters, and let it divide
 The waters from the waters; and God made
 The firmament, expanse of liquid, pure,
 Transparent, elemental air, diffused
 In circuit to the uttermost convex
 Of this great round; partition firm and sure,
 The waters underneath from those above 290
 Dividing: for as earth, so he the world
 Built on circumfluous waters calm, in wide Crystalline ocean, and the loud misrule
 Of Chaos far removed; lest fierce extremes
 Contiguous might distemper the whole frame:
 And Heaven he named the Firmament: So even
 And morning chorus sung the second day.

The Earth was formed, but in the womb as yet
 Of waters, embryon immature involved, 300
 Appeared not: over all the face of Earth
 Main ocean flowed, not idle; but, with warm

Prolifick humour softening all her globe,
 Fermented the great mother to conceive,
 Sate with genial moisture; when God said,
 Be gathered now ye waters under Heaven
 Into one place, and let dry land appear.

Immediately the mountains huge appear Emergent, and their broad bare backs upheave 310

Into the clouds; their tops ascend the sky:
 So high as heaved the tumid hills, so low Down sunk a hollow bottom broad and deep, Capacious bed of waters: Thither they Hasted with glad precipitance, uprolled,
 As drops on dust conglobing from the dry:
 Part rise in crystal wall, or ridge direct,
 For haste; such flight the great command impressed

On the swift floods: As armies at the call
 Of trumpet (for of armies thou hast heard) 320
 Troop to their standard; so the watery throng,
 Wave rolling after wave, where way they found,
 If steep, with torrent rapture, if through plain,
 Soft-ebbing; nor withstood them rock or hill;
 But they, or under ground, or circuit wide
 With serpent error wandering, found their way,
 And on the washy oose deep channels wore;
 Easy, ere God had bid the ground be dry,
 All but within those banks, where rivers now
 Stream, and perpetual draw their humid train.
 330

The dry land, Earth; and the great receptacle

Of congregated waters, he called Seas:
And saw that it was good; and said, Let the Earth
Put forth the verdant grass, herb yielding seed,
And fruit-tree yielding fruit after her kind,
Whose seed is in herself upon the Earth.

He scarce had said, when the bare Earth, till then Desart and bare, unsightly, unadorned, 340 Brought forth the tender grass, whose verdure clad

Her universal face with pleasant green;
Then herbs of every leaf, that sudden flowered
Opening their various colours, and made gay
Her bosom, smelling sweet: and, these scarce blown,

Forth flourished thick the clustering vine, forth crept

The swelling gourd, up stood the corny reed
Embattled in her field, and the humble shrub,
And bush with frizzled hair implicit: Last Rose, as in dance, the stately trees, and spread 350

Their branches hung with copious fruit, or gemmed

Their blossoms: With high woods the hills were crowned;

With tufts the valleys, and each fountain side;
With borders long the rivers: that Earth now Seemed like to Heaven, a seat where Gods might dwell,

Or wander with delight, and love to haunt Her sacred shades: though God had yet not rained

Upon the Earth, and man to till the ground
 None was; but from the Earth a dewy mist
 Went up, and watered all the ground, and each 360

Plant of the field; which, ere it was in the Earth,
 God made, and every herb, before it grew
 On the green stem: God saw that it was good:
 So even and morn recorded the third day.

Again the Almighty spake, Let there be lights
 High in the expanse of Heaven, to divide
 The day from night; and let them be for signs,
 For seasons, and for days, and circling years;
 And let them be for lights, as I ordain 370
 Their office in the firmament of Heaven,
 To give light on the Earth; and it was so.

And God made two great lights, great for their use

To Man, the greater to have rule by day,
 The less by night, altern; and made the stars,
 And set them in the firmament of Heaven
 To illuminate the Earth, and rule the day
 In their vicissitude, and rule the night,
 And light from darkness to divide. God saw, 380
 Surveying his great work, that it was good:
 For of celestial bodies first the sun
 A mighty sphere he framed, unlightsome first, Though of ethereal mould: then formed the moon

Globose, and every magnitude of stars,
 And sowed with stars the Heaven, thick as a field:

Of light by far the greater part he took,
 Transplanted from her cloudy shrine, and placed In the sun's orb, made porous to receive
 And drink the liquid light; firm to retain 390
 Her gathered beams, great palace now of light.

Hither, as to their fountain, other stars
 Repairing, in their golden urns draw light,
 And hence the morning-planet gilds her horns;
 By tincture or reflection they augment
 Their small peculiar, though from human sight
 So far remote, with diminution seen,
 First in his east the glorious lamp was seen,
 Regent of day, and all the horizon round 400
 Invested with bright rays, jocund to run
 His longitude through Heaven's high road; the gray

Dawn, and the Pleiades, before him danced,
 Shedding sweet influence: Less bright the moon,
 But opposite in levelled west was set,
 His mirrour, with full face borrowing her light
 From him; for other light she needed none
 In that aspect, and still that distance keeps Till night; then in the east her turn she shines, Revolved on Heaven's great axle, and her reign 410

With thousand lesser lights dividual holds,
 With thousand thousand stars, that then appeared
 Spangling the hemisphere: Then first adorned
 With their bright luminaries that set and rose, Glad evening and glad morn crowned the fourth day.

And God said, Let the waters generate Reptile with spawn abundant, living soul:
 And let fowl fly above the Earth, with wings
 Displayed on the open firmament of Heaven. 420

And God created the great whales, and each Soul living, each that crept, which plenteously
 The waters generated by their kinds;
 And every bird of wing after his kind;
 And saw that it was good, and blessed them, saying.

Be fruitful, multiply, and in the seas,
 And lakes, and running streams, the waters fill;
 And let the fowl be multiplied, on the Earth. 430

Forthwith the sounds and seas, each creek and bay,

With fry innumerable swarm, and shoals
 Of fish that with their fins, and shining scales, Glide under the green wave, in sculls that oft Bank the mid sea: part single, or with mate, Graze the sea-weed their pasture, and through groves

Of coral stray; or, sporting with quick glance, Show to the sun their waved coats dropt with
 gold;

Or, in their pearly shells at ease, attend 440
 Moist nutriment; or under rocks their food
 In jointed armour watch: on smooth the seal
 And bended dolphins play: part huge of bulk Wallowing unwieldy, enormous in their gait,
 Tempest the ocean: there leviathan,
 Hugest of living creatures, on the deep

Stretched like a promontory sleeps or swims,
 And seems a moving land; and at his gills
 Draws in, and at his trunk spouts out, a sea.

450

Mean while the tepid caves, and fens, and shores,
 Their brood as numerous hatch, from the egg that soon
 Bursting with kindly rupture forth disclosed Their callow young; but feathered soon and fledge
 They summed their pens; and, soaring the air sublime,
 With clang despised the ground, under a cloud
 In prospect; there the eagle and the stork
 On cliffs and cedar tops their eyries build:
 Part loosely wing the region, part more wise
 In common, ranged in figure, wedge their way, 460

Intelligent of seasons, and set forth
 Their aery caravan, high over seas
 Flying, and over lands, with mutual wing
 Easing their flight; so steers the prudent crane
 Her annual voyage, borne on winds; the air Floats as they pass, fanned with unnumbered plumes:
 From branch to branch the smaller birds with song
 Solaced the woods, and spread their painted wings
 Till even; nor then the solemn nightingale Ceased warbling, but all night tun'd her soft lays: 470

 Others, on silver lakes and rivers, bathed
 Their downy breast; the swan with arched neck, Between her white wings mantling proudly, rows
 Her state with oary feet; yet oft they quit
 The dank, and, rising on stiff pennons, tower
 The mid aerial sky: Others on ground Walked firm; the crested cock whose clarion sounds
 The silent hours, and the other whose gay train
 Adorns him, coloured with the florid hue
 Of rainbows and starry eyes. The waters thus 480
 With fish replenished, and the air with fowl,
 Evening and morn solemnized the fifth day.
 The sixth, and of creation last, arose
 With evening harps and matin; when God said,
 Let the Earth bring forth soul living in her kind, Cattle, and creeping things, and beast of the Earth,
 Each in their kind. The Earth obeyed, and straight
 Opening her fertile womb teemed at a birth
 Innumerable living creatures, perfect forms, 490 Limbed and full grown: Out of the ground up rose,
 As from his lair, the wild beast where he wons
 In forest wild, in thicket, brake, or den;
 Among the trees in pairs they rose, they walked:
 The cattle in the fields and meadows green:
 Those rare and solitary, these in flocks
 Pasturing at once, and in broad herds upsprung.

The grassy clods now calved; now half appeared
 The tawny lion, pawing to get free 500
 His hinder parts, then springs as broke from bonds,
 And rampant shakes his brinded mane; the ounce,
 The libbard, and the tiger, as the mole
 Rising, the crumbled earth above them threw
 In hillocks: The swift stag from under ground Bore up his branching head: Scarce from his mould
 Behemoth biggest born of earth upheaved
 His vastness: Fleeced the flocks and bleating
 rose,
 As plants: Ambiguous between sea and land
 The river-horse, and scaly crocodile. 510
 At once came forth whatever creeps the ground,
 Insect or worm: those waved their limber fans
 For wings, and smallest lineaments exact
 In all the liveries decked of summer's pride
 With spots of gold and purple, azure and green:
 These, as a line, their long dimension drew,
 Streaking the ground with sinuous trace; not all Minims of nature; some of serpent-kind,
 Wonderous in length and corpulence, involved 520
 Their snaky folds, and added wings. First crept
 The parsimonious emmet, provident
 Of future; in small room large heart enclosed;
 Pattern of just equality perhaps Hereafter, joined in her popular tribes
 Of commonalty: Swarming next appeared

The female bee, that feeds her husband drone Deliciously, and builds her waxen cells
 With honey stored: The rest are numberless,
 And thou their natures knowest, and gavest them names, 530

Needless to thee repeated; nor unknown
 The serpent, subtlest beast of all the field,
 Of huge extent sometimes, with brazen eyes
 And hairy mane terrifick, though to thee
 Not noxious, but obedient at thy call.

Now Heaven in all her glory shone, and rolled
 Her motions, as the great first Mover's hand First wheeled their course: Earth in her rich attire

Consummate lovely smiled; air, water, earth, 540
 By fowl, fish, beast, was flown, was swum, was walked,

Frequent; and of the sixth day yet remained:
 There wanted yet the master-work, the end
 Of all yet done; a creature, who, not prone
 And brute as other creatures, but endued
 With sanctity of reason, might erect
 His stature, and upright with front serene Govern the rest, self-knowing; and from thence Magnanimous to correspond with Heaven,
 But grateful to acknowledge whence his good 550

Descends, thither with heart, and voice, and eyes
 Directed in devotion, to adore
 And worship God Supreme, who made him
 chief
 Of all his works: therefore the Omnipotent

Eternal Father (for where is not he Present?) thus to his Son audibly spake.

Let us make now Man in our image, Man
In our similitude, and let them rule
Over the fish and fowl of sea and air, 560
Beast of the field, and over all the Earth,
And every creeping thing that creeps the
ground.

This said, he formed thee, Adam, thee, O Man,
Dust of the ground, and in thy nostrils breathed
The breath of life; in his own image he Created thee, in the image of God
Express; and thou becamest a living soul.

Male he created thee; but thy consort 570 Female, for race; then blessed mankind, and said,

Be fruitful, multiply, and fill the Earth;
Subdue it, and throughout dominion hold
Over fish of the sea, and fowl of the air,
And every living thing that moves on the Earth.

Wherever thus created, for no place
Is yet distinct by name, thence, as thou knowest,
He brought thee into this delicious grove,
This garden, planted with the trees of God, 580
Delectable both to behold and taste;
And freely all their pleasant fruit for food Gave thee; all sorts are here that all the Earth yields,

Variety without end; but of the tree,
Which, tasted, works knowledge of good and evil,

Thou mayest not; in the day thou eatest, thou diest;

Death is the penalty imposed; beware,
And govern well thy appetite; lest Sin
Surprise thee, and her black attendant Death.

590

Here finished he, and all that he had made
Viewed, and behold all was entirely good;
So even and morn accomplished the sixth day:
Yet not till the Creator from his work
Desisting, though unwearied, up returned,
Up to the Heaven of Heavens, his high abode;
Thence to behold this new created world,
The addition of his empire, how it showed
In prospect from his throne, how good, how fair, Answering his great idea. Up he rode 600
Followed with acclamation, and the sound
Symphonious of ten thousand harps, that tuned
Angelick harmonies: The earth, the air Resounded, (thou rememberest, for thou heardst,)

The heavens and all the constellations rung,
The planets in their station listening stood,
While the bright pomp ascended jubilant.

Open, ye everlasting gates! they sung,
Open, ye Heavens! your living doors; let in 610
The great Creator from his work returned Magnificent, his six days work, a World;
Open, and henceforth oft; for God will deign
To visit oft the dwellings of just men,
Delighted; and with frequent intercourse
Thither will send his winged messengers

On errands of supernal grace. So sung
 The glorious train ascending: He through
 Heaven,
 That opened wide her blazing portals, led
 To God's eternal house direct the way; 620
 A broad and ample road, whose dust is gold
 And pavement stars, as stars to thee appear,
 Seen in the galaxy, that milky way,
 Which nightly, as a circling zone, thou seest Powdered with stars. And now on Earth the seventh
 Evening arose in Eden, for the sun
 Was set, and twilight from the east came on,
 Forerunning night; when at the holy mount
 Of Heaven's high-seated top, the imperial throne
 Of Godhead, fixed for ever firm and sure, 630
 The Filial Power arrived, and sat him down
 With his great Father; for he also went Invisible, yet staid, (such privilege Hath Omnipresence) and the work ordained,
 Author and End of all things; and, from work Now resting, blessed and hallowed the seventh
 day,
 As resting on that day from all his work,
 But not in silence holy kept: the harp
 Had work and rested not; the solemn pipe,
 And dulcimer, all organs of sweet stop, 640
 All sounds on fret by string or golden wire,
 Tempered soft tunings, intermixed with voice
 Choral or unison: of incense clouds,
 Fuming from golden censers, hid the mount.
 Creation and the six days acts they sung:

Great are thy works, Jehovah! infinite Thy power! what thought can measure thee, or tongue
 Relate thee! Greater now in thy return
 Than from the giant Angels: Thee that day 650
 Thy thunders magnified; but to create
 Is greater than created to destroy.

Who can impair thee, Mighty King, or bound Thy empire! Easily the proud attempt
 Of Spirits apostate, and their counsels vain, Thou hast repelled; while impiously they thought
 Thee to diminish, and from thee withdraw
 The number of thy worshippers. Who seeks To lessen thee, against his purpose serves 660
 To manifest the more thy might: his evil
 Thou usest, and from thence createst more good.

Witness this new-made world, another Heaven
 From Heaven-gate not far, founded in view
 On the clear hyaline, the glassy sea;
 Of amplitude almost immense, with stars
 Numerous, and every star perhaps a world
 Of destined habitation; but thou knowest
 Their seasons: among these the seat of Men, 670
 Earth, with her nether ocean circumfused,
 Their pleasant dwelling-place. Thrice happy
 Men,
 And sons of Men, whom God hath thus advanced!
 Created in his image, there to dwell
 And worship him; and in reward to rule

Over his works, on earth, in sea, or air,
And multiply a race of worshippers
Holy and just: Thrice happy, if they know Their happiness, and persevere upright!
So sung they, and the empyrean rung 680
With halleluiahs: Thus was sabbath kept.

And thy request think now fulfilled, that asked How first this world and face of things began,
And what before thy memory was done
From the beginning; that posterity, Informed by thee, might know: If else thou seek-est
Aught, not surpassing human measure, say.

BOOK VIII

The Angel ended, and in Adam's ear
So charming left his voice, that he a while Thought him still speaking, still stood fixed to hear;

Then, as new waked, thus gratefully replied.

What thanks sufficient, or what recompence
Equal, have I to render thee, divine
Historian, who thus largely hast allayed
The thirst I had of knowledge, and vouchsafed
This friendly condescension to relate 10
Things, else by me unsearchable; now heard
With wonder, but delight, and, as is due,
With glory attributed to the high Creator! Something yet of doubt remains,
Which only thy solution can resolve.

When I behold this goodly frame, this world,
Of Heaven and Earth consisting; and compute
Their magnitudes; this Earth, a spot, a grain,
An atom, with the firmament compared 20
And all her numbered stars, that seem to roll

Spaces incomprehensible, (for such
 Their distance argues, and their swift return Diurnal,) merely to officiate light
 Round this opacous Earth, this punctual spot,
 One day and night; in all her vast survey
 Useless besides; reasoning I oft admire,
 How Nature wise and frugal could commit
 Such disproportions, with superfluous hand
 So many nobler bodies to create, 30
 Greater so manifold, to this one use,
 For aught appears, and on their orbs impose
 Such restless revolution day by day
 Repeated; while the sedentary Earth,
 That better might with far less compass move,
 Served by more noble than herself, attains
 Her end without least motion, and receives,
 As tribute, such a sumless journey brought
 Of incorporeal speed, her warmth and light;
 Speed, to describe whose swiftness number fails.
 40

So spake our sire, and by his countenance
 seemed
 Entering on studious thoughts abstruse; which
 Eve
 Perceiving, where she sat retired in sight,
 With lowliness majestick from her seat,
 And grace that won who saw to wish her stay,
 Rose, and went forth among her fruits and flowers,
 To visit how they prospered, bud and bloom,
 Her nursery; they at her coming sprung,
 And, touched by her fair tendance, gladlier grew.

50

Yet went she not, as not with such discourse
 Delighted, or not capable her ear
 Of what was high: such pleasure she reserved,
 Adam relating, she sole auditress;
 Her husband the relater she preferred
 Before the Angel, and of him to ask Chose rather; he, she knew, would intermix
 Grateful digressions, and solve high dispute
 With conjugal caresses: from his lip 60
 Not words alone pleased her. O! when meet now Such pairs, in love and mutual honour joined?
 With Goddess-like demeanour forth she went,
 Not unattended; for on her, as Queen,
 A pomp of winning Graces waited still,
 And from about her shot darts of desire
 Into all eyes, to wish her still in sight.

And Raphael now, to Adam's doubt proposed, Benevolent and facile thus replied. 70

To ask or search, I blame thee not; for Heaven
 Is as the book of God before thee set,
 Wherein to read his wonderous works, and learn
 His seasons, hours, or days, or months, or years:
 This to attain, whether Heaven move or Earth,
 Imports not, if thou reckon right; the rest
 From Man or Angel the great Architect
 Did wisely to conceal, and not divulge
 His secrets to be scanned by them who ought 80
 Rather admire; or, if they list to try Conjecture, he his fabrick of the Heavens
 Hath left to their disputes, perhaps to move

His laughter at their quaint opinions wide Hereafter; when they come to model Heaven
 And calculate the stars, how they will wield
 The mighty frame; how build, unbuild, contrive
 To save appearances; how gird the sphere
 With centrick and eccentric scribbled o'er,
 Cycle and epicycle, orb in orb: 90

Already by thy reasoning this I guess,
 Who art to lead thy offspring, and supposest
 That bodies bright and greater should not serve The less not bright, nor Heaven such journeys run,

Earth sitting still, when she alone receives
 The benefit: Consider first, that great
 Or bright infers not excellence: the Earth
 Though, in comparison of Heaven, so small,
 Nor glistening, may of solid good contain
 More plenty than the sun that barren shines; 100
 Whose virtue on itself works no effect,
 But in the fruitful Earth; there first received,
 His beams, unactive else, their vigour find.

Yet not to Earth are those bright luminaries
 Officious; but to thee, Earth's habitant.

And for the Heaven's wide circuit, let it speak
 The Maker's high magnificence, who built
 So spacious, and his line stretched out so far; 110
 That Man may know he dwells not in his own;
 An edifice too large for him to fill,
 Lodged in a small partition; and the rest
 Ordained for uses to his Lord best known.

The swiftness of those circles attribute,

Though numberless, to his Omnipotence,
 That to corporeal substances could add Speed almost spiritual: Me thou thinkest not slow,

Who since the morning-hour set out from
 Heaven 120

Where God resides, and ere mid-day arrived
 In Eden; distance inexpressible

By numbers that have name. But this I urge,
 Admitting motion in the Heavens, to show
 Invalid that which thee to doubt it moved;
 Not that I so affirm, though so it seem
 To thee who hast thy dwelling here on Earth.

God, to remove his ways from human sense, Placed Heaven from Earth so far, that earthly sight, 130

If it presume, might err in things too high,
 And no advantage gain. What if the sun
 Be center to the world; and other stars,
 By his attractive virtue and their own
 Incited, dance about him various rounds?
 Their wandering course now high, now low,
 then hid,

Progressive, retrograde, or standing still,
 In six thou seest; and what if seventh to these
 The planet earth, so stedfast though she seem,
 Insensibly three different motions move? 140
 Which else to several spheres thou must ascribe,
 Moved contrary with thwart obliquities;
 Or save the sun his labour, and that swift Nocturnal and diurnal rhomb supposed,
 Invisible else above all stars, the wheel

Of day and night; which needs not thy belief,
 If earth, industrious of herself, fetch day
 Travelling east, and with her part averse
 From the sun's beam meet night, her other part Still luminous by his ray. What if that light, 150
 Sent from her through the wide transpicuous air,
 To the terrestrial moon be as a star,
 Enlightening her by day, as she by night
 This earth? reciprocal, if land be there,
 Fields and inhabitants: Her spots thou seest
 As clouds, and clouds may rain, and rain produce

Fruits in her softened soil for some to eat
 Allotted there; and other suns perhaps,
 With their attendant moons, thou wilt descry,
 Communicating male and female light; 160
 Which two great sexes animate the world,
 Stored in each orb perhaps with some that live.

For such vast room in Nature unpossessed
 By living soul, desert and desolate,
 Only to shine, yet scarce to contribute
 Each orb a glimpse of light, conveyed so far Down to this habitable, which returns
 Light back to them, is obvious to dispute. 170

But whether thus these things, or whether not;
 But whether the sun, predominant in Heaven,
 Rise on the earth; or earth rise on the sun;
 He from the east his flaming road begin;
 Or she from west her silent course advance,
 With inoffensive pace that spinning sleeps
 On her soft axle, while she paces even,

And bears thee soft with the smooth hair along;
 Sollicit not thy thoughts with matters hid;
 Leave them to God above; him serve, and fear!
 180

Of other creatures, as him pleases best,
 Wherever placed, let him dispose; joy thou
 In what he gives to thee, this Paradise
 And thy fair Eve; Heaven is for thee too high
 To know what passes there; be lowly wise:
 Think only what concerns thee, and thy being;
 Dream not of other worlds, what creatures there
 Live, in what state, condition, or degree;
 Contented that thus far hath been revealed
 Not of Earth only, but of highest Heaven. 190

To whom thus Adam, cleared of doubt, replied.

How fully hast thou satisfied me, pure Intelligence of Heaven, Angel serene!
 And, freed from intricacies, taught to live
 The easiest way; nor with perplexing thoughts
 To interrupt the sweet of life, from which God hath bid dwell far off all anxious cares,
 And not molest us; unless we ourselves 200
 Seek them with wandering thoughts, and notions vain.

But apt the mind or fancy is to rove
 Unchecked, and of her roving is no end;
 Till warned, or by experience taught, she learn,
 That, not to know at large of things remote
 From use, obscure and subtle; but, to know
 That which before us lies in daily life,
 Is the prime wisdom: What is more, is fume,

Or emptiness, or fond impertinence: 210
 And renders us, in things that most concern, Unpractised, unprepared, and still to seek.

Therefore from this high pitch let us descend
 A lower flight, and speak of things at hand
 Useful; whence, haply, mention may arise
 Of something not unseasonable to ask,
 By sufferance, and thy wonted favour, deigned.

Thee I have heard relating what was done 220
 Ere my remembrance: now, hear me relate
 My story, which perhaps thou hast not heard;
 And day is not yet spent; till then thou seest
 How subtly to detain thee I devise;
 Inviting thee to hear while I relate;
 Fond! were it not in hope of thy reply:
 For, while I sit with thee, I seem in Heaven;
 And sweeter thy discourse is to my ear
 Than fruits of palm-tree pleasantest to thirst
 And hunger both, from labour, at the hour 230
 Of sweet repast; they satiate, and soon fill,
 Though pleasant; but thy words, with grace divine
 Imbued, bring to their sweetness no satiety.

To whom thus Raphael answered heavenly meek.

Nor are thy lips ungraceful, Sire of men,
 Nor tongue ineloquent; for God on thee
 Abundantly his gifts hath also poured Inward and outward both, his image fair: 240
 Speaking, or mute, all comeliness and grace

For Man to tell how human life began
 Is hard; for who himself beginning knew Desire with thee still longer to converse Induced me. As new waked from soundest
 sleep,
 Soft on the flowery herb I found me laid,
 In balmy sweat; which with his beams the sun
 Soon dried, and on the reeking moisture fed. 280

Straight toward Heaven my wondering eyes I turned,
 And gazed a while the ample sky; till, raised
 By quick instinctive motion, up I sprung,
 As thitherward endeavouring, and upright Stood on my feet: about me round I saw Hill, dale, and shady woods, and sunny plains,
 And liquid lapse of murmuring streams; by these,
 Creatures that lived and moved, and walked, or flew;
 Birds on the branches warbling; all things smiled; 290
 With fragrance and with joy my heart o'erflowed.

Myself I then perused, and limb by limb Surveyed, and sometimes went, and sometimes ran
 With supple joints, as lively vigour led:
 But who I was, or where, or from what cause,
 Knew not; to speak I tried, and forthwith spake;
 My tongue obeyed, and readily could name
 Whate'er I saw. Thou Sun, said I, fair light,

And thou enlightened Earth, so fresh and gay, 300

Ye Hills, and Dales, ye Rivers, Woods, and Plains,

And ye that live and move, fair Creatures, tell,
Tell, if ye saw, how I came thus, how here?—

Not of myself;—by some great Maker then,
In goodness and in power pre-eminent:

Tell me, how may I know him, how adore,
From whom I have that thus I move and live,
And feel that I am happier than I know.—

While thus I called, and strayed I knew not whither,

From where I first drew air, and first beheld 310

This happy light; when, answer none returned,

On a green shady bank, profuse of flowers,

Pensive I sat me down: There gentle sleep

First found me, and with soft oppression seised

My droused sense, untroubled, though I thought

I then was passing to my former state

Insensible, and forthwith to dissolve:

When suddenly stood at my head a dream,

Whose inward apparition gently moved

My fancy to believe I yet had being, 320

And lived: One came, methought, of shape divine,

And said, "Thy mansion wants thee, Adam; rise,

First Man, of men innumerable ordained

First Father! called by thee, I come thy guide

To the garden of bliss, thy seat prepared."

So saying, by the hand he took me raised,

And over fields and waters, as in air

Smooth-sliding without step, last led me up
 A woody mountain; whose high top was plain,
 A circuit wide, enclosed, with goodliest trees³³⁰ Planted, with walks, and bowers; that what I saw

Of Earth before scarce pleasant seemed. Each tree,

Loaden with fairest fruit that hung to the eye
 Tempting, stirred in me sudden appetite
 To pluck and eat; whereat I waked, and found Before mine eyes all real, as the dream
 Had lively shadowed: Here had new begun
 My wandering, had not he, who was my guide
 Up hither, from among the trees appeared,
 Presence Divine. Rejoicing, but with awe, ³⁴⁰
 In adoration at his feet I fell

Submit: He reared me, and "Whom thou soughtest I am,"

Said mildly, "Author of all this thou seest
 Above, or round about thee, or beneath.

This Paradise I give thee, count it thine
 To till and keep, and of the fruit to eat:
 Of every tree that in the garden grows
 Eat freely with glad heart; fear here no dearth:
 But of the tree whose operation brings ³⁵⁰
 Knowledge of good and ill, which I have set
 The pledge of thy obedience and thy faith,
 Amid the garden by the tree of life,
 Remember what I warn thee, shun to taste,
 And shun the bitter consequence: for know,
 The day thou eatest thereof, my sole command
 Transgressed, inevitably thou shalt die,

From that day mortal; and this happy state
 Shalt lose, expelled from hence into a world
 Of woe and sorrow." Sternly he pronounced 360
 The rigid interdiction, which resounds
 Yet dreadful in mine ear, though in my choice
 Not to incur; but soon his clear aspect Returned, and gracious purpose thus renewed.

"Not only these fair bounds, but all the Earth
 To thee and to thy race I give; as lords
 Possess it, and all things that therein live,
 Or live in sea, or air; beast, fish, and fowl. 370

In sign whereof, each bird and beast behold
 After their kinds; I bring them to receive From thee their names, and pay thee fealty
 With low subjection; understand the same
 Of fish within their watery residence,
 Not hither summoned, since they cannot change
 Their element, to draw the thinner air."
 As thus he spake, each bird and beast behold Approaching two and two; these cowering low With blandishment; each bird stooped on his wing. 380

I named them, as they passed, and understood
 Their nature, with such knowledge God endued
 My sudden apprehension: But in these I found not what methought I wanted still;
 And to the heavenly Vision thus presumed.

O, by what name, for thou above all these,
 Above mankind, or aught than mankind higher,
 Surpassest far my naming; how may I 390

Adore thee, Author of this universe,
 And all this good to man? for whose well being So amply, and with hands so liberal,
 Thou hast provided all things: But with me
 I see not who partakes. In solitude
 What happiness, who can enjoy alone,
 Or, all enjoying, what contentment find?
 Thus I presumptuous; and the Vision bright,
 As with a smile more brightened, thus replied.

400

What callest thou solitude? Is not the Earth
 With various living creatures, and the air
 Replenished, and all these at thy command
 To come and play before thee? Knowest thou not Their language and their ways? They also know,
 And reason not contemptibly: With these Find pastime, and bear rule; thy realm is large.

So spake the Universal Lord, and seemed
 So ordering: I, with leave of speech implored,⁴¹⁰
 And humble deprecation, thus replied.

Let not my words offend thee, Heavenly Power;
 My Maker, be propitious while I speak.

Hast thou not made me here thy substitute,
 And these inferiour far beneath me set?
 Among unequals what society
 Can sort, what harmony, or true delight?
 Which must be mutual, in proportion due 420
 Given and received; but, in disparity
 The one intense, the other still remiss, Cannot well suit with either, but soon prove Tedious alike: Of fellowship I speak

Such as I seek, fit to participate
All rational delight: wherein the brute
Cannot be human consort: They rejoice
Each with their kind, lion with lioness;
So fitly them in pairs thou hast combined:
Much less can bird with beast, or fish with fowl 430

So well converse, nor with the ox the ape; Worse then can man with beast, and least of all.

Whereto the Almighty answered, not displeased.

A nice and subtle happiness, I see,
Thou to thyself proposest, in the choice
Of thy associates, Adam! and wilt taste
No pleasure, though in pleasure, solitary.

440

What thinkest thou then of me, and this my state?

Seem I to thee sufficiently possessed
Of happiness, or not? who am alone
From all eternity; for none I know
Second to me or like, equal much less.

How have I then with whom to hold converse, Save with the creatures which I made, and those
To me inferiour, infinite descents
Beneath what other creatures are to thee? 450

He ceased; I lowly answered. To attain
The highth and depth of thy eternal ways
All human thoughts come short, Supreme of things!

Thou in thyself art perfect, and in thee

Is no deficiency found: Not so is Man,
But in degree; the cause of his desire
By conversation with his like to help
Or solace his defects. No need that thou Shouldst propagate, already Infinite;
And through all numbers absolute, though One:

460

But Man by number is to manifest
His single imperfection, and beget
Like of his like, his image multiplied,
In unity defective; which requires Collateral love, and dearest amity.

Thou in thy secrecy although alone,
Best with thyself accompanied, seekest not Social communication; yet, so pleased,
Canst raise thy creature to what highth thou wilt

470

Of union or communion, deified:
I, by conversing, cannot these erect
From prone; nor in their ways complacence find.

Thus I emboldened spake, and freedom used Permissive, and acceptance found; which gained
This answer from the gracious Voice Divine.

Thus far to try thee, Adam, I was pleased;
And find thee knowing, not of beasts alone, 480
Which thou hast rightly named, but of thyself;
Expressing well the spirit within thee free,
My image, not imparted to the brute;
Whose fellowship therefore unmeet for thee
Good reason was thou freely shouldst dislike;
And be so minded still: I, ere thou spakest,

Knew it not good for Man to be alone;
 And no such company as then thou sawest Intended thee; for trial only brought,
 To see how thou couldest judge of fit and meet:
 490

What next I bring shall please thee, be assured, Thy likeness, thy fit help, thy other self,
 Thy wish exactly to thy heart's desire.

He ended, or I heard no more; for now
 My earthly by his heavenly overpowered, Which it had long stood under, strained to the highth

In that celestial colloquy sublime,
 As with an object that excels the sense Dazzled and spent, sunk down; and sought repair 500

Of sleep, which instantly fell on me, called
 By Nature as in aid, and closed mine eyes.

Mine eyes he closed, but open left the cell
 Of fancy, my internal sight; by which,
 Abstract as in a trance, methought I saw,
 Though sleeping, where I lay, and saw the shape
 Still glorious before whom awake I stood:
 Who stooping opened my left side, and took
 From thence a rib, with cordial spirits warm, 510
 And life-blood streaming fresh; wide was the wound,

But suddenly with flesh filled up and healed:
 The rib he formed and fashioned with his hands;
 Under his forming hands a creature grew,
 Man-like, but different sex; so lovely fair,

That what seemed fair in all the world, seemed now

Mean, or in her summed up, in her contained
 And in her looks; which from that time infused Sweetness into my heart, unfelt before,
 And into all things from her air inspired 520
 The spirit of love and amorous delight.

She disappeared, and left me dark; I waked
 To find her, or for ever to deplore
 Her loss, and other pleasures all abjure:
 When out of hope, behold her, not far off,
 Such as I saw her in my dream, adorned
 With what all Earth or Heaven could bestow
 To make her amiable: On she came,
 Led by her heavenly Maker, though unseen, 530
 And guided by his voice; nor uninformed
 Of nuptial sanctity, and marriage rites:
 Grace was in all her steps, Heaven in her eye,
 In every gesture dignity and love.

I, overjoyed, could not forbear aloud.

This turn hath made amends; thou hast fulfilled
 Thy words, Creator bounteous and benign,
 Giver of all things fair! but fairest this 540
 Of all thy gifts! nor enviest. I now see Bone of my bone, flesh of my flesh, myself
 Before me: Woman is her name; of Man
 Extracted: for this cause he shall forego
 Father and mother, and to his wife adhere;
 And they shall be one flesh, one heart, one soul.
 She heard me thus; and though divinely brought,

Yet innocence, and virgin modesty,
 Her virtue, and the conscience of her worth, 550
 That would be wooed, and not unsought be won,

Not obvious, not obtrusive, but, retired,
 The more desirable; or, to say all,
 Nature herself, though pure of sinful thought,
 Wrought in her so, that, seeing me, she turned:
 I followed her; she what was honour knew,
 And with obsequious majesty approved
 My pleaded reason. To the nuptial bower
 I led her blushing like the morn: All Heaven,
 And happy constellations, on that hour 560
 Shed their selectest influence; the Earth
 Gave sign of gratulation, and each hill;
 Joyous the birds; fresh gales and gentle airs
 Whispered it to the woods, and from their wings
 Flung rose, flung odours from the spicy shrub, Disporting, till the amorous bird of night
 Sung spousal, and bid haste the evening-star
 On his hill top, to light the bridal lamp.

Thus have I told thee all my state, and brought 570

My story to the sum of earthly bliss,
 Which I enjoy; and must confess to find
 In all things else delight indeed, but such As, used or not, works in the mind no change,
 Nor vehement desire; these delicacies
 I mean of taste, sight, smell, herbs, fruits, and
 flowers,
 Walks, and the melody of birds: but here
 Far otherwise, transported I behold,

Transported touch; here passion first I felt,
 Commotion strange! in all enjoyments else 580
 Superiour and unmoved; here only weak
 Against the charm of Beauty's powerful glance.

Or Nature failed in me, and left some part
 Not proof enough such object to sustain;
 Or, from my side subducting, took perhaps More than enough; at least on her bestowed
 Too much of ornament, in outward show
 Elaborate, of inward less exact. 590

For well I understand in the prime end
 Of Nature her the inferiour, in the mind
 And inward faculties, which most excel;
 In outward also her resembling less
 His image who made both, and less expressing
 The character of that dominion given O'er other creatures: Yet when I approach Her loveliness, so absolute she seems
 And in herself complete, so well to know
 Her own, that what she wills to do or say, 600
 Seems wisest, virtuousest, discreetest, best:
 All higher knowledge in her presence falls Degraded; Wisdom in discourse with her
 Loses discountenanced, and like Folly shows;
 Authority and Reason on her wait,
 As one intended first, not after made Occasionally; and, to consummate all,
 Greatness of mind and Nobleness their seat
 Build in her loveliest, and create an awe
 About her, as a guard angelick placed. 610

To whom the Angel with contracted brow.
 Accuse not Nature, she hath done her part;
 Do thou but thine; and be not diffident
 Of Wisdom; she deserts thee not, if thou Dismiss not her, when most thou needest her
 nigh,
 By attributing overmuch to things
 Less excellent, as thou thyself perceivest.

620

For, what admirest thou, what transports thee so,
 An outside? fair, no doubt, and worthy well
 Thy cherishing, thy honouring, and thy love;
 Not thy subjection: Weigh with her thyself;
 Then value: Oft-times nothing profits more Than self-esteem, grounded on just and right Well managed; of that skill the more thou know-
 est,
 The more she will acknowledge thee her head,
 And to realities yield all her shows:
 Made so adorn for thy delight the more, 630
 So awful, that with honour thou mayest love Thy mate, who sees when thou art seen least wise.

But if the sense of touch, whereby mankind
 Is propagated, seem such dear delight
 Beyond all other; think the same vouchsafed
 To cattle and each beast; which would not be
 To them made common and divulged, if aught
 Therein enjoyed were worthy to subdue
 The soul of man, or passion in him move. 640
 What higher in her society thou findest

Attractive, human, rational, love still;
In loving thou dost well, in passion not,
Wherein true love consists not: Love refines
The thoughts, and heart enlarges; hath his seat
In reason, and is judicious; is the scale
By which to heavenly love thou mayest ascend,
Not sunk in carnal pleasure; for which cause,
Among the beasts no mate for thee was found.

650

To whom thus, half abashed, Adam replied.
Neither her outside formed so fair, nor aught
In procreation common to all kinds, (Though higher of the genial bed by far,
And with mysterious reverence I deem,)
So much delights me, as those graceful acts,
Those thousand decencies, that daily flow
From all her words and actions mixed with love

660

And sweet compliance, which declare unfeigned
Union of mind, or in us both one soul;
Harmony to behold in wedded pair
More grateful than harmonious sound to the ear.
Yet these subject not; I to thee disclose
What inward thence I feel, not therefore foiled,
Who meet with various objects, from the sense
Variously representing; yet, still free,
Approve the best, and follow what I approve.670
To love, thou blamest me not; for Love, thou sayest,
Leads up to Heaven, is both the way and guide;
Bear with me then, if lawful what I ask:

Love not the heavenly Spirits, and how their love Express they? by looks only? or do they mix
Irradiance, virtual or immediate touch?
To whom the Angel, with a smile that glowed Celestial rosy red, Love's proper hue, Answered. Let it suffice thee that thou knowest 680

Us happy, and without love no happiness.

Whatever pure thou in the body enjoyest,
(And pure thou wert created) we enjoy
In eminence; and obstacle find none
Of membrane, joint, or limb, exclusive bars;
Easier than air with air, if Spirits embrace,
Total they mix, union of pure with pure Desiring, nor restrained conveyance need,
As flesh to mix with flesh, or soul with soul. 690

But I can now no more; the parting sun
Beyond the Earth's green Cape and verdant Isles Hesperian sets, my signal to depart.

Be strong, live happy, and love! But, first of all,
Him, whom to love is to obey, and keep His great command; take heed lest passion sway Thy judgement to do aught, which else free will
Would not admit: thine, and of all thy sons, 700
The weal or woe in thee is placed; beware!
I in thy persevering shall rejoice,
And all the Blest: Stand fast; to stand or fall
Free in thine own arbitrement it lies.

Perfect within, no outward aid require;
And all temptation to transgress repel.

So saying, he arose; whom Adam thus Followed with benediction. Since to part, 710
Go, heavenly guest, ethereal Messenger,
Sent from whose sovran goodness I adore!
Gentle to me and affable hath been Thy condescension, and shall be honoured ever
With grateful memory: Thou to mankind
Be good and friendly still, and oft return!
So parted they; the Angel up to Heaven
From the thick shade, and Adam to his bower.

BOOK IX

No more of talk where God or Angel guest
With Man, as with his friend, familiar us'd,
To sit indulgent, and with him partake Rural repast; permitting him the while Venial discourse unblam'd. I now must change
Those notes to tragick; foul distrust, and breach Disloyal on the part of Man, revolt,
And disobedience: on the part of Heaven
Now alienated, distance and distaste,
Anger and just rebuke, and judgement given, 10
That brought into this world a world of woe,
Sin and her shadow Death, and Misery
Death's harbinger: Sad task! yet argument
Not less but more heroick than the wrath
Of stern Achilles on his foe pursued Thrice fugitive about Troy wall; or rage
Of Turnus for Lavinia disespous'd;
Or Neptune's ire, or Juno's, that so long Perplexed the Greek, and Cytherea's son:
If answerable style I can obtain 20

Of my celestial patroness, who deigns
 Her nightly visitation unimplor'd,
 And dictates to me slumbering; or inspires
 Easy my unpremeditated verse:
 Since first this subject for heroick song
 Pleas'd me long choosing, and beginning late;
 Not sedulous by nature to indite
 Wars, hitherto the only argument
 Heroick deem'd chief mastery to dissect
 With long and tedious havock fabled knights 30
 In battles feign'd; the better fortitude
 Of patience and heroick martyrdom
 Unsung; or to describe races and games,
 Or tilting furniture, imblazon'd shields,
 Impresses quaint, caparisons and steeds,
 Bases and tinsel trappings, gorgeous knights
 At joust and tournament; then marshall'd feast
 Serv'd up in hall with sewers and seneshals;
 The skill of artifice or office mean,
 Not that which justly gives heroick name 40
 To person, or to poem. Me, of these Nor skill'd nor studious, higher argument Remains; sufficient of itself to raise
 That name, unless an age too late, or cold Climate, or years, damp my intended wing
 Depress'd; and much they may, if all be mine,
 Not hers, who brings it nightly to my ear.
 The sun was sunk, and after him the star
 Of Hesperus, whose office is to bring 50
 Twilight upon the earth, short arbiter
 'Twixt day and night, and now from end to end Night's hemisphere had veil'd the horizon

round:

When satan, who late fled before the threats
Of Gabriel out of Eden, now improv'd
In meditated fraud and malice, bent
On Man's destruction, maugre what might hap
Of heavier on himself, fearless returned
By night he fled, and at midnight returned
From compassing the earth; cautious of day, 60
Since Uriel, regent of the sun, descried
His entrance, and forewarned the Cherubim
That kept their watch; thence full of anguish driven,
The space of seven continued nights he rode
With darkness; thrice the equinoctial line
He circled; four times crossed the car of night
From pole to pole, traversing each colure;
On the eighth returned; and, on the coast averse
From entrance or Cherubick watch, by stealth Found unsuspected way. There was a place, 70 Now not, though sin, not time, first wrought the
change,
Where Tigris, at the foot of Paradise,
Into a gulf shot under ground, till part
Rose up a fountain by the tree of life:
In with the river sunk, and with it rose
Satan, involved in rising mist; then sought
Where to lie hid; sea he had searched, and land,
From Eden over Pontus and the pool
Maeotis, up beyond the river Ob;
Downward as far antarctick; and in length, 80
West from Orontes to the ocean barred
At Darien; thence to the land where flows

Ganges and Indus: Thus the orb he roamed
 With narrow search; and with inspection deep Considered every creature, which of all Most opportune might serve his wiles; and
 found
 The Serpent subtlest beast of all the field.

Him after long debate, irresolute
 Of thoughts revolved, his final sentence chose⁹⁰ Fit vessel, fittest imp of fraud, in whom
 To enter, and his dark suggestions hide
 From sharpest sight: for, in the wily snake
 Whatever sleights, none would suspicious mark,
 As from his wit and native subtlety
 Proceeding; which, in other beasts observed,
 Doubt might beget of diabolick power
 Active within, beyond the sense of brute.

Thus he resolved, but first from inward grief¹⁰⁰
 His bursting passion into plaints thus poured.

More justly, seat worthier of Gods, as built
 With second thoughts, reforming what was old!
 O Earth, how like to Heaven, if not preferred
 For what God, after better, worse would build?
 Terrestrial Heaven, danced round by other Heavens

That shine, yet bear their bright officious lamps, Light above light, for thee alone, as seems,
 In thee concentrating all their precious beams¹¹⁰
 Of sacred influence! As God in Heaven
 Is center, yet extends to all; so thou,
 Centring, receivest from all those orbs: in thee,
 Not in themselves, all their known virtue appears

 Productive in herb, plant, and nobler birth
 Of creatures animate with gradual life
 Of growth, sense, reason, all summed up in Man.
 With what delight could I have walked thee
 round,
 If I could joy in aught, sweet interchange 120
 Of hill, and valley, rivers, woods, and plains, Now land, now sea and shores with forest
 crowned,
 Rocks, dens, and caves! But I in none of these Find place or refuge; and the more I see Pleasures about me, so much more I feel Torment within me, as from the hateful siege
 Of contraries: all good to me becomes Bane, and in Heaven much worse would be my state.

But neither here seek I, no nor in Heaven 130
 To dwell, unless by mastering Heaven's
 Supreme;
 Nor hope to be myself less miserable
 By what I seek, but others to make such
 As I, though thereby worse to me redound:
 For only in destroying I find ease
 To my relentless thoughts; and, him destroyed,
 Or won to what may work his utter loss,
 For whom all this was made, all this will soon
 Follow, as to him linked in weal or woe;
 In woe then; that destruction wide may range:
 140
 To me shall be the glory sole among

The infernal Powers, in one day to have marred
What he, Almighty styled, six nights and days
Continued making; and who knows how long Before had been contriving? though perhaps Not longer than since I, in one night, freed
From servitude inglorious well nigh half
The angelick name, and thinner left the throng
Of his adorers: He, to be avenged,
And to repair his numbers thus impaired, 150
Whether such virtue spent of old now failed
More Angels to create, if they at least
Are his created, or, to spite us more,
Determined to advance into our room
A creature formed of earth, and him endow,
Exalted from so base original,
With heavenly spoils, our spoils: What he decreed,
He effected; Man he made, and for him built Magnificent this world, and earth his seat,
Him lord pronounced; and, O indignity! 160
Subjected to his service angel-wings,
And flaming ministers to watch and tend
Their earthly charge: Of these the vigilance
I dread; and, to elude, thus wrapt in mist
Of midnight vapour glide obscure, and pry
In every bush and brake, where hap may find
The serpent sleeping; in whose mazy folds
To hide me, and the dark intent I bring.
O foul descent! that I, who erst contended 170
With Gods to sit the highest, am now constrained
Into a beast; and, mixed with bestial slime,

This essence to incarnate and imbrute,
 That to the highth of Deity aspired!
 But what will not ambition and revenge
 Descend to? Who aspires, must down as low
 As high he soared; obnoxious, first or last,
 To basest things. Revenge, at first though sweet, Bitter ere long, back on itself recoils:
 Let it; I reck not, so it light well aimed, 180
 Since higher I fall short, on him who next Provokes my envy, this new favourite
 Of Heaven, this man of clay, son of despite,
 Whom, us the more to spite, his Maker raised
 From dust: Spite then with spite is best repaid.

So saying, through each thicket dank or dry,
 Like a black mist low-creeping, he held on His midnight-search, where soonest he might

The serpent; him fast-sleeping soon he found¹⁹⁰
 In labyrinth of many a round self-rolled,
 His head the midst, well stored with subtle wiles:

Not yet in horrid shade or dismal den,
 Nor nocent yet; but, on the grassy herb,
 Fearless unfeared he slept: in at his mouth
 The Devil entered; and his brutal sense,
 In heart or head, possessing, soon inspired
 With act intelligential; but his sleep Disturbed not, waiting close the approach of morn.

200

Now, when as sacred light began to dawn
 In Eden on the humid flowers, that breathed

Their morning incense, when all things, that breathe,
 From the Earth's great altar send up silent praise
 To the Creator, and his nostrils fill
 With grateful smell, forth came the human pair,
 And joined their vocal worship to the quire
 Of creatures wanting voice; that done, partake
 The season prime for sweetest scents and airs:
 Then commune, how that day they best may ply 210

Their growing work: for much their work outgrew
 The hands' dispatch of two gardening so wide,
 And Eve first to her husband thus began.

Adam, well may we labour still to dress
 This garden, still to tend plant, herb, and flower,
 Our pleasant task enjoined; but, till more hands
 Aid us, the work under our labour grows,
 Luxurious by restraint; what we by day
 Lop overgrown, or prune, or prop, or bind, 220
 One night or two with wanton growth derides Tending to wild. Thou therefore now advise,
 Or bear what to my mind first thoughts present:
 Let us divide our labours; thou, where choice Leads thee, or where most needs, whether to wind

The woodbine round this arbour, or direct
 The clasping ivy where to climb; while I,
 In yonder spring of roses intermixed
 With myrtle, find what to redress till noon:
 For, while so near each other thus all day 230
 Our task we choose, what wonder if so near

Looks intervene and smiles, or object new Casual discourse draw on; which intermits
 Our day's work, brought to little, though begun
 Early, and the hour of supper comes unearned?
 To whom mild answer Adam thus returned.

Sole Eve, associate sole, to me beyond
 Compare above all living creatures dear!
 Well hast thou motioned, well thy thoughts employed, 240

How we might best fulfil the work which here
 God hath assigned us; nor of me shalt pass Unpraised: for nothing lovelier can be found
 In woman, than to study household good,
 And good works in her husband to promote.

Yet not so strictly hath our Lord imposed Labour, as to debar us when we need Refreshment, whether food, or talk between,
 Food of the mind, or this sweet intercourse 250
 Of looks and smiles; for smiles from reason flow,
 To brute denied, and are of love the food;
 Love, not the lowest end of human life.

For not to irksome toil, but to delight,
 He made us, and delight to reason joined.

These paths and bowers doubt not but our joint hands

Will keep from wilderness with ease, as wide
 As we need walk, till younger hands ere long 260 Assist us; But, if much converse perhaps Thee satiate, to short absence I could yield:
 For solitude sometimes is best society,
 And short retirement urges sweet return.

But other doubt possesses me, lest harm
 Befall thee severed from me; for thou knowest
 What hath been warned us, what malicious foe
 Envyng our happiness, and of his own
 Despairing, seeks to work us woe and shame²⁷⁰
 By sly assault; and somewhere nigh at hand Watches, no doubt, with greedy hope to find
 His wish and best advantage, us asunder;
 Hopeless to circumvent us joined, where each
 To other speedy aid might lend at need:
 Whether his first design be to withdraw
 Our fealty from God, or to disturb Conjugal love, than which perhaps no bliss Enjoyed by us excites his envy more;
 Or this, or worse, leave not the faithful side ²⁸⁰
 That gave thee being, still shades thee, and protects.

The wife, where danger or dishonour lurks,
 Safest and seemliest by her husband stays,
 Who guards her, or with her the worst endures.

To whom the virgin majesty of Eve,
 As one who loves, and some unkindness meets,
 With sweet austere composure thus replied. ²⁹⁰

Offspring of Heaven and Earth, and all Earth's Lord!

That such an enemy we have, who seeks
 Our ruin, both by thee informed I learn,
 And from the parting Angel over-heard,
 As in a shady nook I stood behind,
 Just then returned at shut of evening flowers.

But, that thou shouldst my firmness therefore doubt

To God or thee, because we have a foe
May tempt it, I expected not to hear. 300

His violence thou fearest not, being such
As we, not capable of death or pain,
Can either not receive, or can repel.

His fraud is then thy fear; which plain infers
Thy equal fear, that my firm faith and love
Can by his fraud be shaken or seduced;
Thoughts, which how found they harbour in thy breast,
Adam, mis-thought of her to thee so dear? 310
To whom with healing words Adam replied.

Daughter of God and Man, immortal Eve!
For such thou art; from sin and blame entire:
Not diffident of thee do I dissuade Thy absence from my sight, but to avoid
The attempt itself, intended by our foe.

For he who tempts, though in vain, at least asperses
The tempted with dishonour foul; supposed 320
Not incorruptible of faith, not proof
Against temptation: Thou thyself with scorn
And anger wouldst resent the offered wrong,
Though ineffectual found: misdeem not then,
If such affront I labour to avert
From thee alone, which on us both at once
The enemy, though bold, will hardly dare;
Or daring, first on me the assault shall light.

Nor thou his malice and false guile contemn; 330
 Subtle he needs must be, who could seduce
 Angels; nor think superfluous other's aid.

I, from the influence of thy looks, receive Access in every virtue; in thy sight
 More wise, more watchful, stronger, if need were Of outward strength; while shame, thou looking
 on,

Shame to be overcome or over-reached,
 Would utmost vigour raise, and raised unite.

340

Why shouldst not thou like sense within thee feel

When I am present, and thy trial choose
 With me, best witness of thy virtue tried?
 So spake domestick Adam in his care
 And matrimonial love; but Eve, who thought Less attributed to her faith sincere,
 Thus her reply with accent sweet renewed.

If this be our condition, thus to dwell
 In narrow circuit straitened by a foe, 350

Subtle or violent, we not endued
 Single with like defence, wherever met;
 How are we happy, still in fear of harm?
 But harm precedes not sin: only our foe,
 Tempting, affronts us with his foul esteem
 Of our integrity: his foul esteem
 Sticks no dishonour on our front, but turns Foul on himself; then wherefore shunned or feared

By us? who rather double honour gain

From his surmise proved false; find peace within, 360
 Favour from Heaven, our witness, from the event.

And what is faith, love, virtue, unassayed
 Alone, without exterior help sustained?
 Let us not then suspect our happy state
 Left so imperfect by the Maker wise,
 As not secure to single or combined.
 Frail is our happiness, if this be so,
 And Eden were no Eden, thus exposed. 370

To whom thus Adam fervently replied.
 O Woman, best are all things as the will Of God ordained them: His creating hand
 Nothing imperfect or deficient left
 Of all that he created, much less Man,
 Or aught that might his happy state secure,
 Secure from outward force; within himself
 The danger lies, yet lies within his power: 380
 Against his will he can receive no harm.

But God left free the will; for what obeys Reason, is free; and Reason he made right,
 But bid her well be ware, and still erect;
 Lest, by some fair-appearing good surprised,
 She dictate false; and mis-inform the will
 To do what God expressly hath forbid.
 Not then mistrust, but tender love, enjoins, 390
 That I should mind thee oft; and mind thou me.
 Firm we subsist, yet possible to swerve;
 Since Reason not impossibly may meet

Some specious object by the foe suborned,
 And fall into deception unaware,
 Not keeping strictest watch, as she was warned.

Seek not temptation then, which to avoid
 Were better, and most likely if from me 400
 Thou sever not: Trial will come unsought.

Wouldst thou approve thy constancy, approve
 First thy obedience; the other who can know,
 Not seeing thee attempted, who attest?
 But, if thou think, trial unsought may find Us both securer than thus warned thou seemest,
 Go; for thy stay, not free, absents thee more;
 Go in thy native innocence, rely
 On what thou hast of virtue; summon all! 410
 For God towards thee hath done his part, do thine.

So spake the patriarch of mankind; but Eve
 Persisted; yet submiss, though last, replied.

With thy permission then, and thus forewarned
 Chiefly by what thy own last reasoning words
 Touched only; that our trial, when least sought,
 May find us both perhaps far less prepared,
 The willinger I go, nor much expect 420
 A foe so proud will first the weaker seek;
 So bent, the more shall shame him his repulse.

Thus saying, from her husband's hand her hand Soft she withdrew; and, like a Wood-Nymph
 light,
 Oread or Dryad, or of Delia's train,
 Betook her to the groves; but Delia's self

In gait surpassed, and Goddess-like deport, Though not as she with bow and quiver armed,
 But with such gardening tools as Art yet rude, 430

Guiltless of fire, had formed, or Angels brought.

To Pales, or Pomona, thus adorned,
 Likest she seemed, Pomona when she fled Vertumnus, or to Ceres in her prime,
 Yet virgin of Proserpina from Jove.

Her long with ardent look his eye pursued Delighted, but desiring more her stay.

440

Oft he to her his charge of quick return
 Repeated; she to him as oft engaged
 To be returned by noon amid the bower,
 And all things in best order to invite Noontide repast, or afternoon's repose.

O much deceived, much failing, hapless Eve,
 Of thy presumed return! event perverse!
 Thou never from that hour in Paradise
 Foundst either sweet repast, or sound repose; 450 Such ambush, hid among sweet flowers and shades,

Waited with hellish rancour imminent
 To intercept thy way, or send thee back
 Deprived of innocence, of faith, of bliss!
 For now, and since first break of dawn, the Fiend,
 Mere serpent in appearance, forth was come;
 And on his quest, where likeliest he might find
 The only two of mankind, but in them
 The whole included race, his purposed prey.

In bower and field he sought, where any tuft
 Of grove or garden-plot more pleasant lay,
 Their tendance, or plantation for delight;
 By fountain or by shady rivulet
 He sought them both, but wished his hap might find

Eve separate; he wished, but not with hope
 Of what so seldom chanced; when to his wish,
 Beyond his hope, Eve separate he spies,
 Veiled in a cloud of fragrance, where she stood,
 Half spied, so thick the roses blushing round⁴⁷⁰
 About her glowed, oft stooping to support Each flower of slender stalk, whose head, though gay

Carnation, purple, azure, or specked with gold, Hung drooping unsustained; them she upstays Gently with myrtle band, mindless the while Herself, though fairest unsupported flower,
 From her best prop so far, and storm so nigh.

Nearer he drew, and many a walk traversed
 Of stateliest covert, cedar, pine, or palm; ⁴⁸⁰
 Then voluble and bold, now hid, now seen,
 Among thick-woven arborets, and flowers
 Imbordered on each bank, the hand of Eve:
 Spot more delicious than those gardens feigned
 Or of revived Adonis, or renowned Alcinous, host of old Laertes' son;
 Or that, not mystick, where the sapient king
 Held dalliance with his fair Egyptian spouse.

Much he the place admired, the person more.⁴⁹⁰

As one who long in populous city pent,
 Where houses thick and sewers annoy the air,
 Forth issuing on a summer's morn, to breathe
 Among the pleasant villages and farms Adjoined, from each thing met conceives de-
 light;

The smell of grain, or teded grass, or kine,
 Or dairy, each rural sight, each rural sound;
 If chance, with nymph-like step, fair virgin pass,
 What pleasing seemed, for her now pleases
 more; 500

She most, and in her look sums all delight:
 Such pleasure took the Serpent to behold
 This flowery plat, the sweet recess of Eve
 Thus early, thus alone: Her heavenly form
 Angelick, but more soft, and feminine,
 Her graceful innocence, her every air
 Of gesture, or least action, overawed
 His malice, and with rapine sweet bereaved
 His fierceness of the fierce intent it brought:
 That space the Evil-one abstracted stood 510
 From his own evil, and for the time remained Stupidly good; of enmity disarmed,
 Of guile, of hate, of envy, of revenge:
 But the hot Hell that always in him burns,
 Though in mid Heaven, soon ended his delight,
 And tortures him now more, the more he sees
 Of pleasure, not for him ordained: then soon
 Fierce hate he recollects, and all his thoughts
 Of mischief, gratulating, thus excites.

520

Thoughts, whither have ye led me! with what

sweet

Compulsion thus transported, to forget
 What hither brought us! hate, not love; nor hope
 Of Paradise for Hell, hope here to taste
 Of pleasure; but all pleasure to destroy,
 Save what is in destroying; other joy
 To me is lost. Then, let me not let pass Occasion which now smiles; behold alone
 The woman, opportune to all attempts,
 Her husband, for I view far round, not nigh, 530
 Whose higher intellectual more I shun,
 And strength, of courage haughty, and of limb
 Heroick built, though of terrestrial mould;
 Foe not formidable! exempt from wound,
 I not; so much hath Hell debased, and pain
 Enfeebled me, to what I was in Heaven.

She fair, divinely fair, fit love for Gods!
 Not terrible, though terrour be in love
 And beauty, not approached by stronger hate, 540

Hate stronger, under show of love well feigned;
 The way which to her ruin now I tend.

So spake the enemy of mankind, enclosed
 In serpent, inmate bad! and toward Eve
 Addressed his way: not with indented wave,
 Prone on the ground, as since; but on his rear,
 Circular base of rising folds, that towered
 Fold above fold, a surging maze! his head
 Crested aloft, and carbuncle his eyes; 550
 With burnished neck of verdant gold, erect Amidst his circling spires, that on the grass

Floated redundant: pleasing was his shape
 And lovely; never since of serpent-kind
 Lovelier, not those that in Illyria changed,
 Hermione and Cadmus, or the god
 In Epidaurus; nor to which transformed
 Ammonian Jove, or Capitoline, was seen;
 He with Olympias; this with her who bore Scipio, the highth of Rome. With tract oblique 560

At first, as one who sought access, but feared
 To interrupt, side-long he works his way.

As when a ship, by skilful steersmen wrought
 Nigh river's mouth or foreland, where the wind Veers oft, as oft so steers, and shifts her sail:
 So varied he, and of his tortuous train
 Curled many a wanton wreath in sight of Eve,
 To lure her eye; she, busied, heard the sound
 Of rusling leaves, but minded not, as used 570
 To such disport before her through the field,
 From every beast; more duteous at her call,
 Than at Circean call the herd disguised.

He, bolder now, uncalled before her stood,
 But as in gaze admiring: oft he bowed
 His turret crest, and sleek enamelled neck, Fawning; and licked the ground whereon she trod.

His gentle dumb expression turned at length 580
 The eye of Eve to mark his play; he, glad
 Of her attention gained, with serpent-tongue
 Organick, or impulse of vocal air,
 His fraudulent temptation thus began.

Wonder not, sovran Mistress, if perhaps Thou canst, who art sole wonder! much less arm
 Thy looks, the Heaven of mildness, with disdain, Displeas'd that I approach thee thus, and gaze
 Insatiate; I thus single; nor have feared 590
 Thy awful brow, more awful thus retired.

Fairest resemblance of thy Maker fair,
 Thee all things living gaze on, all things thine
 By gift, and thy celestial beauty adore
 With ravishment beheld! there best beheld,
 Where universally admired; but here
 In this enclosure wild, these beasts among, Beholders rude, and shallow to discern
 Half what in thee is fair, one man except, 600
 Who sees thee? and what is one? who should be seen

A Goddess among Gods, adored and served
 By Angels numberless, thy daily train.

So gloz'd the Tempter, and his proem tuned:
 Into the heart of Eve his words made way,
 Though at the voice much marvelling; at length,
 Not unamazed, she thus in answer spake.

What may this mean? language of man pronounced 610

By tongue of brute, and human sense expressed?
 The first, at least, of these I thought denied
 To beasts; whom God, on their creation-day, Created mute to all articulate sound:
 The latter I demur; for in their looks Much reason, and in their actions, oft appears.
 Thee, Serpent, subtlest beast of all the field

I knew, but not with human voice endued;
 Redouble then this miracle, and say, 620
 How camest thou speakable of mute, and how To me so friendly grown above the rest
 Of brutal kind, that daily are in sight?
 Say, for such wonder claims attention due.

To whom the guileful Tempter thus replied.

Empress of this fair world, resplendent Eve!
 Easy to me it is to tell thee all What thou commandest; and right thou shouldst be obeyed: 630

I was at first as other beasts that graze
 The trodden herb, of abject thoughts and low,
 As was my food; nor aught but food discerned
 Or sex, and apprehended nothing high:
 Till, on a day roving the field, I chanced
 A goodly tree far distant to behold
 Loaden with fruit of fairest colours mixed,
 Ruddy and gold: I nearer drew to gaze;
 When from the boughs a savoury odour blown,
 Grateful to appetite, more pleased my sense 640
 Than smell of sweetest fennel, or the teats
 Of ewe or goat dropping with milk at even,
 Unsucked of lamb or kid, that tend their play.

To satisfy the sharp desire I had
 Of tasting those fair apples, I resolved
 Not to defer; hunger and thirst at once,
 Powerful persuaders, quickened at the scent
 Of that alluring fruit, urged me so keen. 650

About the mossy trunk I wound me soon;

For, high from ground, the branches would require

Thy utmost reach or Adam's: Round the tree
All other beasts that saw, with like desire Longing and envying stood, but could not reach.

Amid the tree now got, where plenty hung Tempting so nigh, to pluck and eat my fill
I spared not; for, such pleasure till that hour,
At feed or fountain, never had I found. 660

Sated at length, ere long I might perceive Strange alteration in me, to degree
Of reason in my inward powers; and speech
Wanted not long; though to this shape retained.

Thenceforth to speculations high or deep
I turned my thoughts, and with capacious mind
Considered all things visible in Heaven,
Or Earth, or Middle; all things fair and good:670
But all that fair and good in thy divine
Semblance, and in thy beauty's heavenly ray,
United I beheld; no fair to thine
Equivalent or second! which compelled Me thus, though importune perhaps, to come
And gaze, and worship thee of right declared
Sovran of creatures, universal Dame!
So talked the spirited sly Snake; and Eve,
Yet more amazed, unwary thus replied.

680

Serpent, thy overpraising leaves in doubt
The virtue of that fruit, in thee first proved:
But say, where grows the tree? from hence how far?

For many are the trees of God that grow
 In Paradise, and various, yet unknown
 To us; in such abundance lies our choice,
 As leaves a greater store of fruit untouched,
 Still hanging incorruptible, till men
 Grow up to their provision, and more hands
 Help to disburden Nature of her birth. 690

To whom the wily Adder, blithe and glad.

Empress, the way is ready, and not long;
 Beyond a row of myrtles, on a flat,
 Fast by a fountain, one small thicket past
 Of blowing myrrh and balm: if thou accept
 My conduct, I can bring thee thither soon Lead then, said Eve. He, leading, swiftly rolled In tangles, and made intricate seem straight, 700
 To mischief swift. Hope elevates, and joy
 Brightens his crest; as when a wandering fire,
 Compact of unctuous vapour, which the night
 Condenses, and the cold environs round,
 Kindled through agitation to a flame,
 Which oft, they say, some evil Spirit attends,
 Hovering and blazing with delusive light, Misleads the amazed night-wanderer from his way

To bogs and mires, and oft through pond or pool;
 There swallowed up and lost, from succour far.
 710

So glistered the dire Snake, and into fraud
 Led Eve, our credulous mother, to the tree
 Of prohibition, root of all our woe;
 Which when she saw, thus to her guide she

spake.

Serpent, we might have spared our coming
hither,

Fruitless to me, though fruit be here to excess,
The credit of whose virtue rest with thee;
Wonderous indeed, if cause of such effects. 720

But of this tree we may not taste nor touch;
God so commanded, and left that command
Sole daughter of his voice; the rest, we live
Law to ourselves; our reason is our law.

To whom the Tempter guilefully replied.

Indeed! hath God then said that of the fruit
Of all these garden-trees ye shall not eat, 730
Yet Lords declared of all in earth or air?

To whom thus Eve, yet sinless. Of the fruit
Of each tree in the garden we may eat;
But of the fruit of this fair tree amidst
The garden, God hath said, Ye shall not eat Thereof, nor shall ye touch it, lest ye die.

She scarce had said, though brief, when now more bold

The Tempter, but with show of zeal and love
To Man, and indignation at his wrong, 740
New part puts on; and, as to passion moved,
Fluctuates disturbed, yet comely and in act
Raised, as of some great matter to begin.

As when of old some orator renowned,
In Athens or free Rome, where eloquence Flourished, since mute! to some great cause addressed,

Stood in himself collected; while each part,
 Motion, each act, won audience ere the tongue;
 Sometimes in highth began, as no delay 750
 Of preface brooking, through his zeal of right:
 So standing, moving, or to highth up grown,
 The Tempter, all impassioned, thus began.

O sacred, wise, and wisdom-giving Plant,
 Mother of science! now I feel thy power Within me clear; not only to discern Things in their causes, but to trace the ways
 Of highest agents, deemed however wise. 760

Queen of this universe! do not believe
 Those rigid threats of death: ye shall not die:
 How should you? by the fruit? it gives you life
 To knowledge; by the threatener? look on me,
 Me, who have touched and tasted; yet both live,
 And life more perfect have attained than Fate
 Meant me, by venturing higher than my lot.

Shall that be shut to Man, which to the Beast
 Is open? or will God incense his ire 770
 For such a petty trespass? and not praise
 Rather your dauntless virtue, whom the pain
 Of death denounced, whatever thing death be,
 Deterred not from achieving what might lead
 To happier life, knowledge of good and evil;
 Of good, how just? of evil, if what is evil
 Be real, why not known, since easier shunned?
 God therefore cannot hurt ye, and be just;
 Not just, not God; not feared then, nor obeyed:
 Your fear itself of death removes the fear. 780

Why then was this forbid? Why, but to awe;
 Why, but to keep ye low and ignorant,
 His worshippers? He knows that in the day
 Ye eat thereof, your eyes that seem so clear,
 Yet are but dim, shall perfectly be then Opened and cleared, and ye shall be as Gods,
 Knowing both good and evil, as they know.

That ye shall be as Gods, since I as Man, 790
 Internal Man, is but proportion meet;
 I, of brute, human; ye, of human, Gods.

So ye shall die perhaps, by putting off
 Human, to put on Gods; death to be wished, Though threatened, which no worse than this can bring.

And what are Gods, that Man may not become
 As they, participating God-like food?
 The Gods are first, and that advantage use 800
 On our belief, that all from them proceeds:
 I question it; for this fair earth I see,
 Warmed by the sun, producing every kind;
 Them, nothing: if they all things, who enclosed
 Knowledge of good and evil in this tree,
 That whoso eats thereof, forthwith attains Wisdom without their leave? and wherein lies The offence, that Man should thus attain to know?

What can your knowledge hurt him, or this tree
 Impart against his will, if all be his? 810
 Or is it envy? and can envy dwell In heavenly breasts? These, these, and many more

Causes import your need of this fair fruit.

Goddess humane, reach then, and freely taste!
 He ended; and his words, replete with guile,
 Into her heart too easy entrance won:
 Fixed on the fruit she gazed, which to behold
 Might tempt alone; and in her ears the sound
 Yet rung of his persuasive words, impregn'd
 With reason, to her seeming, and with truth:
 Mean while the hour of noon drew on, and waked

An eager appetite, raised by the smell
 So savoury of that fruit, which with desire,
 Inclined now grown to touch or taste,
 Solicited her longing eye; yet first
 Pausing a while, thus to herself she mused.

Great are thy virtues, doubtless, best of fruits, Though kept from man, and worthy to be admired; 830

Whose taste, too long forborn, at first assay
 Gave elocution to the mute, and taught The tongue not made for speech to speak thy praise:

Thy praise he also, who forbids thy use,
 Conceals not from us, naming thee the tree
 Of knowledge, knowledge both of good and evil;
 Forbids us then to taste! but his forbidding Commends thee more, while it infers the good
 By thee communicated, and our want:
 For good unknown sure is not had; or, had 840
 And yet unknown, is as not had at all.

In plain then, what forbids he but to know,

Forbids us good, forbids us to be wise?
Such prohibitions bind not. But, if death Bind us with after-bands, what profits then Our inward freedom? In the day we eat
Of this fair fruit, our doom is, we shall die!
How dies the Serpent? he hath eaten and lives,
And knows, and speaks, and reasons, and discerns, 850

Irrational till then. For us alone
Was death invented? or to us denied
This intellectual food, for beasts reserved?
For beasts it seems: yet that one beast which first Hath tasted envies not, but brings with joy
The good befallen him, author unsuspect,
Friendly to man, far from deceit or guile.

What fear I then? rather, what know to fear Under this ignorance of good and evil, 860
Of God or death, of law or penalty?
Here grows the cure of all, this fruit divine,
Fair to the eye, inviting to the taste,
Of virtue to make wise: What hinders then
To reach, and feed at once both body and mind?
So saying, her rash hand in evil hour
Forth reaching to the fruit, she plucked, she eat!
Earth felt the wound; and Nature from her seat, Sighing through all her works, gave signs of woe,

That all was lost. Back to the thicket slunk 870
The guilty Serpent; and well might; for Eve,
Intent now wholly on her taste, nought else Regarded; such delight till then, as seemed,
In fruit she never tasted, whether true

Or fancied so, through expectation high
 Of knowledge; not was Godhead from her thought.

Greedily she ingorged without restraint,
 And knew not eating death: Sate at length,
 And hightened as with wine, jocund and boon, 880

Thus to herself she pleasingly began.

O sovran, virtuous, precious of all trees
 In Paradise! of operation blest
 To sapience, hitherto obscured, infamed.

And thy fair fruit let hang, as to no end
 Created; but henceforth my early care,
 Not without song, each morning, and due
 praise,

Shall tend thee, and the fertile burden ease 890
 Of thy full branches offered free to all;

Till, dieted by thee, I grow mature
 In knowledge, as the Gods, who all things know; Though others envy what they cannot give:
 For, had the gift been theirs, it had not here
 Thus grown. Experience, next, to thee I owe,
 Best guide; not following thee, I had remained
 In ignorance; thou openest wisdom's way,
 And givest access, though secret she retire.

900

And I perhaps am secret: Heaven is high,
 High, and remote to see from thence distinct Each thing on Earth; and other care perhaps May have diverted from continual watch
 Our great Forbidder, safe with all his spies

About him. But to Adam in what sort Shall I appear? shall I to him make known
 As yet my change, and give him to partake Full happiness with me, or rather not,
 But keeps the odds of knowledge in my power 910

Without copartner? so to add what wants
 In female sex, the more to draw his love,
 And render me more equal; and perhaps,
 A thing not undesirable, sometime
 Superiour; for, inferiour, who is free
 This may be well: But what if God have seen,
 And death ensue? then I shall be no more!
 And Adam, wedded to another Eve,
 Shall live with her enjoying, I extinct;
 A death to think! Confirmed then I resolve, 920
 Adam shall share with me in bliss or woe:
 So dear I love him, that with him all deaths
 I could endure, without him live no life.

So saying, from the tree her step she turned;
 But first low reverence done, as to the Power
 That dwelt within, whose presence had infused
 Into the plant sciential sap, derived From nectar, drink of Gods. Adam the while,
 Waiting desirous her return, had wove 930
 Of choicest flowers a garland, to adorn
 Her tresses, and her rural labours crown;
 As reapers oft are wont their harvest-queen.

Great joy he promised to his thoughts, and new Solace in her return, so long delayed:
 Yet oft his heart, divine of something ill,

Misgave him; he the faltering measure felt;
And forth to meet her went, the way she took
That morn when first they parted: by the tree⁹⁴⁰
Of knowledge he must pass; there he her met,
Scarce from the tree returning; in her hand
A bough of fairest fruit, that downy smiled,
New gathered, and ambrosial smell diffused.

To him she hasted; in her face excuse
Came prologue, and apology too prompt;
Which, with bland words at will, she thus addressed.

Hast thou not wondered, Adam, at my stay? ⁹⁵⁰ Thee I have missed, and thought it long, deprived

Thy presence; agony of love till now
Not felt, nor shall be twice; for never more Mean I to try, what rash untried I sought,
The pain of absence from thy sight. But strange Hath been the cause, and wonderful to hear:
This tree is not, as we are told, a tree
Of danger tasted, nor to evil unknown
Opening the way, but of divine effect
To open eyes, and make them Gods who taste; ⁹⁶⁰

And hath been tasted such: The serpent wise,
Or not restrained as we, or not obeying,
Hath eaten of the fruit; and is become,
Not dead, as we are threatened, but thenceforth
Endued with human voice and human sense,
Reasoning to admiration; and with me
Persuasively hath so prevailed, that I

Have also tasted, and have also found
 The effects to correspond; opener mine eyes,
 Dim erst, dilated spirits, ampler heart, 970
 And growing up to Godhead; which for thee
 Chiefly I sought, without thee can despise.

For bliss, as thou hast part, to me is bliss;
 Tedious, unshared with thee, and odious soon.

Thou therefore also taste, that equal lot
 May join us, equal joy, as equal love;
 Lest, thou not tasting, different degree
 Disjoin us, and I then too late renounce 980
 Deity for thee, when Fate will not permit.

Thus Eve with countenance blithe her story told;
 But in her cheek distemper flushing glowed.

On the other side Adam, soon as he heard
 The fatal trespass done by Eve, amazed,
 Astonied stood and blank, while horror chill
 Ran through his veins, and all his joints relaxed;
 From his slack hand the garland wreathed for
 Eve 990

Down dropt, and all the faded roses shed:
 Speechless he stood and pale, till thus at length
 First to himself he inward silence broke.

O fairest of Creation, last and best
 Of all God's works, Creature in whom excelled
 Whatever can to sight or thought be formed,
 Holy, divine, good, amiable, or sweet!
 How art thou lost! how on a sudden lost,
 Defaced, deflowered, and now to death devote!

1000

Rather, how hast thou yielded to transgress
 The strict forbiddance, how to violate
 The sacred fruit forbidden! Some cursed fraud
 Of enemy hath beguiled thee, yet unknown,
 And me with thee hath ruined; for with thee
 Certain my resolution is to die:
 How can I live without thee! how forego Thy sweet converse, and love so dearly joined,
 To live again in these wild woods forlorn!
 Should God create another Eve, and I 1010
 Another rib afford, yet loss of thee
 Would never from my heart: no, no! I feel
 The link of Nature draw me: flesh of flesh,
 Bone of my bone thou art, and from thy state Mine never shall be parted, bliss or woe.

So having said, as one from sad dismay
 Recomforted, and after thoughts disturbed
 Submitting to what seemed remediless, Thus in calm mood his words to Eve he turned.
 1020

Bold deed thou hast presumed, adventurous
 Eve,
 And peril great provoked, who thus hast dared,
 Had it been only coveting to eye
 That sacred fruit, sacred to abstinence,
 Much more to taste it under ban to touch.

But past who can recall, or done undo?
 Not God Omnipotent, nor Fate; yet so
 Perhaps thou shalt not die, perhaps the fact 1030
 Is not so heinous now, foretasted fruit,
 Profaned first by the serpent, by him first

Made common, and unhallowed, ere our taste;
 Nor yet on him found deadly; yet he lives;
 Lives, as thou saidst, and gains to live, as Man,
 Higher degree of life; inducement strong
 To us, as likely tasting to attain Proportional ascent; which cannot be
 But to be Gods, or Angels, demi-Gods.

1040

Nor can I think that God, Creator wise,
 Though threatening, will in earnest so destroy
 Us his prime creatures, dignified so high,
 Set over all his works; which in our fall,
 For us created, needs with us must fail,
 Dependant made; so God shall uncreate,
 Be frustrate, do, undo, and labour lose;
 Not well conceived of God, who, though his power
 Creation could repeat, yet would be loth
 Us to abolish, lest the Adversary 1050
 Triumph, and say; "Fickle their state whom God Most favours; who can please him long? Me first He ruined, now Mankind; whom will he next?"
 Matter of scorn, not to be given the Foe.

However I with thee have fixed my lot,
 Certain to undergo like doom: If death
 Consort with thee, death is to me as life;
 So forcible within my heart I feel
 The bond of Nature draw me to my own; 1060
 My own in thee, for what thou art is mine;
 Our state cannot be severed; we are one,
 One flesh; to lose thee were to lose myself.

So Adam; and thus Eve to him replied.

O glorious trial of exceeding love,
 Illustrious evidence, example high!
 Engaging me to emulate; but, short
 Of thy perfection, how shall I attain, 1070
 Adam, from whose dear side I boast me sprung,
 And gladly of our union hear thee speak,
 One heart, one soul in both; whereof good proof
 This day affords, declaring thee resolved, Rather than death, or aught than death more dread,

Shall separate us, linked in love so dear,
 To undergo with me one guilt, one crime,
 If any be, of tasting this fair fruit;
 Whose virtue for of good still good proceeds,
 Direct, or by occasion, hath presented 1080
 This happy trial of thy love, which else
 So eminently never had been known?
 Were it I thought death menaced would ensue
 This my attempt, I would sustain alone
 The worst, and not persuade thee, rather die
 Deserted, than oblige thee with a fact Pernicious to thy peace; chiefly assured
 Remarkably so late of thy so true,
 So faithful, love unequalled: but I feel
 Far otherwise the event; not death, but life 1090
 Augmented, opened eyes, new hopes, new joys,
 Taste so divine, that what of sweet before Hath touched my sense, flat seems to this, and harsh.

On my experience, Adam, freely taste,

And fear of death deliver to the winds.

So saying, she embraced him, and for joy
Tenderly wept; much won, that he his love
Had so ennobled, as of choice to incur 1100
Divine displeasure for her sake, or death.

In recompence (for such compliance bad Such recompence best merits) from the bough
She gave him of that fair enticing fruit
With liberal hand: he scrupled not to eat,
Against his better knowledge; not deceived,
But fondly overcome with female charm.

Earth trembled from her entrails, as again 1110
In pangs; and Nature gave a second groan; Sky loured; and, muttering thunder, some sad
drops

Wept at completing of the mortal sin
Original: while Adam took no thought,
Eating his fill; nor Eve to iterate
Her former trespass feared, the more to sooth
Him with her loved society; that now,
As with new wine intoxicated both,
They swim in mirth, and fancy that they feel Divinity within them breeding wings, 1120
Wherewith to scorn the earth: But that false fruit
Far other operation first displayed,
Carnal desire inflaming; he on Eve
Began to cast lascivious eyes; she him
As wantonly repaid; in lust they burn:
Till Adam thus 'gan Eve to dalliance move.

Eve, now I see thou art exact of taste,
And elegant, of sapience no small part;

Since to each meaning savour we apply, 1130
 And palate call judicious; I the praise
 Yield thee, so well this day thou hast purveyed.

Much pleasure we have lost, while we abstained
 From this delightful fruit, nor known till now True relish, tasting; if such pleasure be
 In things to us forbidden, it might be wished,
 For this one tree had been forbidden ten.

But come, so well refreshed, now let us play, 1140
 As meet is, after such delicious fare;
 For never did thy beauty, since the day
 I saw thee first and wedded thee, adorned
 With all perfections, so inflame my sense
 With ardour to enjoy thee, fairer now
 Than ever; bounty of this virtuous tree!
 So said he, and forbore not glance or toy
 Of amorous intent; well understood
 Of Eve, whose eye darted contagious fire.

1150

Her hand he seised; and to a shady bank,
 Thick over-head with verdant roof imbowered,
 He led her nothing loth; flowers were the couch,
 Pansies, and violets, and asphodel,
 And hyacinth; Earth's freshest softest lap.

There they their fill of love and love's disport
 Took largely, of their mutual guilt the seal,
 The solace of their sin; till dewy sleep Oppressed them, wearied with their amorous play, 1160
 Soon as the force of that fallacious fruit,
 That with exhilarating vapour bland

About their spirits had played, and inmost powers

Made err, was now exhaled; and grosser sleep,
 Bred of unkindly fumes, with conscious dreams
 Incumbered, now had left them; up they rose
 As from unrest; and, each the other viewing, Soon found their eyes how opened, and their minds

How darkened; innocence, that as a veil Had shadowed them from knowing ill, was gone; 1170

Just confidence, and native righteousness,
 And honour, from about them, naked left
 To guilty Shame; he covered, but his robe Uncovered more. So rose the Danite strong,
 Herculean Samson, from the harlot-lap
 Of Philistean Dalilah, and waked
 Shorn of his strength. They destitute and bare
 Of all their virtue: Silent, and in face
 Confounded, long they sat, as stricken mute:
 Till Adam, though not less than Eve abashed, 1180

At length gave utterance to these words constrained.

O Eve, in evil hour thou didst give ear
 To that false worm, of whomsoever taught
 To counterfeit Man's voice; true in our fall,
 False in our promised rising; since our eyes
 Opened we find indeed, and find we know Both good and evil; good lost, and evil got;
 Bad fruit of knowledge, if this be to know;
 Which leaves us naked thus, of honour void, 1190

Of innocence, of faith, of purity,
 Our wonted ornaments now soiled and stained,
 And in our faces evident the signs
 Of foul concupiscence; whence evil store;
 Even shame, the last of evils; of the first
 Be sure then.—How shall I behold the face
 Henceforth of God or Angel, erst with joy And rapture so oft beheld? Those heavenly shapes
 Will dazzle now this earthly with their blaze Insufferably bright. O! might I here 1200
 In solitude live savage; in some glade
 Obscured, where highest woods, impenetrable
 To star or sun-light, spread their umbrage broad
 And brown as evening: Cover me, ye Pines!
 Ye Cedars, with innumerable boughs
 Hide me, where I may never see them more!—
 But let us now, as in bad plight, devise
 What best may for the present serve to hide
 The parts of each from other, that seem most
 To shame obnoxious, and unseemliest seen; 1210
 Some tree, whose broad smooth leaves together sewed,
 And girded on our loins, may cover round
 Those middle parts; that this new comer, Shame,
 There sit not, and reproach us as unclean.
 So counselled he, and both together went Into the thickest wood; there soon they chose
 The fig-tree; not that kind for fruit renowned,
 But such as at this day, to Indians known,
 In Malabar or Decan spreads her arms 1220
 Branching so broad and long, that in the ground

The bended twigs take root, and daughters grow
 About the mother tree, a pillared shade
 High over-arched, and echoing walks between:
 There oft the Indian herdsman, shunning heat,
 Shelters in cool, and tends his pasturing herds At loop-holes cut through thickest shade: Those leaves

They gathered, broad as Amazonian targe;
 And, with what skill they had, together sewed,
 To gird their waist; vain covering, if to hide 1230 Their guilt and dreaded shame! O, how unlike To that first naked glory! Such of late Columbus found the American, so girt
 With feathered cincture; naked else, and wild
 Among the trees on isles and woody shores.

Thus fenced, and, as they thought, their shame in part

Covered, but not at rest or ease of mind,
 They sat them down to weep; nor only tears Rained at their eyes, but high winds worse
 within 1240

Began to rise, high passions, anger, hate,
 Mistrust, suspicion, discord; and shook sore
 Their inward state of mind, calm region once
 And full of peace, now tost and turbulent:
 For Understanding ruled not, and the Will Heard not her lore; both in subjection now
 To sensual Appetite, who from beneath Usurping over sovran Reason claimed Superiour sway: From thus distempered breast,
 Adam, estranged in look and altered style, 1250
 Speech intermitted thus to Eve renewed.

Would thou hadst hearkened to my words, and staid

With me, as I besought thee, when that strange Desire of wandering, this unhappy morn,
 I know not whence possessed thee; we had then Remained still happy; not, as now, despoiled
 Of all our good; shamed, naked, miserable!

Let none henceforth seek needless cause to approve

The faith they owe; when earnestly they seek 1260

Such proof, conclude, they then begin to fail.

To whom, soon moved with touch of blame, thus
 Eve.

What words have passed thy lips, Adam severe!
 Imputest thou that to my default, or will
 Of wandering, as thou callest it, which who knows

But might as ill have happened thou being by,
 Or to thyself perhaps? Hadst thou been there,
 Or here the attempt, thou couldst not have discerned 1270

Fraud in the Serpent, speaking as he spake;
 No ground of enmity between us known,
 Why he should mean me ill, or seek to harm.

Was I to have never parted from thy side?
 As good have grown there still a lifeless rib.

Being as I am, why didst not thou, the head,
 Command me absolutely not to go,
 Going into such danger, as thou saidst? 1280
 Too facile then, thou didst not much gainsay;

Nay, didst permit, approve, and fair dismiss.

Hadst thou been firm and fixed in thy dissent,
Neither had I transgressed, nor thou with me.

To whom, then first incensed, Adam replied.

Is this the love, is this the recompence
Of mine to thee, ingrateful Eve! expressed 1290
Immutable, when thou wert lost, not I;
Who might have lived, and joyed immortal bliss,
Yet willingly chose rather death with thee?
And am I now upbraided as the cause
Of thy transgressing? Not enough severe,
It seems, in thy restraint: What could I more
I warned thee, I admonished thee, foretold
The danger, and the lurking enemy
That lay in wait; beyond this, had been force;
And force upon free will hath here no place.1300

But confidence then bore thee on; secure
Either to meet no danger, or to find Matter of glorious trial; and perhaps
I also erred, in overmuch admiring
What seemed in thee so perfect, that I thought
No evil durst attempt thee; but I rue
The error now, which is become my crime,
And thou the accuser. Thus it shall befall
Him, who, to worth in women overtrusting,1310
Lets her will rule: restraint she will not brook;
And, left to herself, if evil thence ensue,
She first his weak indulgence will accuse.

Thus they in mutual accusation spent
The fruitless hours, but neither self-condemning;

And of their vain contest appeared no end.

BOOK X

Mean while the heinous and spiteful act
Of Satan, done in Paradise; and how He, in the serpent, had perverted Eve,
Her husband she, to taste the fatal fruit,
Was known in Heaven; for what can 'scape the eye
Of God all-seeing, or deceive his heart
Omniscient? who, in all things wise and just,
Hindered not Satan to attempt the mind Of Man, with strength entire and free will armed,
Complete to have discovered and repulsed 10
Whatever wiles of foe or seeming friend.
For still they knew, and ought to have still remembered,
The high injunction, not to taste that fruit,
Whoever tempted; which they not obeying,
(Incurred what could they less?) the penalty;
And, manifold in sin, deserved to fall.
Up into Heaven from Paradise in haste

The angelick guards ascended, mute, and sad,²⁰
 For Man; for of his state by this they knew, Much wondering how the subtle Fiend had stolen

Entrance unseen. Soon as the unwelcome news
 From Earth arrived at Heaven-gate, displeased
 All were who heard; dim sadness did not spare
 That time celestial visages, yet, mixed
 With pity, violated not their bliss.

About the new-arrived, in multitudes
 The ethereal people ran, to hear and know 30
 How all befel: They towards the throne
 supreme,

Accountable, made haste, to make appear,
 With righteous plea, their utmost vigilance
 And easily approved; when the Most High Eternal Father, from his secret cloud,
 Amidst in thunder uttered thus his voice.

Assembled Angels, and ye Powers returned
 From unsuccessful charge; be not dismayed,
 Nor troubled at these tidings from the earth, 40
 Which your sincerest care could not prevent;
 Foretold so lately what would come to pass,
 When first this tempter crossed the gulf from Hell.

I told ye then he should prevail, and speed
 On his bad errand; Man should be seduced,
 And flattered out of all, believing lies
 Against his Maker; no decree of mine
 Concurring to necessitate his fall,
 Or touch with lightest moment of impulse 50

His free will, to her own inclining left
In even scale. But fallen he is; and now
What rests, but that the mortal sentence pass On his transgression,—death denounced that day?

Which he presumes already vain and void,
Because not yet inflicted, as he feared,
By some immediate stroke; but soon shall find Forbearance no acquittance, ere day end.

Justice shall not return as bounty scorned. 60

But whom send I to judge them? whom but thee, Vicegerent Son? To thee I have transferred All judgement, whether in Heaven, or Earth, or Hell.

Easy it may be seen that I intend Mercy colleague with justice, sending thee Man's friend, his Mediator, his designed Both ransom and Redeemer voluntary,
And destined Man himself to judge Man fallen.

70

So spake the Father; and, unfolding bright
Toward the right hand his glory, on the Son Blazed forth unclouded Deity: He full Resplendent all his Father manifest Expressed, and thus divinely answered mild.

Father Eternal, thine is to decree;
Mine, both in Heaven and Earth, to do thy will Supreme; that thou in me, thy Son beloved, 80
Mayest ever rest well pleased. I go to judge
On earth these thy transgressours; but thou

knowest,
 Whoever judged, the worst on me must light,
 When time shall be; for so I undertook Before thee; and, not repenting, this obtain
 Of right, that I may mitigate their doom
 On me derived; yet I shall temper so Justice with mercy, as may illustrate most Them fully satisfied, and thee appease.

90

Attendance none shall need, nor train, where
 none
 Are to behold the judgement, but the judged,
 Those two; the third best absent is condemned,
 Convict by flight, and rebel to all law:
 Conviction to the serpent none belongs.

Thus saying, from his radiant seat he rose
 Of high collateral glory: Him Thrones, and Powers,
 Princedoms, and Dominations ministrant,
 Accompanied to Heaven-gate; from whence 100
 Eden, and all the coast, in prospect lay.

Down he descended straight; the speed of Gods
 Time counts not, though with swiftest minutes winged.

Now was the sun in western cadence low
 From noon, and gentle airs, due at their hour,
 To fan the earth now waked, and usher in The evening cool; when he, from wrath more cool,
 Came the mild Judge, and Intercessour both, 110
 To sentence Man: The voice of God they heard

Now walking in the garden, by soft winds Brought to their ears, while day declined; they heard,
 And from his presence hid themselves among
 The thickest trees, both man and wife; till God, Approaching, thus to Adam called aloud.

Where art thou, Adam, wont with joy to meet
 My coming seen far off? I miss thee here,
 Not pleased, thus entertained with solitude, 120
 Where obvious duty ere while appeared unsought:

Or come I less conspicuous, or what change Absents thee, or what chance detains?—Come forth!

He came; and with him Eve, more loth, though first

To offend; discountenanced both, and discom-
 posed;

Love was not in their looks, either to God,
 Or to each other; but apparent guilt,
 And shame, and perturbation, and despair,
 Anger, and obstinacy, and hate, and guile.

130

Whence Adam, faltering long, thus answered brief.

I heard thee in the garden, and of thy voice Afraid, being naked, hid myself. To whom
 The gracious Judge without revile replied.

My voice thou oft hast heard, and hast not
 feared,

But still rejoiced; how is it now become

So dreadful to thee? That thou art naked, who Hath told thee? Hast thou eaten of the tree, 140 Whereof I gave thee charge thou shouldst not eat?

To whom thus Adam sore beset replied.

O Heaven! in evil strait this day I stand Before my Judge; either to undergo Myself the total crime, or to accuse
 My other self, the partner of my life;
 Whose failing, while her faith to me remains,
 I should conceal, and not expose to blame
 By my complaint: but strict necessity 150
 Subdues me, and calamitous constraint;
 Lest on my head both sin and punishment,
 However insupportable, be all Devolved; though should I hold my peace, yet
 thou

Wouldst easily detect what I conceal.—
 This Woman, whom thou madest to be my help,
 And gavest me as thy perfect gift, so good,
 So fit, so acceptable, so divine,
 That from her hand I could suspect no ill,
 And what she did, whatever in itself, 160
 Her doing seemed to justify the deed;
 She gave me of the tree, and I did eat.

To whom the Sovran Presence thus replied.

Was she thy God, that her thou didst obey
 Before his voice? or was she made thy guide, Superiour, or but equal, that to her
 Thou didst resign thy manhood, and the place Wherein God set thee above her made of thee,

170

And for thee, whose perfection far excelled Hers in all real dignity? Adorned
 She was indeed, and lovely, to attract Thy love, not thy subjection; and her gifts
 Were such, as under government well seemed;
 Unseemly to bear rule; which was thy part
 And person, hadst thou known thyself aright.

So having said, he thus to Eve in few.

180

Say, Woman, what is this which thou hast done?
 To whom sad Eve, with shame nigh overwhelmed,
 Confessing soon, yet not before her Judge
 Bold or loquacious, thus abashed replied.

The Serpent me beguiled, and I did eat.

Which when the Lord God heard, without delay
 To judgement he proceeded on the accused Serpent, though brute; unable to transfer 190
 The guilt on him, who made him instrument
 Of mischief, and polluted from the end
 Of his creation; justly then accursed,
 As vitiated in nature: More to know Concerned not Man, (since he no further knew) Nor altered his offence; yet God at last
 To Satan first in sin his doom applied, Though in mysterious terms, judged as then best:

And on the Serpent thus his curse let fall.

200

Because thou hast done this, thou art accursed

Above all cattle, each beast of the field;
 Upon thy belly groveling thou shalt go,
 And dust shalt eat all the days of thy life.

Between thee and the woman I will put Enmity, and between thine and her seed;
 Her seed shall bruise thy head, thou bruise his heel.

So spake this oracle, then verified 210
 When Jesus, Son of Mary, second Eve, Saw Satan fall, like lightning, down from
 Heaven,

Prince of the air; then, rising from his grave
 Spoiled Principalities and Powers, triumphed
 In open show; and, with ascension bright,
 Captivity led captive through the air,
 The realm itself of Satan, long usurped;
 Whom he shall tread at last under our feet;
 Even he, who now foretold his fatal bruise;
 And to the Woman thus his sentence turned. 220

Thy sorrow I will greatly multiply
 By thy conception; children thou shalt bring In sorrow forth; and to thy husband's will Thine shall submit; he over thee shall rule.

On Adam last thus judgement he pronounced.

Because thou hast hearkened to the voice of thy wife,
 And eaten of the tree, concerning which 230
 I charged thee, saying, Thou shalt not eat thereof:
 Cursed is the ground for thy sake; thou in sorrow

Shalt eat thereof, all the days of thy life;
 Thorns also and thistles it shall bring thee forth
 Unbid; and thou shalt eat the herb of the field;
 In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread,
 Till thou return unto the ground; for thou
 Out of the ground wast taken, know thy birth,
 For dust thou art, and shalt to dust return.

240

So judged he Man, both Judge and Saviour sent;
 And the instant stroke of death, denounced that
 day,

Removed far off; then, pitying how they stood Before him naked to the air, that now
 Must suffer change, disdained not to begin Thenceforth the form of servant to assume;
 As when he washed his servants feet; so now,
 As father of his family, he clad
 Their nakedness with skins of beasts, or slain,
 Or as the snake with youthful coat repaid; 250
 And thought not much to clothe his enemies;
 Nor he their outward only with the skins
 Of beasts, but inward nakedness, much more.

Opprobrious, with his robe of righteousness,
 Arraying, covered from his Father's sight.

To him with swift ascent he up returned,
 Into his blissful bosom reassumed
 In glory, as of old; to him appeased 260
 All, though all-knowing, what had passed with Man

Recounted, mixing intercession sweet.

Mean while, ere thus was sinned and judged on

Earth,
 Within the gates of Hell sat Sin and Death,
 In counterview within the gates, that now
 Stood open wide, belching outrageous flame Far into Chaos, since the Fiend passed through,
 Sin opening; who thus now to Death began. 270

O Son, why sit we here each other viewing
 Idly, while Satan, our great author, thrives
 In other worlds, and happier seat provides For us, his offspring dear? It cannot be
 But that success attends him; if mishap,
 Ere this he had returned, with fury driven
 By his avengers; since no place like this Can fit his punishment, or their revenge.

Methinks I feel new strength within me rise, 280
 Wings growing, and dominion given me large Beyond this deep; whatever draws me on,
 Or sympathy, or some connatural force,
 Powerful at greatest distance to unite,
 With secret amity, things of like kind,
 By secretest conveyance. Thou, my shade Inseparable, must with me along;
 For Death from Sin no power can separate.

But, lest the difficulty of passing back 290
 Stay his return perhaps over this gulf Impassable, impervious; let us try Adventurous work, yet to thy power and mine
 Not unagreeable, to found a path
 Over this main from Hell to that new world,
 Where Satan now prevails; a monument

Of merit high to all the infernal host,
Easing their passage hence, for intercourse,
Or transmigration, as their lot shall lead.

300

Nor can I miss the way, so strongly drawn
By this new-felt attraction and instinct.

Whom thus the meager Shadow answered soon.

Go, whither Fate, and inclination strong,
Leads thee; I shall not lag behind, nor err
The way, thou leading; such a scent I draw
Of carnage, prey innumerable, and taste
The savour of death from all things there that live: 310

Nor shall I to the work thou enterprisest
Be wanting, but afford thee equal aid.

So saying, with delight he snuffed the smell
Of mortal change on earth. As when a flock
Of ravenous fowl, though many a league remote,
Against the day of battle, to a field,
Where armies lie encamped, come flying, lured
With scent of living carcasses designed For death, the following day, in bloody fight:320
So scented the grim Feature, and upturned
His nostril wide into the murky air;
Sagacious of his quarry from so far.

Then both from out Hell-gates, into the waste
Wide anarchy of Chaos, damp and dark, Flew diverse; and with power (their power was great)

Hovering upon the waters, what they met
Solid or slimy, as in raging sea

Tost up and down, together crouded drove, 330
 From each side shoaling towards the mouth of
 Hell;

As when two polar winds, blowing adverse
 Upon the Cronian sea, together drive
 Mountains of ice, that stop the imagined way Beyond Petsora eastward, to the rich Cathaian coast. The aggregated soil
 Death with his mace petrifick, cold and dry,
 As with a trident, smote; and fixed as firm
 As Delos, floating once; the rest his look Bound with Gorgonian rigour not to move; 340
 And with Asphaltick slime, broad as the gate,
 Deep to the roots of Hell the gathered beach
 They fastened, and the mole immense wrought
 on

Over the foaming deep high-arched, a bridge
 Of length prodigious, joining to the wall
 Immoveable of this now fenceless world,
 Forfeit to Death; from hence a passage broad,
 Smooth, easy, inoffensive, down to Hell.

So, if great things to small may be compared, 350
 Xerxes, the liberty of Greece to yoke,
 From Susa, his Memnonian palace high,
 Came to the sea: and, over Hellespont Bridging his way, Europe with Asia joined,
 And scourged with many a stroke the indignant waves.

Now had they brought the work by wonderful art
 Pontifical, a ridge of pendant rock,

Over the vexed abyss, following the track
 Of Satan to the self-same place where he 360
 First lighted from his wing, and landed safe
 From out of Chaos, to the outside bare
 Of this round world: With pins of adamant
 And chains they made all fast, too fast they made
 And durable! And now in little space
 The confines met of empyrean Heaven,
 And of this World; and, on the left hand, Hell
 With long reach interposed; three several ways
 In sight, to each of these three places led.

370

And now their way to Earth they had descried,
 To Paradise first tending; when, behold!
 Satan, in likeness of an Angel bright,
 Betwixt the Centaur and the Scorpion steering
 His zenith, while the sun in Aries rose:
 Disguised he came; but those his children dear
 Their parent soon discerned, though in disguise.
 He, after Eve seduced, unminded slunk
 Into the wood fast by; and, changing shape, 380
 To observe the sequel, saw his guileful act
 By Eve, though all unweeting, seconded
 Upon her husband; saw their shame that sought Vain covertures; but when he saw descend
 The Son of God to judge them, terrified
 He fled; not hoping to escape, but shun
 The present; fearing, guilty, what his wrath Might suddenly inflict; that past, returned
 By night, and listening where the hapless pair
 Sat in their sad discourse, and various plaint, 390 Thence gathered his own doom; which understood

 Not instant, but of future time, with joy
 And tidings fraught, to Hell he now returned;
 And at the brink of Chaos, near the foot
 Of this new wonderous pontifice, unhop'd
 Met, who to meet him came, his offspring dear.
 Great joy was at their meeting, and at sight
 Of that stupendous bridge his joy encreas'd. 400

Long he admiring stood, till Sin, his fair Enchanting daughter, thus the silence broke.
 O Parent, these are thy magnifick deeds,
 Thy trophies! which thou viewest as not thine
 own;
 Thou art their author, and prime architect:
 For I no sooner in my heart divin'd,
 My heart, which by a secret harmony Still moves with thine, joined in connexion
 sweet,
 That thou on earth hadst prospered, which thy looks 410
 Now also evidence, but straight I felt,
 Though distant from thee worlds between, yet felt,
 That I must after thee, with this thy son;
 Such fatal consequence unites us three!
 Hell could no longer hold us in our bounds,
 Nor this unvoyageable gulf obscure
 Detain from following thy illustrious track.
 Thou hast achieved our liberty, confin'd
 Within Hell-gates till now; thou us impow'ring

420

To fortify thus far, and overlay,
With this portentous bridge, the dark abyss.

Thine now is all this world; thy virtue hath won
What thy hands builded not; thy wisdom gained
With odds what war hath lost, and fully avenged
Our foil in Heaven; here thou shalt monarch reign,

There didst not; there let him still victor sway,
As battle hath adjudged; from this new world
Retiring, by his own doom alienated; 430
And henceforth monarchy with thee divide
Of all things, parted by the empyreal bounds,
His quadrature, from thy orbicular world;
Or try thee now more dangerous to his throne.

Whom thus the Prince of darkness answered glad.

Fair Daughter, and thou Son and Grandchild
both;

High proof ye now have given to be the race
Of Satan (for I glory in the name, 440 Antagonist of Heaven's Almighty King,)

Amply have merited of me, of all
The infernal empire, that so near Heaven's door Triumphal with triumphal act have met,
Mine, with this glorious work; and made one realm,

Hell and this world, one realm, one continent
Of easy thorough-fare. Therefore, while I Descend through darkness, on your road with ease,

To my associate Powers, them to acquaint
With these successes, and with them rejoice; 450
You two this way, among these numerous orbs,
All yours, right down to Paradise descend;
There dwell, and reign in bliss; thence on the earth

Dominion exercise and in the air,
Chiefly on Man, sole lord of all declared;
Him first make sure your thrall, and lastly kill.

My substitutes I send ye, and create Plenipotent on earth, of matchless might Issuing from me: on your joint vigour now 460
My hold of this new kingdom all depends,
Through Sin to Death exposed by my exploit.

If your joint power prevail, the affairs of Hell
No detriment need fear; go, and be strong!
So saying he dismissed them; they with speed
Their course through thickest constellations held,
Spreading their bane; the blasted stars looked wan,

And planets, planet-struck, real eclipse
Then suffered. The other way Satan went down 470

The causey to Hell-gate: On either side
Disparted Chaos overbuilt exclaimed,
And with rebounding surge the bars assailed,
That scorned his indignation: Through the gate,
Wide open and unguarded, Satan passed,
And all about found desolate; for those,
Appointed to sit there, had left their charge,

Flown to the upper world; the rest were all
Far to the inland retired, about the walls
Of Pandemonium; city and proud seat 480
Of Lucifer, so by allusion called
Of that bright star to Satan paragoned;
There kept their watch the legions, while the Grand

In council sat, solicitous what chance Might intercept their emperour sent; so he Departing gave command, and they observed.

As when the Tartar from his Russian foe,
By Astracan, over the snowy plains,
Retires; or Bactrin Sophi, from the horns 490
Of Turkish crescent, leaves all waste beyond
The realm of Aladule, in his retreat
To Tauris or Casbeen: So these, the late Heaven-banished host, left desert utmost Hell
Many a dark league, reduced in careful watch Round their metropolis; and now expecting Each hour their great adventurer, from the search

Of foreign worlds: He through the midst unmarked,

In show plebeian Angel militant
Of lowest order, passed; and from the door 500
Of that Plutonian hall, invisible
Ascended his high throne; which, under state
Of richest texture spread, at the upper end
Was placed in regal lustre. Down a while He sat, and round about him saw unseen:
At last, as from a cloud, his fulgent head
And shape star-bright appeared, or brighter;

clad
 With what permissive glory since his fall
 Was left him, or false glitter: All amazed
 At that so sudden blaze the Stygian throng 510 Bent their aspect, and whom they wished be-
 held,
 Their mighty Chief returned: loud was the acclaim:
 Forth rushed in haste the great consulting peers,
 Raised from their dark Divan, and with like joy Congratulant approached him; who with hand
 Silence, and with these words attention, won.
 Thrones, Dominations, Princedoms, Virtues,
 Powers;
 For in possession such, not only of right,
 I call ye, and declare ye now; returned 520
 Successful beyond hope, to lead ye forth Triumphant out of this infernal pit
 Abominable, accursed, the house of woe,
 And dungeon of our tyrant: Now possess,
 As Lords, a spacious world, to our native
 Heaven
 Little inferiour, by my adventure hard
 With peril great achieved. Long were to tell
 What I have done; what suffered; with what pain Voyaged th' unreal, vast, unbounded deep
 Of horrible confusion; over which 530
 By Sin and Death a broad way now is paved,
 To expedite your glorious march; but I
 Toiled out my uncouth passage, forced to ride
 The untractable abyss, plunged in the womb
 Of unoriginal Night and Chaos wild;

That, jealous of their secrets, fiercely opposed
 My journey strange, with clamorous uproar Protesting Fate supreme; thence how I found
 The new created world, which fame in Heaven
 Long had foretold, a fabrick wonderful 540
 Of absolute perfection! therein Man
 Placed in a Paradise, by our exile
 Made happy: Him by fraud I have seduced
 From his Creator; and, the more to encrease
 Your wonder, with an apple; he, thereat
 Offended, worth your laughter! hath given up
 Both his beloved Man, and all his world,
 To Sin and Death a prey, and so to us,
 Without our hazard, labour, or alarm;
 To range in, and to dwell, and over Man 550
 To rule, as over all he should have ruled.

True is, me also he hath judged, or rather Me not, but the brute serpent in whose shape
 Man I deceived: that which to me belongs,
 Is enmity which he will put between Me and mankind; I am to bruise his heel;
 His seed, when is not set, shall bruise my head:
 A world who would not purchase with a bruise,
 Or much more grievous pain?—Ye have the account 560

Of my performance: What remains, ye Gods,
 But up, and enter now into full bliss?
 So having said, a while he stood, expecting
 Their universal shout, and high applause,
 To fill his ear; when, contrary, he hears
 On all sides, from innumerable tongues,
 A dismal universal hiss, the sound

Of publick scorn; he wondered, but not long
 Had leisure, wondering at himself now more,
 His visage drawn he felt to sharp and spare; 570
 His arms clung to his ribs; his legs entwining
 Each other, till supplanted down he fell
 A monstrous serpent on his belly prone,
 Reluctant, but in vain; a greater power Now ruled him, punished in the shape he sinned,

According to his doom: he would have spoke,
 But hiss for hiss returned with forked tongue
 To forked tongue; for now were all transformed Alike, to serpents all, as accessories
 To his bold riot: Dreadful was the din 580
 Of hissing through the hall, thick swarming now
 With complicated monsters head and tail,
 Scorpion, and Asp, and Amphisbaena dire,
 Cerastes horned, Hydrus, and Elops drear,
 And Dipsas; (not so thick swarmed once the soil
 Bedropt with blood of Gorgon, or the isle Ophiusa,) but still greatest he the midst,
 Now Dragon grown, larger than whom the sun
 Ingendered in the Pythian vale or slime, Huge Python, and his power no less he seemed 590

Above the rest still to retain; they all
 Him followed, issuing forth to the open field,
 Where all yet left of that revolted rout,
 Heaven-fallen, in station stood or just array;
 Sublime with expectation when to see
 In triumph issuing forth their glorious Chief;
 They saw, but other sight instead! a croud

Of ugly serpents; horror on them fell,
And horrid sympathy; for, what they saw,
They felt themselves, now changing; down their arms, 600
Down fell both spear and shield; down they as fast;
And the dire hiss renewed, and the dire form
Caught, by contagion; like in punishment, As in their crime. Thus was the applause they meant,
Turned to exploding hiss, triumph to shame
Cast on themselves from their own mouths.
There stood
A grove hard by, sprung up with this their
change,
His will who reigns above, to aggravate
Their penance, laden with fair fruit, like that Which grew in Paradise, the bait of Eve 610
Used by the Tempter: on that prospect strange
Their earnest eyes they fixed, imagining
For one forbidden tree a multitude
Now risen, to work them further woe or shame;
Yet, parched with scalding thirst and hunger
fierce,
Though to delude them sent, could not abstain;
But on they rolled in heaps, and, up the trees
Climbing, sat thicker than the snaky locks
That curled Megaera: greedily they plucked
The fruitage fair to sight, like that which grew 620
Near that bituminous lake where Sodom flamed;
This more delusive, not the touch, but taste

Deceived; they, fondly thinking to allay
Their appetite with gust, instead of fruit
Chewed bitter ashes, which the offended taste
With spattering noise rejected: oft they assayed, Hunger and thirst constraining; drugged as oft,
With hatefullest disrelish writhed their jaws,
With soot and cinders filled; so oft they fell Into the same illusion, not as Man 630 Whom they triumphed once lapsed. Thus were they plagued

And worn with famine, long and ceaseless hiss,
Till their lost shape, permitted, they resumed;
Yearly enjoined, some say, to undergo,
This annual humbling certain numbered days,
To dash their pride, and joy, for Man seduced.

However, some tradition they dispersed
Among the Heathen, of their purchase got,
And fabled how the Serpent, whom they called 640

Ophion, with Eurynome, the wide-
Encroaching Eve perhaps, had first the rule
Of high Olympus; thence by Saturn driven
And Ops, ere yet Dictæan Jove was born.

Mean while in Paradise the hellish pair
Too soon arrived; Sin, there in power before,
Once actual; now in body, and to dwell
Habitual habitant; behind her Death,
Close following pace for pace, not mounted yet 650

On his pale horse: to whom Sin thus began.
Second of Satan sprung, all-conquering Death!

What thinkest thou of our empire now, though earned
 With travel difficult, not better far Than still at Hell's dark threshold to have sat watch,
 Unnamed, undreaded, and thyself half starved?
 Whom thus the Sin-born monster answered
 soon.

To me, who with eternal famine pine, 660
 Alike is Hell, or Paradise, or Heaven;
 There best, where most with ravine I may meet;
 Which here, though plenteous, all too little seems

To stuff this maw, this vast unhide-bound corps.

To whom the incestuous mother thus replied.

Thou therefore on these herbs, and fruits, and
 flowers,
 Feed first; on each beast next, and fish, and fowl;
 No homely morsels! and, whatever thing 670
 The sithe of Time mows down, devour un-spared;

Till I, in Man residing, through the race,
 His thoughts, his looks, words, actions, all infect;
 And season him thy last and sweetest prey.

This said, they both betook them several ways,
 Both to destroy, or unimmortal make
 All kinds, and for destruction to mature Sooner or later; which the Almighty seeing,
 From his transcendent seat the Saints among, 680
 To those bright Orders uttered thus his voice.

See, with what heat these dogs of Hell advance
 To waste and havock yonder world, which I So fair and good created; and had still Kept in that state, had not the folly of Man
 Let in these wasteful furies, who impute
 Folly to me; so doth the Prince of Hell
 And his adherents, that with so much ease
 I suffer them to enter and possess 690
 A place so heavenly; and, conniving, seem
 To gratify my scornful enemies,
 That laugh, as if, transported with some fit
 Of passion, I to them had quitted all,
 At random yielded up to their misrule;
 And know not that I called, and drew them thither,
 My Hell-hounds, to lick up the draff and filth
 Which Man's polluting sin with taint hath shed
 On what was pure; til, crammed and gorged, nigh burst
 With sucked and glutted offal, at one sling 700
 Of thy victorious arm, well-pleasing Son,
 Both Sin, and Death, and yawning Grave, at last, Through Chaos hurled, obstruct the mouth of Hell
 For ever, and seal up his ravenous jaws.
 Then Heaven and Earth renewed shall be made
 pure
 To sanctity, that shall receive no stain:
 Till then, the curse pronounced on both precedes.
 He ended, and the heavenly audience loud 710

Sung Halleluiah, as the sound of seas,
 Through multitude that sung: Just are thy ways,
 Righteous are thy decrees on all thy works;
 Who can extenuate thee? Next, to the Son, Destined Restorer of mankind, by whom
 New Heaven and Earth shall to the ages rise, Or down from Heaven descend.—Such was their
 song;

While the Creator, calling forth by name
 His mighty Angels, gave them several charge,
 As sorted best with present things. The sun 720
 Had first his precept so to move, so shine,
 As might affect the earth with cold and heat Scarce tolerable; and from the north to call Decrepit winter; from the south to bring Solstitial summer's heat. To the blanc moon
 Her office they prescribed; to the other five
 Their planetary motions, and aspects,
 In sextile, square, and trine, and opposite,
 Of noxious efficacy, and when to join
 In synod unbenign; and taught the fixed 730
 Their influence malignant when to shower,
 Which of them rising with the sun, or falling, Should prove tempestuous: To the winds they set

Their corners, when with bluster to confound
 Sea, air, and shore; the thunder when to roll
 With terrour through the dark aerial hall.

Some say, he bid his Angels turn ascense
 The poles of earth, twice ten degrees and more,
 From the sun's axle; they with labour pushed740
 Oblique the centrick globe: Some say, the sun

Was bid turn reins from the equinoctial road
Like distant breadth to Taurus with the seven Atlantick Sisters, and the Spartan Twins,
Up to the Tropick Crab: thence down amain
By Leo, and the Virgin, and the Scales,
As deep as Capricorn; to bring in change
Of seasons to each clime; else had the spring
Perpetual smiled on earth with vernant flowers,
Equal in days and nights, except to those 750
Beyond the polar circles; to them day
Had unbenighted shone, while the low sun,
To recompense his distance, in their sight
Had rounded still the horizon, and not known
Or east or west; which had forbid the snow
From cold Estotiland, and south as far Beneath Magellan. At that tasted fruit
The sun, as from Thyestean banquet, turned His course intended; else, how had the world
Inhabited, though sinless, more than now, 760
Avoided pinching cold and scorching heat?
These changes in the Heavens, though slow, produced
Like change on sea and land; sidereal blast,
Vapour, and mist, and exhalation hot,
Corrupt and pestilent: Now from the north
Of Norumbega, and the Samoed shore,
Bursting their brazen dungeon, armed with ice,
And snow, and hail, and stormy gust and flaw,
Boreas, and Caecias, and Argestes loud,
And Thrascias, rend the woods, and seas upturn; 770
With adverse blast upturns them from the south

Notus, and Afer black with thunderous clouds
From Serralliona; thwart of these, as fierce,
Forth rush the Levant and the Ponent winds,
Eurus and Zephyr, with their lateral noise, Sirocco and Libecchio. Thus began
Outrage from lifeless things; but Discord first,
Daughter of Sin, among the irrational
Death introduced, through fierce antipathy:
Beast now with beast 'gan war, and fowl with fowl, 780
And fish with fish; to graze the herb all leaving,
Devoured each other; nor stood much in awe
Of Man, but fled him; or, with countenance grim, Glared on him passing. These were from without

The growing miseries, which Adam saw
Already in part, though hid in gloomiest shade,
To sorrow abandoned, but worse felt within;
And, in a troubled sea of passion tost,
Thus to disburden sought with sad complaint.
790

O miserable of happy! Is this the end
Of this new glorious world, and me so late
The glory of that glory, who now become Accursed, of blessed? hide me from the face
Of God, whom to behold was then my highth
Of happiness!—Yet well, if here would end
The misery; I deserved it, and would bear
My own deservings; but this will not serve:
All that I eat or drink, or shall beget,
Is propagated curse. O voice, once heard 800
Delightfully, Encrease and multiply;

Now death to hear! for what can I encrease,
 Or multiply, but curses on my head?
 Who of all ages to succeed, but, feeling
 The evil on him brought by me, will curse
 My head? Ill fare our ancestor impure,
 For this we may thank Adam! but his thanks
 Shall be the execration: so, besides
 Mine own that bide upon me, all from me
 Shall with a fierce reflux on me rebound; 810
 On me, as on their natural center, light
 Heavy, though in their place. O fleeting joys
 Of Paradise, dear bought with lasting woes!
 Did I request thee, Maker, from my clay
 To mould me Man? did I solicit thee
 From darkness to promote me, or here place In this delicious garden? As my will Concurred not to my being, it were but right
 And equal to reduce me to my dust;
 Desirous to resign and render back 820
 All I received; unable to perform
 Thy terms too hard, by which I was to hold
 The good I sought not. To the loss of that, Sufficient penalty, why hast thou added
 The sense of endless woes? Inexplicable
 Thy justice seems; yet to say truth, too late
 I thus contest; then should have been refused Those terms whatever, when they were proposed:
 Thou didst accept them; wilt thou enjoy the
 good,
 Then cavil the conditions? And, though God 830
 Made thee without thy leave, what if thy son

Prove disobedient, and reprov'd, retort,
 "Wherefore didst thou beget me? I sought it not!"
 Wouldst thou admit for his contempt of thee
 That proud excuse? yet him not thy election,
 But natural necessity begot.

God made thee of choice his own, and of his own
 To serve him; thy reward was of his grace;
 Thy punishment then, justly is at his will. 840

Be it so, for I submit; his doom is fair,
 That dust I am, and shall to dust return.

O welcome hour whenever! Why delays
 His hand to execute what his decree
 Fixed on this day? Why do I overlive, Why am I mocked with death, and lengthened
 out

To deathless pain? How gladly would I meet Mortality my sentence, and be earth 850
 Insensible! How glad would lay me down
 As in my mother's lap! There I should rest,
 And sleep secure; his dreadful voice no more
 Would thunder in my ears; no fear of worse
 To me, and to my offspring, would torment me
 With cruel expectation. Yet one doubt Pursues me still, lest all I cannot die;
 Lest that pure breath of life, the spirit of Man
 Which God inspired, cannot together perish
 With this corporeal clod; then, in the grave, 860
 Or in some other dismal place, who knows
 But I shall die a living death? O thought Horrid, if true! Yet why? It was but breath
 Of life that sinned; what dies but what had life

And sin? The body properly had neither,
 All of me then shall die: let this appease
 The doubt, since human reach no further knows.

For though the Lord of all be infinite,
 Is his wrath also? Be it, Man is not so, 870
 But mortal doomed. How can he exercise Wrath without end on Man, whom death must end?

Can he make deathless death? That were to make

Strange contradiction, which to God himself Impossible is held; as argument
 Of weakness, not of power. Will he draw out,
 For anger's sake, finite to infinite,
 In punished Man, to satisfy his rigour, Satisfied never? That were to extend
 His sentence beyond dust and Nature's law; 880
 By which all causes else, according still
 To the reception of their matter, act;
 Not to the extent of their own sphere. But say That death be not one stroke, as I supposed,
 Bereaving sense, but endless misery
 From this day onward; which I feel begun
 Both in me, and without me; and so last
 To perpetuity;—Ay me! that fear Comes thundering back with dreadful revolution

On my defenceless head; both Death and I 890
 Am found eternal, and incorporate both;
 Nor I on my part single; in me all Posterity stands cursed: Fair patrimony That I must leave ye, Sons! O, were I able

To waste it all myself, and leave ye none!
So disinherited, how would you bless Me, now your curse! Ah, why should all mankind,
For one man's fault, thus guiltless be condemned,
It guiltless? But from me what can proceed,
But all corrupt; both mind and will depraved⁹⁰⁰
Not to do only, but to will the same
With me? How can they then acquitted stand In sight of God? Him, after all disputes, Forced I absolve: all my evasions vain,
And reasonings, though through mazes, lead me still
But to my own conviction: first and last
On me, me only, as the source and spring
Of all corruption, all the blame lights due;
So might the wrath! Fond wish! couldst thou support
That burden, heavier than the earth to bear; ⁹¹⁰ Than all the world much heavier, though divided
With that bad Woman? Thus, what thou desirest,
And what thou fearest, alike destroys all hope
Of refuge, and concludes thee miserable
Beyond all past example and future;
To Satan only like both crime and doom.
O Conscience! into what abyss of fears
And horrors hast thou driven me; out of which I find no way, from deep to deeper plunged! ⁹²⁰
Thus Adam to himself lamented loud,
Through the still night; not now, as ere Man fell,

Wholesome, and cool, and mild, but with black air

Accompanied; with damps, and dreadful gloom;
Which to his evil conscience represented
All things with double terrour: On the ground Outstretched he lay, on the cold ground; and oft Cursed his creation; Death as oft accused Of tardy execution, since denounced
The day of his offence. Why comes not Death, 930

Said he, with one thrice-acceptable stroke
To end me? Shall Truth fail to keep her word, Justice Divine not hasten to be just?
But Death comes not at call; Justice Divine
Mends not her slowest pace for prayers or cries, O woods, O fountains, hillocks, dales, and bowers!

With other echo late I taught your shades
To answer, and resound far other song.—
Whom thus afflicted when sad Eve beheld,
Desolate where she sat, approaching nigh, 940
Soft words to his fierce passion she assayed:
But her with stern regard he thus repelled.

Out of my sight, thou Serpent! That name best Befits thee with him leagued, thyself as false
And hateful; nothing wants, but that thy shape,
Like his, and colour serpentine, may show Thy inward fraud; to warn all creatures from thee

Henceforth; lest that too heavenly form, pretended

To hellish falshood, snare them! But for thee 950

I had persisted happy; had not thy pride
And wandering vanity, when least was safe,
Rejected my forewarning, and disdained
Not to be trusted; longing to be seen,
Though by the Devil himself; him overweening
To over-reach; but, with the serpent meeting, Fooled and beguiled; by him thou, I by thee
To trust thee from my side; imagined wise,
Constant, mature, proof against all assaults;
And understood not all was but a show, 960
Rather than solid virtue; all but a rib
Crooked by nature, bent, as now appears,
More to the part sinister, from me drawn;
Well if thrown out, as supernumerary
To my just number found. O! why did God,
Creator wise, that peopled highest Heaven
With Spirits masculine, create at last
This novelty on earth, this fair defect
Of nature, and not fill the world at once
With Men, as Angels, without feminine; 970
Or find some other way to generate Mankind? This mischief had not been befallen,
And more that shall befall; innumerable Disturbances on earth through female snares,
And strait conjunction with this sex: for either
He never shall find out fit mate, but such As some misfortune brings him, or mistake;
Or whom he wishes most shall seldom gain
Through her perverseness, but shall see her gained
By a far worse; or, if she love, withheld 980
By parents; or his happiest choice too late

Shall meet, already linked and wedlock-bound
 To a fell adversary, his hate or shame:
 Which infinite calamity shall cause
 To human life, and household peace confound.

He added not, and from her turned; but Eve,
 Not so repulsed, with tears that ceased not flowing

And tresses all disordered, at his feet
 Fell humble; and, embracing them, besought⁹⁹⁰
 His peace, and thus proceeded in her plaint.

Forsake me not thus, Adam! witness Heaven
 What love sincere, and reverence in my heart
 I bear thee, and unweeting have offended, Unhappily deceived! Thy suppliant
 I beg, and clasp thy knees; bereave me not,
 Whereon I live, thy gentle looks, thy aid,
 Thy counsel, in this uttermost distress,
 My only strength and stay: Forlorn of thee, 1000
 Whither shall I betake me, where subsist?
 While yet we live, scarce one short hour perhaps,
 Between us two let there be peace; both joining,
 As joined in injuries, one enmity
 Against a foe by doom express assigned us,
 That cruel Serpent: On me exercise not Thy hatred for this misery befallen;
 On me already lost, me than thyself
 More miserable! Both have sinned; but thou Against God only; I against God and thee; 1010
 And to the place of judgement will return,
 There with my cries importune Heaven; that all
 The sentence, from thy head removed, may light

On me, sole cause to thee of all this woe;
Me, me only, just object of his ire!
She ended weeping; and her lowly plight,
Immoveable, till peace obtained from fault
Acknowledged and deplored, in Adam wrought Commiseration: Soon his heart relented
Towards her, his life so late, and sole delight,¹⁰²⁰
Now at his feet submissive in distress;
Creature so fair his reconcilment seeking,
His counsel, whom she had displeased, his aid:
As one disarmed, his anger all he lost,
And thus with peaceful words upraised her
soon.

Unwary, and too desirous, as before,
So now of what thou knowest not, who desirest
The punishment all on thyself; alas!
Bear thine own first, ill able to sustain 1030
His full wrath, whose thou feelest as yet least part,
And my displeasure bearest so ill. If prayers
Could alter high decrees, I to that place
Would speed before thee, and be louder heard,
That on my head all might be visited;
Thy frailty and infirmer sex forgiven,
To me committed, and by me exposed.

But rise;—let us no more contend, nor blame
Each other, blamed enough elsewhere; but strive 1040
In offices of love, how we may lighten
Each other's burden, in our share of woe;
Since this day's death denounced, if aught I see,

Will prove no sudden, but a slow-paced evil;
 A long day's dying, to augment our pain;
 And to our seed (O hapless seed!) derived.

To whom thus Eve, recovering heart, replied.

Adam, by sad experiment I know 1050
 How little weight my words with thee can find,
 Found so erroneous; thence by just event
 Found so unfortunate: Nevertheless,
 Restored by thee, vile as I am, to place
 Of new acceptance, hopeful to regain
 Thy love, the sole contentment of my heart
 Living or dying, from thee I will not hide
 What thoughts in my unquiet breast are risen,
 Tending to some relief of our extremes,
 Or end; though sharp and sad, yet tolerable, 1060
 As in our evils, and of easier choice.

If care of our descent perplex us most,
 Which must be born to certain woe, devoured
 By Death at last; and miserable it is To be to others cause of misery,
 Our own begotten, and of our loins to bring Into this cursed world a woeful race,
 That after wretched life must be at last
 Food for so foul a monster; in thy power 1070
 It lies, yet ere conception to prevent
 The race unblest, to being yet unbegot.

Childless thou art, childless remain: so Death Shall be deceived his glut, and with us two
 Be forced to satisfy his ravenous maw.

But if thou judge it hard and difficult,

Conversing, looking, loving, to abstain
 From love's due rights, nuptial embraces sweet; 1080

And with desire to languish without hope,
 Before the present object languishing
 With like desire; which would be misery
 And torment less than none of what we dread;
 Then, both ourselves and seed at once to free
 From what we fear for both, let us make short,—
 Let us seek Death;—or, he not found, supply
 With our own hands his office on ourselves:
 Why stand we longer shivering under fears,
 That show no end but death, and have the power, 1090

Of many ways to die the shortest choosing, Destruction with destruction to destroy?—
 She ended here, or vehement despair
 Broke off the rest: so much of death her thoughts
 Had entertained, as dyed her cheeks with pale.

But Adam, with such counsel nothing swayed,
 To better hopes his more attentive mind
 Labouring had raised; and thus to Eve replied.
 1100

Eve, thy contempt of life and pleasure seems
 To argue in thee something more sublime
 And excellent, than what thy mind contemns;
 But self-destruction therefore sought, refutes
 That excellence thought in thee; and implies,
 Not thy contempt, but anguish and regret
 For loss of life and pleasure overloved.

Or if thou covet death, as utmost end

Of misery, so thinking to evade 1110
 The penalty pronounced; doubt not but God Hath wiselier armed his vengeful ire, than so
 To be forestalled; much more I fear lest death,
 So snatched, will not exempt us from the pain
 We are by doom to pay; rather, such acts
 Of contumacy will provoke the Highest
 To make death in us live: Then let us seek Some safer resolution, which methinks
 I have in view, calling to mind with heed
 Part of our sentence, that thy seed shall bruise 1120

The Serpent's head; piteous amends! unless
 Be meant, whom I conjecture, our grand foe,
 Satan; who, in the serpent, hath contrived
 Against us this deceit: To crush his head
 Would be revenge indeed! which will be lost
 By death brought on ourselves, or childless days
 Resolved, as thou proposest; so our foe Shal 'scape his punishment ordained, and we Instead shall double ours upon our heads.
 1130

No more be mentioned then of violence Against ourselves; and wilful barrenness,
 That cuts us off from hope; and savours only Rancour and pride, impatience and despite,
 Reluctance against God and his just yoke
 Laid on our necks. Remember with what mild
 And gracious temper he both heard, and judged,
 Without wrath or reviling; we expected
 Immediate dissolution, which we thought
 Was meant by death that day; when lo! to thee

1140

Pains only in child-bearing were foretold,
 And bringing forth; soon recompensed with joy,
 Fruit of thy womb: On me the curse aslope Glanced on the ground; with labour I must earn
 My bread; what harm? Idleness had been worse;
 My labour will sustain me; and, lest cold
 Or heat should injure us, his timely care
 Hath, unbesought, provided; and his hands
 Clothed us unworthy, pitying while he judged;
 How much more, if we pray him, will his ear

1150

Be open, and his heart to pity incline,
 And teach us further by what means to shun
 The inclement seasons, rain, ice, hail, and snow!
 Which now the sky, with various face, begins
 To show us in this mountain; while the winds Blow moist and keen, shattering the graceful locks

Of these fair spreading trees; which bids us seek Some better shroud, some better warmth to cherish

Our limbs benumbed, ere this diurnal star Leave cold the night, how we his gathered
 beams 1160

Reflected may with matter sere foment;
 Or, by collision of two bodies, grind
 The air attrite to fire; as late the clouds Justling, or pushed with winds, rude in their shock,
 Tine the slant lightning; whose thwart flame, driven down

Kindles the gummy bark of fir or pine;
And sends a comfortable heat from far,
Which might supply the sun: Such fire to use,
And what may else be remedy or cure
To evils which our own misdeeds have wrought, 1170

He will instruct us praying, and of grace
Beseeching him; so as we need not fear
To pass commodiously this life, sustained
By him with many comforts, till we end
In dust, our final rest and native home.

What better can we do, than, to the place
Repairing where he judged us, prostrate fall
Before him reverent; and there confess Humbly our faults, and pardon beg; with tears 1180

Watering the ground, and with our sighs the air
Frequenting, sent from hearts contrite, in sign
Of sorrow unfeigned, and humiliation meek.

Undoubtedly he will relent, and turn
From his displeasure; in whose look serene,
When angry most he seemed and most severe,
What else but favour, grace, and mercy, shone?
So spake our father penitent; nor Eve
Felt less remorse: they, forthwith to the place 1190

Repairing where he judged them, prostrate fell
Before him reverent; and both confessed Humbly their faults, and pardon begged; with tears
Watering the ground, and with their sighs the air

Frequenting, sent from hearts contrite, in sign
Of sorrow unfeigned, and humiliation meek.

BOOK XI

Thus they, in lowliest plight, repentant stood Praying; for from the mercy-seat above Prevenient grace descending had removed
The stony from their hearts, and made new flesh Regenerate grow instead; that sighs now breathed
Unutterable; which the Spirit of prayer
Inspired, and winged for Heaven with speedier
flight
Than loudest oratory: Yet their port
Not of mean suitors; nor important less Seemed their petition, than when the ancient pair 10
In fables old, less ancient yet than these,
Deucalion and chaste Pyrrha, to restore
The race of mankind drowned, before the shrine Of Themis stood devout. To Heaven their prayers
Flew up, nor missed the way, by envious winds
Blown vagabond or frustrate: in they passed

Dimensionless through heavenly doors; then clad
 With incense, where the golden altar fumed,
 By their great intercessour, came in sight
 Before the Father's throne: them the glad Son 20 Presenting, thus to intercede began.

See Father, what first-fruits on earth are sprung
 From thy implanted grace in Man; these sighs
 And prayers, which in this golden censer mixed With incense, I thy priest before thee bring;
 Fruits of more pleasing savour, from thy seed Sown with contrition in his heart, than those Which, his own hand manuring, all the trees 30
 Of Paradise could have produced, ere fallen From innocence. Now therefore, bend thine ear
 To supplication; hear his sighs, though mute;
 Unskilful with what words to pray, let me
 Interpret for him; me, his advocate
 And propitiation; all his works on me,
 Good, or not good, ingraft; my merit those Shall perfect, and for these my death shall pay.

Accept me; and, in me, from these receive
 The smell of peace toward mankind: let him live 40
 Before thee reconciled, at least his days
 Numbered, though sad; till death, his doom, (which I
 To mitigate thus plead, not to reverse,)
 To better life shall yield him: where with me
 All my redeemed may dwell in joy and bliss;
 Made one with me, as I with thee am one.

To whom the Father, without cloud, serene.

All thy request for Man, accepted Son, 50

Obtain; all thy request was my decree:

But, longer in that Paradise to dwell,

The law I gave to Nature him forbids:

Those pure immortal elements, that know,

No gross, no unharmonious mixture foul,

Eject him, tainted now; and purge him off,

As a distemper, gross, to air as gross,

And mortal food; as may dispose him best

For dissolution wrought by sin, that first 60

Distempered all things, and of incorrupt

Corrupted. I, at first, with two fair gifts

Created him endowed; with happiness,

And immortality: that fondly lost,

This other served but to eternize woe;

Till I provided death: so death becomes

His final remedy; and, after life,

Tried in sharp tribulation, and refined

By faith and faithful works, to second life,

Waked in the renovation of the just,

Resigns him up with Heaven and Earth renewed. 70

But let us call to synod all the Blest,

Through Heaven's wide bounds: from them I will not hide

My judgements; how with mankind I proceed,

As how with peccant Angels late they saw,

And in their state, though firm, stood more confirmed.

He ended, and the Son gave signal high

To the bright minister that watched; he blew
 His trumpet, heard in Oreb since perhaps 80
 When God descended, and perhaps once more
 To sound at general doom. The angelick blast Filled all the regions: from their blisful bowers
 Of amarantine shade, fountain or spring,
 By the waters of life, where'er they sat
 In fellowships of joy, the sons of light
 Hasted, resorting to the summons high;
 And took their seats; till from his throne
 supreme
 The Almighty thus pronounced his sovran will.

90

O Sons, like one of us Man is become
 To know both good and evil, since his taste
 Of that defended fruit; but let him boast
 His knowledge of good lost, and evil got;
 Happier! had it sufficed him to have known
 Good by itself, and evil not at all.

He sorrows now, repents, and prays contrite,
 My motions in him; longer than they move,
 His heart I know, how variable and vain, 100
 Self-left. Lest therefore his now bolder hand Reach also of the tree of life, and eat,
 And live for ever, dream at least to live
 For ever, to remove him I decree,
 And send him from the garden forth to till
 The ground whence he was taken, fitter soil.

Michael, this my behest have thou in charge;
 Take to thee from among the Cherubim
 Thy choice of flaming warriours, lest the Fiend,

110

Or in behalf of Man, or to invade Vacant possession, some new trouble raise:
 Haste thee, and from the Paradise of God
 Without remorse drive out the sinful pair;
 From hallowed ground the unholy; and denounce

To them, and to their progeny, from thence Perpetual banishment. Yet, lest they faint
 At the sad sentence rigorously urged,
 (For I behold them softened, and with tears Bewailing their excess,) all terrour hide. 120

If patiently thy bidding they obey, Dismiss them not disconsolate; reveal
 To Adam what shall come in future days,
 As I shall thee enlighten; intermix
 My covenant in the Woman's seed renewed;
 So send them forth, though sorrowing, yet in peace:

And on the east side of the garden place,
 Where entrance up from Eden easiest climbs,
 Cherubick watch; and of a sword the flame 130
 Wide-waving; all approach far off to fright,
 And guard all passage to the tree of life:
 Lest Paradise a receptacle prove
 To Spirits foul, and all my trees their prey;
 With whose stolen fruit Man once more to de-lude.

He ceased; and the arch-angelick Power prepared
 For swift descent; with him the cohort bright

Of watchful Cherubim: four faces each
 Had, like a double Janus; all their shape 140 Spangled with eyes more numerous than those Of Argus, and more wakeful than to drowse, Charmed with Arcadian pipe, the pastoral reed
 Of Hermes, or his opiate rod. Mean while,
 To re-salute the world with sacred light, Leucothea waked; and with fresh dews im-balmed

The earth; when Adam and first matron Eve
 Had ended now their orisons, and found Strength added from above; new hope to spring
 Out of despair; joy, but with fear yet linked; 150
 Which thus to Eve his welcome words renewed.

Eve, easily my faith admit, that all
 The good which we enjoy from Heaven descends;

But, that from us aught should ascend to Heaven
 So prevalent as to concern the mind
 Of God high-blest, or to incline his will,
 Hard to belief may seem; yet this will prayer
 Or one short sigh of human breath, upborne
 Even to the seat of God. For since I sought 160
 By prayer the offended Deity to appease;
 Kneeled, and before him humbled all my heart;
 Methought I saw him placable and mild,
 Bending his ear; persuasion in me grew
 That I was heard with favour; peace returned Home to my breast, and to my memory
 His promise, that thy seed shall bruise our foe;
 Which, then not minded in dismay, yet now
 Assures me that the bitterness of death

Is past, and we shall live. Whence hail to thee, 170

Eve rightly called, mother of all mankind,
Mother of all things living, since by thee
Man is to live; and all things live for Man.

To whom thus Eve with sad demeanour meek.

Ill-worthy I such title should belong
To me transgressour; who, for thee ordained
A help, became thy snare; to me reproach
Rather belongs, distrust, and all dispraise: 180
But infinite in pardon was my Judge,
That I, who first brought death on all, am graced
The source of life; next favourable thou,
Who highly thus to entitle me vouchsaf'st,
Far other name deserving. But the field
To labour calls us, now with sweat imposed,
Though after sleepless night; for see! the morn,
All unconcerned with our unrest, begins
Her rosy progress smiling: let us forth;
I never from thy side henceforth to stray, 190
Where'er our day's work lies, though now enjoined

Laborious, till day droop; while here we dwell,
What can be toilsome in these pleasant walks?
Here let us live, though in fallen state, content.

So spake, so wished much humbled Eve; but Fate

Subscribed not: Nature first gave signs, impressed

On bird, beast, air; air suddenly eclipsed,
After short blush of morn; nigh in her sight

The bird of Jove, stooped from his aery tour, 200
 Two birds of gayest plume before him drove;
 Down from a hill the beast that reigns in woods,
 First hunter then, pursued a gentle brace,
 Goodliest of all the forest, hart and hind;
 Direct to the eastern gate was bent their flight.

Adam observed, and with his eye the chase
 Pursuing, not unmoved, to Eve thus spake.

O Eve, some further change awaits us nigh, 210
 Which Heaven, by these mute signs in Nature, shows

Forerunners of his purpose; or to warn
 Us, haply too secure, of our discharge
 From penalty, because from death released
 Some days: how long, and what till then our life,
 Who knows? or more than this, that we are dust,
 And thither must return, and be no more?
 Why else this double object in our sight
 Of flight pursued in the air, and o'er the ground,
 One way the self-same hour? why in the east²²⁰ Darkness ere day's mid-course, and morning-
 light

More orient in yon western cloud, that draws
 O'er the blue firmament a radiant white,
 And slow descends with something heavenly fraught?

He erred not; for by this the heavenly bands
 Down from a sky of jasper lighted now
 In Paradise, and on a hill made halt;
 A glorious apparition, had not doubt
 And carnal fear that day dimmed Adam's eye.

Not that more glorious, when the Angels met Jacob in Mahanaim, where he saw
 The field pavilioned with his guardians bright;
 Nor that, which on the flaming mount appeared
 In Dothan, covered with a camp of fire,
 Against the Syrian king, who to surprise
 One man, assassin-like, had levied war,
 War unproclaimed. The princely Hierarch
 In their bright stand there left his Powers, to seise

Possession of the garden; he alone, 240
 To find where Adam sheltered, took his way,
 Not unperceived of Adam; who to Eve,
 While the great visitant approached, thus spake.

Eve, now expect great tidings, which perhaps
 Of us will soon determine, or impose
 New laws to be observed; for I descry,
 From yonder blazing cloud that veils the hill,
 One of the heavenly host; and, by his gait,
 None of the meanest; some great Potentate 250
 Or of the Thrones above; such majesty Invests him coming! yet not terrible,
 That I should fear; nor sociably mild,
 As Raphael, that I should much confide;
 But solemn and sublime; whom not to offend,
 With reverence I must meet, and thou retire.

He ended: and the Arch-Angel soon drew nigh,
 Not in his shape celestial, but as man
 Clad to meet man; over his lucid arms 260
 A military vest of purple flowed,

Livelier than Meliboean, or the grain
 Of Sarra, worn by kings and heroes old
 In time of truce; Iris had dipt the woof;
 His starry helm unbuckled showed him prime
 In manhood where youth ended; by his side,
 As in a glistering zodiack, hung the sword,
 Satan's dire dread; and in his hand the spear.
 Adam bowed low; he, kingly, from his state 270
 Inclined not, but his coming thus declared.
 Adam, Heaven's high behest no preface needs:
 Sufficient that thy prayers are heard; and Death, Then due by sentence when thou didst transgress,
 Defeated of his seisure many days
 Given thee of grace; wherein thou mayest repent,
 And one bad act with many deeds well done Mayest cover: Well may then thy Lord, appeased,
 Redeem thee quite from Death's rapacious
 claim; 280
 But longer in this Paradise to dwell
 Permits not: to remove thee I am come,
 And send thee from the garden forth to till
 The ground whence thou wast taken, fitter soil.
 He added not; for Adam at the news
 Heart-struck with chilling gripe of sorrow stood,
 That all his senses bound; Eve, who unseen
 Yet all had heard, with audible lament
 Discovered soon the place of her retire. 290
 O unexpected stroke, worse than of Death!

Must I thus leave thee Paradise? thus leave Thee, native soil! these happy walks and shades,
 Fit haunt of Gods? where I had hope to spend,
 Quiet though sad, the respite of that day
 That must be mortal to us both. O flowers,
 That never will in other climate grow,
 My early visitation, and my last
 At even, which I bred up with tender hand 300
 From the first opening bud, and gave ye names,
 Who now shall rear ye to the sun, or rank
 Your tribes, and water from the ambrosial fount?
 Thee lastly, nuptial bower! by me adorned
 With what to sight or smell was sweet! from thee
 How shall I part, and whither wander down Into a lower world; to this obscure
 And wild, how shall we breathe in other air
 Less pure, accustomed to immortal fruits?
 Whom thus the Angel interrupted mild. 310

Lament not, Eve, but patiently resign
 What justly thou hast lost, nor set thy heart,
 Thus over-fond, on that which is not thine:
 Thy going is not lonely; with thee goes
 Thy husband; whom to follow thou art bound;
 Where he abides, think there thy native soil.

Adam, by this from the cold sudden damp
 Recovering, and his scattered spirits returned, 320

To Michael thus his humble words addressed.

Celestial, whether among the Thrones, or named
 Of them the highest; for such of shape may seem Prince above princes! gently hast thou told

Thy message, which might else in telling wound,
 And in performing end us; what besides
 Of sorrow, and dejection, and despair,
 Our frailty can sustain, thy tidings bring,
 Departure from this happy place, our sweet 330
 Recess, and only consolation left Familiar to our eyes! all places else
 Inhospitable appear, and desolate;
 Nor knowing us, nor known: And, if by prayer Incessant I could hope to change the will Of Him who all things can, I would not cease
 To weary him with my assiduous cries:
 But prayer against his absolute decree
 No more avails than breath against the wind,
 Blown stifling back on him that breathes it forth:
 340

Therefore to his great bidding I submit.

This most afflicts me, that, departing hence,
 As from his face I shall be hid, deprived
 His blessed countenance: Here I could frequent With worship place by place where he vouchsafed

Presence Divine; and to my sons relate,
 On this mount he appeared; under this tree
 Stood visible; among these pines his voice
 I heard; here with him at this fountain talked:350
 So many grateful altars I would rear
 Of grassy turf, and pile up every stone
 Of lustre from the brook, in memory,
 Or monument to ages; and thereon
 Offer sweet-smelling gums, and fruits, and flowers:

In yonder nether world where shall I seek
 His bright appearances, or foot-step trace?
 For though I fled him angry, yet recalled
 To life prolonged and promised race, I now
 Gladly behold though but his utmost skirts 360
 Of glory; and far off his steps adore.

To whom thus Michael with regard benign.
 Adam, thou knowest Heaven his, and all the Earth;

Not this rock only; his Omnipresence fills Land, sea, and air, and every kind that lives,
 Fomented by his virtual power and warmed:
 All the earth he gave thee to possess and rule,
 No despicable gift; surmise not then 370
 His presence to these narrow bounds confined Of Paradise, or Eden: this had been Perhaps thy capital seat, from whence had spread

All generations; and had hither come
 From all the ends of the earth, to celebrate
 And reverence thee, their great progenitor.

But this pre-eminence thou hast lost, brought down

To dwell on even ground now with thy sons:
 Yet doubt not but in valley, and in plain, 380
 God is, as here; and will be found alike
 Present; and of his presence many a sign
 Still following thee, still compassing thee round
 With goodness and paternal love, his face
 Express, and of his steps the track divine.

Which that thou mayest believe, and be confirmed

Ere thou from hence depart; know, I am sent
 To show thee what shall come in future days
 To thee, and to thy offspring: good with bad 390
 Expect to hear; supernal grace contending
 With sinfulness of men; thereby to learn
 True patience, and to temper joy with fear
 And pious sorrow; equally inured
 By moderation either state to bear,
 Prosperous or adverse: so shalt thou lead
 Safest thy life, and best prepared endure
 Thy mortal passage when it comes.—Ascend
 This hill; let Eve (for I have drenched her eyes) Here sleep below; while thou to foresight wak-
 est; 400
 As once thou sleptst, while she to life was formed.

To whom thus Adam gratefully replied.

Ascend, I follow thee, safe Guide, the path Thou leadest me; and to the hand of Heaven submit,
 However chastening; to the evil turn
 My obvious breast; arming to overcome
 By suffering, and earn rest from labour won,
 If so I may attain.—So both ascend 410
 In the visions of God. It was a hill,
 Of Paradise the highest; from whose top
 The hemisphere of earth, in clearest ken, Stretched out to the amplest reach of prospect lay.

Not higher that hill, nor wider looking round,

Whereon, for different cause, the Tempter set
 Our second Adam, in the wilderness;
 To show him all Earth's kingdoms, and their glory.

420

His eye might there command wherever stood
 City of old or modern fame, the seat
 Of mightiest empire, from the destined walls
 Of Cambalu, seat of Cathaian Can,
 And Samarchand by Oxus, Temir's throne,
 To Paquin of Sinaean kings; and thence To Agra and Lahor of great Mogul, Down to the golden Chersonese; or where The Persian in Ecbatan sat, or since
 In Hispahan; or where the Russian Ksar 430
 In Mosco; or the Sultan in Bizance, Turchestan-born; nor could his eye not ken
 The empire of Negus to his utmost port Ercoco, and the less maritim kings
 Mombaza, and Quiloa, and Melind,
 And Sofala, thought Ophir, to the realm
 Of Congo, and Angola farthest south;
 Or thence from Niger flood to Atlas mount
 The kingdoms of Almansor, Fez and Sus,
 Morocco, and Algiers, and Tremisen; 440
 On Europe thence, and where Rome was to sway
 The world: in spirit perhaps he also saw Rich Mexico, the seat of Montezume,
 And Cusco in Peru, the richer seat
 Of Atabalipa; and yet unspoiled
 Guiana, whose great city Geryon's sons
 Call El Dorado. But to nobler sights

Michael from Adam's eyes the film removed,
 Which that false fruit that promised clearer sight
 Had bred; then purged with euphrasy and rue 450

The visual nerve, for he had much to see;
 And from the well of life three drops instilled.

So deep the power of these ingredients pierced,
 Even to the inmost seat of mental sight,
 That Adam, now enforced to close his eyes,
 Sunk down, and all his spirits became entranced;
 But him the gentle Angel by the hand
 Soon raised, and his attention thus recalled.

460

Adam, now ope thine eyes; and first behold
 The effects, which thy original crime hath wrought

In some to spring from thee; who never touched
 The excepted tree; nor with the snake conspired;
 Nor sinned thy sin; yet from that sin derive Corruption, to bring forth more violent deeds.

His eyes he opened, and beheld a field,
 Part arable and tilth, whereon were sheaves
 New reaped; the other part sheep-walks and folds; 470

I' the midst an altar as the land-mark stood,
 Rustick, of grassy sord; thither anon
 A sweaty reaper from his tillage brought
 First fruits, the green ear, and the yellow sheaf, Unculled, as came to hand; a shepherd next,
 More meek, came with the firstlings of his flock,
 Choicest and best; then, sacrificing, laid

The inwards and their fat, with incense strowed,
 On the cleft wood, and all due rights performed:
 His offering soon propitious fire from Heaven 480

Consumed with nimble glance, and grateful steam;

The other's not, for his was not sincere;
 Whereat he inly raged, and, as they talked,
 Smote him into the midriff with a stone
 That beat out life; he fell; and, deadly pale, Groaned out his soul with gushing blood effused.

Much at that sight was Adam in his heart
 Dismayed, and thus in haste to the Angel cried.
 490

O Teacher, some great mischief hath befallen
 To that meek man, who well had sacrificed;
 Is piety thus and pure devotion paid?
 To whom Michael thus, he also moved, replied.

These two are brethren, Adam, and to come Out of thy loins; the unjust the just hath slain,
 For envy that his brother's offering found
 From Heaven acceptance; but the bloody fact
 Will be avenged; and the other's faith, approved, 500

Lose no reward; though here thou see him die,
 Rolling in dust and gore. To which our sire.

Alas! both for the deed, and for the cause!
 But have I now seen Death? Is this the way
 I must return to native dust? O sight
 Of terrour, foul and ugly to behold,

Horrid to think, how horrible to feel!
 To whom thus Michael. Death thou hast seen
 In his first shape on Man; but many shapes 510
 Of Death, and many are the ways that lead
 To his grim cave, all dismal; yet to sense
 More terrible at the entrance, than within.

Some, as thou sawest, by violent stroke shall die;
 By fire, flood, famine, by intemperance more In meats and drinks, which on the earth shall bring

Diseases dire, of which a monstrous crew
 Before thee shall appear; that thou mayest know
 What misery the inabstinence of Eve 520
 Shall bring on Men. Immediately a place
 Before his eyes appeared, sad, noisome, dark;
 A lazar-house it seemed; wherein were laid Numbers of all diseased; all maladies
 Of ghastly spasm, or racking torture, qualms
 Of heart-sick agony, all feverous kinds,
 Convulsions, epilepsies, fierce catarrhs,
 Intestine stone and ulcer, colick-pangs,
 Demoniack phrenzy, moaping melancholy,
 And moon-struck madness, pining atrophy, 530
 Marasmus, and wide-wasting pestilence, Dropsies, and asthmas, and joint-racking rheums.

Dire was the tossing, deep the groans; Despair
 Tended the sick busiest from couch to couch;
 And over them triumphant Death his dart
 Shook, but delayed to strike, though oft invoked
 With vows, as their chief good, and final hope.

Sight so deform what heart of rock could long 540

Dry-eyed behold? Adam could not, but wept,
Though not of woman born; compassion quelled
His best of man, and gave him up to tears
A space, till firmer thoughts restrained excess;
And, scarce recovering words, his plaint renewed.

O miserable mankind, to what fall
Degraded, to what wretched state reserved!
Better end here unborn. Why is life given
To be thus wrested from us? rather, why 550
Obtruded on us thus? who, if we knew
What we receive, would either no accept Life offered, or soon beg to lay it down;
Glad to be so dismissed in peace. Can thus
The image of God in Man, created once
So goodly and erect, though faulty since,
To such unsightly sufferings be debased
Under inhuman pains? Why should not Man, Retaining still divine similitude
In part, from such deformities be free, 560
And, for his Maker's image sake, exempt?
Their Maker's image, answered Michael, then Forsook them, when themselves they vilified
To serve ungoverned Appetite; and took His image whom they served, a brutish vice,
Inductive mainly to the sin of Eve.

Therefore so abject is their punishment,
Disfiguring not God's likeness, but their own;
Or if his likeness, by themselves defaced; 570

While they pervert pure Nature's healthful rules
 To loathsome sickness; worthily, since they God's image did not reverence in themselves.

I yield it just, said Adam, and submit.

But is there yet no other way, besides
 These painful passages, how we may come
 To death, and mix with our connatural dust?
 There is, said Michael, if thou well observe 580
 The rule of Not too much; by temperance taught,
 In what thou eatest and drinkest; seeking from thence

Due nourishment, not gluttonous delight,
 Till many years over thy head return:
 So mayest thou live; till, like ripe fruit, thou drop Into thy mother's lap; or be with ease
 Gathered, nor harshly plucked; for death mature:

This is Old Age; but then, thou must outlive Thy youth, thy strength, thy beauty; which will change

To withered, weak, and gray; thy senses then, 590
 Obtuse, all taste of pleasure must forego,
 To what thou hast; and, for the air of youth,
 Hopeful and cheerful, in thy blood will reign
 A melancholy damp of cold and dry
 To weigh thy spirits down, and last consume
 The balm of life. To whom our ancestor.

Henceforth I fly not death, nor would prolong Life much; bent rather, how I may be quit,
 Fairest and easiest, of this cumbrous charge; 600
 Which I must keep till my appointed day

Of rendering up, and patiently attend
My dissolution. Michael replied.

Nor love thy life, nor hate; but what thou livest
Live well; how long, or short, permit to Heaven:
And now prepare thee for another sight.

He looked, and saw a spacious plain, whereon
Were tents of various hue; by some, were herds 610

Of cattle grazing; others, whence the sound
Of instruments, that made melodious chime,
Was heard, of harp and organ; and, who moved Their stops and chords, was seen; his volant touch,

Instinct through all proportions, low and high,
Fled and pursued transverse the resonant fugue.

In other part stood one who, at the forge
Labouring, two massy clods of iron and brass
Had melted, (whether found where casual fire 620

Had wasted woods on mountain or in vale,
Down to the veins of earth; thence gliding hot
To some cave's mouth; or whether washed by stream

From underground;) the liquid ore he drained
Into fit moulds prepared; from which he formed First his own tools; then, what might else be wrought

Fusil or graven in metal. After these,
But on the hither side, a different sort From the high neighbouring hills, which was their seat,

Down to the plain descended; by their guise 630
 Just men they seemed, and all their study bent
 To worship God aright, and know his works Not hid; nor those things last, which might preserve

Freedom and peace to Men; they on the plain Long had not walked, when from the tents, behold!

A bevy of fair women, richly gay
 In gems and wanton dress; to the harp they sung Soft amorous ditties, and in dance came on:
 The men, though grave, eyed them; and let their eyes

Rove without rein; till, in the amorous net 640
 Fast caught, they liked; and each his liking chose;

And now of love they treat, till the evening-star,
 Love's harbinger, appeared; then, all in heat
 They light the nuptial torch, and bid invoke Hymen, then first to marriage rites invoked:
 With feast and musick all the tents resound.

Such happy interview, and fair event
 Of love and youth not lost, songs, garlands,
 flowers,
 And charming symphonies, attached the heart 650

Of Adam, soon inclined to admit delight,
 The bent of nature; which he thus expressed.

True opener of mine eyes, prime Angel blest;
 Much better seems this vision, and more hope
 Of peaceful days portends, than those two past;

Those were of hate and death, or pain much
worse;

Here Nature seems fulfilled in all her ends.

To whom thus Michael. Judge not what is best 660

By pleasure, though to nature seeming meet;

Created, as thou art, to nobler end

Holy and pure, conformity divine.

Those tents thou sawest so pleasant, were the tents

Of wickedness, wherein shall dwell his race

Who slew his brother; studious they appear

Of arts that polish life, inventers rare;

Unmindful of their Maker, though his Spirit

Taught them; but they his gifts acknowledged
none. 670

Yet they a beauteous offspring shall beget;

For that fair female troop thou sawest, that seemed

Of Goddesses, so blithe, so smooth, so gay,

Yet empty of all good wherein consists

Woman's domestick honour and chief praise;

Bred only and completed to the taste

Of lustful appetence, to sing, to dance,

To dress, and troll the tongue, and roll the eye:

To these that sober race of men, whose lives 680

Religious titled them the sons of God,

Shall yield up all their virtue, all their fame

Ignobly, to the trains and to the smiles

Of these fair atheists; and now swim in joy,

Erelong to swim at large; and laugh, for which

The world ere long a world of tears must weep.

To whom thus Adam, of short joy bereft.

O pity and shame, that they, who to live well⁶⁹⁰

Entered so fair, should turn aside to tread

Paths indirect, or in the mid way faint!

But still I see the tenour of Man's woe

Holds on the same, from Woman to begin.

From Man's effeminate slackness it begins,

Said the Angel, who should better hold his place

By wisdom, and superiour gifts received.

But now prepare thee for another scene. 700

He looked, and saw wide territory spread

Before him, towns, and rural works between;

Cities of men with lofty gates and towers,

Concourse in arms, fierce faces threatening war,

Giants of mighty bone and bold emprise;

Part wield their arms, part curb the foaming steed,

Single or in array of battle ranged

Both horse and foot, nor idly mustering stood;

One way a band select from forage drives 710

A herd of beeves, fair oxen and fair kine,

From a fat meadow ground; or fleecy flock,

Ewes and their bleating lambs over the plain,

Their booty; scarce with life the shepherds fly,

But call in aid, which makes a bloody fray;

With cruel tournament the squadrons join;

Where cattle pastured late, now scattered lies

With carcasses and arms the ensanguined field,

Deserted: Others to a city strong

Lay siege, encamped; by battery, scale, and mine, 720

Assaulting; others from the wall defend With dart and javelin, stones, and sulphurous
fire;
On each hand slaughter, and gigantick deeds.

In other part the sceptered heralds call
To council, in the city-gates; anon Gray-headed men and grave, with warriours mixed,

Assemble, and harangues are heard; but soon,
In factious opposition; till at last,
Of middle age one rising, eminent 730
In wise deport, spake much of right and wrong,
Of justice, or religion, truth, and peace,
And judgement from above: him old and young Exploded, and had seized with violent hands,
Had not a cloud descending snatched him thence

Unseen amid the throng: so violence
Proceeded, and oppression, and sword-law, Through all the plain, and refuge none was
found.

Adam was all in tears, and to his guide 740
Lamenting turned full sad; O! what are these,
Death's ministers, not men? who thus deal death
Inhumanly to men, and multiply
Ten thousandfold the sin of him who slew
His brother: for of whom such massacre
Make they, but of their brethren; men of men
But who was that just man, whom had not

Heaven

Rescued, had in his righteousness been lost?
 To whom thus Michael. These are the product
 Of those ill-mated marriages thou sawest; 750 Where good with bad were matched, who of themselves

Abhor to join; and, by imprudence mixed,
 Produce prodigious births of body or mind.

Such were these giants, men of high renown;
 For in those days might only shall be admired,
 And valour and heroick virtue called;
 To overcome in battle, and subdue
 Nations, and bring home spoils with infinite Man-slaughter, shall be held the highest pitch 760
 Of human glory; and for glory done
 Of triumph, to be styled great conquerours
 Patrons of mankind, Gods, and sons of Gods;
 Destroyers rightlier called, and plagues of men.

Thus fame shall be achieved, renown on earth;
 And what most merits fame, in silence hid.

But he, the seventh from thee, whom thou be-heldst

The only righteous in a world preverse, 770
 And therefore hated, therefore so beset
 With foes, for daring single to be just,
 And utter odious truth, that God would come To judge them with his Saints; him the Most High

Rapt in a balmy cloud with winged steeds
 Did, as thou sawest, receive, to walk with God
 High in salvation and the climes of bliss,

Exempt from death; to show thee what reward Awaits the good; the rest what punishment;
 Which now direct thine eyes and soon behold.
 780

He looked, and saw the face of things quite
 changed;
 The brazen throat of war had ceased to roar;
 All now was turned to jollity and game,
 To luxury and riot, feast and dance;
 Marrying or prostituting, as befel,
 Rape or adultery, where passing fair
 Allured them; thence from cups to civil broils.

At length a reverend sire among them came, 790
 And of their doings great dislike declared,
 And testified against their ways; he oft Frequented their assemblies, whereso met,
 Triumphs or festivals; and to them preached Conversion and repentance, as to souls
 In prison, under judgements imminent:
 But all in vain: which when he saw, he ceased
 Contending, and removed his tents far off;
 Then, from the mountain hewing timber tall,
 Began to build a vessel of huge bulk; 800 Measured by cubit, length, and breadth, and highth;
 Smear'd round with pitch; and in the side a door
 Contrived; and of provisions laid in large,
 For man and beast: when lo, a wonder strange!
 Of every beast, and bird, and insect small,
 Came sevens, and pairs; and entered in as taught
 Their order: last the sire and his three sons,

With their four wives; and God made fast the door.

Mean while the south-wind rose, and, with black wings 810

Wide-hovering, all the clouds together drove
From under Heaven; the hills to their supply
Vapour, and exhalation dusk and moist,
Sent up amain; and now the thickened sky
Like a dark ceiling stood; down rushed the rain
Impetuous; and continued, till the earth
No more was seen: the floating vessel swum
Uplifted, and secure with beaked prow
Rode tilting o'er the waves; all dwellings else Flood overwhelmed, and them with all their pomp 820

Deep under water rolled; sea covered sea,
Sea without shore; and in their palaces,
Where luxury late reigned, sea-monsters whelped
And stabled; of mankind, so numerous late,
All left, in one small bottom swum embarked.

How didst thou grieve then, Adam, to behold
The end of all thy offspring, end so sad, Depopulation! Thee another flood,
Of tears and sorrow a flood, thee also drowned, 830

And sunk thee as thy sons; till, gently reared
By the Angel, on thy feet thou stoodest at last,
Though comfortless; as when a father mourns
His children, all in view destroyed at once;
And scarce to the Angel utter'dst thus thy plaint.

O visions ill foreseen! Better had I Lived ignorant of future! so had borne
My part of evil only, each day's lot
Enough to bear; those now, that were dispensed 840

The burden of many ages, on me light
At once, by my foreknowledge gaining birth Abortive, to torment me ere their being,
With thought that they must be. Let no man seek Henceforth to be foretold, what shall befall
Him or his children; evil he may be sure,
Which neither his foreknowing can prevent;
And he the future evil shall no less
In apprehension than in substance feel,
Grievous to bear: but that care now is past, 850
Man is not whom to warn: those few escaped
Famine and anguish will at last consume,
Wandering that watery desert: I had hope,
When violence was ceased, and war on earth,
All would have then gone well; peace would have crowned

With length of happy days the race of Man;
But I was far deceived; for now I see Peace to corrupt no less than war to waste.

How comes it thus? unfold, celestial Guide, 860
And whether here the race of Man will end.

To whom thus Michael. Those, whom last thou sawest
In triumph and luxurious wealth, are they First seen in acts of prowess eminent
And great exploits, but of true virtue void;

Who, having spilt much blood, and done much wast

Subduing nations, and achieved thereby
Fame in the world, high titles, and rich prey; Shall change their course to pleasure, ease, and sloth, 870

Surfeit, and lust; till wantonness and pride
Raise out of friendship hostile deeds in peace.

The conquered also, and enslaved by war,
Shall, with their freedom lost, all virtue lose
And fear of God; from whom their piety feigned
In sharp contest of battle found no aid
Against invaders; therefore, cooled in zeal,
Thenceforth shall practice how to live secure,
Worldly or dissolute, on what their lords 880
Shall leave them to enjoy; for the earth shall bear
More than enough, that temperance may be tried:

So all shall turn degenerate, all depraved;
Justice and temperance, truth and faith, forgot;
One man except, the only son of light
In a dark age, against example good,
Against allurements, custom, and a world
Offended: fearless of reproach and scorn,
Or violence, he of their wicked ways
Shall them admonish; and before them set 890
The paths of righteousness, how much more safe
And full of peace; denouncing wrath to come
On their impenitence; and shall return
Of them derided, but of God observed
The one just man alive; by his command
Shall build a wonderous ark, as thou beheldst,

To save himself, and houshold, from amidst
A world devote to universal wrack.

No sooner he, with them of man and beast 900
Select for life, shall in the ark be lodged,
And sheltered round; but all the cataracts
Of Heaven set open on the Earth shall pour Rain, day and night; all fountains of the deep,
Broke up, shall heave the ocean to usurp
Beyond all bounds; till inundation rise Above the highest hills: Then shall this mount
Of Paradise by might of waves be moved
Out of his place, pushed by the horned flood,
With all his verdure spoiled, and trees adrift, 910
Down the great river to the opening gulf,
And there take root an island salt and bare,
The haunt of seals, and orcs, and sea-mews' clang:

To teach thee that God attributes to place
No sanctity, if none be thither brought
By men who there frequent, or therein dwell.

And now, what further shall ensue, behold.

He looked, and saw the ark hull on the flood, 920
Which now abated; for the clouds were fled,
Driven by a keen north-wind, that, blowing dry,
Wrinkled the face of deluge, as decayed;
And the clear sun on his wide watery glass
Gazed hot, and of the fresh wave largely drew,
As after thirst; which made their flowing shrink
From standing lake to tripping ebb, that stole With soft foot towards the deep; who now had stopt

His sluces, as the Heaven his windows shut. 930

The ark no more now floats, but seems on
ground,

Fast on the top of some high mountain fixed.

And now the tops of hills, as rocks, appear;
With clamour thence the rapid currents drive,
Towards the retreating sea, their furious tide.

Forthwith from out the ark a raven flies,
And after him, the surer messenger,
A dove sent forth once and again to spy 940
Green tree or ground, whereon his foot may
light:

The second time returning, in his bill
An olive-leaf he brings, pacifick sign:
Anon dry ground appears, and from his ark
The ancient sire descends, with all his train;
Then with uplifted hands, and eyes devout,
Grateful to Heaven, over his head beholds
A dewy cloud, and in the cloud a bow
Conspicuous with three lifted colours gay, Betokening peace from God, and covenant new.
950

Whereat the heart of Adam, erst so sad,
Greatly rejoiced; and thus his joy broke forth.

O thou, who future things canst represent
As present, heavenly Instructor! I revive
At this last sight; assured that Man shall live,
With all the creatures, and their seed preserve.

Far less I now lament for one whole world 960

Of wicked sons destroyed, than I rejoice
 For one man found so perfect, and so just,
 That God vouchsafes to raise another world
 From him, and all his anger to forget.

But say, what mean those coloured streaks in
 Heaven

Distended, as the brow of God appeased?
 Or serve they, as a flowery verge, to bind
 The fluid skirts of that same watery cloud,
 Lest it again dissolve, and shower the earth? 970
 To whom the Arch-Angel. Dextrously thou aimest;

So willingly doth God remit his ire,
 Though late repenting him of Man depraved;
 Grieved at his heart, when looking down he saw
 The whole earth filled with violence, and all flesh

Corrupting each their way; yet, those removed,
 Such grace shall one just man find in his sight,
 That he relents, not to blot out mankind;
 And makes a covenant never to destroy
 The earth again by flood; nor let the sea 980
 Surpass his bounds; nor rain to drown the world,
 With man therein or beast; but, when he brings Over the earth a cloud, will therein set
 His triple-coloured bow, whereon to look,
 And call to mind his covenant: Day and night,
 Seed-time and harvest, heat and hoary frost,
 Shall hold their course; till fire purge all things new,

Both Heaven and Earth, wherein the just shall dwell.

BOOK XII

As one who in his journey bates at noon,
Though bent on speed; so here the Arch-Angel paused
Betwixt the world destroyed and world restored,
If Adam aught perhaps might interpose;
Then, with transition sweet, new speech resumes.

Thus thou hast seen one world begin, and end;
And Man, as from a second stock, proceed.

Much thou hast yet to see; but I perceive 10
Thy mortal sight to fail; objects divine
Must needs impair and weary human sense:
Henceforth what is to come I will relate;
Thou therefore give due audience, and attend.

This second source of Men, while yet but few,
And while the dread of judgement past remains
Fresh in their minds, fearing the Deity,
With some regard to what is just and right Shall lead their lives, and multiply apace; 20

Labouring the soil, and reaping plenteous crop,
 Corn, wine, and oil; and, from the herd or flock,
 Oft sacrificing bullock, lamb, or kid,
 With large wine-offerings poured, and sacred feast,
 Shall spend their days in joy unblamed; and
 dwell

Long time in peace, by families and tribes,
 Under paternal rule: till one shall rise
 Of proud ambitious heart; who, not content
 With fair equality, fraternal state,
 Will arrogate dominion undeserved 30
 Over his brethren, and quite dispossess
 Concord and law of nature from the earth;
 Hunting (and men not beasts shall be his game)
 With war, and hostile snare, such as refuse Subjection to his empire tyrannous:
 A mighty hunter thence he shall be styled
 Before the Lord; as in despite of Heaven,
 Or from Heaven, claiming second sovranity;
 And from rebellion shall derive his name,
 Though of rebellion others he accuse. 40

He with a crew, whom like ambition joins
 With him or under him to tyrannize,
 Marching from Eden towards the west, shall find
 The plain, wherein a black bituminous gurge
 Boils out from under ground, the mouth of Hell:
 Of brick, and of that stuff, they cast to build A city and tower, whose top may reach to
 Heaven;
 And get themselves a name; lest, far dispersed
 In foreign lands, their memory be lost; 50

Regardless whether good or evil fame.

But God, who oft descends to visit men
 Unseen, and through their habitations walks
 To mark their doings, them beholding soon,
 Comes down to see their city, ere the tower
 Obstruct Heaven-towers, and in derision sets
 Upon their tongues a various spirit, to rase
 Quite out their native language; and, instead,
 To sow a jangling noise of words unknown: 60
 Forthwith a hideous gabble rises loud,
 Among the builders; each to other calls
 Not understood; till hoarse, and all in rage,
 As mocked they storm: great laughter was in
 Heaven,
 And looking down, to see the hubbub strange,
 And hear the din: Thus was the building left Ridiculous, and the work Confusion named.

Whereto thus Adam, fatherly displeas'd.

70

O execrable son! so to aspire
 Above his brethren; to himself assuming Authority usurped, from God not given:
 He gave us only over beast, fish, fowl,
 Dominion absolute; that right we hold
 By his donation; but man over men
 He made not lord; such title to himself
 Reserving, human left from human free.

But this usurper his encroachment proud 80
 Stays not on Man; to God his tower intends Siege and defiance: Wretched man! what food
 Will he convey up thither, to sustain

Himself and his rash army; where thin air
 Above the clouds will pine his entrails gross,
 And famish him of breath, if not of bread?
 To whom thus Michael. Justly thou abhorrest
 That son, who on the quiet state of men
 Such trouble brought, affecting to subdue Rational liberty; yet know withal, 90
 Since thy original lapse, true liberty
 Is lost, which always with right reason dwells Twinned, and from her hath no dividual being:
 Reason in man obscured, or not obeyed,
 Immediately inordinate desires,
 And upstart passions, catch the government
 From reason; and to servitude reduce Man, till then free. Therefore, since he permits Within himself unworthy powers to reign
 Over free reason, God, in judgement just, 100
 Subjects him from without to violent lords;
 Who oft as undeservedly enthrall
 His outward freedom: Tyranny must be;
 Though to the tyrant thereby no excuse.

Yet sometimes nations will decline so low
 From virtue, which is reason, that no wrong,
 But justice, and some fatal curse annexed,
 Deprives them of their outward liberty;
 Their inward lost: Witness the irreverent son 110
 Of him who built the ark; who, for the shame
 Done to his father, heard this heavy curse,
 Servant of servants, on his vicious race.

Thus will this latter, as the former world,
 Still tend from bad to worse; till God at last,

Wearied with their iniquities, withdraw
 His presence from among them, and avert
 His holy eyes; resolving from thenceforth
 To leave them to their own polluted ways; 120
 And one peculiar nation to select From all the rest, of whom to be invoked,
 A nation from one faithful man to spring:
 Him on this side Euphrates yet residing,
 Bred up in idol-worship: O, that men (Canst thou believe?) should be so stupid grown,
 While yet the patriarch lived, who 'scaped the flood,
 As to forsake the living God, and fall
 To worship their own work in wood and stone For Gods! Yet him God the Most High vouch-safes 130
 To call by vision, from his father's house,
 His kindred, and false Gods, into a land
 Which he will show him; and from him will raise A mighty nation; and upon him shower
 His benediction so, that in his seed
 All nations shall be blest: he straight obeys;
 Not knowing to what land, yet firm believes:
 I see him, but thou canst not, with what faith
 He leaves his Gods, his friends, and native soil, Ur of Chaldaea, passing now the ford 140
 To Haran; after him a cumbrous train
 Of herds and flocks, and numerous servitude;
 Not wandering poor, but trusting all his wealth
 With God, who called him, in a land unknown.
 Canaan he now attains; I see his tents

Pitched about Sechem, and the neighbouring plain

Of Moreh; there by promise he receives
Gift to his progeny of all that land,
From Hameth northward to the Desart south; 150 (Things by their names I call, though yet unnamed;)

From Hermon east to the great western Sea;
Mount Hermon, yonder sea; each place behold
In prospect, as I point them; on the shore
Mount Carmel; here, the double-founted stream,
Jordan, true limit eastward; but his sons
Shall dwell to Senir, that long ridge of hills.

This ponder, that all nations of the earth
Shall in his seed be blessed: By that seed 160
Is meant thy great Deliverer, who shall bruise
The Serpent's head; whereof to thee anon Plainlier shall be revealed. This patriarch blest, Whom faithful Abraham due time shall call,
A son, and of his son a grand-child, leaves;
Like him in faith, in wisdom, and renown:
The grandchild, with twelve sons increased, departs

From Canaan to a land hereafter called Egypt, divided by the river Nile
See where it flows, disgorging at seven mouths 170

Into the sea. To sojourn in that land
He comes, invited by a younger son
In time of dearth, a son whose worthy deeds
Raise him to be the second in that realm
Of Pharaoh. There he dies, and leaves his race

Growing into a nation, and now grown Suspected to a sequent king, who seeks
To stop their overgrowth, as inmate guests Too numerous; whence of guests he makes them slaves

Inhospitably, and kills their infant males: 180 Till by two brethren (these two brethren call Moses and Aaron) sent from God to claim
His people from enthralment, they return,
With glory and spoil, back to their promised land.

But first, the lawless tyrant, who denies
To know their God, or message to regard,
Must be compelled by signs and judgements
dire;

To blood unshed the rivers must be turned;
Frogs, lice, and flies, must all his palace fill 190
With loathed intrusion, and fill all the land;
His cattle must of rot and murren die;
Botches and blains must all his flesh emboss,
And all his people; thunder mixed with hail,
Hail mixed with fire, must rend the Egyptians sky,

And wheel on the earth, devouring where it rolls;

What it devours not, herb, or fruit, or grain,
A darksome cloud of locusts swarming down Must eat, and on the ground leave nothing green;

Darkness must overshadow all his bounds, 200
Palpable darkness, and blot out three days;
Last, with one midnight stroke, all the first-born

Of Egypt must lie dead. Thus with ten wounds
The river-dragon tamed at length submits
To let his sojourners depart, and oft Humbles his stubborn heart; but still, as ice
More hardened after thaw; till, in his rage
Pursuing whom he late dismissed, the sea
Swallows him with his host; but them lets pass,
As on dry land, between two crystal walls; 210
Awed by the rod of Moses so to stand
Divided, till his rescued gain their shore:
Such wondrous power God to his saint will lend,
Though present in his Angel; who shall go Before them in a cloud, and pillar of fire;
By day a cloud, by night a pillar of fire;
To guide them in their journey, and remove Behind them, while the obdurate king pursues:
All night he will pursue; but his approach
Darkness defends between till morning watch; 220

Then through the fiery pillar, and the cloud,
God looking forth will trouble all his host,
And craze their chariot-wheels: when by command
Moses once more his potent rod extends Over the sea; the sea his rod obeys;
On their embattled ranks the waves return,
And overwhelm their war: The race elect Safe toward Canaan from the shore advance
Through the wild Desert, not the readiest way;
Lest, entering on the Canaanite alarmed, 230
War terrify them inexpert, and fear Return them back to Egypt, choosing rather

Inglorious life with servitude; for life
 To noble and ignoble is more sweet Untrained in arms, where rashness leads not on.

This also shall they gain by their delay
 In the wide wilderness; there they shall found Their government, and their great senate choose Through the twelve tribes, to rule by laws ordained: 240

God from the mount of Sinai, whose gray top
 Shall tremble, he descending, will himself
 In thunder, lightning, and loud trumpets' sound, Ordain them laws; part, such as appertain
 To civil justice; part, religious rites
 Of sacrifice; informing them, by types
 And shadows, of that destined Seed to bruise
 The Serpent, by what means he shall achieve Mankind's deliverance. But the voice of God
 To mortal ear is dreadful: They beseech 250
 That Moses might report to them his will,
 And terror cease; he grants what they besought,

Instructed that to God is no access
 Without Mediator, whose high office now
 Moses in figure bears; to introduce
 One greater, of whose day he shall foretel,
 And all the Prophets in their age the times
 Of great Messiah shall sing. Thus, laws and rites Established, such delight hath God in Men
 Obedient to his will, that he vouchsafes 260
 Among them to set up his tabernacle;
 The Holy One with mortal Men to dwell:
 By his prescript a sanctuary is framed

Of cedar, overlaid with gold; therein
 An ark, and in the ark his testimony,
 The records of his covenant; over these
 A mercy-seat of gold, between the wings
 Of two bright Cherubim; before him burn
 Seven lamps as in a zodiack representing
 The heavenly fires; over the tent a cloud 270
 Shall rest by day, a fiery gleam by night;
 Save when they journey, and at length they come,

Conducted by his Angel, to the land
 Promised to Abraham and his seed:—The rest
 Were long to tell; how many battles fought
 How many kings destroyed; and kingdoms won;
 Or how the sun shall in mid Heaven stand still
 A day entire, and night's due course adjourn, Man's voice commanding, "Sun, in Gibeon
 stand,

And thou moon in the vale of Aialon, 280
 Till Israel overcome!" so call the third
 From Abraham, son of Isaac; and from him
 His whole descent, who thus shall Canaan win.

Here Adam interposed. O sent from Heaven,
 Enlightener of my darkness, gracious things
 Thou hast revealed; those chiefly, which concern
 Just Abraham and his seed: now first I find Mine eyes true-opening, and my heart much eased;

Erewhile perplexed with thoughts, what would become 290

Of me and all mankind: But now I see
 His day, in whom all nations shall be blest;

Favour unmerited by me, who sought
Forbidden knowledge by forbidden means.

This yet I apprehend not, why to those Among whom God will deign to dwell on earth
So many and so various laws are given;
So many laws argue so many sins
Among them; how can God with such reside? 300
To whom thus Michael. Doubt not but that sin
Will reign among them, as of thee begot;
And therefore was law given them, to evince
Their natural pravity, by stirring up
Sin against law to fight: that when they see Law can discover sin, but not remove,
Save by those shadowy expiations weak,
The blood of bulls and goats, they may conclude Some blood more precious must be paid for Man;

Just for unjust; that, in such righteousness 310
To them by faith imputed, they may find Justification towards God, and peace
Of conscience; which the law by ceremonies
Cannot appease; nor Man the mortal part Perform; and, not performing, cannot live.

So law appears imperfect; and but given
With purpose to resign them, in full time,
Up to a better covenant; disciplined From shadowy types to truth; from flesh to spirit; 320
From imposition of strict laws to free
Acceptance of large grace; from servile fear
To filial; works of law to works of faith.

And therefore shall not Moses, though of God
 Highly beloved, being but the minister
 Of law, his people into Canaan lead;
 But Joshua, whom the Gentiles Jesus call,
 His name and office bearing, who shall quell
 The adversary-Serpent, and bring back 330
 Through the world's wilderness long-wandered
 Man
 Safe to eternal Paradise of rest.

Mean while they, in their earthly Canaan placed, Long time shall dwell and prosper, but when sins
 National interrupt their publick peace,
 Provoking God to raise them enemies;
 From whom as oft he saves them penitent
 By Judges first, then under Kings; of whom
 The second, both for piety renowned 340
 And puissant deeds, a promise shall receive Irrevocable, that his regal throne
 For ever shall endure; the like shall sing
 All Prophecy, that of the royal stock
 Of David (so I name this king) shall rise
 A Son, the Woman's seed to thee foretold, Foretold to Abraham, as in whom shall trust
 All nations; and to kings foretold, of kings
 The last; for of his reign shall be no end.

350

But first, a long succession must ensue;
 And his next son, for wealth and wisdom famed,
 The clouded ark of God, till then in tents
 Wandering, shall in a glorious temple enshrine.

Such follow him, as shall be registered
 Part good, part bad; of bad the longer scroll;
 Whose foul idolatries, and other faults
 Heaped to the popular sum, will so incense
 God, as to leave them, and expose their land,³⁶⁰
 Their city, his temple, and his holy ark,
 With all his sacred things, a scorn and prey
 To that proud city, whose high walls thou sawest Left in confusion; Babylon thence called.

There in captivity he lets them dwell
 The space of seventy years; then brings them back,
 Remembering mercy, and his covenant sworn
 To David, stablished as the days of Heaven.

370

Returned from Babylon by leave of kings
 Their lords, whom God disposed, the house of God

They first re-edify; and for a while
 In mean estate live moderate; till, grown
 In wealth and multitude, factious they grow;
 But first among the priests dissention springs, Men who attend the altar, and should most Endeavour peace: their strife pollution brings Upon the temple itself: at last they seize
 The scepter, and regard not David's sons; 380
 Then lose it to a stranger, that the true
 Anointed King Messiah might be born
 Barred of his right; yet at his birth a star,
 Unseen before in Heaven, proclaims him come;
 And guides the eastern sages, who inquire
 His place, to offer incense, myrrh, and gold:

His place of birth a solemn Angel tells
 To simple shepherds, keeping watch by night;
 They gladly thither haste, and by a quire
 Of squadroned Angels hear his carol sung. 390

A virgin is his mother, but his sire
 The power of the Most High: He shall ascend
 The throne hereditary, and bound his reign
 With Earth's wide bounds, his glory with the Heavens.

He ceased, discerning Adam with such joy Surcharged, as had like grief been dewed in tears,
 Without the vent of words; which these he breathed.

400

O prophet of glad tidings, finisher
 Of utmost hope! now clear I understand What oft my steadiest thoughts have searched in vain;

Why our great Expectation should be called The seed of Woman: Virgin Mother, hail,
 High in the love of Heaven; yet from my loins
 Thou shalt proceed, and from thy womb the Son Of God Most High: so God with Man unites!
 Needs must the Serpent now his capital bruise Expect with mortal pain: Say where and when 410

Their fight, what stroke shall bruise the victor's heel.

To whom thus Michael. Dream not of their fight,
 As of a duel, or the local wounds

Of head or heel: Not therefore joins the Son
 Manhood to Godhead, with more strength to foil Thy enemy; nor so is overcome
 Satan, whose fall from Heaven, a deadlier bruise, Disabled, not to give thee thy death's wound:
 Which he, who comes thy Saviour, shall recure, 420

Not by destroying Satan, but his works
 In thee, and in thy seed: Nor can this be,
 But by fulfilling that which thou didst want,
 Obedience to the law of God, imposed
 On penalty of death, and suffering death;
 The penalty to thy transgression due,
 And due to theirs which out of thine will grow:
 So only can high Justice rest appaid.

The law of God exact he shall fulfil 430
 Both by obedience and by love, though love
 Alone fulfil the law; thy punishment
 He shall endure, by coming in the flesh
 To a reproachful life, and cursed death;
 Proclaiming life to all who shall believe
 In his redemption; and that his obedience,
 Imputed, becomes theirs by faith; his merits
 To save them, not their own, though legal, works.

For this he shall live hated, be blasphemed, 440
 Seised on by force, judged, and to death condemned

A shameful and accursed, nailed to the cross
 By his own nation; slain for bringing life:
 But to the cross he nails thy enemies,

The law that is against thee, and the sins
Of all mankind, with him there crucified,
Never to hurt them more who rightly trust
In this his satisfaction; so he dies,
But soon revives; Death over him no power
Shall long usurp; ere the third dawning light 450
Return, the stars of morn shall see him rise
Out of his grave, fresh as the dawning light, Thy ransom paid, which Man from death redeems,
His death for Man, as many as offered life
Neglect not, and the benefit embrace
By faith not void of works: This God-like act Annuls thy doom, the death thou shouldest have died,
In sin for ever lost from life; this act
Shall bruise the head of Satan, crush his strength, Defeating Sin and Death, his two main arms; 460
And fix far deeper in his head their stings
Than temporal death shall bruise the victor's
heel,
Or theirs whom he redeems; a death, like sleep,
A gentle wafting to immortal life.
Nor after resurrection shall he stay Longer on earth, than certain times to appear
To his disciples, men who in his life
Still followed him; to them shall leave in charge
To teach all nations what of him they learned 470
And his salvation; them who shall believe Baptizing in the profluent stream, the sign
Of washing them from guilt of sin to life
Pure, and in mind prepared, if so befall,

For death, like that which the Redeemer died.
All nations they shall teach; for, from that day,
Not only to the sons of Abraham's loins
Salvation shall be preached, but to the sons
Of Abraham's faith wherever through the world;
480

So in his seed all nations shall be blest.
Then to the Heaven of Heavens he shall ascend
With victory, triumphing through the air
Over his foes and thine; there shall surprise
The Serpent, prince of air, and drag in chains Through all his realm, and there confounded leave;
Then enter into glory, and resume
His seat at God's right hand, exalted high Above all names in Heaven; and thence shall come, 490
When this world's dissolution shall be ripe,
With glory and power to judge both quick and dead;

To judge the unfaithful dead, but to reward
His faithful, and receive them into bliss,
Whether in Heaven or Earth; for then the Earth Shall all be Paradise, far happier place
Than this of Eden, and far happier days.
So spake the Arch-Angel Michael; then paused,
As at the world's great period; and our sire, 500
Replete with joy and wonder, thus replied.
O Goodness infinite, Goodness immense!
That all this good of evil shall produce,
And evil turn to good; more wonderful

Than that which by creation first brought forth
 Light out of darkness! Full of doubt I stand,
 Whether I should repent me now of sin
 By me done, and occasioned; or rejoice Much more, that much more good thereof shall spring; 510

To God more glory, more good-will to Men
 From God, and over wrath grace shall abound.

But say, if our Deliverer up to Heaven
 Must re-ascend, what will betide the few
 His faithful, left among the unfaithful herd,
 The enemies of truth? Who then shall guide
 His people, who defend? Will they not deal Worse with his followers than with him they dealt?

Be sure they will, said the Angel; but from
 Heaven 520

He to his own a Comforter will send,
 The promise of the Father, who shall dwell
 His Spirit within them; and the law of faith, Working through love, upon their hearts shall write,

To guide them in all truth; and also arm
 With spiritual armour, able to resist
 Satan's assaults, and quench his fiery darts;
 What man can do against them, not afraid,
 Though to the death; against such cruelties
 With inward consolations recompensed, 530
 And oft supported so as shall amaze
 Their proudest persecutors: For the Spirit, Poured first on his Apostles, whom he sends
 To evangelize the nations, then on all

Baptized, shall them with wonderous gifts endue

To speak all tongues, and do all miracles,
As did their Lord before them. Thus they win Great numbers of each nation to receive With joy the tidings brought from Heaven: At length

Their ministry performed, and race well run,⁵⁴⁰
Their doctrine and their story written left,
They die; but in their room, as they forewarn, Wolves shall succeed for teachers, grievous wolves,

Who all the sacred mysteries of Heaven
To their own vile advantages shall turn
Of lucre and ambition; and the truth
With superstitions and traditions taint,
Left only in those written records pure,
Though not but by the Spirit understood.

550

Then shall they seek to avail themselves of names,

Places, and titles, and with these to join Secular power; though feigning still to act
By spiritual, to themselves appropriating
The Spirit of God, promised alike and given
To all believers; and, from that pretence,
Spiritual laws by carnal power shall force
On every conscience; laws which none shall find Left them inrolled, or what the Spirit within Shall on the heart engrave. What will they then 560

But force the Spirit of Grace itself, and bind

His consort Liberty? what, but unbuild
 His living temples, built by faith to stand,
 Their own faith, not another's? for, on earth,
 Who against faith and conscience can be heard Infallible? yet many will presume:
 Whence heavy persecution shall arise
 On all, who in the worship persevere
 Of spirit and truth; the rest, far greater part,
 Will deem in outward rites and specious forms 570

Religion satisfied; Truth shall retire Bestuck with slanderous darts, and works of faith

Rarely be found: So shall the world go on,
 To good malignant, to bad men benign;
 Under her own weight groaning; till the day Appear of respiration to the just,
 And vengeance to the wicked, at return
 Of him so lately promised to thy aid,
 The Woman's Seed; obscurely then foretold,
 Now ampler known thy Saviour and thy Lord; 580

Last, in the clouds, from Heaven to be revealed
 In glory of the Father, to dissolve
 Satan with his perverted world; then raise
 From the conflagrante mass, purged and refined,
 New Heavens, new Earth, ages of endless date,
 Founded in righteousness, and peace, and love;
 To bring forth fruits, joy and eternal bliss.
 He ended; and thus Adam last replied.

590

How soon hath thy prediction, Seer blest,

Measured this transient world, the race of time,
Till time stand fixed! Beyond is all abyss, Eternity, whose end no eye can reach.

Greatly-instructed I shall hence depart;
Greatly in peace of thought; and have my fill
Of knowledge, what this vessel can contain;
Beyond which was my folly to aspire.

600

Henceforth I learn, that to obey is best,
And love with fear the only God; to walk
As in his presence; ever to observe
His providence; and on him sole depend,
Merciful over all his works, with good Still overcoming evil, and by small Accomplishing great things, by things deemed weak

Subverting worldly strong, and worldly wise
By simply meek: that suffering for truth's sake
Is fortitude to highest victory, 610
And, to the faithful, death the gate of life;
Taught this by his example, whom I now
Acknowledge my Redeemer ever blest.

To whom thus also the Angel last replied.

This having learned, thou hast attained the sum
Of wisdom; hope no higher, though all the stars Thou knewest by name, and all the ethereal
powers,

All secrets of the deep, all Nature's works, 620
Or works of God in Heaven, air, earth, or sea,
And all the riches of this world enjoyedst,
And all the rule, one empire; only add

Deeds to thy knowledge answerable; add faith,
Add virtue, patience, temperance; add love,
By name to come called charity, the soul
Of all the rest: then wilt thou not be loth
To leave this Paradise, but shalt possess
A Paradise within thee, happier far.—
Let us descend now therefore from this top 630
Of speculation; for the hour precise Exacts our parting hence; and see the guards,
By me encamped on yonder hill, expect
Their motion; at whose front a flaming sword,
In signal of remove, waves fiercely round:
We may no longer stay: go, waken Eve;
Her also I with gentle dreams have calmed Portending good, and all her spirits composed
To meek submission: thou, at season fit,
Let her with thee partake what thou hast heard;
640

Chiefly what may concern her faith to know,
The great deliverance by her seed to come (For by the Woman's seed) on all mankind:
That ye may live, which will be many days,
Both in one faith unanimous, though sad,
With cause, for evils past; yet much more cheered
With meditation on the happy end.

He ended, and they both descend the hill;
Descended, Adam to the bower, where Eve 650
Lay sleeping, ran before; but found her waked;
And thus with words not sad she him received.

Whence thou returnest, and whither wentest, I know;

 For God is also in sleep; and dreams advise,
 Which he hath sent propitious, some great good Presaging, since with sorrow and heart's distress Wearied I fell asleep: But now lead on;
 In me is no delay; with thee to go,
 Is to stay here; without thee here to stay, 660
 Is to go hence unwilling; thou to me
 Art all things under Heaven, all places thou,
 Who for my wilful crime art banished hence.

This further consolation yet secure
 I carry hence; though all by me is lost,
 Such favour I unworthy am vouchsafed,
 By me the Promised Seed shall all restore.

So spake our mother Eve; and Adam heard 670 Well pleased, but answered not: For now, too
 nigh

The Arch-Angel stood; and, from the other hill
 To their fixed station, all in bright array
 The Cherubim descended; on the ground
 Gliding meteorous, as evening-mist
 Risen from a river o'er the marish glides,
 And gathers ground fast at the labourer's heel Homeward returning. High in front advanced,
 The brandished sword of God before them blazed,

Fierce as a comet; which with torrid heat, 680
 And vapour as the Libyan air adust,
 Began to parch that temperate clime; whereat
 In either hand the hastening Angel caught
 Our lingering parents, and to the eastern gate

Led them direct, and down the cliff as fast
To the subjected plain; then disappeared.
They, looking back, all the eastern side beheld
Of Paradise, so late their happy seat,
Waved over by that flaming brand; the gate 690
With dreadful faces thronged, and fiery arms:
Some natural tears they dropt, but wiped them
soon;
The world was all before them, where to choose Their place of rest, and Providence their guide:
They, hand in hand, with wandering steps and
slow,
Through Eden took their solitary way.
