BOOK I. INSCRIPTIONS
One’s-Self I Sing

One’s-self I sing, a simple separate person
Yet utter the word Democratic, the word En-Masse.

Of physiology from top to toe I sing
Not physiognomy alone nor brain alone is worthy for the Muse, I say the Form complete is worthier far
The Female equally with the Male I sing.

Of Life immense in passion, pulse, and power Cheerful, for freest action form’d under the laws divine
The Modern Man I sing.
As I ponder’d in silence
Returning upon my poems, considering, lingering long
A Phantom arose before me with distrustful aspect Terrible in beauty, age, and power
The genius of poets of old lands
As to me directing like flame its eyes
With finger pointing to many immortal songs
And menacing voice, What singest thou? it said Know’st thou not there is but one theme for ever-enduring bards?
And that is the theme of War, the fortune of battles
The making of perfect soldiers.
Be it so, then I answer’d
I too haughty Shade also sing war, and a longer and greater one than any Waged in my book with varying fortune, with flight, advance and retreat, victory deferr’d and wavering (Yet methinks certain, or as good as certain, at the last,) the field the world
For life and death, for the Body and for the eternal Soul
Lo, I too am come, chanting the chant of battles
I above all promote brave soldiers.
In cabin’d ships at sea
The boundless blue on every side expanding
With whistling winds and music of the waves, the large imperious waves
Or some lone bark buoy’d on the dense marine Where joyous full of faith, spreading white sails
She cleaves the ether mid the sparkle and the foam of day, or under many a star at night
By sailors young and old haply will I, a remembrance of the land, be read In full rapport at last.

Here are our thoughts, voyagers’ thoughts
Here not the land, firm land, alone appears, may then by them be said
The sky o’erarches here, we feel the undulating deck beneath our feet
We feel the long pulsation, ebb and flow of endless motion The tones of unseen mystery, the vague and vast suggestions of the briny world, the liquid-flowing syllables
The perfume, the faint creaking of the cordage, the melancholy rhythm
The boundless vista and the horizon far and dim are all here
And this is ocean’s poem.

Then falter not O book, fulfil your destiny
You not a reminiscence of the land alone
You too as a lone bark cleaving the ether, pur-pos’d I know not whither, yet ever full of faith Consort to every ship that sails, sail you!

Bear forth to them folded my love, (dear mariners, for you I fold it here in every leaf;)
Speed on my book! spread your white sails my little bark athwart the imperious waves Chant on, sail on, bear o’er the boundless blue from me to every sea
This song for mariners and all their ships.
To Foreign Lands

I heard that you ask’d for something to prove this puzzle the New World
And to define America, her athletic Democracy Therefore I send you my poems that you behold in them what you wanted.
To a Historian

You who celebrate bygones
Who have explored the outward, the surfaces of the races, the life that has exhibited itself
Who have treated of man as the creature of politics, aggregates, rulers and priests
I, habitan of the Alleghanies, treating of him as he is in himself in his own rights Pressing the pulse of the life that has seldom exhibited itself, (the great pride of man in himself,) Chanter of Personality, outlining what is yet to be, I project the history of the future.
To Thee Old Cause

To thee old cause!
Thou peerless, passionate, good cause
Thou stern, remorseless, sweet idea
Deathless throughout the ages, races, lands
After a strange sad war, great war for thee
(I think all war through time was really fought, and ever will be really fought, for thee,) These chants for thee, the eternal march of thee.

(A war O soldiers not for itself alone Far, far more stood silently waiting behind, now to advance in this book.)
Thou orb of many orbs!
Thou seething principle! thou well-kept, latent germ! thou centre!

Around the idea of thee the war revolving
With all its angry and vehement play of causes (With vast results to come for thrice a thousand years,) These recitatives for thee,—my book and the war are one Merged in its spirit I and mine, as the contest hinged on thee
As a wheel on its axis turns, this book unwitting to itself Around the idea of thee.
EIDOLONS

I met a seer
Passing the hues and objects of the world
The fields of art and learning, pleasure, sense
To glean eidolons.

Put in thy chants said he
No more the puzzling hour nor day, nor segments, parts, put in Put first before the rest as light for all and entrance-song of all That of eidolons.

Ever the dim beginning
Ever the growth, the rounding of the circle
Ever the summit and the merge at last, (to surely start again,) Eidolons! eidolons!

Ever the mutable
Ever materials, changing, crumbling, recohering Ever the ateliers, the factories divine Issuing eidolons.

Lo, I or you
Or woman, man, or state, known or unknown
We seeming solid wealth, strength, beauty build But really build eidolons.
The ostent evanescent
The substance of an artist’s mood or savan’s studies long Or warrior’s, martyr’s, hero’s toils
To fashion his eidolon.
Of every human life
(The units gather’d, posted, not a thought, emotion, deed, left out,)
The whole or large or small summ’d, added up
In its eidolon.
The old, old urge
Based on the ancient pinnacles, lo, newer, higher pinnacles
From science and the modern still impell’d
The old, old urge, eidolons.
The present now and here
America’s busy, teeming, intricate whirl
Of aggregate and segregate for only thence releasing
To-day’s eidolons.

These with the past
Of vanish’d lands, of all the reigns of kings across the sea
Old conquerors, old campaigns, old sailors’ voyages Joining eidolons.

Densities, growth, facades
Strata of mountains, soils, rocks, giant trees
Far-born, far-dying, living long, to leave Eidolons everlasting.

Exalte, rapt, ecstatic
The visible but their womb of birth
Of orbic tendencies to shape and shape and shape
The mighty earth-eidolon.

All space, all time
(The stars, the terrible perturbations of the suns Swelling, collapsing, ending, serving their longer, shorter use,) Fill’d with eidolons only.
The noiseless myriads
The infinite oceans where the rivers empty
The separate countless free identities, like eyesight
The true realities, eidolons.

Not this the world
Nor these the universes, they the universes Purport and end, ever the permanent life of life Eidolons, eidolons.

Beyond thy lectures learn’d professor Beyond thy telescope or spectroscope observer keen, beyond all mathematics
Beyond the doctor’s surgery, anatomy, beyond the chemist with his chemistry
The entities of entities, eidolons.

Unfix’d yet fix’d
Ever shall be, ever have been and are Sweeping the present to the infinite future Eidolons, eidolons, eidolons.

The prophet and the bard
Shall yet maintain themselves, in higher stages yet Shall mediate to the Modern, to Democracy, interpret yet to them God and eidolons.

And thee my soul
Joys, ceaseless exercises, exaltations
Thy yearning amply fed at last, prepared to meet Thy mates, eidolons.

Thy body permanent
The body lurking there within thy body
The only purport of the form thou art, the real
I myself
An image, an eidolon.

Thy very songs not in thy songs
No special strains to sing, none for itself
But from the whole resulting, rising at last and floating
A round full-orb’d eidolon.
For him I sing
I raise the present on the past, (As some perennial tree out of its roots, the present on the past,)
With time and space I him dilate and fuse the immortal laws
To make himself by them the law unto himself.
When I Read the Book

When I read the book, the biography famous
And is this then (said I) what the author calls a man’s life?
And so will some one when I am dead and gone write my life?
(As if any man really knew aught of my life Why even I myself I often think know little or nothing of my real life
Only a few hints, a few diffused faint clews and indirections
I seek for my own use to trace out here.)
Beginning My Studies

Beginning my studies the first step pleas’d me so much
The mere fact consciousness, these forms, the power of motion
The least insect or animal, the senses, eyesight, love
The first step I say awed me and pleas’d me so much
I have hardly gone and hardly wish’d to go any farther
But stop and loiter all the time to sing it in ecstatic songs.
BEGINNERS

How they are provided for upon the earth, (appearing at intervals,)
How dear and dreadful they are to the earth
How they inure to themselves as much as to any—what a paradox appears their age
How people respond to them, yet know them not How there is something relentless in their fate all times
How all times mischoose the objects of their adulation and reward
And how the same inexorable price must still be paid for the same great purchase.
To the States

To the States or any one of them, or any city of the States, Resist much, obey little Once unquestioning obedience, once fully enslaved
Once fully enslaved, no nation, state, city of this earth, ever afterward resumes its liberty.
On Journeys Through the States

On journeys through the States we start (Ay through the world, urged by these songs Sailing henceforth to every land, to every sea,)
We willing learners of all, teachers of all, and lovers of all.

We have watch’d the seasons dispensing themselves and passing on
And have said, Why should not a man or woman do as much as the seasons, and effuse as much?
We dwell a while in every city and town
We pass through Kanada, the North-east, the vast valley of the Mississippi, and the Southern States
We confer on equal terms with each of the States
We make trial of ourselves and invite men and women to hear
We say to ourselves, Remember, fear not, be candid, promulge the body and the soul Dwell a while and pass on, be copious, temperate, chaste, magnetic
And what you effuse may then return as the seasons return
And may be just as much as the seasons.
To a Certain Cantatrice

Here, take this gift
I was reserving it for some hero, speaker, or general
One who should serve the good old cause, the great idea, the progress and freedom of the race
Some brave confronter of despots, some daring rebel;
But I see that what I was reserving belongs to you just as much as to any.
Me Imperturbe

Me imperturbe, standing at ease in Nature Master of all or mistress of all, aplomb in the midst of irrational things Imbued as they, passive, receptive, silent as they Finding my occupation, poverty, notoriety, foibles, crimes, less important than I thought Me toward the Mexican sea, or in the Man- nahatta or the Tennessee, or far north or inland A river man, or a man of the woods or of any farm-life of these States or of the coast, or the lakes or Kanada Me wherever my life is lived, O to be self-balanced for contingencies To confront night, storms, hunger, ridicule, accidents, rebuffs, as the trees and animals do.
Savantism

Thither as I look I see each result and glory retracing itself and nestling close, always obligated Thither hours, months, years—thither trades, compacts, establishments, even the most minute Thither every-day life, speech, utensils, politics, persons, estates;
Thither we also, I with my leaves and songs, trustful, admirant
As a father to his father going takes his children along with him.
Lo, the unbounded sea
On its breast a ship starting, spreading all sails, carrying even her moonsails.

The pennant is flying aloft as she speeds she speeds so stately—below emulous waves press forward
They surround the ship with shining curving motions and foam.
I Hear America Singing

I hear America singing, the varied carols I hear
Those of mechanics, each one singing his as it should be blithe and strong
The carpenter singing his as he measures his plank or beam
The mason singing his as he makes ready for work, or leaves off work
The boatman singing what belongs to him in his boat, the deckhand singing on the steamboat deck
The shoemaker singing as he sits on his bench, the hatter singing as he stands
The wood-cutter’s song, the ploughboy’s on his way in the morning, or at noon intermission or at sundown
The delicious singing of the mother, or of the young wife at work, or of the girl sewing or washing
Each singing what belongs to him or her and to none else
The day what belongs to the day—at night the party of young fellows, robust, friendly, Singing with open mouths their strong melodious songs.
What Place Is Besieged?

What place is besieged, and vainly tries to raise the siege?
Lo, I send to that place a commander, swift, brave, immortal
And with him horse and foot, and parks of artillery
And artillery-men, the deadliest that ever fired gun.
Still Though the One I Sing

Still though the one I sing
(One, yet of contradictions made,) I dedicate to Nationality
I leave in him revolt, (O latent right of insurrection! O quenchless, indispensable fire!)
Shut Not Your Doors

Shut not your doors to me proud libraries
For that which was lacking on all your well-fill’d shelves, yet needed most, I bring Forth from the war emerging, a book I have made
The words of my book nothing, the drift of it every thing
A book separate, not link’d with the rest nor felt by the intellect
But you ye untold latencies will thrill to every page.
Poets to Come

Poets to come! orators, singers, musicians to come!
Not to-day is to justify me and answer what I am for
But you, a new brood, native, athletic, continental, greater than before known Arouse! for you must justify me.

I myself but write one or two indicative words for the future
I but advance a moment only to wheel and hurry back in the darkness.

I am a man who, sauntering along without fully stopping, turns a casual look upon you and then averts his face Leaving it to you to prove and define it Expecting the main things from you.
To You

Stranger, if you passing meet me and desire to speak to me, why should you not speak to me?
And why should I not speak to you?
THOU READER

Thou reader throbbest life and pride and love the same as I Therefore for thee the following chants.
BOOK II
Starting from Paumanok

Starting from fish-shape Paumanok where I was born Well-begotten, and rais’d by a perfect mother
After roaming many lands, lover of populous pavements Dweller in Mannahatta my city, or on southern savannas
Or a soldier camp’d or carrying my knapsack and gun, or a miner in California
Or rude in my home in Dakota’s woods, my diet meat, my drink from the spring
Or withdrawn to muse and meditate in some deep recess Far from the clank of crowds intervals passing rapt and happy Aware of the fresh free giver the flowing Missouri, aware of mighty Niagara Aware of the buffalo herds grazing the plains, the hirsute and strong-breasted bull
Of earth, rocks, Fifth-month flowers experienced, stars, rain, snow, my amaze Having studied the mocking-bird’s tones and the flight of the mountain-hawk And heard at dawn the unrivall’d one, the hermit thrush from the swamp-cedars Solitary, singing in the West, I strike up for a New World.

2
Victory, union, faith, identity, time
The indissoluble compacts, riches, mystery Eternal progress, the kosmos, and the modern reports.

This then is life
Here is what has come to the surface after so many throes and convulsions.

How curious! how real!
Underfoot the divine soil, overhead the sun.
See revolving the globe
The ancestor-continents away group’d together
The present and future continents north and south, with the isthmus between.
See, vast trackless spaces
As in a dream they change, they swiftly fill Countless masses debouch upon them
They are now cover’d with the foremost people, arts, institutions, known.
See, projected through time
For me an audience interminable.
With firm and regular step they wend, they never stop Successions of men, Americanos, a hundred millions One generation playing its part and passing on Another generation playing its part and passing on in its turn
With faces turn’d sideways or backward towards me to listen
With eyes retrospective towards me.

Americanos! conquerors! marches humanitarian!
Foremost! century marches! Libertad! masses!
For you a programme of chants.

Chants of the prairies Chants of the long-running Mississippi, and down to the Mexican sea Chants of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin and Minnesota Chants going forth from the centre from Kansas, and thence equidistant Shooting in pulses of fire ceaseless to vivify all.

Take my leaves America, take them South and take them North Make welcome for them everywhere, for they are your own off-spring Surround them East and West, for they would surround you
And you precedents, connect lovingly with them, for they connect lovingly with you.

I conn’d old times
I sat studying at the feet of the great masters
Now if eligible O that the great masters might return and study me.

In the name of these States shall I scorn the antique?
Why these are the children of the antique to justify it.

Dead poets, philosophs, priests
Martyrs, artists, inventors, governments long since Language-shapers on other shores
Nations once powerful, now reduced, withdrawn, or desolate
I dare not proceed till I respectfully credit what you have left wafted hither
I have perused it, own it is admirable, (moving awhile among it,) Think nothing can ever be greater, nothing can ever deserve more than it deserves Regarding it all intently a long while, then dismissing it I stand in my place with my own day here.
Here lands female and male
Here the heir-ship and heiress-ship of the world, here the flame of materials
Here spirituality the translatress, the openly-avow’d
The ever-tending, the finale of visible forms
The satisfier, after due long-waiting now advancing Yes here comes my mistress the soul.

Forever and forever–longer than soil is brown and solid–longer than water ebbs and flows.

I will make the poems of materials, for I think they are to be the most spiritual poems
And I will make the poems of my body and of mortality
For I think I shall then supply myself with the poems of my soul and of immortality.

I will make a song for these States that no one State may under any circumstances be subjected to another State And I will make a song that there shall be comity by day and by night between all the States, and between any two of them And I will make a song for the ears of the President, full of weapons with menacing points
And behind the weapons countless dissatisfied faces;
And a song make I of the One form’d out of all
The fang’d and glittering One whose head is over all
Resolute warlike One including and over all (However high the head of any else that head is over all.)
I will acknowledge contemporary lands
I will trail the whole geography of the globe and salute courteously every city large and small And employments! I will put in my poems that with you is heroism upon land and sea
And I will report all heroism from an American point of view.
I will sing the song of companionship
I will show what alone must finally compact these I believe these are to found their own ideal of manly love, indicating it in me
I will therefore let flame from me the burning fires that were threatening to consume me
I will lift what has too long kept down those smouldering fires
I will give them complete abandonment
I will write the evangel-poem of comrades and of love
For who but I should understand love with all its sorrow and joy?
And who but I should be the poet of comrades?

I am the credulous man of qualities, ages, races
I advance from the people in their own spirit
Here is what sings unrestricted faith.
Omnes! omnes! let others ignore what they may I make the poem of evil also, I commemorate that part also I am myself just as much evil as good, and my nation is—and I say there is in fact no evil (Or if there is I say it is just as important to you, to the land or to me, as any thing else.)
I too, following many and follow’d by many, inaugurate a religion, I descend into the arena
(It may be I am destin’d to utter the loudest cries there, the winner’s pealing shouts Who knows? they may rise from me yet, and soar above every thing.)
Each is not for its own sake
I say the whole earth and all the stars in the sky are for religion’s sake.
I say no man has ever yet been half devout enough
None has ever yet adored or worship’d half enough None has begun to think how divine he himself is, and how certain the future is.
I say that the real and permanent grandeur of these States must be their religion Otherwise there is just no real and permanent grandeur; (Nor character nor life worthy the name without religion Nor land nor man or woman without religion.)

What are you doing young man?
Are you so earnest, so given up to literature, science, art, amours?
These ostensible realities, politics, points?
Your ambition or business whatever it may be?
It is well–against such I say not a word, I am their poet also But behold! such swiftly subside, burnt up for religion’s sake
For not all matter is fuel to heat, impalpable flame, the essential life of the earth
Any more than such are to religion.

What do you seek so pensive and silent?
What do you need camerado?
Dear son do you think it is love?
Listen dear son—listen America, daughter or son
It is a painful thing to love a man or woman to excess, and yet it satisfies, it is great
But there is something else very great, it makes the whole coincide
It, magnificent, beyond materials, with continuous hands sweeps and provides for all.

Know you, solely to drop in the earth the germs of a greater religion
The following chants each for its kind I sing.
My comrade!
For you to share with me two greatnesses, and a third one rising inclusive and more resplendent The greatness of Love and Democracy, and the greatness of Religion.

Melange mine own, the unseen and the seen Mysterious ocean where the streams empty Prophetic spirit of materials shifting and flickering around me Living beings, identities now doubtless near us in the air that we know not of Contact daily and hourly that will not release me These selecting, these in hints demanded of me.

Not he with a daily kiss onward from childhood kissing me Has winded and twisted around me that which holds me to him Any more than I am held to the heavens and all the spiritual world After what they have done to me, suggesting themes.
O such themes–equalities! O divine average! Warblings under the sun, usher’d as now, or at noon, or setting Strains musical flowing through ages, now reaching hither I take to your reckless and composite chords, add to them, and cheerfully pass them forward.

As I have walk’d in Alabama my morning walk I have seen where the she-bird the mocking-bird sat on her nest in the briers hatching her brood. I have seen the he-bird also I have paus’d to hear him near at hand inflating his throat and joyfully singing. And while I paus’d it came to me that what he really sang for was not there only Nor for his mate nor himself only, nor all sent back by the echoes
But subtle, clandestine, away beyond
A charge transmitted and gift occult for those being born.

Democracy! near at hand to you a throat is now inflating itself and joyfully singing.

Ma femme! for the brood beyond us and of us
For those who belong here and those to come
I exultant to be ready for them will now shake out carols stronger and haughtier than have ever yet been heard upon earth.

I will make the songs of passion to give them their way
And your songs outlaw’d offenders, for I scan you with kindred eyes, and carry you with me the same as any.

I will make the true poem of riches
To earn for the body and the mind whatever adheres and goes forward and is not dropt by death;
I will effuse egotism and show it underlying all, and I will be the bard of personality
And I will show of male and female that either is but the equal of the other And sexual organs and acts! do you concentrate in me, for I am determin’d to tell you with courageous clear voice to prove you illustrious
And I will show that there is no imperfection in the present, and can be none in the future
And I will show that whatever happens to anybody it may be turn’d to beautiful results
And I will show that nothing can happen more beautiful than death
And I will thread a thread through my poems that time and events are compact And that all the things of the universe are perfect miracles, each as profound as any.

I will not make poems with reference to parts
But I will make poems, songs, thoughts, with reference to ensemble
And I will not sing with reference to a day, but with reference to all days
And I will not make a poem nor the least part of a poem but has reference to the soul Because having look’d at the objects of the universe, I find there is no one nor any particle of one but has reference to the soul.

Was somebody asking to see the soul?
See, your own shape and countenance, persons, substances, beasts the trees, the running rivers, the rocks and sands.
All hold spiritual joys and afterwards loosen them;
How can the real body ever die and be buried?
Of your real body and any man’s or woman’s real body
Item for item it will elude the hands of the corpse-cleaners and pass to fitting spheres Carrying what has accrued to it from the moment of birth to the moment of death.
Not the types set up by the printer return their impression, the meaning, the main concern
Any more than a man’s substance and life or a woman’s substance and life return in the body and the soul Indifferently before death and after death.
Behold, the body includes and is the meaning, the main concern and includes and is the soul;
Whoever you are, how superb and how divine is your body, or any part of it!

Whoever you are, to you endless announcements!
Daughter of the lands did you wait for your poet?
Did you wait for one with a flowing mouth and indicative hand?
Toward the male of the States, and toward the female of the States Exulting words, words to Democracy’s lands.
Interlink’d, food-yielding lands!

Land of coal and iron! land of gold! land of cotton, sugar, rice!

Land of wheat, beef, pork! land of wool and hemp! land of the apple and the grape!

Land of the pastoral plains, the grass-fields of the world! land of those sweet-air’d interminable plateaus!

Land of the herd, the garden, the healthy house of adobie!

Lands where the north-west Columbia winds, and where the south-west Colorado winds!

Land of the eastern Chesapeake! land of the Delaware!

Land of Ontario, Erie, Huron, Michigan!

Land of the Old Thirteen! Massachusetts land! land of Vermont and Connecticut!

Land of the ocean shores! land of sierras and peaks!
Land of boatmen and sailors! fishermen’s land!

Inextricable lands! the clutch’d together! the passionate ones!

The side by side! the elder and younger brothers! the bony-limb’d!

The great women’s land! the feminine! the experienced sisters and the inexperienced sisters!

Far breath’d land! Arctic braced! Mexican breez’d! the diverse! the compact!

The Pennsylvanian! the Virginian! the double Carolinian!

O all and each well-loved by me! my intrepid nations! O I at any rate include you all with perfect love!

I cannot be discharged from you! not from one any sooner than another!

O death! O for all that, I am yet of you unseen this hour with irrepressible love

Walking New England, a friend, a traveler Splashing my bare feet in the edge of the summer ripples on Paumanok’s sands Crossing the prairies, dwelling again in Chicago, dwelling in every town Observing shows, births, improvements, structures, arts Listening to orators and oratresses in public halls
Of and through the States as during life, each man and woman my neighbor
The Louisianian, the Georgian, as near to me, and I as near to him and her
The Mississippian and Arkansian yet with me, and I yet with any of them
Yet upon the plains west of the spinal river, yet in my house of adobie
Yet returning eastward, yet in the Seaside State or in Maryland Yet Kanadian cheerily braving the winter, the snow and ice welcome to me
Yet a true son either of Maine or of the Granite State, or the Narragansett Bay State, or the Empire State Yet sailing to other shores to annex the same, yet welcoming every new brother Hereby applying these leaves to the new ones from the hour they unite with the old ones Coming among the new ones myself to be their companion and equal, coming personally to you now
Enjoining you to acts, characters, spectacles, with me.

With me with firm holding, yet haste, haste on.
For your life adhere to me (I may have to be persuaded many times before I consent to give myself really to you, but what of that?
Must not Nature be persuaded many times?)
No dainty dolce affettuoso I Bearded, sun-burnt, gray-neck’d, forbidding,
I have arrived
To be wrestled with as I pass for the solid prizes of the universe
For such I afford whoever can persevere to win them.
On my way a moment I pause
Here for you! and here for America!

Still the present I raise aloft, still the future of the States I harbinge glad and sublime And for the past I pronounce what the air holds of the red aborigines.

The red aborigines Leaving natural breaths, sounds of rain and winds, calls as of birds and animals in the woods, syllabled to us for names Okonee, Koosa, Ottawa, Monongahela, Sauk, Natchez, Chattahoochee
Kaqueta, Oronoco
Wabash, Miami, Saginaw, Chippewa, Oshkosh, Walla-Walla
Leaving such to the States they melt, they depart, charging the water and the land with names.

Expanding and swift, henceforth Elements, breeds, adjustments, turbulent, quick and audacious
A world primal again, vistas of glory incessant and branching
A new race dominating previous ones and grander far, with new contests
New politics, new literatures and religions, new inventions and arts.

These, my voice announcing—I will sleep no more but arise
You oceans that have been calm within me! how I feel you fathomless, stirring, preparing unprecedented waves and storms.

See, steamers steaming through my poems
See, in my poems immigrants continually coming and landing
See, in arriere, the wigwam, the trail, the hunter’s hut, the flat-boat, the maize-leaf, the claim, the rude fence, and the backwoods village
See, on the one side the Western Sea and on the other the Eastern Sea, how they advance and retreat upon my poems as upon their own shores
See, pastures and forests in my poems—see, animals wild and tame—see, beyond the Kaw, countless herds of buffalo feeding on short curly grass
See, in my poems, cities, solid, vast, inland, with paved streets, with iron and stone edifices, ceaseless vehicles, and commerce
See, the many-cylinder’d steam printing-press—see, the electric telegraph stretching across the continent
See, through Atlantica’s depths pulses American Europe reaching, pulses of Europe duly return’d
See, the strong and quick locomotive as it departs, panting, blowing the steam-whistle
See, ploughmen ploughing farms—see, miners digging mines—see, the numberless factories See, mechanics busy at their benches with tools—see from among them superior judges, philosophs, Presidents, emerge, drest in working dresses See, lounging through the shops and fields of the States, me
well-belov’d, close-held by day and night Hear the loud echoes of my songs there—read the hints come at last.

O camerado close! O you and me at last, and us two only.
O a word to clear one’s path ahead endlessly!
O something ecstatic and undemonstrable! O music wild!
O now I triumph—and you shall also;
O hand in hand—O wholesome pleasure—
O one more desirer and lover!
O to haste firm holding—to haste, haste on with me.
BOOK III
I celebrate myself, and sing myself
And what I assume you shall assume For every atom belonging to me as good belongs to you.

I loafe and invite my soul
I lean and loafe at my ease observing a spear of summer grass.

My tongue, every atom of my blood, form'd from this soil, this air
Born here of parents born here from parents the same, and their parents the same
I, now thirty-seven years old in perfect health begin Hoping to cease not till death.

Creeds and schools in abeyance
Retiring back a while sufficed at what they are, but never forgotten
I harbor for good or bad, I permit to speak at every hazard Nature without check with original energy.

Houses and rooms are full of perfumes, the shelves are crowded with perfumes. I breathe the fragrance myself and know it and like it. The distillation would intoxicate me also, but I shall not let it.

The atmosphere is not a perfume, it has no taste of the distillation, it is odorless. It is for my mouth forever, I am in love with it. I will go to the bank by the wood and become undisguised and naked. I am mad for it to be in contact with me.

The smoke of my own breath. Echoes, ripples, buzz’d whispers, love-root, silk-thread, crotch and vine. My respiration and inspiration, the beating of my heart, the passing of blood and air through my lungs.
The sniff of green leaves and dry leaves, and of the shore and dark-color’d sea-rocks, and of hay in the barn
The sound of the belch’d words of my voice loos’d to the eddies of the wind A few light kisses, a few embraces, a reaching around of arms
The play of shine and shade on the trees as the supple boughs wag
The delight alone or in the rush of the streets, or along the fields and hill-sides
The feeling of health, the full-noon trill, the song of me rising from bed and meeting the sun.

Have you reckon’d a thousand acres much?
  have you reckon’d the earth much?
Have you practis’d so long to learn to read?
Have you felt so proud to get at the meaning of poems?
Stop this day and night with me and you shall possess the origin of all poems You shall possess the good of the earth and sun, (there are millions of suns left,) You shall no longer take things at second or third hand, nor look through the eyes of the dead, nor feed on the spectres in books
You shall not look through my eyes either, nor take things from me
You shall listen to all sides and filter them from your self.

I have heard what the talkers were talking, the talk of the beginning and the end
But I do not talk of the beginning or the end.
There was never any more inception than there is now
Nor any more youth or age than there is now
And will never be any more perfection than there is now
Nor any more heaven or hell than there is now.

Urge and urge and urge Always the procreant urge of the world.

Out of the dimness opposite equals advance, always substance and increase, always sex Always a knit of identity, always distinction, always a breed of life.

To elaborate is no avail, learn’d and unlearn’d feel that it is so.

Sure as the most certain sure, plumb in the uprights, well entretied, braced in the beams Stout as a horse, affectionate, haughty, electrical I and this mystery here we stand.

Clear and sweet is my soul, and clear and sweet is all that is not my soul.

Lack one lacks both, and the unseen is proved by the seen Till that becomes unseen and receives proof in its turn.

Showing the best and dividing it from the worst age vexes age
Knowing the perfect fitness and equanimity of things, while they discuss I am silent, and go bathe and admire myself.
Welcome is every organ and attribute of me, and of any man hearty and clean
Not an inch nor a particle of an inch is vile, and none shall be less familiar than the rest.

I am satisfied—I see, dance, laugh, sing;
As the hugging and loving bed-fellow sleeps at my side through the night, and withdraws at the peep of the day with stealthy tread
Leaving me baskets cover’d with white towels swelling the house with their plenty Shall I postpone my acceptation and realization and scream at my eyes
That they turn from gazing after and down the road
And forthwith cipher and show me to a cent Exactly the value of one and exactly the value of two, and which is ahead?

Trippers and askers surround me People I meet, the effect upon me of my early life or the ward and  city I live in, or the nation
The latest dates, discoveries, inventions, societies, authors old and new My dinner, dress, associates, looks, compliments, dues
The real or fancied indifference of some man or woman I love
The sickness of one of my folks or of myself, or ill-doing or loss or lack of money, or depressions or exaltations Battles, the horrors of fratricidal war, the fever of doubtful news, the fitful events;
These come to me days and nights and go from me again
But they are not the Me myself.

Apart from the pulling and hauling stands what I am Stands amused, complacent, compassionating, idle, unitary Looks down, is erect, or bends an arm on an impalpable certain rest Looking with side-curved head curious what will come next Both in and out of the game and watching and wondering at it.
Backward I see in my own days where I sweated through fog with linguists and contenders I have no mockings or arguments, I witness and wait.

I believe in you my soul, the other I am must not abase itself to you And you must not be abased to the other.
Loafe with me on the grass, loose the stop from your throat Not words, not music or rhyme I want, not custom or lecture, not even the best Only the lull I like, the hum of your valved voice.
I mind how once we lay such a transparent summer morning How you settled your head athwart my hips and gently turn’d over upon me And parted the shirt from my bosom-bone, and plunged your tongue to my bare-stript heart
And reach’d till you felt my beard, and reach’d till you held my feet.

Swiftly arose and spread around me the peace and knowledge that pass all the argument of the earth
And I know that the hand of God is the promise of my own
And I know that the spirit of God is the brother of my own
And that all the men ever born are also my brothers, and the women my sisters and lovers
And that a kelson of the creation is love
And limitless are leaves stiff or drooping in the fields
And brown ants in the little wells beneath them
And mossy scabs of the worm fence, heap’d stones, elder, mullein and poke-weed.
A child said What is the grass? fetching it to me with full hands;
How could I answer the child? I do not know what it is any more than he.
I guess it must be the flag of my disposition, out of hopeful green stuff woven.
Or I guess it is the handkerchief of the Lord
A scented gift and remembrancer designedly dropt Bearing the owner’s name someway in the corners, that we may see and remark, and say Whose?
Or I guess the grass is itself a child, the produced babe of the vegetation.
Or I guess it is a uniform hieroglyphic
And it means, Sprouting alike in broad zones and narrow zones Growing among black folks as among white Kanuck, Tuckahoe, Congressman, Cuff, I give them the same, I receive them the same.
And now it seems to me the beautiful uncut hair of graves.
Tenderly will I use you curling grass
It may be you transpire from the breasts of young men
It may be if I had known them I would have loved them
It may be you are from old people, or from offspring taken soon out of their mothers’ laps
And here you are the mothers’ laps.

This grass is very dark to be from the white heads of old mothers Darker than the colorless beards of old men
Dark to come from under the faint red roofs of mouths.

O I perceive after all so many uttering tongues
And I perceive they do not come from the roofs of mouths for nothing.

I wish I could translate the hints about the dead young men and women And the hints about old men and mothers, and the offspring taken soon out of their laps.

What do you think has become of the young and old men?
And what do you think has become of the women and children?
They are alive and well somewhere
The smallest sprout shows there is really no death
And if ever there was it led forward life, and does not wait at the end to arrest it And ceas’d the moment life appear’d.
All goes onward and outward, nothing collapses
And to die is different from what any one supposed, and luckier.

Has any one supposed it lucky to be born?
I hasten to inform him or her it is just as lucky to die, and I know it.
I pass death with the dying and birth with the new-wash’d babe, and am not contain’d between my hat and boots
And peruse manifold objects, no two alike and every one good
The earth good and the stars good, and their adjuncts all good.

I am not an earth nor an adjunct of an earth
I am the mate and companion of people, all just as immortal and fathomless as myself (They do not know how immortal, but I know.)
Every kind for itself and its own, for me mine male and female
For me those that have been boys and that love women
For me the man that is proud and feels how it stings to be slighted
For me the sweet-heart and the old maid, for me mothers and the mothers of mothers
For me lips that have smiled, eyes that have shed tears
For me children and the begetters of children.

Undrape! you are not guilty to me, nor stale nor discarded
I see through the broadcloth and gingham whether or no
And am around, tenacious, acquisitive, tireless, and cannot be shaken away.

The little one sleeps in its cradle I lift the gauze and look a long time, and silently brush away flies with my hand.

The youngster and the red-faced girl turn aside up the bushy hill
I peeringly view them from the top.

The suicide sprawls on the bloody floor of the bedroom
I witness the corpse with its dabbled hair, I note where the pistol has fallen.

The blab of the pave, tires of carts, sluff of boot-soles, talk of the promenaders
The heavy omnibus, the driver with his interrogating thumb, the clank of the shod horses on the granite floor
The snow-sleighs, clinking, shouted jokes, pelts of snow-balls
The hurrahs for popular favorites, the fury of rous’d mobs
The flap of the curtain’d litter, a sick man inside borne to the hospital
The meeting of enemies, the sudden oath, the blows and fall
The excited crowd, the policeman with his star quickly working his passage to the centre of the crowd
The impassive stones that receive and return so many echoes
What groans of over-fed or half-starv’d who fall sunstruck or in fits
What exclamations of women taken suddenly who hurry home and give birth to babes
What living and buried speech is always vibrating here, what howls restrain’d by decorum Arrests of criminals, slights, adulterous offers made, acceptances rejections with convex lips
I mind them or the show or resonance of them–I come and I depart.
The big doors of the country barn stand open and ready
The dried grass of the harvest-time loads the slow-drawn wagon
The clear light plays on the brown gray and green intertinged
The armfuls are pack’d to the sagging mow.

I am there, I help, I came stretch’d atop of the load
I felt its soft jolts, one leg reclined on the other
I jump from the cross-beams and seize the clover and timothy
And roll head over heels and tangle my hair full of wisps.

Alone far in the wilds and mountains I hunt
Wandering amazed at my own lightness and glee
In the late afternoon choosing a safe spot to pass the night Kindling a fire and broiling the fresh-kill’d game Falling asleep on the gather’d leaves with my dog and gun by my side.

The Yankee clipper is under her sky-sails, she cuts the sparkle and scud
My eyes settle the land, I bend at her prow or shout joyously from the deck.

The boatmen and clam-diggers arose early and stopt for me
I tuck’d my trowser-ends in my boots and went and had a good time;
You should have been with us that day round the chowder-kettle.

I saw the marriage of the trapper in the open air in the far west the bride was a red girl
Her father and his friends sat near cross-legged and dumbly smoking they had moccasins to their feet and large thick blankets hanging from their shoulders
On a bank lounged the trapper, he was drest mostly in skins, his luxuriant beard and curls protected his neck, he held his bride by the hand
She had long eyelashes, her head was bare, her coarse straight locks descended upon her voluptuous limbs and reach’d to her feet.

The runaway slave came to my house and stopt outside
I heard his motions crackling the twigs of the woodpile
Through the swung half-door of the kitchen I saw him limpsy and weak
And went where he sat on a log and led him in and assured him
And brought water and fill’d a tub for his sweated body and bruis’d feet
And gave him a room that enter’d from my own, and gave him some coarse clean clothes
And remember perfectly well his revolving eyes and his awkwardness
And remember putting plasters on the galls of his neck and ankles;
He staid with me a week before he was recuperated and pass’d north
I had him sit next me at table, my fire-lock lean’d in the corner.

Twenty-eight young men bathe by the shore
Twenty-eight young men and all so friendly;
Twenty-eight years of womanly life and all so lonesome.

She owns the fine house by the rise of the bank
She hides handsome and richly drest aft the blinds of the window.

Which of the young men does she like the best?
Ah the homeliest of them is beautiful to her.

Where are you off to, lady? for I see you
You splash in the water there, yet stay stock still in your room.

Dancing and laughing along the beach came the twenty-ninth bather
The rest did not see her, but she saw them and loved them.
The beards of the young men glisten’d with wet, it ran from their long hair Little streams pass’d all over their bodies.

An unseen hand also pass’d over their bodies
It descended tremblingly from their temples and ribs.

The young men float on their backs, their white bellies bulge to the sun, they do not ask who seizes fast to them
They do not know who puffs and declines with pendant and bending arch
They do not think whom they souse with spray.

The butcher-boy puts off his killing-clothes, or sharpens his knife at the stall in the market
I loiter enjoying his repartee and his shuffle and break-down.

Blacksmiths with grimed and hairy chests environ the anvil

103
Each has his main-sledge, they are all out, there is a great heat in the fire.
From the cinder-strew’d threshold I follow their movements
The lithe sheer of their waists plays even with their massive arms Overhand the hammers swing, overhand so slow, overhand so sure They do not hasten, each man hits in his place.

The negro holds firmly the reins of his four horses, the block swags underneath on its tied-over chain
The negro that drives the long dray of the stone-yard, steady and tall he stands pois’d on one leg on the string-piece
His blue shirt exposes his ample neck and breast and loosens over his hip-band
His glance is calm and commanding, he tosses the slouch of his hat away from his forehead
The sun falls on his crispy hair and mustache, falls on the black of his polish’d and perfect limbs.

I behold the picturesque giant and love him, and I do not stop there I go with the team also.

In me the caresser of life wherever moving, backward as well as forward sluing To niches aside and junior bending, not a person or object missing Absorbing all to myself and for this song.

Oxen that rattle the yoke and chain or halt in the leafy shade, what is that you express in your eyes? It seems to me more than all the print I have read in my life.

My tread scares the wood-drake and wood-duck on my distant and day-long ramble They rise together, they slowly circle around.

I believe in those wing’d purposes And acknowledge red, yellow, white, playing within me
And consider green and violet and the tufted crown intentional
And do not call the tortoise unworthy because she is not something else
And the in the woods never studied the gamut, yet trills pretty well to me
And the look of the bay mare shames silliness out of me.

The wild gander leads his flock through the cool night
Ya-honk he says, and sounds it down to me like an invitation
The pert may suppose it meaningless, but I listening close Find its purpose and place up there toward the wintry sky.

The sharp-hoof’d moose of the north, the cat on the house-sill, the chickadee, the prairie-dog
The litter of the grunting sow as they tug at her teats
The brood of the turkey-hen and she with her half-spread wings
I see in them and myself the same old law.
The press of my foot to the earth springs a hundred affections
They scorn the best I can do to relate them.
I am enamour’d of growing out-doors
Of men that live among cattle or taste of the ocean or woods
Of the builders and steerers of ships and the wielders of axes and mauls, and the drivers of horses
I can eat and sleep with them week in and week out.

What is commonest, cheapest, nearest, easiest, is Me
Me going in for my chances, spending for vast returns
Adorning myself to bestow myself on the first that will take me Not asking the sky to come down to my good will Scattering it freely forever.
The pure contralto sings in the organ loft
The carpenter dresses his plank, the tongue of his foreplane whistles its wild ascending lisp
The married and unmarried children ride home to their Thanksgiving dinner
The pilot seizes the king-pin, he heaves down with a strong arm
The mate stands braced in the whale-boat, lance and harpoon are ready
The duck-shooter walks by silent and cautious stretches
The deacons are ordain’d with cross’d hands at the altar
The spinning-girl retreats and advances to the hum of the big wheel
The farmer stops by the bars as he walks on a First-day loafe and looks at the oats and rye
The lunatic is carried at last to the asylum a confirm’d case (He will never sleep any more as he did in the cot in his mother’s bed-room;)

The jour printer with gray head and gaunt jaws works at his case
He turns his quid of tobacco while his eyes blurr with the manuscript;
The malform’d limbs are tied to the surgeon’s table
What is removed drops horribly in a pail;
The quadroon girl is sold at the auction-stand, the drunkard nods by the bar-room stove
The machinist rolls up his sleeves, the policeman travels his beat the gate-keeper marks who pass
The young fellow drives the express-wagon, (I love him, though I do not know him;)
The half-breed straps on his light boots to compete in the race
The western turkey-shooting draws old and young, some lean on their rifles, some sit on logs Out from the crowd steps the marksman, takes his position, levels his piece;
The groups of newly-come immigrants cover the wharf or levee
As the woolly-pates hoe in the sugar-field, the overseer views them from his saddle
The bugle calls in the ball-room, the gentlemen run for their partners, the dancers bow to each other
The youth lies awake in the cedar-roof’d garret and harks to the musical rain
The Wolverine sets traps on the creek that helps fill the Huron
The squaw wrapt in her yellow-hemm’d cloth is offering moccasins and bead-bags for sale
The connoisseur peers along the exhibition-gallery with half-shut eyes bent sideways
As the deck-hands make fast the steamboat the plank is thrown for the shore-going passengers
The young sister holds out the skein while the elder sister winds it off in a ball, and stops now and then for the knots
The one-year wife is recovering and happy having a week ago borne her first child
The clean-hair’d Yankee girl works with her sewing-machine or in the factory or mill
The paving-man leans on his two-handed rammer, the reporter’s lead flies swiftly over the note-book, the sign-painter is lettering with blue and gold.

The canal boy trots on the tow-path, the book-keeper counts at his desk, the shoemaker waxes his thread.

The conductor beats time for the band and all the performers follow him.

The child is baptized, the convert is making his first professions.

The regatta is spread on the bay, the race is begun, (how the white sails sparkle!)

The drover watching his drove sings out to them that would stray.

The pedler sweats with his pack on his back, (the purchaser higgling about the odd cent;)

The bride unrumples her white dress, the minute-hand of the clock moves slowly.

The opium-eater reclines with rigid head and just-open’d lips.

The prostitute draggles her shawl, her bonnet bobs on her tipsy and pimpled neck.
The crowd laugh at her blackguard oaths, the men jeer and wink to each other (Miserable! I do not laugh at your oaths nor jeer you;)
The President holding a cabinet council is surrounded by the great Secretaries
On the piazza walk three matrons stately and friendly with twined arms
The crew of the fish-smack pack repeated layers of halibut in the hold
The Missourian crosses the plains toting his wares and his cattle
As the fare-collector goes through the train he gives notice by the jingling of loose change
The floor-men are laying the floor, the tinners are tinning the roof, the masons are calling for mortar
In single file each shouldering his hod pass onward the laborers;
Seasons pursuing each other the indescribable crowd is gather’d, it is the fourth of Seventh-month, (what salutes of cannon and small arms!)
Seasons pursuing each other the plougher ploughs, the mower mows, and the winter-grain falls in the ground;
Off on the lakes the pike-fisher watches and waits by the hole in the frozen surface
The stumps stand thick round the clearing, the squatter strikes deep with his axe Flatboatmen make fast towards dusk near the cotton-wood or pecan-trees
Coon-seekers go through the regions of the Red river or through those drain’d by the Tennessee, or through those of the Arkansas Torches shine in the dark that hangs on the Chattahooche or Altamahaw Patriarchs sit at supper with sons and grandsons and great-grandsons around them
In walls of adobie, in canvas tents, rest hunters and trappers after their day’s sport
The city sleeps and the country sleeps
The living sleep for their time, the dead sleep for their time
The old husband sleeps by his wife and the young husband sleeps by his wife;
And these tend inward to me, and I tend outward to them
And such as it is to be of these more or less I am
And of these one and all I weave the song of myself.

I am of old and young, of the foolish as much as the wise
Regardless of others, ever regardful of others
Maternal as well as paternal, a child as well as a man Stuff’d with the stuff that is coarse and stuff’d with the stuff that is fine
One of the Nation of many nations, the smallest the same and the largest the same
A Southerner soon as a Northerner, a planter nonchalant and hospitable down by the Oconee I live
A Yankee bound my own way ready for trade, my joints the limberest joints on earth and the sternest joints on earth
A Kentuckian walking the vale of the Elkhorn in my deer-skin leggings, a Louisianian or Georgian
A boatman over lakes or bays or along coasts, a Hoosier, Badger, Buckeye; At home on Kanadian snow-shoes or up in the bush, or with fishermen off Newfoundland
At home in the fleet of ice-boats, sailing with the rest and tacking
At home on the hills of Vermont or in the woods of Maine, or the Texan ranch Comrade of Californians, comrade of free North-Westerners, (loving their big proportions,) Comrade of raftsmen and coalmen, comrade of all who shake hands and welcome to drink and meat
A learner with the simplest, a teacher of the thoughtfullest
A novice beginning yet experient of myriads of seasons
Of every hue and caste am I, of every rank and religion
A farmer, mechanic, artist, gentleman, sailor, quaker Prisoner, fancy-man, rowdy, lawyer, physician, priest.

I resist any thing better than my own diversity
Breathe the air but leave plenty after me
And am not stuck up, and am in my place.

(The moth and the fish-eggs are in their place
The bright suns I see and the dark suns I cannot see are in their place
The palpable is in its place and the impalpable is in its place.)

These are really the thoughts of all men in all ages and lands, they are not original with me
If they are not yours as much as mine they are nothing, or next to nothing
If they are not the riddle and the untying of the riddle they are nothing
If they are not just as close as they are distant they are nothing.
This is the grass that grows wherever the land is and the water is
This the common air that bathes the globe.

With music strong I come, with my cornets and my drums
I play not marches for accepted victors only, I play marches for conquer’d and slain persons.

Have you heard that it was good to gain the day?
I also say it is good to fall, battles are lost in the same spirit in which they are won.

I beat and pound for the dead
I blow through my embouchures my loudest and gayest for them.

Vivas to those who have fail’d!
And to those whose war-vessels sank in the sea!

And to those themselves who sank in the sea!
And to all generals that lost engagements, and all overcome heroes!
And the numberless unknown heroes equal to the greatest heroes known!

This is the meal equally set, this the meat for natural hunger
It is for the wicked just same as the righteous, I make appointments with all
I will not have a single person slighted or left away
The kept-woman, sponger, thief, are hereby invited
The heavy-lipp’d slave is invited, the vene-realee is invited;
There shall be no difference between them and the rest.
This is the press of a bashful hand, this the float and odor of hair
This the touch of my lips to yours, this the murmur of yearning
This the far-off depth and height reflecting my own face
This the thoughtful merge of myself, and the outlet again.

Do you guess I have some intricate purpose? Well I have, for the Fourth-month showers have, and the mica on the side of a rock has.

Do you take it I would astonish? Does the daylight astonish? does the early redbird twittering through the woods? Do I astonish more than they?
This hour I tell things in confidence I might not tell everybody, but I will tell you.

Who goes there? hankering, gross, mystical, nude;
How is it I extract strength from the beef I eat? What is a man anyhow? what am I? what are you?
All I mark as my own you shall offset it with your own Else it were time lost listening to me.

I do not snivel that snivel the world over That months are vacuums and the ground but wallow and filth.

Whimpering and truckling fold with powders for invalids, conformity goes to the fourth-remov’d
I wear my hat as I please indoors or out.

Why should I pray? why should I venerate and be ceremonious?
Having pried through the strata, analyzed to a hair, counsel’d with doctors and calculated close
I find no sweeter fat than sticks to my own bones.

In all people I see myself, none more and not one a barley-corn less
And the good or bad I say of myself I say of them.

I know I am solid and sound
To me the converging objects of the universe perpetually flow
All are written to me, and I must get what the writing means.

I know I am deathless
I know this orbit of mine cannot be swept by a carpenter’s compass
I know I shall not pass like a child’s carlacue cut with a burnt stick at night.

I know I am august
I do not trouble my spirit to vindicate itself or be understood
I see that the elementary laws never apologize
(I reckon I behave no prouder than the level I plant my house by, after all.)
I exist as I am, that is enough
If no other in the world be aware I sit content
And if each and all be aware I sit content.

One world is aware and by far the largest to me, and that is myself
And whether I come to my own to-day or in ten thousand or ten million years
I can cheerfully take it now, or with equal cheerfulness I can wait.
My foothold is tenon’d and mortis’d in granite
I laugh at what you call dissolution
And I know the amplitude of time.

I am the poet of the Body and I am the poet of the Soul
The pleasures of heaven are with me and the pains of hell are with me
The first I graft and increase upon myself, the latter I translate into new tongue.

I am the poet of the woman the same as the man
And I say it is as great to be a woman as to be a man
And I say there is nothing greater than the mother of men.

I chant the chant of dilation or pride
We have had ducking and deprecating about enough
I show that size is only development.
Have you outstript the rest? are you the President?
It is a trifle, they will more than arrive there every one, and still pass on.

I am he that walks with the tender and growing night
I call to the earth and sea half-held by the night.

Press close bare-bosom’d night—press close magnetic nourishing night!

Night of south winds—night of the large few stars!

Still nodding night—mad naked summer night.

Smile O voluptuous cool-breath’d earth!

Earth of the slumbering and liquid trees!

Earth of departed sunset—earth of the mountains misty-topt!

Earth of the vitreous pour of the full moon just tinged with blue!
Earth of shine and dark mottling the tide of the river!
Earth of the limpid gray of clouds brighter and clearer for my sake!
Far-swooping elbow’d earth–rich apple-blossom’d earth!
Smile, for your lover comes.
Prodigal, you have given me love–therefore I to you give love!
O unspeakable passionate love.

You sea! I resign myself to you also–I guess what you mean
I behold from the beach your crooked fingers
I believe you refuse to go back without feeling of me
We must have a turn together, I undress, hurry me out of sight of the land Cushion me soft, rock me in billowy drowse Dash me with amorous wet, I can repay you.
Sea of stretch’d ground-swells
Sea breathing broad and convulsive breaths Sea of the brine of life and of unshovell’d yet always-ready graves Howler and scooper of storms, capricious and dainty sea
I am integral with you, I too am of one phase and of all phases.

Partaker of influx and efflux I, extoller of hate and conciliation Extoller of amies and those that sleep in each others’ arms.

I am he attesting sympathy (Shall I make my list of things in the house and skip the house that supports them?)
I am not the poet of goodness only, I do not decline to be the poet of wickedness also.

What blurt is this about virtue and about vice?
Evil propels me and reform of evil propels me, I stand indifferent
My gait is no fault-finder’s or rejecter’s gait
I moisten the roots of all that has grown.

Did you fear some scrofula out of the unflagging pregnancy?
Did you guess the celestial laws are yet to be work’d over and rectified?
I find one side a balance and the antipedal side a balance Soft doctrine as steady help as stable doctrine Thoughts and deeds of the present our rouse and early start.

This minute that comes to me over the past decillions
There is no better than it and now.
What behaved well in the past or behaves well to-day is not such wonder
The wonder is always and always how there can be a mean man or an infidel.

Endless unfolding of words of ages!
And mine a word of the modern, the word En-Masse.
A word of the faith that never balks
Here or henceforward it is all the same to me, I accept Time absolutely.
It alone is without flaw, it alone rounds and completes all
That mystic baffling wonder alone completes all.

I accept Reality and dare not question it Materialism first and last imbuing.

Hurrah for positive science! long live exact demonstration!

Fetch stonecrop mixt with cedar and branches of lilac This is the lexicographer, this the chemist, this made a grammar of the old cartouches
These mariners put the ship through dangerous unknown seas.

This is the geologist, this works with the scalper, and this is a mathematician.

Gentlemen, to you the first honors always!

Your facts are useful, and yet they are not my dwelling
I but enter by them to an area of my dwelling.
Less the reminders of properties told my words
And more the reminders they of life untold, and of freedom and extrication
And make short account of neuters and geldings, and favor men and women fully equipt
And beat the gong of revolt, and stop with fugitives and them that plot and conspire.

Walt Whitman, a kosmos, of Manhattan the son Turbulent, fleshy, sensual, eating, drinking and breeding
No sentimentalist, no stander above men and women or apart from them
No more modest than immodest.

Unscrew the locks from the doors!

Unscrew the doors themselves from their jambs!

Whoever degrades another degrades me
And whatever is done or said returns at last to me.

Through me the afflatus surging and surging, through me the current and index.

I speak the pass-word primeval, I give the sign of democracy
By God! I will accept nothing which all cannot have their counterpart of on the same terms.

Through me many long dumb voices
Voices of the interminable generations of prisoners and slaves Voices of the diseas’d and despairing and of thieves and dwarfs Voices of cycles of preparation and accretion
And of the threads that connect the stars, and of wombs and of the father-stuff
And of the rights of them the others are down upon
Of the deform’d, trivial, flat, foolish, despised Fog in the air, beetles rolling balls of dung.

Through me forbidden voices
Voices of sexes and lusts, voices veil’d and I remove the veil Voices indecent by me clarified and transfigur’d.

I do not press my fingers across my mouth
I keep as delicate around the bowels as around the head and heart Copulation is no more rank to me than death is.

I believe in the flesh and the appetites
Seeing, hearing, feeling, are miracles, and each part and tag of me is a miracle.

Divine am I inside and out, and I make holy whatever I touch or am touch’d from The scent of these arm-pits aroma finer than prayer
This head more than churches, bibles, and all the creeds.

If I worship one thing more than another it shall be the spread of my own body, or any part of it Translucent mould of me it shall be you!
Shaded ledges and rests it shall be you!
Firm masculine colter it shall be you!
Whatever goes to the tilth of me it shall be you!
You my rich blood! your milky stream pale strippings of my life!
Breast that presses against other breasts it shall be you!
My brain it shall be your occult convolutions!
Root of wash’d sweet-flag! timorous pond-snipe! nest of guarded duplicate eggs! it shall be you!
Mix’d tussled hay of head, beard, brawn, it shall be you!
Trickling sap of maple, fibre of manly wheat, it shall be you!
Sun so generous it shall be you!
Vapors lighting and shading my face it shall be you!
You sweaty brooks and dews it shall be you!
Winds whose soft-tickling genitals rub against me it shall be you!
Broad muscular fields, branches of live oak, loving lounger in my winding paths, it shall be you!

Hands I have taken, face I have kiss’d, mortal I have ever touch’d, it shall be you.

I dote on myself, there is that lot of me and all so luscious
Each moment and whatever happens thrills me with joy
I cannot tell how my ankles bend, nor whence the cause of my faintest wish Nor the cause of the friendship I emit, nor the cause of the friendship I take again.

That I walk up my stoop, I pause to consider if it really be A morning-glory at my window satisfies me more than the metaphysics of books.

To behold the day-break!

The little light fades the immense and diaphanous shadows
The air tastes good to my palate.

Hefts of the moving world at innocent gambols silently rising freshly exuding Scooting obliquely high and low.
Something I cannot see puts upward libidinous prongs Seas of bright juice suffuse heaven.
The earth by the sky staid with, the daily close of their junction
The heav’d challenge from the east that moment over my head
The mocking taunt, See then whether you shall be master!

Dazzling and tremendous how quick the sun-rise would kill me
If I could not now and always send sun-rise out of me.
We also ascend dazzling and tremendous as the sun
We found our own O my soul in the calm and cool of the daybreak.
My voice goes after what my eyes cannot reach
With the twirl of my tongue I encompass worlds and volumes of worlds.

Speech is the twin of my vision, it is unequal to measure itself
It provokes me forever, it says sarcastically Walt you contain enough, why don’t you let it out then?
Come now I will not be tantalized, you conceive too much of articulation Do you not know O speech how the buds beneath you are folded?
Waiting in gloom, protected by frost
The dirt receding before my prophetical screams
I underlying causes to balance them at last
My knowledge my live parts, it keeping tally with the meaning of all things Happiness, (which whoever hears me let him or her set out in search of this day.)
My final merit I refuse you, I refuse putting from me what I really am Encompass worlds, but never try to encompass me
I crowd your sleekest and best by simply looking toward you.

Writing and talk do not prove me
I carry the plenum of proof and every thing else in my face With the hush of my lips I wholly confound the skeptic.

Now I will do nothing but listen
To accrue what I hear into this song, to let sounds contribute toward it.

I hear bravuras of birds, bustle of growing wheat, gossip of flames clack of sticks cooking my meals
I hear the sound I love, the sound of the human voice
I hear all sounds running together, combined, fused or following Sounds of the city and sounds out of the city, sounds of the day and night Talkative young ones to those that like them, the loud laugh of work-people at their meals
The angry base of disjointed friendship, the faint tones of the sick
The judge with hands tight to the desk, his pallid lips pronouncing a death-sentence
The heave’e’yo of stevedores unlading ships by the wharves, the refrain of the anchor-lifters
The ring of alarm-bells, the cry of fire, the whirr of swift-streaking engines and hose-carts with premonitory tinkles and color’d lights
The steam-whistle, the solid roll of the train of approaching cars
The slow march play’d at the head of the association marching two and two (They go to guard some corpse, the flag-tops are draped with black muslin.)
I hear the violoncello, (’tis the young man’s heart’s complaint,)
I hear the key’d cornet, it glides quickly in through my ears
It shakes mad-sweet pangs through my belly and breast.
I hear the chorus, it is a grand opera
Ah this indeed is music–this suits me.

A tenor large and fresh as the creation fills me
The orbic flex of his mouth is pouring and filling me full.

I hear the train’d soprano (what work with hers is this?)
The orchestra whirls me wider than Uranus flies
It wrenches such ardors from me I did not know I possess’d them
It sails me, I dab with bare feet, they are lick’d by the indolent waves
I am cut by bitter and angry hail, I lose my breath Steep’d amid honey’d morphine, my windpipe throttled in fakes of death
At length let up again to feel the puzzle of puzzles
And that we call Being.

27
To be in any form, what is that?
(Round and round we go, all of us, and ever come back thither,)
If nothing lay more develop’d the quahaug in its callous shell were enough.

Mine is no callous shell
I have instant conductors all over me whether I pass or stop
They seize every object and lead it harmlessly through me.

I merely stir, press, feel with my fingers, and am happy
To touch my person to some one else’s is about as much as I can stand.

28

Is this then a touch? quivering me to a new identity
Flames and ether making a rush for my veins Treacherous tip of me reaching and crowding to help them
My flesh and blood playing out lightning to strike what is hardly different from myself
On all sides prurient provokers stiffening my limbs Straining the udder of my heart for its withheld drip Behaving licentious toward me, taking no denial Depriving me of my best as for a purpose
Unbuttoning my clothes, holding me by the bare waist Deluding my confusion with the calm of the sunlight and pasture-fields Immodestly sliding the fellow-senses away
They bribed to swap off with touch and go and graze at the edges of me
No consideration, no regard for my draining strength or my anger Fetching the rest of the herd around to enjoy them a while Then all uniting to stand on a headland and worry me.

The sentries desert every other part of me
They have left me helpless to a red marauder
They all come to the headland to witness and assist against me.
I am given up by traitors
I talk wildly, I have lost my wits, I and nobody else am the greatest traitor
I went myself first to the headland, my own hands carried me there.

You villain touch! what are you doing? my breath is tight in its throat Unclench your floodgates, you are too much for me.

29

Blind loving wrestling touch, sheath’d hooded sharp-tooth’d touch!

Did it make you ache so, leaving me?
Parting track’d by arriving, perpetual payment of perpetual loan Rich showering rain, and recompense richer afterward.

Sprouts take and accumulate, stand by the curb prolific and vital Landscapes projected masculine, full-sized and golden.
All truths wait in all things
They neither hasten their own delivery nor resist it
They do not need the obstetric forceps of the surgeon
The insignificant is as big to me as any (What is less or more than a touch?)
Logic and sermons never convince
The damp of the night drives deeper into my soul.

(Only what proves itself to every man and woman is so Only what nobody denies is so.)
A minute and a drop of me settle my brain
I believe the soggy clods shall become lovers and lamps
And a compend of compends is the meat of a man or woman
And a summit and flower there is the feeling they have for each other
And they are to branch boundlessly out of that lesson until it becomes omnific
And until one and all shall delight us, and we them.

I believe a leaf of grass is no less than the journey work of the stars
And the pismire is equally perfect, and a grain of sand, and the egg of the wren
And the tree-toad is a chef-d’oeuvre for the highest And the running blackberry would adorn the parlors of heaven
And the narrowest hinge in my hand puts to scorn all machinery
And the cow crunching with depress’d head surpasses any statue
And a mouse is miracle enough to stagger sextillions of infidels.

I find I incorporate gneiss, coal, long-threaded moss, fruits, grains, esculent roots
And am stucco’d with quadrupeds and birds all over
And have distanced what is behind me for good reasons
But call any thing back again when I desire it.
In vain the speeding or shyness
In vain the plutonic rocks send their old heat against my approach
In vain the mastodon retreats beneath its own powder'd bones
In vain objects stand leagues off and assume manifold shapes
In vain the ocean settling in hollows and the great monsters lying low
In vain the buzzard houses herself with the sky
In vain the snake slides through the creepers and logs
In vain the elk takes to the inner passes of the woods
In vain the razor-bill'd auk sails far north to Labrador
I follow quickly, I ascend to the nest in the fissure of the cliff.
I think I could turn and live with animals, they are so placid and self-contain’d
I stand and look at them long and long.

They do not sweat and whine about their condition
They do not lie awake in the dark and weep for their sins
They do not make me sick discussing their duty to God
Not one is dissatisfied, not one is demented with the mania of owning things
Not one kneels to another, nor to his kind that lived thousands of years ago
Not one is respectable or unhappy over the whole earth.

So they show their relations to me and I accept them
They bring me tokens of myself, they evince them plainly in their possession.

I wonder where they get those tokens
Did I pass that way huge times ago and negligently drop them?
Myself moving forward then and now and forever Gathering and showing more always and with velocity
Infinite and omnigenous, and the like of these among them
Not too exclusive toward the reachers of my remembrancers Picking out here one that I love, and now go with him on brotherly terms.

A gigantic beauty of a stallion, fresh and responsive to my caresses Head high in the forehead, wide between the ears Limbs glossy and supple, tail dusting the ground
Eyes full of sparkling wickedness, ears finely cut, flexibly moving.

His nostrils dilate as my heels embrace him His well-built limbs tremble with pleasure as we race around and return.

I but use you a minute, then I resign you, stallion
Why do I need your paces when I myself out-gallop them?
Even as I stand or sit passing faster than you.

33
Space and Time! now I see it is true, what I guess’d at
What I guess’d when I loaf’d on the grass
What I guess’d while I lay alone in my bed And again as I walk’d the beach under the paling stars of the morning.
My ties and ballasts leave me, my elbows rest in sea-gaps
I skirt sierras, my palms cover continents
I am afoot with my vision.

By the city’s quadrangular houses—in log huts, camping with lumber-men Along the ruts of the turnpike, along the dry gulch and rivulet bed Weeding my onion-patch or hosing rows of carrots and parsnips, crossing savannas, trailing in forests Prospecting, gold-digging, girdling the trees of a new purchase
Scorch’d ankle-deep by the hot sand, hauling my boat down the shallow river Where the panther walks to and fro on a limb overhead, where the buck turns furiously at the hunter
Where the rattlesnake suns his flabby length on a rock, where the otter is feeding on fish
Where the alligator in his tough pimples sleeps by the bayou
Where the black bear is searching for roots or honey, where the beaver pats the mud with his paddle-shaped tall;
Over the growing sugar, over the yellowflower’d cotton plant, over the rice in its low moist field
Over the sharp-peak’d farm house, with its scalloped scum and slender shoots from the gutters
Over the western persimmon, over the longleav’d corn, over the delicate blue-flower flax
Over the white and brown buckwheat, a hummer and buzzer there with the rest
Over the dusky green of the rye as it ripples and shades in the breeze;
Scaling mountains, pulling myself cautiously up, holding on by low scragged limbs Walking the path worn in the grass and beat through the leaves of the brush
Where the quail is whistling betwixt the woods and the wheat-lot
Where the bat flies in the Seventh-month eve, where the great goldbug drops through the dark
Where the brook puts out of the roots of the old tree and flows to the meadow
Where cattle stand and shake away flies with the tremulous shuddering of their hides
Where the cheese-cloth hangs in the kitchen, where andirons straddle the hearth-slab, where cobwebs fall in festoons from the rafters;
Where trip-hammers crash, where the press is whirling its cylinders Wherever the human heart beats with terrible throes under its ribs Where the pear-shaped balloon is floating aloft, (floating in it myself and looking composedly down,) Where the life-car is drawn on the slip-noose, where the heat hatches pale-green eggs in the dented sand
Where the she-whale swims with her calf and never forsakes it Where the steam-ship trails hind-ways its long pennant of smoke
Where the fin of the shark cuts like a black chip out of the water Where the half-burn’d brig is riding on unknown currents
Where shells grow to her slimy deck, where the dead are corrupting below; Where the dense-starr’d flag is borne at the head of the regiments Approaching Manhattan up by the long-stretching island
Under Niagara, the cataract falling like a veil over my countenance Upon a door-step, upon the horse-block of hard wood outside Upon the race-course, or enjoying picnics or jigs or a good game of base-ball
At he-festivals, with blackguard gibes, ironical license, bull-dances, drinking, laughter
At the cider-mill tasting the sweets of the brown mash, sucking the juice through a straw
At apple-peelings wanting kisses for all the red fruit I find At musters, beach-parties, friendly bees, huskings, house-raisings;
Where the mocking-bird sounds his delicious gurgles, cackles, screams, weeps
Where the hay-rick stands in the barn-yard, where the dry-stalks are scatter’d, where the brood-cow waits in the hovel
Where the bull advances to do his masculine work, where the stud to the mare, where the cock is treading the hen
Where the heifers browse, where geese nip their food with short jerks
Where sun-down shadows lengthen over the limitless and lonesome prairie Where herds of buffalo make a crawling spread of the square miles far and near Where the humming-bird shimmers, where the neck of the long-lived swan is curving and winding
Where the laughing-gull scoots by the shore, where she laughs her near-human laugh
Where bee-hives range on a gray bench in the garden half hid by the high weeds Where band-neck’d partridges roost in a ring on the ground with their heads out Where burial coaches enter the arch’d gates of a cemetery Where winter wolves bark amid wastes of snow and icicled trees
Where the yellow-crown’d heron comes to the edge of the marsh at night and feeds upon small crabs
Where the splash of swimmers and divers cools the warm noon
Where the katy-did works her chromatic reed on the walnut-tree over the well Through patches of citrons and cucumbers with silver-wired leaves
Through the salt-lick or orange glade, or under conical firs Through the gymnasium, through the curtain’d saloon, through the office or public hall; Pleas’d with the native and pleas’d with the foreign, pleas’d with the new and old Pleas’d with the homely woman as well as the handsome Pleas’d with the quakeress as she puts off her bonnet and talks melodiously Pleas’d with the tune of the choir of the whitewash’d church Pleas’d with the earnest words of the sweating Methodist preacher, impress’d seriously at the camp-meeting;
Looking in at the shop-windows of Broadway the whole forenoon, flatting the flesh of my nose on the thick plate glass
Wandering the same afternoon with my face turn’d up to the clouds, or down a lane or along the beach
My right and left arms round the sides of two friends, and I in the middle;
Coming home with the silent and dark-cheek’d bush-boy, (behind me he rides at the drape of the day,)
Far from the settlements studying the print of animals’ feet, or the moccasin print
By the cot in the hospital reaching lemonade to a feverish patient Nigh the coffin’d corpse when all is still, examining with a candle; Voyaging to every port to dicker and adventure Hurrying with the modern crowd as eager and fickle as any Hot toward one I hate, ready in my madness to knife him Solitary at midnight in my back yard, my thoughts gone from me a long while Walking the old hills of Judaea with the beautiful gentle God by my side Speeding through space, speeding through heaven and the stars Speeding amid the seven satellites and the broad ring, and the diameter of eighty thousand miles Speeding with tail’d meteors, throwing fireballs like the rest Carrying the crescent child that carries its own full mother in its belly Storming, enjoying, planning, loving, cautioning Backing and filling, appearing and disappearing
I tread day and night such roads.

I visit the orchards of spheres and look at the product
And look at quintillions ripen’d and look at quintillions green.

I fly those flights of a fluid and swallowing soul
My course runs below the soundings of plummets.

I help myself to material and immaterial
No guard can shut me off, no law prevent me.

I anchor my ship for a little while only
My messengers continually cruise away or bring their returns to me.
I go hunting polar furs and the seal, leaping chasms with a pike-pointed staff, clinging to topples of brittle and blue.

I ascend to the foretruck
I take my place late at night in the crow’s-nest
We sail the arctic sea, it is plenty light enough
Through the clear atmosphere I stretch around on the wonderful beauty
The enormous masses of ice pass me and I pass them, the scenery is plain in all directions
The white-topt mountains show in the distance, I fling out my fancies toward them
We are approaching some great battle-field in which we are soon to be engaged
We pass the colossal outposts of the encampment, we pass with still feet and caution
Or we are entering by the suburbs some vast and ruin’d city
The blocks and fallen architecture more than all the living cities of the globe.

I am a free companion, I bivouac by invading watchfires
I turn the bridegroom out of bed and stay with the bride myself
I tighten her all night to my thighs and lips.

My voice is the wife’s voice, the screech by the rail of the stairs
They fetch my man’s body up dripping and drown’d.

I understand the large hearts of heroes
The courage of present times and all times
How the skipper saw the crowded and rudderless wreck of the steamship, and Death chasing it up and down the storm
How he knuckled tight and gave not back an inch, and was faithful of days and faithful of nights
And chalk’d in large letters on a board, Be of good cheer, we will not desert you;
How he follow’d with them and tack’d with them three days and would not give it up
How he saved the drifting company at last
How the lank loose-gown’d women look’d when boated from the side of their prepared graves How the silent old-faced infants and the lifted sick, and the sharp-lipp’d unshaved men;
All this I swallow, it tastes good, I like it well, it becomes mine
I am the man, I suffer’d, I was there.

The disdain and calmness of martyrs
The mother of old, condemn’d for a witch, burnt with dry wood, her children gazing
on
The hounded slave that flags in the race, leans by the fence, blowing, cover’d with sweat
The twinges that sting like needles his legs and neck, the murderous buckshot and the bullets
All these I feel or am.

I am the hounded slave, I wince at the bite of the dogs Hell and despair are upon me, crack and again crack the marksmen
I clutch the rails of the fence, my gore dries, thinn’d with the ooze of my skin
I fall on the weeds and stones
The riders spur their unwilling horses, haul close Taunt my dizzy ears and beat me violently over the head with whip-stocks.

Agonies are one of my changes of garments
I do not ask the wounded person how he feels, I myself become the wounded person
My hurts turn livid upon me as I lean on a cane and observe.

I am the mash’d fireman with breast-bone broken Tumbling walls buried me in their debris
Heat and smoke I inspired, I heard the yelling shouts of my comrades
I heard the distant click of their picks and shovels
They have clear’d the beams away, they tenderly lift me forth.

I lie in the night air in my red shirt, the pervading hush is for my sake Painless after all I lie exhausted but not so unhappy
White and beautiful are the faces around me, the heads are bared of their fire-caps
The kneeling crowd fades with the light of the torches.

Distant and dead resuscitate
They show as the dial or move as the hands of me, I am the clock myself.

I am an old artillerist, I tell of my fort’s bombardment
I am there again.

Again the long roll of the drummers
Again the attacking cannon, mortars Again to my listening ears the cannon responsive.

I take part, I see and hear the whole
The cries, curses, roar, the plaudits for wellaim’d shots
The ambulanza slowly passing trailing its red drip Workmen searching after damages, making indispensable repairs
The fall of grenades through the rent roof, the fan-shaped explosion
The whizz of limbs, heads, stone, wood, iron, high in the air.

Again gurgles the mouth of my dying general, he furiously waves with his hand
He gasps through the clot Mind not me—mind—the entrenchments.

Now I tell what I knew in Texas in my early youth (I tell not the fall of Alamo
Not one escaped to tell the fall of Alamo
The hundred and fifty are dumb yet at Alamo,)
’Tis the tale of the murder in cold blood of four hundred and twelve young men.

Retreating they had form’d in a hollow square with their baggage for breastworks
Nine hundred lives out of the surrounding enemies, nine times their number, was the price they took in advance
Their colonel was wounded and their ammunition gone
They treated for an honorable capitulation, receiv’d writing and seal, gave up their arms and march’d back prisoners of war.

They were the glory of the race of rangers Matchless with horse, rifle, song, supper, courtship
Large, turbulent, generous, handsome, proud, and affectionate Bearded, sunburnt, drest in the free costume of hunters
Not a single one over thirty years of age.

The second First-day morning they were brought out in squads and massacred, it was beautiful early summer
The work commenced about five o’clock and was over by eight.

None obey’d the command to kneel Some made a mad and helpless rush, some stood stark and straight
A few fell at once, shot in the temple or heart, the living and dead lay together
The maim’d and mangled dug in the dirt, the new-comers saw them there
Some half-kill’d attempted to crawl away
These were despatch’d with bayonets or batter’d with the blunts of muskets
A youth not seventeen years old seiz’d his assassin till two more came to release him
The three were all torn and cover’d with the boy’s blood.

At eleven o’clock began the burning of the bodies;
That is the tale of the murder of the four hundred and twelve young men.

Would you hear of an old-time sea-fight?
Would you learn who won by the light of the moon and stars?
List to the yarn, as my grandmother’s father the sailor told it to me.

Our foe was no skulk in his ship I tell you, (said he,)
His was the surly English pluck, and there is no tougher or truer, and never was, and never will be; Along the lower’d eve he came horribly raking us.

We closed with him, the yards entangled, the cannon touch’d My captain lash’d fast with his own hands.

We had receiv’d some eighteen pound shots under the water On our lower-gun-deck two large pieces had burst at the first fire killing all around and blowing up overhead.

Fighting at sun-down, fighting at dark Ten o’clock at night, the full moon well up, our leaks on the gain, and five feet of water reported The master-at-arms loosing the prisoners confined in the after-hold to give them a chance for themselves.

The transit to and from the magazine is now stoppt by the sentinels
They see so many strange faces they do not know whom to trust.

Our frigate takes fire
The other asks if we demand quarter?
If our colors are struck and the fighting done?
Now I laugh content, for I hear the voice of my little captain
We have not struck, he composedly cries, we have just begun our part of the fighting.

Only three guns are in use
One is directed by the captain himself against the enemy’s main-mast
Two well serv’d with grape and canister silence his musketry and clear his decks.

The tops alone second the fire of this little battery, especially the main-top They hold out bravely during the whole of the action.

Not a moment’s cease
The leaks gain fast on the pumps, the fire eats toward the powder-magazine.

One of the pumps has been shot away, it is generally thought we are sinking.
Serene stands the little captain
He is not hurried, his voice is neither high nor low
His eyes give more light to us than our battle-lanterns.

Toward twelve there in the beams of the moon they surrender to us.

Stretch’d and still lies the midnight
Two great hulls motionless on the breast of the darkness
Our vessel riddled and slowly sinking, preparations to pass to the one we have conquer’d
The captain on the quarter-deck coldly giving his orders through a countenance white as a sheet
Near by the corpse of the child that serv’d in the cabin
The dead face of an old salt with long white hair and carefully curl’d whiskers
The flames spite of all that can be done flickering aloft and below
The husky voices of the two or three officers yet fit for duty Formless stacks of bodies and bodies by themselves, dabs of flesh upon the masts and spars
Cut of cordage, dangle of rigging, slight shock of the soothe of waves
Black and impassive guns, litter of powder-parcels, strong scent
A few large stars overhead, silent and mournful shining Delicate sniffs of sea-breeze, smells of sedgy grass and fields by the shore, death-messages given in charge to survivors
The hiss of the surgeon’s knife, the gnawing teeth of his saw Wheeze, cluck, swash of falling blood, short wild scream, and long, dull, tapering groan
These so, these irretrievable.

You laggards there on guard! look to your arms!
In at the conquer’d doors they crowd! I am possess’d!
Embody all presences outlaw’d or suffering See myself in prison shaped like another man
And feel the dull unintermitted pain.
For me the keepers of convicts shoulder their carbines and keep watch
It is I let out in the morning and barr’d at night.
Not a mutineer walks handcuff’d to jail but I am handcuff’d to him and walk by his side
(I am less the jolly one there, and more the silent one with sweat on my twitching lips.)
Not a youngster is taken for larceny but I go up too, and am tried and sentenced.
Not a cholera patient lies at the last gasp but I also lie at the last gasp
My face is ash-color’d, my sinews gnarl, away from me people retreat.
Askers embody themselves in me and I am embodied in them
I project my hat, sit shame-faced, and beg.

38

Enough! enough! enough!
Somehow I have been stunn’d. Stand back!
Give me a little time beyond my cuff’d head, slumbers, dreams, gaping
I discover myself on the verge of a usual mistake.
That I could forget the mockers and insults!
That I could forget the trickling tears and the blows of the bludgeons and hammers!
That I could look with a separate look on my own crucifixion and bloody crowning.
I remember now
I resume the overstaid fraction
The grave of rock multiplies what has been confided to it, or to any graves Corpses rise, gashes heal, fastenings roll from me.
I troop forth replenish’d with supreme power, one of an average unending procession Inland and sea-coast we go, and pass all boundary lines
Our swift ordinances on their way over the whole earth
The blossoms we wear in our hats the growth of thousands of years.

Eleves, I salute you! come forward!
Continue your annotations, continue your questionings.

The friendly and flowing savage, who is he?
Is he waiting for civilization, or past it and mastering it?
Is he some Southwesterner rais’d out-doors? is he Kanadian?
Is he from the Mississippi country? Iowa, Oregon, California?
The mountains? prairie-life, bush-life? or sailor from the sea?
Wherever he goes men and women accept and desire him
They desire he should like them, touch them, speak to them, stay with them.

Behavior lawless as snow-flakes, words simple as grass, uncomb’d head, laughter, and naivete
Slow-stepping feet, common features, common modes and emanations
They descend in new forms from the tips of his fingers
They are wafted with the odor of his body or breath, they fly out of the glance of his eyes.

40
Flaunt of the sunshine I need not your bask—lie over!
You light surfaces only, I force surfaces and depths also.
Earth! you seem to look for something at my hands
Say, old top-knot, what do you want?
Man or woman, I might tell how I like you, but cannot And might tell what it is in me and what it is in you, but cannot And might tell that pining I have, that pulse of my nights and days.

Behold, I do not give lectures or a little charity
When I give I give myself.

You there, impotent, loose in the knees
Open your scarf’d chops till I blow grit within you Spread your palms and lift the flaps of your pockets
I am not to be denied, I compel, I have stores plenty and to spare
And any thing I have I bestow.

I do not ask who you are, that is not important to me
You can do nothing and be nothing but what I will infold you.

To cotton-field drudge or cleaner of privies I lean
On his right cheek I put the family kiss
And in my soul I swear I never will deny him.

On women fit for conception I start bigger and nimbler babes.

(This day I am jetting the stuff of far more arrogant republics.)

To any one dying, thither I speed and twist the knob of the door.

Turn the bed-clothes toward the foot of the bed
Let the physician and the priest go home.

I seize the descending man and raise him with resistless will O despairer, here is my neck
By God, you shall not go down! hang your whole weight upon me.

I dilate you with tremendous breath, I buoy you up Every room of the house do I fill with an arm’d force Lovers of me, bafflers of graves.

Sleep—I and they keep guard all night
Not doubt, not decease shall dare to lay finger upon you
I have embraced you, and henceforth possess you to myself
And when you rise in the morning you will find what I tell you is so.

I am he bringing help for the sick as they pant on their backs
And for strong upright men I bring yet more needed help.

I heard what was said of the universe
Heard it and heard it of several thousand years;
It is middling well as far as it goes—but is that all?

Magnifying and applying come I Outbidding at the start the old cautious hucksters Taking myself the exact dimensions of Jehovah Lithographing Kronos, Zeus his son, and Hercules his grandson Buying drafts of Osiris, Isis, Belus, Brahma, Buddha
In my portfolio placing Manito loose, Allah on a leaf, the crucifix engraved With Odin and the hideous-faced Mexitli and every idol and image Taking them all for what they are worth and not a cent more Admitting they were alive and did the work of their days (They bore mites as for unfledg’d birds who have now to rise and fly and sing for themselves,) Accepting the rough deific sketches to fill out better in myself, bestowing them freely on each man and woman I see Discovering as much or more in a framer framing a house
Putting higher claims for him there with his roll’d-up sleeves driving the mallet and chisel
Not objecting to special revelations, considering a curl of smoke or a hair on the back of my hand just as curious as any revelation
Lads ahold of fire-engines and hook-and-ladder ropes no less to me than the gods of the antique wars
Minding their voices peal through the crash of destruction
Their brawny limbs passing safe over charred laths, their white foreheads whole and unhurt out of the flames;
By the mechanic’s wife with her babe at her nipple interceding for every person born
Three scythes at harvest whizzing in a row from three lusty angels with shirts bagged out at their waists
The snag-tooth’d hostler with red hair redeeming sins past and to come Selling all he possesses, traveling on foot to fee lawyers for his brother and sit by him while he is tried for forgery;
What was strewn in the amplest strewing the square rod about me, and not filling the square rod then
The bull and the bug never worshipp’d half enough Dung and dirt more admirable than was dream’d
The supernatural of no account, myself wait- ing my time to be one of the supremes
The day getting ready for me when I shall do as much good as the best, and be as prodi- gious;
By my life-lumps! becoming already a creator Putting myself here and now to the ambush’d womb of the shadows.

A call in the midst of the crowd
My own voice, orotund sweeping and final.
Come my children
Come my boys and girls, my women, house- hold and intimates Now the performer launches his nerve, he has pass’d his prelude on the reeds within.
Easily written loose-finger’d chords—I feel the thrum of your climax and close.
My head slues round on my neck
Music rolls, but not from the organ

176
Folks are around me, but they are no household of mine.

Ever the hard unsunk ground
Ever the eaters and drinkers, ever the upward and downward sun, ever the air and the ceaseless tides Ever myself and my neighbors, refreshing, wicked, real Ever the old inexplicable query, ever that thorn’d thumb, that breath of itches and thirsts Ever the vexer’s hoot! hoot! till we find where the sly one hides and bring him forth Ever love, ever the sobbing liquid of life
Ever the bandage under the chin, ever the trestles of death.

Here and there with dimes on the eyes walking
To feed the greed of the belly the brains liberally spooning Tickets buying, taking, selling, but in to the feast never once going Many sweating, ploughing, thrashing, and then the chaff for payment receiving A few idly owning, and they the wheat continually claiming.

This is the city and I am one of the citizens
Whatever interests the rest interests me, politics, wars, markets, newspapers, schools
The mayor and councils, banks, tariffs, steamships, factories, stocks, stores, real estate and personal estate.

The little plentiful manikins skipping around in collars and tail’d coats
I am aware who they are, (they are positively not worms or fleas,)
I acknowledge the duplicates of myself, the weakest and shallowest is deathless with me
What I do and say the same waits for them
Every thought that flounders in me the same flounders in them.

I know perfectly well my own egotism Know my omnivorous lines and must not write any less
And would fetch you whoever you are flush with myself.

Not words of routine this song of mine
But abruptly to question, to leap beyond yet nearer bring;
This printed and bound book—but the printer and the printing-office boy?
The well-taken photographs—but your wife or friend close and solid in your arms?
The black ship mail’d with iron, her mighty guns in her turrets—but the pluck of the captain and engineers?
In the houses the dishes and fare and furniture—but the host and hostess, and the look out of their eyes?
The sky up there—yet here or next door, or across the way?
The saints and sages in history—but you yourself?
Sermons, creeds, theology—but the fathomless human brain
And what is reason? and what is love? and what is life?
I do not despise you priests, all time, the world over My faith is the greatest of faiths and the least of faiths Enclosing worship ancient and modern and all between ancient and modern Believing I shall come again upon the earth after five thousand years Waiting responses from oracles, honoring the gods, saluting the sun
Making a fetich of the first rock or stump, powowing with sticks in the circle of obis Helping the llama or brahmin as he trims the lamps of the idols Dancing yet through the streets in a phallic procession, rapt and austere in the woods a gymnosophist Drinking mead from the skull-cap, to Shastas and Vedas admirant, minding the Koran Walking the teokallis, spotted with gore from the stone and knife, beating the serpent-skin drum Accepting the Gospels, accepting him that was crucified, knowing assuredly that he is divine
To the mass kneeling or the puritan’s prayer rising, or sitting patiently in a pew Ranting and frothing in my insane crisis, or waiting dead-like till my spirit arouses me
Looking forth on pavement and land, or outside of pavement and land Belonging to the winders of the circuit of circuits.

One of that centripetal and centrifugal gang
I turn and talk like man leaving charges before a journey.

Down-hearted doubters dull and excluded
Frivolous, sullen, moping, angry, affected, dishearten’d, atheistical
I know every one of you, I know the sea of torment, doubt, despair and unbelief.

How the flukes splash!

How they contort rapid as lightning, with spasms and spouts of blood!

Be at peace bloody flukes of doubters and sullen mopers
I take my place among you as much as among any
The past is the push of you, me, all, precisely the same
And what is yet untried and afterward is for you, me, all, precisely the same.

I do not know what is untried and afterward
But I know it will in its turn prove sufficient, and cannot fail.

Each who passes is consider’d, each who stops is consider’d, not single one can it fall.

It cannot fall the young man who died and was buried
Nor the young woman who died and was put by his side
Nor the little child that peep’d in at the door, and then drew back and was never seen again
Nor the old man who has lived without purpose, and feels it with bitterness worse than gall Nor him in the poor house tubercled by rum and the bad disorder
Nor the numberless slaughter’d and wreck’d, or the brutish koboo call’d the ordure of humanity Nor the sacs merely floating with open mouths for food to slip in Nor any thing in the earth, or down in the oldest graves of the earth
Nor any thing in the myriads of spheres, nor the myriads of myriads that inhabit them Nor the present, nor the least wisp that is known.

It is time to explain myself–let us stand up.

What is known I strip away
I launch all men and women forward with me into the Unknown.

The clock indicates the moment–but what does eternity indicate?
We have thus far exhausted trillions of winters and summers
There are trillions ahead, and trillions ahead of them.

Births have brought us richness and variety
And other births will bring us richness and variety.

I do not call one greater and one smaller
That which fills its period and place is equal to any.

Were mankind murderous or jealous upon you, my brother, my sister?
I am sorry for you, they are not murderous or jealous upon me
All has been gentle with me, I keep no account with lamentation (What have I to do with lamentation?)
I am an acme of things accomplish’d, and I an encloser of things to be.

My feet strike an apex of the apices of the stairs
On every step bunches of ages, and larger bunches between the steps
All below duly travel’d, and still I mount and mount.
Rise after rise bow the phantoms behind me Afar down I see the huge first Nothing, I know I was even there I waited unseen and always, and slept through the lethargic mist
And took my time, and took no hurt from the fetid carbon.

Long I was hugg’d close–long and long.
Immense have been the preparations for me Faithful and friendly the arms that have help’d me.

Cycles ferried my cradle, rowing and rowing like cheerful boatmen
For room to me stars kept aside in their own rings
They sent influences to look after what was to hold me.

Before I was born out of my mother generations guided me
My embryo has never been torpid, nothing could overlay it.

For it the nebula cohered to an orb
The long slow strata piled to rest it on Vast vegetables gave it sustenance Monstrous sauroids transported it in their mouths and deposited it with care.

All forces have been steadily employ’d to complete and delight me
Now on this spot I stand with my robust soul.

45

O span of youth! ever-push’d elasticity!
O manhood, balanced, florid and full.
My lovers suffocate me Crowding my lips, thick in the pores of my skin
Jostling me through streets and public halls, coming naked to me at night Crying by day, Ahoy! from the rocks of the river, swinging and chirping over my head
Calling my name from flower-beds, vines, tangled underbrush
Lighting on every moment of my life
Bussing my body with soft balsamic busses Noiselessly passing handfuls out of their hearts and giving them to be mine.
Old age superbly rising! O welcome, ineffable grace of dying days!
Every condition promulges not only itself, it promulges what grows after and out of itself
And the dark hush promulges as much as any.
I open my scuttle at night and see the far-sprinkled systems
And all I see multiplied as high as I can cipher edge but the rim of the farther systems.
Wider and wider they spread, expanding, always expanding Outward and outward and forever outward.
My sun has his sun and round him obediently wheels
He joins with his partners a group of superior circuit
And greater sets follow, making specks of the greatest inside them.
There is no stoppage and never can be stoppage
If I, you, and the worlds, and all beneath or upon their surfaces, were this moment reduced back to a pallid float, it would not avail the long run
We should surely bring up again where we now stand And surely go as much farther, and then farther and farther.

A few quadrillions of eras, a few octillions of cubic leagues, do not hazard the span or make it impatient
They are but parts, any thing is but a part.
See ever so far, there is limitless space outside of that Count ever so much, there is limitless time around that.

My rendezvous is appointed, it is certain
The Lord will be there and wait till I come on perfect terms
The great Camerado, the lover true for whom I pine will be there.
I know I have the best of time and space, and was never measured and never will be measured.

I tramp a perpetual journey, (come listen all!) My signs are a rain-proof coat, good shoes, and a staff cut from the woods
No friend of mine takes his ease in my chair
I have no chair, no church, no philosophy
I lead no man to a dinner-table, library, exchange
But each man and each woman of you I lead upon a knoll My left hand hooking you round the waist
My right hand pointing to landscapes of continents and the public road.

Not I, not any one else can travel that road for you
You must travel it for yourself.

It is not far, it is within reach
Perhaps you have been on it since you were born and did not know Perhaps it is everywhere on water and on land.

Shoulder your duds dear son, and I will mine, and let us hasten forth Wonderful cities and free nations we shall fetch as we go.
If you tire, give me both burdens, and rest the chuff of your hand on my hip
And in due time you shall repay the same service to me
For after we start we never lie by again.
This day before dawn I ascended a hill and look’d at the crowded heaven
And I said to my spirit When we become the enfolders of those orbs, and the pleasure and knowledge of every thing in them, shall we be fill’d and satisfied then?
And my spirit said No, we but level that lift to pass and continue beyond.
You are also asking me questions and I hear you
I answer that I cannot answer, you must find out for yourself.

190 Sit a while dear son
Here are biscuits to eat and here is milk to drink
But as soon as you sleep and renew yourself in sweet clothes, I kiss you with a good-bye kiss and open the gate for your egress hence.

Long enough have you dream’d contemptible dreams
Now I wash the gum from your eyes
You must habit yourself to the dazzle of the light and of every moment of your life.

Long have you timidly waded holding a plank by the shore
Now I will you to be a bold swimmer
To jump off in the midst of the sea, rise again, nod to me, shout, and laughingly dash with your hair.

47

I am the teacher of athletes
He that by me spreads a wider breast than my own proves the width of my own
He most honors my style who learns under it to destroy the teacher.

The boy I love, the same becomes a man not through derived power, but in his own right Wicked rather than virtuous out of conformity or fear
Fond of his sweetheart, relishing well his steak Unrequited love or a slight cutting him worse than sharp steel cuts
First-rate to ride, to fight, to hit the bull’s eye, to sail a skiff, to sing a song or play on the banjo Preferring scars and the beard and faces pitted with small-pox over all latherers
And those well-tann’d to those that keep out of the sun.

I teach straying from me, yet who can stray from me?
I follow you whoever you are from the present hour
My words itch at your ears till you understand them.
I do not say these things for a dollar or to fill up the time while I wait for a boat (It is you talking just as much as myself, I act as the tongue of you Tied in your mouth, in mine it begins to be loosen’d.)
I swear I will never again mention love or death inside a house
And I swear I will never translate myself at all, only to him or her who privately stays with me in the open air.

If you would understand me go to the heights or water-shore
The nearest gnat is an explanation, and a drop or motion of waves key
The maul, the oar, the hand-saw, second my words.

No shutter’d room or school can commune with me
But roughs and little children better than they.

The young mechanic is closest to me, he knows me well
The woodman that takes his axe and jug with him shall take me with him all day
The farm-boy ploughing in the field feels good at the sound of my voice
In vessels that sail my words sail, I go with fishermen and seamen and love them.

The soldier camp’d or upon the march is mine
On the night ere the pending battle many seek me, and I do not fail them
On that solemn night (it may be their last) those that know me seek me.

My face rubs to the hunter’s face when he lies down alone in his blanket
The driver thinking of me does not mind the jolt of his wagon
The young mother and old mother comprehend me
The girl and the wife rest the needle a moment and forget where they are They and all would resume what I have told them.
I have said that the soul is not more than the body
And I have said that the body is not more than the soul And nothing, not God, is greater to one than one’s self is
And whoever walks a furlong without sympathy walks to his own funeral drest in his shroud
And I or you pocketless of a dime may purchase the pick of the earth
And to glance with an eye or show a bean in its pod confounds the learning of all times
And there is no trade or employment but the young man following it may become a hero
And there is no object so soft but it makes a hub for the wheel’d universe
And I say to any man or woman, Let your soul stand cool and composed before a million universes.

And I say to mankind, Be not curious about God
For I who am curious about each am not curious about God
(No array of terms can say how much I am at peace about God and about death.)
I hear and behold God in every object, yet understand God not in the least Nor do I understand who there can be more wonderful than myself.

Why should I wish to see God better than this day?
I see something of God each hour of the twenty-four, and each moment then
In the faces of men and women I see God, and in my own face in the glass
I find letters from God dropt in the street, and every one is sign’d by God’s name
And I leave them where they are, for I know that wheresoe’er I go Others will punctually come for ever and ever.
And as to you Death, and you bitter hug of mortality, it is idle to try to alarm me.

To his work without flinching the accoucheur comes I see the elder-hand pressing receiving supporting
I recline by the sills of the exquisite flexible doors
And mark the outlet, and mark the relief and escape.

And as to you Corpse I think you are good manure, but that does not offend me
I smell the white roses sweet-scented and growing
I reach to the leafy lips, I reach to the polish’d breasts of melons.

And as to you Life I reckon you are the leavings of many deaths (No doubt I have died myself ten thousand times before.)
I hear you whispering there O stars of heaven O suns–O grass of graves–O perpetual transfers and promotions
If you do not say any thing how can I say any thing?
Of the turbid pool that lies in the autumn forest
Of the moon that descends the steeps of the soughing twilight Toss, sparkles of day and dusk–toss on the black stems that decay in the muck
Toss to the moaning gibberish of the dry limbs.

I ascend from the moon, I ascend from the night
I perceive that the ghastly glimmer is noon-day sunbeams reflected And debouch to the steady and central from the offspring great or small.

There is that in me–I do not know what it is–but I know it is in me.
Wrench’d and sweaty–calm and cool then my body becomes
I sleep–I sleep long.
I do not know it–it is without name–it is a word unsaid
It is not in any dictionary, utterance, symbol.
Something it swings on more than the earth I swing on
To it the creation is the friend whose embracing awakes me.

Perhaps I might tell more. Outlines! I plead for my brothers and sisters.

Do you see O my brothers and sisters?
It is not chaos or death–it is form, union, plan–it is eternal life–it is Happiness.

51

The past and present wilt–I have fill’d them, emptied them.
And proceed to fill my next fold of the future.
Listener up there! what have you to confide to me?
Look in my face while I snuff the sidle of evening (Talk honestly, no one else hears you, and I stay only a minute longer.)
Do I contradict myself?
Very well then I contradict myself (I am large, I contain multitudes.)
I concentrate toward them that are nigh, I wait on the door-slab.

Who has done his day’s work? who will soonest be through with his supper?
Who wishes to walk with me?
Will you speak before I am gone? will you prove already too late?

52

The spotted hawk swoops by and accuses me, he complains of my gab and my loitering.

I too am not a bit tamed, I too am untranslatable
I sound my barbaric yawp over the roofs of the world.
The last scud of day holds back for me It flings my likeness after the rest and true as any on the shadow’d wilds
It coaxes me to the vapor and the dusk.
I depart as air, I shake my white locks at the runaway sun
I effuse my flesh in eddies, and drift it in lacy jags.
I bequeath myself to the dirt to grow from the grass I love
If you want me again look for me under your boot-soles.
You will hardly know who I am or what I mean
But I shall be good health to you nevertheless
And filter and fibre your blood.
Failing to fetch me at first keep encouraged Missing me one place search another
I stop somewhere waiting for you.
BOOK IV. CHILDREN OF ADAM
To the Garden the World

To the garden the world anew ascending
Potent mates, daughters, sons, preluding
The love, the life of their bodies, meaning and being Curious here behold my resurrection after slumber
The revolving cycles in their wide sweep having brought me again
Amorous, mature, all beautiful to me, all wondrous
My limbs and the quivering fire that ever plays through them, for reasons, most wondrous Existing I peer and penetrate still Content with the present, content with the past
By my side or back of me Eve following Or in front, and I following her just the same.
From Pent-Up Aching Rivers

From pent-up aching rivers
From that of myself without which I were nothing
From what I am determin’d to make illustrious, even if I stand sole among men
From my own voice resonant, singing the phallus Singing the song of procreation
Singing the need of superb children and therein superb grown people Singing the muscular urge and the blending Singing the bedfellow’s song, (O resistless yearning!

O for any and each the body correlative attracting!

O for you whoever you are your correlative body! O it, more than all else, you delighting!

From the hungry gnaw that eats me night and day
From native moments, from bashful pains, singing them
Seeking something yet unfound though I have diligently sought it many a long year Singing the true song of the soul fitful at random Renascent with grossest Nature or among animals
Of that, of them and what goes with them my poems informing
Of the smell of apples and lemons, of the pairing of birds
Of the wet of woods, of the lapping of waves
Of the mad pushes of waves upon the land, I them chanting
The overture lightly sounding, the strain anticipating
The welcome nearness, the sight of the perfect body
The swimmer swimming naked in the bath, or motionless on his back lying and floating
The female form approaching, I pensive, love-flesh tremulous aching
The divine list for myself or you or for any one making
The face, the limbs, the index from head to foot, and what it arouses
The mystic deliria, the madness amorous, the utter abandonment (Hark close and still what I now whisper to you I love you, O you entirely possess me
O that you and I escape from the rest and go utterly off, free and lawless Two hawks in the air, two fishes swimming in the sea not more lawless than we;
The furious storm through me careering, I passionately trembling.

The oath of the inseparableness of two together, of the woman that loves me and whom I love more than my life, that oath swearing (O I willingly stake all for you
O let me be lost if it must be so!

O you and I! what is it to us what the rest do or think?
What is all else to us? only that we enjoy each other and exhaust each other if it must be so;
From the master, the pilot I yield the vessel to The general commanding me, commanding all, from him permission taking From time the programme hastening, (I have loiter’d too long as it is,)
From sex, from the warp and from the woof
From privacy, from frequent repinings alone
From plenty of persons near and yet the right person not near
From the soft sliding of hands over me and thrusting of fingers through my hair and beard
From the long sustain’d kiss upon the mouth or bosom
From the close pressure that makes me or any man drunk, fainting with excess
From what the divine husband knows, from the work of fatherhood
From exultation, victory and relief, from the bedfellow’s embrace in the night
From the act-poems of eyes, hands, hips and bosoms
From the cling of the trembling arm
From the bending curve and the clinch
From side by side the pliant coverlet off-throwing
From the one so unwilling to have me leave, and me just as unwilling to leave (Yet a moment O tender waiter, and I return,)
From the hour of shining stars and dropping dews
From the night a moment I emerging flitting out Celebrate you act divine and you children prepared for
And you stalwart loins.
I Sing the Body Electric

1
I sing the body electric
The armies of those I love engirth me and I engirth them
They will not let me off till I go with them, respond to them
And discorrupt them, and charge them full with the charge of the soul.
Was it doubted that those who corrupt their own bodies conceal themselves?
And if those who defile the living are as bad as they who defile the dead?
And if the body does not do fully as much as the soul?
And if the body were not the soul, what is the soul?

The love of the body of man or woman balks account, the body itself balks account
That of the male is perfect, and that of the female is perfect.
The expression of the face balks account
But the expression of a well-made man appears not only in his face
It is in his limbs and joints also, it is curiously in the joints of his hips and wrists
It is in his walk, the carriage of his neck, the flex of his waist and knees, dress does not hide him
The strong sweet quality he has strikes through the cotton and broadcloth
To see him pass conveys as much as the best poem, perhaps more
You linger to see his back, and the back of his neck and shoulder-side.

The sprawl and fulness of babes, the bosoms and heads of women, the folds of their dress, their style as we pass in the street, the contour of their shape downwards
The swimmer naked in the swimming-bath, seen as he swims through the transparent green-shine, or lies with his face up and rolls silently to and from the heave of the water
The bending forward and backward of rowers in row-boats, the horse-man in his saddle
Girls, mothers, house-keepers, in all their performances
The group of laborers seated at noon-time with their open dinner-kettles, and their wives waiting
The female soothing a child, the farmer’s daughter in the garden or cow-yard
The young fellow hosing corn, the sleigh-driver driving his six horses through the crowd
The wrestle of wrestlers, two apprentice-boys, quite grown, lusty, good-natured, native-born, out on the vacant lot at sundown after work
The coats and caps thrown down, the embrace of love and resistance
The upper-hold and under-hold, the hair rumpled over and blinding the eyes;
The march of firemen in their own costumes, the play of masculine muscle through clean-setting trowsers and waist-straps
The slow return from the fire, the pause when the bell strikes suddenly again, and the listening on the alert
The natural, perfect, varied attitudes, the bent head, the curv’d neck and the counting;
Such-like I love—I loosen myself, pass freely, am at the mother’s breast with the little child Swim with the swimmers, wrestle with wrestlers, march in line with the firemen, and pause, listen, count.

I knew a man, a common farmer, the father of five sons
And in them the fathers of sons, and in them the fathers of sons.

This man was a wonderful vigor, calmness, beauty of person
The shape of his head, the pale yellow and white of his hair and beard, the immeasurable meaning of his black eyes, the richness and breadth of his manners
These I used to go and visit him to see, he was wise also
He was six feet tall, he was over eighty years old, his sons were massive, clean, bearded, tan-faced, handsome
They and his daughters loved him, all who saw him loved him
They did not love him by allowance, they loved him with personal love
He drank water only, the blood show’d like scarlet through the clear-brown skin of his face
He was a frequent gunner and fisher, he sail’d his boat himself, he had a fine one presented to him by a ship-joiner, he had fowling-pieces presented to him by men that loved him
When he went with his five sons and many grand-sons to hunt or fish you would pick him out as the most beautiful and vigorous of the gang
You would wish long and long to be with him, you would wish to sit by him in the boat that you and he might touch each other.

4
I have perceiv’d that to be with those I like is enough
To stop in company with the rest at evening is enough To be surrounded by beautiful, curious, breathing, laughing flesh is enough To pass among them or touch any one, or rest my arm ever so lightly round his or her neck for a moment, what is this then?
I do not ask any more delight, I swim in it as in a sea.

There is something in staying close to men and women and looking on them, and in the contact and odor of them, that pleases the soul well
All things please the soul, but these please the soul well.

5
This is the female form
A divine nimbus exhales from it from head to foot
It attracts with fierce undeniable attraction
I am drawn by its breath as if I were no more than a helpless vapor, all falls aside but myself and it
Books, art, religion, time, the visible and solid earth, and what was expected of heaven or fear’d of hell, are now consumed
Mad filaments, ungovernable shoots play out of it, the response likewise ungovernable Hair, bosom, hips, bend of legs, negligent falling hands all diffused, mine too diffused Ebb stung by the flow and flow stung by the ebb, love-flesh swelling and deliciously aching Limitless limpid jets of love hot and enormous, quivering jelly of love, white-blow and delirious nice Bridegroom night of love working surely and softly into the prostrate dawn Undulating into the willing and yielding day
Lost in the cleave of the clasping and sweet-flesh’d day.

This the nucleus—after the child is born of woman, man is born of woman
This the bath of birth, this the merge of small and large, and the outlet again.
Be not ashamed women, your privilege encloses the rest, and is the exit of the rest You are the gates of the body, and you are the gates of the soul.
The female contains all qualities and tempers them
She is in her place and moves with perfect balance
She is all things duly veil’d, she is both passive and active
She is to conceive daughters as well as sons, and sons as well as daughters.
As I see my soul reflected in Nature
As I see through a mist, One with inexpressible completeness, sanity, beauty See the bent head and arms folded over the breast, the Female I see.

The male is not less the soul nor more, he too is in his place

216
He too is all qualities, he is action and power
The flush of the known universe is in him Scorn becomes him well, and appetite and defiance become him well
The wildest largest passions, bliss that is utmost, sorrow that is utmost become him well, pride is for him
The full-spread pride of man is calming and excellent to the soul Knowledge becomes him, he likes it always, he brings every thing to the test of himself
Whatever the survey, whatever the sea and the sail he strikes soundings at last only here (Where else does he strike soundings except here?)
The man’s body is sacred and the woman’s body is sacred
No matter who it is, it is sacred—is it the meanest one in the laborers’ gang?
Is it one of the dull-faced immigrants just landed on the wharf?
Each belongs here or anywhere just as much as the well-off, just as much as you Each has his or her place in the procession.

(All is a procession
The universe is a procession with measured and perfect motion.)
Do you know so much yourself that you call the meanest ignorant?
Do you suppose you have a right to a good sight, and he or she has no right to a sight?
Do you think matter has cohered together from its diffuse float, and the soil is on the surface, and water runs and vegetation sprouts
For you only, and not for him and her?

7

A man’s body at auction (For before the war I often go to the slave-mart and watch the sale,)
I help the auctioneer, the sloven does not half know his business.

Gentlemen look on this wonder Whatever the bids of the bidders they cannot be high enough for it
For it the globe lay preparing quintillions of years without one animal or plant
For it the revolving cycles truly and steadily roll’d.

In this head the all-baffling brain
In it and below it the makings of heroes.

Examine these limbs, red, black, or white, they are cunning in tendon and nerve
They shall be stript that you may see them.

Exquisite senses, life-lit eyes, pluck, volition
Flakes of breast-muscle, pliant backbone and neck, flesh not flabby, good-sized arms and legs
And wonders within there yet.

Within there runs blood
The same old blood! the same red-running blood!

There swells and jets a heart, there all passions, desires, reachings, aspirations (Do you think they are not there because they are not express’d in parlors and lecture-rooms?)
This is not only one man, this the father of those who shall be fathers in their turns
In him the start of populous states and rich republics
Of him countless immortal lives with countless embodiments and enjoyments.

How do you know who shall come from the offspring of his offspring through the centuries?
(Who might you find you have come from yourself, if you could trace back through the centuries?)

8

A woman’s body at auction
She too is not only herself, she is the teeming mother of mothers
She is the bearer of them that shall grow and be mates to the mothers.

Have you ever loved the body of a woman? Have you ever loved the body of a man?
Do you not see that these are exactly the same to all in all nations and times all over the earth?
If any thing is sacred the human body is sacred
And the glory and sweet of a man is the token of manhood untainted
And in man or woman a clean, strong, firm-fibred body, is more beautiful than the most beautiful face.

Have you seen the fool that corrupted his own live body? or the fool that corrupted her own live body?
For they do not conceal themselves, and cannot conceal themselves.

O my body! I dare not desert the likes of you in other men and women, nor the likes of the parts of you
I believe the likes of you are to stand or fall with the likes of the soul, (and that they are the soul,)
I believe the likes of you shall stand or fall with my poems, and that they are my poems Man’s, woman’s, child, youth’s, wife’s, husband’s, mother’s, father’s, young man’s, young woman’s poems

Head, neck, hair, ears, drop and tympan of the ears

Eyes, eye-fringes, iris of the eye, eyebrows, and the waking or sleeping of the lids

Mouth, tongue, lips, teeth, roof of the mouth, jaws, and the jaw-hinges

Nose, nostrils of the nose, and the partition

Cheeks, temples, forehead, chin, throat, back of the neck, neck-slue

Strong shoulders, manly beard, scapula, hind-shoulders, and the ample side-round of the chest

Upper-arm, armpit, elbow-socket, lower-arm, arm-sinews, arm-bones

Wrist and wrist-joints, hand, palm, knuckles, thumb, forefinger, finger-joints, finger-nails

Broad breast-front, curling hair of the breast, breast-bone, breast-side

Ribs, belly, backbone, joints of the backbone

Hips, hip-sockets, hip-strength, inward and outward round, man-balls, man-root

222
Strong set of thighs, well carrying the trunk above Leg-fibres, knee, knee-pan, upper-leg, under-leg Ankles, instep, foot-ball, toes, toe-joints, the heel;
All attitudes, all the shapeliness, all the belongings of my or your body or of any one’s body, male or female
The lung-sponges, the stomach-sac, the bowels sweet and clean
The brain in its folds inside the skull-frame Sympathies, heart-valves, palate-valves, sexuality, maternity Womanhood, and all that is a woman, and the man that comes from woman
The womb, the teats, nipples, breast-milk, tears, laughter, weeping, love-looks, love-perturbations and risings
The voice, articulation, language, whispering, shouting aloud
Food, drink, pulse, digestion, sweat, sleep, walking, swimming Poise on the hips, leaping, reclining, embracing, arm-curving and tightening
The continual changes of the flex of the mouth, and around the eyes
The skin, the sunburnt shade, freckles, hair
The curious sympathy one feels when feeling with the hand the naked meat of the body
The circling rivers the breath, and breathing it in and out
The beauty of the waist, and thence of the hips, and thence downward toward the knees
The thin red jellies within you or within me, the bones and the marrow in the bones
The exquisite realization of health;
O I say these are not the parts and poems of the body only, but of the soul
O I say now these are the soul!
A Woman Waits for Me

A woman waits for me, she contains all, nothing is lacking
Yet all were lacking if sex were lacking, or if the moisture of the right man were lacking.

Sex contains all, bodies, souls
Meanings, proofs, purities, delicacies, results, promulgations Songs, commands, health, pride, the maternal mystery, the seminal milk
All hopes, benefactions, bestowals, all the passions, loves, beauties, delights of the earth
All the governments, judges, gods, follow’d persons of the earth
These are contain’d in sex as parts of itself and justifications of itself.

Without shame the man I like knows and avows the deliciousness of his sex Without shame the woman I like knows and avows hers.
Now I will dismiss myself from impassive women
I will go stay with her who waits for me, and with those women that are warm-blooded and sufficient for me
I see that they understand me and do not deny me
I see that they are worthy of me, I will be the robust husband of those women.

They are not one jot less than I am
They are tann’d in the face by shining suns and blowing winds
Their flesh has the old divine suppleness and strength
They know how to swim, row, ride, wrestle, shoot, run, strike, retreat, advance, resist, defend themselves
They are ultimate in their own right–they are calm, clear, well-possess’d of themselves.

I draw you close to me, you women
I cannot let you go, I would do you good
I am for you, and you are for me, not only for our own sake, but for others’ sakes Envelop’d in you sleep greater heroes and bards
They refuse to awake at the touch of any man but me.

It is I, you women, I make my way
I am stern, acrid, large, undissuadable, but I love you
I do not hurt you any more than is necessary for you
I pour the stuff to start sons and daughters fit for these States, I press with slow rude muscle
I brace myself effectually, I listen to no entreaties
I dare not withdraw till I deposit what has so long accumulated within me.

Through you I drain the pent-up rivers of myself
In you I wrap a thousand onward years
On you I graft the grafts of the best-beloved of me and America
The drops I distil upon you shall grow fierce and athletic girls, new artists, musicians, and singers
The babes I beget upon you are to beget babes in their turn
I shall demand perfect men and women out of my love-spendings
I shall expect them to interpenetrate with others, as I and you inter-penetrate now I shall count on the fruits of the gushing showers of them, as I count on the fruits of the gushing showers I give now I shall look for loving crops from the birth, life, death, immortality, I plant so lovingly now.
Spontaneous me, Nature
The loving day, the mounting sun, the friend
    I am happy with
The arm of my friend hanging idly over my shoulder
The hillside whiten’d with blossoms of the mountain ash
The same late in autumn, the hues of red, yellow, drab, purple, and light and dark green
The rich coverlet of the grass, animals and birds, the private untrimm’d bank, the primitive apples, the pebble-stones
Beautiful dripping fragments, the negligent list of one after another as I happen to call them to me or think of them
The real poems, (what we call poems being merely pictures,)
The poems of the privacy of the night, and of men like me
This poem drooping shy and unseen that I always carry, and that all men carry (Know once for all, avow’d on purpose, wherever are men like me, are our lusty lurking masculine poems,)

Love-thoughts, love-juice, love-odor, love-yielding, love-climbers, and the climbing sap

Arms and hands of love, lips of love, phallic thumb of love, breasts of love, bellies press’d and glued together with love

Earth of chaste love, life that is only life after love

The body of my love, the body of the woman I love, the body of the man, the body of the earth

Soft forenoon airs that blow from the southwest

The hairy wild-bee that murmurs and hankers up and down, that gripes the full-grown lady-flower, curves upon her with amorous firm legs, takes his will of her, and holds himself tremulous and tight till he is satisfied;

The wet of woods through the early hours
Two sleepers at night lying close together as they sleep, one with an arm slanting down across and below the waist of the other
The smell of apples, aromas from crush’d sage-plant, mint, birch-bark
The boy’s longings, the glow and pressure as he confides to me what he was dreaming
The dead leaf whirling its spiral whirl and falling still and content to the ground
The no-form’d stings that sights, people, objects, sting me with The hubb’d sting of myself, stinging me as much as it ever can any one
The sensitive, orbic, underlapp’d brothers, that only privileged feelers may be intimate where they are The curious roamer the hand roaming all over the body, the bashful withdrawing of flesh where the fingers soothingly pause and edge themselves
The limpid liquid within the young man
The vex’d corrosion so pensive and so painful
The torment, the irritable tide that will not be at rest
The like of the same I feel, the like of the same in others
The young man that flushes and flushes, and the young woman that flushes and flushes
The young man that wakes deep at night, the hot hand seeking to repress what would master him
The mystic amorous night, the strange half-welcome pangs, visions, sweats
The pulse pounding through palms and trembling encircling fingers the young man all color’d, red, ashamed, angry;
The souse upon me of my lover the sea, as I lie willing and naked
The merriment of the twin babes that crawl over the grass in the sun, the mother never turning her vigilant eyes from them
The walnut-trunk, the walnut-husks, and the ripening or ripen’d long-round walnuts
The continence of vegetables, birds, animals
The consequent meanness of me should I skulk or find myself indecent, while birds and animals never once skulk or find themselves indecent
The great chastity of paternity, to match the great chastity of maternity
The oath of procreation I have sworn, my Adamic and fresh daughters
The greed that eats me day and night with hungry gnaw, till I saturate what shall produce boys to fill my place when I am through
The wholesome relief, repose, content
And this bunch pluck’d at random from myself
It has done its work—I toss it carelessly to fall where it may.
One Hour to Madness and Joy

One hour to madness and joy! O furious! O confine me not!

(What is this that frees me so in storms? What do my shouts amid lightnings and raging winds mean?)
O to drink the mystic deliria deeper than any other man!

O savage and tender achings! (I bequeath them to you my children I tell them to you, for reasons, O bridegroom and bride.)
O to be yielded to you whoever you are, and you to be yielded to me in defiance of the world!

O to return to Paradise! O bashful and feminine!

O to draw you to me, to plant on you for the first time the lips of a determin’d man.

O the puzzle, the thrice-tied knot, the deep and dark pool, all untied and illumin’d!
O to speed where there is space enough and air enough at last!

To be absolv’d from previous ties and conventions, I from mine and you from yours!

To find a new unthought-of nonchalance with the best of Nature!

To have the gag remov’d from one’s mouth!

To have the feeling to-day or any day I am sufficient as I am.

O something unprov’d! something in a trance!

To escape utterly from others’ anchors and holds!

To drive free! to love free! to dash reckless and dangerous!

To court destruction with taunts, with invitations!

To ascend, to leap to the heavens of the love indicated to me!

To rise thither with my inebriate soul!

235
To be lost if it must be so!
To feed the remainder of life with one hour of fulness and freedom!
With one brief hour of madness and joy.
Out of the rolling ocean the crowd came a drop gently to me Whispering I love you, before long I die
I have travel’d a long way merely to look on you to touch you
For I could not die till I once look’d on you For I fear’d I might afterward lose you.

Now we have met, we have look’d, we are safe Return in peace to the ocean my love
I too am part of that ocean my love, we are not so much separated Behold the great rondure, the cohesion of all, how perfect!

But as for me, for you, the irresistible sea is to separate us
As for an hour carrying us diverse, yet cannot carry us diverse forever;
Be not impatient–a little space–know you I salute the air, the ocean and the land
Every day at sundown for your dear sake my love.
Ages and ages returning at intervals
Undestroy’d, wandering immortal Lusty, phallic, with the potent original loins, perfectly sweet
I, chanter of Adamic songs
Through the new garden the West, the great cities calling Deliriate, thus prelude what is generated, offering these, offering myself Bathing myself, bathing my songs in Sex
Offspring of my loins.
We Two, How Long We Were Fool'd

We two, how long we were fool'd
Now transmuted, we swiftly escape as Nature escapes
We are Nature, long have we been absent, but now we return
We become plants, trunks, foliage, roots, bark
We are bedded in the ground, we are rocks
We are oaks, we grow in the openings side by side
We browse, we are two among the wild herds spontaneous as any
We are two fishes swimming in the sea together
We are what locust blossoms are, we drop scent around lanes mornings and evenings
We are also the coarse smut of beasts, vegetables, minerals
We are two predatory hawks, we soar above and look down
We are two resplendent suns, we it is who balance ourselves orbic and stellar, we are as two comets
We prowl fang’d and four-footed in the woods, we spring on prey
We are two clouds forenoons and afternoons driving overhead
We are seas mingling, we are two of those cheerful waves rolling over each other and interwetting each other
We are what the atmosphere is, transparent, receptive, pervious, impervious We are snow, rain, cold, darkness, we are each product and influence of the globe
We have circled and circled till we have arrived home again, we two We have voided all but freedom and all but our own joy.
O Hymen! O Hymenee!

O hymen! O hymenee! why do you tantalize me thus?
O why sting me for a swift moment only?
Why can you not continue? O why do you now cease?
Is it because if you continued beyond the swift moment you would soon certainly kill me?
I Am He That Aches with Love

I am he that aches with amorous love;
Does the earth gravitate? does not all matter, aching, attract all matter?
So the body of me to all I meet or know.
Native Moments

Native moments—when you come upon me—ah you are here now Give me now libidinous joys only Give me the drench of my passions, give me life coarse and rank
To-day I go consort with Nature’s darlings, to-night too
I am for those who believe in loose delights, I share the midnight orgies of young men I dance with the dancers and drink with the drinkers
The echoes ring with our indecent calls, I pick out some low person for my dearest friend
He shall be lawless, rude, illiterate, he shall be one condemn’d by others for deeds done
I will play a part no longer, why should I exile myself from my companions?
O you shunn’d persons, I at least do not shun you
I come forthwith in your midst, I will be your poet
I will be more to you than to any of the rest.
Once I Pass’d Through a Populous City

Once I pass’d through a populous city imprinting my brain for future use with its shows, architecture, customs, traditions
Yet now of all that city I remember only a woman I casually met there who detain’d me for love of me Day by day and night by night we were together—all else has long been forgotten by me I remember I say only that woman who passionately clung to me Again we wander, we love, we separate again Again she holds me by the hand, I must not go I see her close beside me with silent lips sad and tremulous.
I Heard You Solemn-Sweet Pipes of the Organ

I heard you solemn-sweet pipes of the organ
as last Sunday morn I pass’d the church Winds of autumn, as I walk’d the woods at dusk I heard your long-stretch’d sighs up above so mournful
I heard the perfect Italian tenor singing at the opera, I heard the soprano in the midst of the quartet singing;
Heart of my love! you too I heard murmuring low through one of the wrists around my head
Heard the pulse of you when all was still ringing little bells last night under my ear.
Facing West from California’s Shores

Facing west from California’s shores Inquiring, tireless, seeking what is yet un-found
I, a child, very old, over waves, towards the house of maternity, the land of migrations, look afar
Look off the shores of my Western sea, the circle almost circled;
For starting westward from Hindustan, from the vales of Kashmere From Asia, from the north, from the God, the sage, and the hero
From the south, from the flowery peninsulas and the spice islands Long having wander’d since, round the earth having wander’d
Now I face home again, very pleas’d and joyous
(But where is what I started for so long ago?
And why is it yet unfound?)
As Adam Early in the Morning

As Adam early in the morning
Walking forth from the bower refresh’d with sleep
Behold me where I pass, hear my voice, approach Touch me, touch the palm of your hand to my body as I pass Be not afraid of my body.
BOOK V. CALAMUS
In Paths Untrodden

In paths untrodden
In the growth by margins of pond-waters
Escaped from the life that exhibits itself
From all the standards hitherto publish'd, from the pleasures, profits, conformities
Which too long I was offering to feed my soul Clear to me now standards not yet publish'd, clear to me that my soul
That the soul of the man I speak for rejoices in comrades
Here by myself away from the clank of the world
Tallying and talk'd to here by tongues aromatic
No longer abash'd, (for in this secluded spot
    I can respond as I would not dare elsewhere,) Strong upon me the life that does not exhibit itself, yet contains all the rest Resolv'd to sing no songs to-day but those of manly attachment
Projecting them along that substantial life
Bequeathing hence types of athletic love Afternoon this delicious Ninth-month in my forty-first year
I proceed for all who are or have been young
men
To tell the secret my nights and days
To celebrate the need of comrades.
Scented Herbage of My Breast

Scented herbage of my breast
Leaves from you I glean, I write, to be perused best afterwards Tomb-leaves, body-leaves growing up above me above death
Perennial roots, tall leaves, O the winter shall not freeze you delicate leaves Every year shall you bloom again, out from where you retired you shall emerge again;
O I do not know whether many passing by will discover you or inhale your faint odor, but I believe a few will;
O slender leaves! O blossoms of my blood! I permit you to tell in your own way of the heart that is under you
O I do not know what you mean there underneath yourselves, you are not happiness
You are often more bitter than I can bear, you burn and sting me
Yet you are beautiful to me you faint tinged roots, you make me think of death Death is beautiful from you, (what indeed is finally beautiful except death and love?)
O I think it is not for life I am chanting here my chant of lovers
I think it must be for death
For how calm, how solemn it grows to ascend to the atmosphere of lovers Death or life I am then indifferent, my soul declines to prefer (I am not sure but the high soul of lovers welcomes death most,) Indeed O death, I think now these leaves mean precisely the same as you mean Grow up taller sweet leaves that I may see!
grow up out of my breast!

Spring away from the conceal’d heart there!

Do not fold yourself so in your pink-tinged roots timid leaves!

Do not remain down there so ashamed, herbage of my breast!

Come I am determin’d to unbare this broad breast of mine, I have long enough stifled and choked;

254 Emblematic and capricious blades I leave you, now you serve me not I will say what I have to say by itself
I will sound myself and comrades only, I will never again utter a call only their call
I will raise with it immortal reverberations through the States
I will give an example to lovers to take permanent shape and will through the States Through me shall the words be said to make death exhilarating
Give me your tone therefore O death, that I may accord with it Give me yourself, for I see that you belong to me now above all, and are folded inseparably together, you love and death are Nor will I allow you to balk me any more with what I was calling life
For now it is convey’d to me that you are the purports essential
That you hide in these shifting forms of life, for reasons, and that they are mainly for you That you beyond them come forth to remain, the real reality
That behind the mask of materials you patiently wait, no matter how long
That you will one day perhaps take control of all
That you will perhaps dissipate this entire show of appearance
That may-be you are what it is all for, but it does not last so very long
But you will last very long.
Whoever You Are Holding Me Now in Hand

Whoever you are holding me now in hand
Without one thing all will be useless
I give you fair warning before you attempt me further
I am not what you supposed, but far different.

Who is he that would become my follower?
Who would sign himself a candidate for my affections?
The way is suspicious, the result uncertain, perhaps destructive
You would have to give up all else, I alone would expect to be your sole and exclusive standard
Your novitiate would even then be long and exhausting
The whole past theory of your life and all conformity to the lives around you would have to be abandon’d Therefore release me now before troubling yourself any further, let go your hand from my shoulders
Put me down and depart on your way.

Or else by stealth in some wood for trial
Or back of a rock in the open air (For in any roof’d room of a house I emerge not, nor in company
And in libraries I lie as one dumb, a gawk, or unborn, or dead,)
But just possibly with you on a high hill, first watching lest any person for miles around approach unawares Or possibly with you sailing at sea, or on the beach of the sea or some quiet island
Here to put your lips upon mine I permit you With the comrade’s long-dwelling kiss or the new husband’s kiss
For I am the new husband and I am the comrade.

Or if you will, thrusting me beneath your clothing
Where I may feel the throbs of your heart or rest upon your hip
Carry me when you go forth over land or sea;
For thus merely touching you is enough, is best And thus touching you would I silently sleep and be carried eternally.

But these leaves conning you con at peril
For these leaves and me you will not understand
They will elude you at first and still more afterward, I will certainly elude you.

Even while you should think you had unquestionably caught me, behold!
Already you see I have escaped from you.

For it is not for what I have put into it that I have written this book
Nor is it by reading it you will acquire it Nor do those know me best who admire me and vauntingly praise me
Nor will the candidates for my love (unless at most a very few) prove victorious Nor will my poems do good only, they will do just as much evil perhaps more
For all is useless without that which you may guess at many times and not hit, that which I hinted at; Therefore release me and depart on your way.
For You, O Democracy

Come, I will make the continent indissoluble
I will make the most splendid race the sun ever shone upon
I will make divine magnetic lands
With the love of comrades
With the life-long love of comrades.

I will plant companionship thick as trees along all the rivers of America, and along the shores of the great lakes, and all over the prairies
I will make inseparable cities with their arms about each other’s necks
By the love of comrades
By the manly love of comrades.

For you these from me, O Democracy, to serve you ma femme!

For you, for you I am trilling these songs.
These I Singing in Spring

These I singing in spring collect for lovers (For who but I should understand lovers and all their sorrow and joy?
And who but I should be the poet of comrades?) Collecting I traverse the garden the world, but soon I pass the gates
Now along the pond-side, now wading in a little, fearing not the wet
Now by the post-and-rail fences where the old stones thrown there, pick’d from the fields, have accumulated (Wild-flowers and vines and weeds come up through the stones and partly cover them, beyond these I pass,) Far, far in the forest, or sauntering later in summer, before I think where I go Solitary, smelling the earthy smell, stopping now and then in the silence Alone I had thought, yet soon a troop gathers around me Some walk by my side and some behind, and some embrace my arms or neck
They the spirits of dear friends dead or alive, thicker they come, a great crowd, and I in the middle Collecting, dispensing, singing, there I wander with them Plucking something for tokens, tossing toward whoever is near me
Here, lilac, with a branch of pine Here, out of my pocket, some moss which I pull’d off a live-oak in Florida as it hung trailing down Here, some pinks and laurel leaves, and a handful of sage
And here what I now draw from the water, wading in the pondside (O here I last saw him that tenderly loves me, and returns again never to separate from me
And this, O this shall henceforth be the token of comrades, this calamus-root shall Interchange it youths with each other! let none render it back!)
And twigs of maple and a bunch of wild orange and chestnut
And stems of currants and plum-blows, and the aromatic cedar These I compass’d around by a thick cloud of spirits
Wandering, point to or touch as I pass, or throw them loosely from me Indicating to each one what he shall have, giving something to each;
But what I drew from the water by the pond-side, that I reserve
I will give of it, but only to them that love as I myself am capable of loving.
Not heaving from my ribb’d breast only
Not in sighs at night in rage dissatisfied with myself
Not in those long-drawn, ill-supprest sighs
Not in many an oath and promise broken
Not in my wilful and savage soul’s volition
Not in the subtle nourishment of the air
Not in this beating and pounding at my temples and wrists
Not in the curious systole and diastole within which will one day cease
Not in many a hungry wish told to the skies only
Not in cries, laughter, defiances, thrown from me when alone far in the wilds
Not in husky pantings through clinch’d teeth
Not in sounded and resounded words, chattering words, echoes, dead words
Not in the murmurs of my dreams while I sleep Nor the other murmurs of these incredible dreams of every day Nor in the limbs and senses of my body that take you and dismiss you continually—not there
Not in any or all of them O adhesiveness! O pulse of my life!

Need I that you exist and show yourself any more than in these songs.
OF THE TERRIBLE DOUBT OF APPEARANCES

Of the terrible doubt of appearances
Of the uncertainty after all, that we may be deluded
That may-be reliance and hope are but speculations after all
That may-be identity beyond the grave is a beautiful fable only
May-be the things I perceive, the animals, plants, men, hills, shining and flowing waters
The skies of day and night, colors, densities, forms, may-be these are (as doubtless they are) only apparitions, and the real something has yet to be known (How often they dart out of themselves as if to confound me and mock me!
How often I think neither I know, nor any man knows, aught of them,)
May-be seeming to me what they are (as doubtless they indeed but seem) as from my present point of view, and might prove (as of course they would) nought of what they appear, or nought anyhow, from entirely changed points of view; To me these and the like of these are curiously answer’d by my lovers, my dear friends When he whom I love travels with me or sits a long while holding me by the hand When the subtle air, the impalpable, the sense that words and reason hold not, surround us and pervade us Then I am charged with untold and untellable wisdom, I am silent, I require nothing further I cannot answer the question of appearances or that of identity beyond the grave But I walk or sit indifferent, I am satisfied He ahold of my hand has completely satisfied me.
THE BASE OF ALL METAPHYSICS

And now gentlemen
A word I give to remain in your memories and minds
As base and finale too for all metaphysics.
(So to the students the old professor At the close of his crowded course.)
Having studied the new and antique, the Greek and Germanic systems Kant having studied and stated, Fichte and Schelling and Hegel Stated the lore of Plato, and Socrates greater than Plato
And greater than Socrates sought and stated, Christ divine having studied long
I see reminiscent to-day those Greek and Germanic systems
See the philosophies all, Christian churches and tenets see Yet underneath Socrates clearly see, and underneath Christ the divine I see
The dear love of man for his comrade, the attraction of friend to friend
Of the well-married husband and wife, of children and parents Of city for city and land for land.
Recorders ages hence Come, I will take you down underneath this impassive exterior, I will tell you what to say of me Publish my name and hang up my picture as that of the tenderest lover
The friend the lover’s portrait, of whom his friend his lover was fondest Who was not proud of his songs, but of the measureless ocean of love within him, and freely pour’d it forth
Who often walk’d lonesome walks thinking of his dear friends, his lovers Who pensive away from one he lov’d often lay sleepless and dissatisfied at night Who knew too well the sick, sick dread lest the one he lov’d might secretly be indifferent to him
Whose happiest days were far away through fields, in woods, on hills, he and another wandering hand in hand, they twain apart from other men
Who oft as he saunter’d the streets curv’d with his arm the shoulder of his friend, while the arm of his friend rested upon him also.
When I Heard at the Close of the Day

When I heard at the close of the day how my name had been receiv’d with plaudits in the capitol, still it was not a happy night for me that follow’d
And else when I carous’d, or when my plans were accomplish’d, still I was not happy
But the day when I rose at dawn from the bed of perfect health, refresh’d, singing, inhaling the ripe breath of autumn
When I saw the full moon in the west grow pale and disappear in the morning light
When I wander’d alone over the beach, and undressing bathed, laughing with the cool waters, and saw the sun rise
And when I thought how my dear friend my lover was on his way coming, O then I was happy
O then each breath tasted sweeter, and all that day my food nourish’d me more, and the beautiful day pass’d well
And the next came with equal joy, and with the next at evening came my friend
And that night while all was still I heard the waters roll slowly continually up the shores
I heard the hissing rustle of the liquid and sands as directed to me whispering to congratulate me
For the one I love most lay sleeping by me under the same cover in the cool night
In the stillness in the autumn moonbeams his face was inclined toward me
And his arm lay lightly around my breast—and that night I was happy.
Are you the new person drawn toward me?
To begin with take warning, I am surely far different from what you suppose;
Do you suppose you will find in me your ideal?
Do you think it so easy to have me become your lover?
Do you think the friendship of me would be unalloy’d satisfaction?
Do you think I am trusty and faithful?
Do you see no further than this facade, this smooth and tolerant manner of me?
Do you suppose yourself advancing on real ground toward a real heroic man?
Have you no thought O dreamer that it may be all maya, illusion?
Roots and leaves themselves alone are these Scents brought to men and women from the wild woods and pond-side Breast-sorrel and pinks of love, fingers that wind around tighter than vines Gushes from the throats of birds hid in the foliage of trees as the sun is risen Breezes of land and love set from living shores to you on the living sea, to you O sailors!
Frost-mellow’d berries and Third-month twigs offer’d fresh to young persons wandering out in the fields when the winter breaks up
Love-buds put before you and within you whoever you are Buds to be unfolded on the old terms
If you bring the warmth of the sun to them they will open and bring form, color, perfume, to you
If you become the aliment and the wet they will become flowers, fruits, tall branches and trees.
Not heat flames up and consumes
Not sea-waves hurry in and out
Not the air delicious and dry, the air of ripe summer, bears lightly along white down-balls of myriads of seeds Waited, sailing gracefully, to drop where they may;
Not these, O none of these more than the flames of me, consuming burning for his love whom I love
O none more than I hurrying in and out;
Does the tide hurry, seeking something, and never give up? O I the same
O nor down-balls nor perfumes, nor the high rain-emitting clouds are borne through the open air
Any more than my soul is borne through the open air Wafted in all directions O love, for friendship, for you.
Trickle Drops

Trickle drops! my blue veins leaving!

O drops of me! trickle, slow drops
Candid from me falling, drip, bleeding drops
From wounds made to free you whence you were prison’d
From my face, from my forehead and lips
From my breast, from within where I was conceal’d, press forth red drops, confession drops Stain every page, stain every song I sing, every word I say, bloody drops
Let them know your scarlet heat, let them glisten Saturate them with yourself all ashamed and wet Glow upon all I have written or shall write, bleeding drops Let it all be seen in your light, blushing drops.
City of Orgies

City of orgies, walks and joys City whom that I have lived and sung in your midst will one day make
Not the pageants of you, not your shifting tableaus, your spectacles, repay me
Not the interminable rows of your houses, nor the ships at the wharves
Nor the processions in the streets, nor the bright windows with goods in them Nor to converse with learn’d persons, or bear my share in the soiree or feast;
Not those, but as I pass O Manhattan, your frequent and swift flash of eyes offering me love Offering response to my own–these repay me
Lovers, continual lovers, only repay me.
Behold this swarthy face, these gray eyes
This beard, the white wool unclipt upon my neck
My brown hands and the silent manner of me without charm;
Yet comes one a Manhattanese and ever at parting kisses me lightly on the lips with robust love
And I on the crossing of the street or on the ship’s deck give a kiss in return
We observe that salute of American comrades land and sea
We are those two natural and nonchalant persons.
I saw in Louisiana a live-oak growing
All alone stood it and the moss hung down from the branches
Without any companion it grew there uttering joyous of dark green
And its look, rude, unbending, lusty, made me think of myself
But I wonder'd how it could utter joyous leaves standing alone there without its friend near, for I knew I could not
And I broke off a twig with a certain number of leaves upon it and twined around it a little moss
And brought it away, and I have placed it in sight in my room
It is not needed to remind me as of my own dear friends (For I believe lately I think of little else than of them,) Yet it remains to me a curious token, it makes me think of manly love;
For all that, and though the live-oak glistens there in Louisiana solitary in a wide in a wide flat space Uttering joyous leaves all its life without a friend a lover near
I know very well I could not.
To a Stranger

Passing stranger! you do not know how long-ingly I look upon you
You must be he I was seeking, or she I was seeking, (it comes to me as of a dream,)
I have somewhere surely lived a life of joy with you All is recall’d as we flit by each other, fluid, affectionate chaste, matured
You grew up with me, were a boy with me or a girl with me
I ate with you and slept with you, your body has become not yours only nor left my body mine only
You give me the pleasure of your eyes, face, flesh, as we pass, you take of my beard, breast, hands, in return
I am not to speak to you, I am to think of you when I sit alone or wake at night alone
I am to wait, I do not doubt I am to meet you again
I am to see to it that I do not lose you.
This Moment Yearning and Thoughtful

This moment yearning and thoughtful sitting alone
It seems to me there are other men in other lands yearning and thoughtful
It seems to me I can look over and behold them in Germany, Italy, France, Spain
Or far, far away, in China, or in Russia or talking other dialects
And it seems to me if I could know those men I should become attached to them as I do to men in my own lands
O I know we should be brethren and lovers I know I should be happy with them.
I hear it was charged against me that I sought to destroy institutions
But really I am neither for nor against institutions (What indeed have I in common with them? or what with the destruction of them?)
Only I will establish in the Mannahatta and in every city of these States inland and seaboard
And in the fields and woods, and above every keel little or large that dents the water Without edifices or rules or trustees or any argument
The institution of the dear love of comrades.
The Prairie-Grass Dividing

The prairie-grass dividing, its special odor breathing
I demand of it the spiritual corresponding Demand the most copious and close companionship of men Demand the blades to rise of words, acts, beings
Those of the open atmosphere, coarse, sunlit, fresh, nutritious
Those that go their own gait, erect, stepping with freedom and command, leading not following
Those with a never-quell’d audacity, those with sweet and lusty flesh clear of taint Those that look carelessly in the faces of Presidents and governors, as to say Who are you?
Those of earth-born passion, simple, never constrain’d, never obedient Those of inland America.
When I peruse the conquer’d fame of heroes and the victories of mighty generals, I do not envy the generals Nor the President in his Presidency, nor the rich in his great house
But when I hear of the brotherhood of lovers, how it was with them
How together through life, through dangers, odium, unchanging, long and long Through youth and through middle and old age, how unfaltering, how affectionate and faithful they were Then I am pensive—I hastily walk away fill’d with the bitterest envy.
We Two Boys Together Clinging

We two boys together clinging
One the other never leaving
Up and down the roads going, North and South excursions making Power enjoying, elbows stretching, fingers clutching Arm’d and fearless, eating, drinking, sleeping, loving.

No law less than ourselves owning, sailing, soldiering, thieving, threatening Misers, menials, priests alarming, air breathing, water drinking, on the turf or the sea-beach dancing Cities wrenching, ease scorning, statutes mocking, feebleness chasing Fulfilling our foray.
A P R O M I S E T O C A L I F O R N I A

A promise to California
Or inland to the great pastoral Plains, and on to Puget sound and Oregon; Sojourning east a while longer, soon I travel toward you, to remain, to teach robust American love
For I know very well that I and robust love belong among you inland, and along the Western sea;
For these States tend inland and toward the Western sea, and I will also.
HERE THE FRAILEST LEAVES OF ME

Here the frailest leaves of me and yet my strongest lasting Here I shade and hide my thoughts, I myself do not expose them
And yet they expose me more than all my other poems.
No Labor-Saving Machine

No labor-saving machine
Nor discovery have I made Nor will I be able to leave behind me any wealthy bequest to found hospital or library
Nor reminiscence of any deed of courage for America
Nor literary success nor intellect; nor book for the book-shelf
But a few carols vibrating through the air I leave
For comrades and lovers.
A Glimpse

A glimpse through an interstice caught
Of a crowd of workmen and drivers in a bar-room around the stove late of a winter night, and I unremark’d seated in a corner
Of a youth who loves me and whom I love, silently approaching and seating himself near, that he may hold me by the hand
A long while amid the noises of coming and going, of drinking and oath and smutty jest
There we two, content, happy in being together, speaking little, perhaps not a word.
A LEAF FOR HAND IN HAND

A leaf for hand in hand;
You natural persons old and young!
You on the Mississippi and on all the branches and bayous of the Mississippi!
You friendly boatmen and mechanics! you roughs!
You twain! and all processions moving along the streets!
I wish to infuse myself among you till I see it common for you to walk hand in hand.
Earth, My Likeness

Earth, my likeness
Though you look so impassive, ample and spheric there
I now suspect that is not all;
I now suspect there is something fierce in you eligible to burst forth
For an athlete is enamour’d of me, and I of him
But toward him there is something fierce and terrible in me eligible to burst forth
I dare not tell it in words, not even in these songs.
I DREAM’D IN A DREAM

I dream’d in a dream I saw a city invincible to the attacks of the whole of the rest of the earth
I dream’d that was the new city of Friends
Nothing was greater there than the quality of robust love, it led the rest
It was seen every hour in the actions of the men of that city
And in all their looks and words.
What think you I take my pen in hand to record?
The battle-ship, perfect-model'd, majestic, that I saw pass the offing to-day under full sail?
The splendors of the past day? or the splendor of the night that envelops me?
Or the vaunted glory and growth of the great city spread around me? –no;
But merely of two simple men I saw to-day on the pier in the midst of the crowd, parting the parting of dear friends
The one to remain hung on the other's neck and passionately kiss'd him While the one to depart tightly prest the one to remain in his arms.
To the East and to the West
To the man of the Seaside State and of Pennsylvania
To the Kanadian of the north, to the Southerner I love
These with perfect trust to depict you as myself, the germs are in all men
I believe the main purport of these States is to found a superb friendship, exalte, previously unknown Because I perceive it waits, and has been always waiting, latent in all men.
Sometimes with One I Love

Sometimes with one I love I fill myself with rage for fear I effuse unreturn’d love. But now I think there is no unreturn’d love, the pay is certain one way or another. (I loved a certain person ardently and my love was not return’d. Yet out of that I have written these songs.)
To a Western Boy

Many things to absorb I teach to help you become eleve of mine;
Yet if blood like mine circle not in your veins
If you be not silently selected by lovers and do not silently select lovers
Of what use is it that you seek to become eleve of mine?
Fast Anchor’d Eternal O Love!

Fast-anchor’d eternal O love! O woman I love!
O bride! O wife! more resistless than I can tell, the thought of you!
Then separate, as disembodied or another born Ethereal, the last athletic reality, my consolation
I ascend, I float in the regions of your love O man
O sharer of my roving life.
Among the Multitude

Among the men and women the multitude I perceive one picking me out by secret and divine signs
Acknowledging none else, not parent, wife, husband, brother, child, any nearer than I am
Some are baffled, but that one is not—that one knows me.

Ah lover and perfect equal
I meant that you should discover me so by faint indirections
And I when I meet you mean to discover you by the like in you.
O You Whom I Often and Silently Come

O you whom I often and silently come where you are that I may be with you
As I walk by your side or sit near, or remain in the same room with you Little you know the subtle electric fire that for your sake is playing within me.
That Shadow My Likeness

That shadow my likeness that goes to and fro seeking a livelihood, chattering, chaffering
How often I find myself standing and looking at it where it flits
How often I question and doubt whether that is really me;
But among my lovers and caroling these songs
O I never doubt whether that is really me.
Full of Life Now

Full of life now, compact, visible
I, forty years old the eighty-third year of the States
To one a century hence or any number of centuries hence
To you yet unborn these, seeking you.

When you read these I that was visible am become invisible
Now it is you, compact, visible, realizing my poems, seeking me Fancying how happy you were if I could be with you and become your comrade;
Be it as if I were with you. (Be not too certain but I am now with you.)
BOOK VI
Salut au Monde!

1

O take my hand Walt Whitman!

Such gliding wonders! such sights and sounds!

Such join’d unended links, each hook’d to the next
Each answering all, each sharing the earth with all.

What widens within you Walt Whitman?
What waves and soils exuding?
What climes? what persons and cities are here?
Who are the infants, some playing, some slumbering?
Who are the girls? who are the married women?
Who are the groups of old men going slowly with their arms about each other’s necks?
What rivers are these? what forests and fruits are these?
What are the mountains call’d that rise so high in the mists?
What myriads of dwellings are they fill’d with dwellers?

2
Within me latitude widens, longitude lengths
Asia, Africa, Europe, are to the east–America is provided for in the west Band ing the bulge of the earth winds the hot equator
Curiously north and south turn the axis-ends
Within me is the longest day, the sun wheels in slanting rings, it does not set for months
Stretch’d in due time within me the midnight sun just rises above the horizon and sinks again
Within me zones, seas, cataracts, forests, volcanoes, groups Malaysia, Polynesia, and the great West Indian islands.

3
What do you hear Walt Whitman?
I hear the workman singing and the farmer’s wife singing
I hear in the distance the sounds of children and of animals early in the day
I hear emulous shouts of Australians pursuing the wild horse
I hear the Spanish dance with castanets in the chestnut shade, to the rebeck and guitar
I hear continual echoes from the Thames
I hear fierce French liberty songs
I hear of the Italian boat-sculler the musical recitative of old poems
I hear the locusts in Syria as they strike the grain and grass with the showers of their terrible clouds
I hear the Coptic refrain toward sundown, pensively falling on the breast of the black venerable vast mother the Nile
I hear the chirp of the Mexican muleteer, and the bells of the mule
I hear the Arab muezzin calling from the top of the mosque I hear the Christian priests at the altars of their churches, I hear the responsive base and soprano
I hear the cry of the Cossack, and the sailor’s voice putting to sea at Okotsk
I hear the wheeze of the slave-coffle as the slaves march on, as the husky gangs pass on by twos and threes, fasten’d together with wrist-chains and ankle-chains
I hear the Hebrew reading his records and psalms
I hear the rhythmic myths of the Greeks, and the strong legends of the Romans
I hear the tale of the divine life and bloody death of the beautiful God the Christ
I hear the Hindoo teaching his favorite pupil the loves, wars, adages, transmitted safely to this day from poets who wrote three thousand years ago.

4

What do you see Walt Whitman?
Who are they you salute, and that one after another salute you?
I see a great round wonder rolling through space
I see diminute farms, hamlets, ruins, graveyards, jails, factories, palaces, hovels, huts of barbarians, tents of nomads upon the surface
I see the shaded part on one side where the sleepers are sleeping, and the sunlit part on the other side
I see the curious rapid change of the light and shade
I see distant lands, as real and near to the inhabitants of them as my land is to me.
I see plenteous waters
I see mountain peaks, I see the sierras of Andes where they range
I see plainly the Himalayas, Chian Shahs, Altays, Ghauts
I see the giant pinnacles of Elbruz, Kazbek, Bazardjusi
I see the Styrian Alps, and the Karnac Alps
I see the Pyrenees, Balks, Carpathians, and to the north the Dofrafields, and off at sea mount Hecla
I see Vesuvius and Etna, the mountains of the BOOK VI

Moon, and the Red mountains of Madagascar
I see the Lybian, Arabian, and Asiatic deserts
I see huge dreadful Arctic and Antarctic icebergs
I see the superior oceans and the inferior ones, the Atlantic and Pacific, the sea of Mexico, the Brazilian sea, and the sea of Peru
The waters of Hindustan, the China sea, and the gulf of Guinea
The Japan waters, the beautiful bay of Nagasaki land-lock’d in its mountains
The spread of the Baltic, Caspian, Bothnia, the British shores, and the bay of Biscay
The clear-sunn’d Mediterranean, and from one to another of its islands
The White sea, and the sea around Greenland.

I behold the mariners of the world
Some are in storms, some in the night with the watch on the lookout
Some drifting helplessly, some with contagious diseases.
I behold the sail and steamships of the world, some in clusters in port, some on their voyages
Some double the cape of Storms, some cape Verde, others capes Guardafui, Bon, or Bajadore Others Dondra head, others pass the straits of Sunda, others cape Lopatka, others Behring’s straits Others cape Horn, others sail the gulf of Mexico or along Cuba or Hayti, others Hudson’s bay or Baffin’s bay Others pass the straits of Dover, others enter the Wash, others the firth of Solway, others round cape Clear, others the Land’s End
Others traverse the Zuyder Zee or the Scheldt Others as comers and goers at Gibraltar or the Dardanelles Others sternly push their way through the northern winter-packs Others descend or ascend the Obi or the Lena Others the Niger or the Congo, others the Indus, the Burampooter and Cambodia Others wait steam’d up ready to start in the ports of Australia
Wait at Liverpool, Glasgow, Dublin, Marseilles, Lisbon, Naples, Hamburg, Bremen, Bordeaux, the Hague, Copenhagen, Wait at Valparaiso, Rio Janeiro, Panama.

5

I see the tracks of the railroads of the earth
I see them in Great Britain, I see them in Europe
I see them in Asia and in Africa.

I see the electric telegraphs of the earth
I see the filaments of the news of the wars, deaths, losses, gains, passions, of my race.

I see the long river-stripes of the earth
I see the Amazon and the Paraguay I see the four great rivers of China, the Amour, the Yellow River, the Yiang-tse, and the Pearl
I see where the Seine flows, and where the Danube, the Loire, the Rhone, and the Guadalquiver flow
I see the windings of the Volga, the Dnieper, the Oder
I see the Tuscan going down the Arno, and the Venetian along the Po
I see the Greek seaman sailing out of Egina bay.

6

I see the site of the old empire of Assyria, and that of Persia, and that of India
I see the falling of the Ganges over the high rim of Saukara.
I see the place of the idea of the Deity incarnated by avatars in human forms
I see the spots of the successions of priests on the earth, oracles, sacrificers, brahmins, sabians, llamas, monks, muftis, exhorters
I see where druids walk’d the groves of Mona, I see the mistletoe and vervain
I see the temples of the deaths of the bodies of Gods
I see the old signifiers.
I see Christ eating the bread of his last supper in the midst of youths and old persons I see where the strong divine young man the Hercules toil’d faithfully and long and then died
I see the place of the innocent rich life and hapless fate of the beautiful nocturnal son, the full-limb’d Bacchus I see Kneph, blooming, drest in blue, with the crown of feathers on his head I see Hermes, unsuspected, dying, wellbelov’d, saying to the people
Do not weep for me
This is not my true country, I have lived ban-ish’d from my true country, I now go back there I return to the celestial sphere where every one goes in his turn.

7

I see the battle-fields of the earth, grass grows upon them and blossoms and corn
I see the tracks of ancient and modern expeditions.
I see the nameless masonries, venerable messages of the unknown events, heroes, records of the earth.

I see the places of the sagas
I see pine-trees and fir-trees torn by northern blasts
I see granite bowlders and cliffs, I see green meadows and lakes
I see the burial-cairns of Scandinavian war-riors
I see them raised high with stones by the marge of restless oceans, that the dead men’s spirits when they wearied of their quiet graves might rise up through the mounds and gaze on the tossing billows, and be refresh’d by storms, immensity, liberty, action.

I see the steppes of Asia
I see the tumuli of Mongolia, I see the tents of Kalmucks and Baskirs
I see the nomadic tribes with herds of oxen and cows
I see the table-lands notch’d with ravines, I see the jungles and deserts
I see the camel, the wild steed, the bustard, the fat-tail’d sheep, the antelope, and the burrowing wolf
I see the highlands of Abyssinia
I see flocks of goats feeding, and see the fig-tree, tamarind, date
And see fields of teff-wheat and places of verdure and gold.

I see the Brazilian vaquero
I see the Bolivian ascending mount Sorata
I see the Wacho crossing the plains, I see the incomparable rider of horses with his lasso on his arm
I see over the pampas the pursuit of wild cattle for their hides.

8

I see the regions of snow and ice
I see the sharp-eyed Samoiede and the Finn
I see the seal-seeker in his boat poising his lance
I see the Siberian on his slight-built sledge drawn by dogs
I see the porpoise-hunters, I see the whale-crews of the south Pacific and the north Atlantic
I see the cliffs, glaciers, torrents, valleys, of Switzerland—I mark the long winters and the isolation.

I see the cities of the earth and make myself at random a part of them
I am a real Parisian
I am a habitan of Vienna, St. Petersburg, Berlin, Constantinople
I am of Adelaide, Sidney (sic!), Melbourne
I am of London, Manchester, Bristol, Edinburgh, Limerick
I am of Madrid, Cadiz, Barcelona, Oporto, Lyons, Brussels, Berne, Frankfort, Stuttgart, Turin, Florence
I belong in Moscow, Cracow, Warsaw, or northward in Christiania or Stockholm, or in Siberian Irkutsk, or in some street in Iceland
I descend upon all those cities, and rise from them again.
I see vapors exhaling from unexplored countries
I see the savage types, the bow and arrow, the poison’d splint, the fetich, and the obi.

I see African and Asiatic towns
I see Algiers, Tripoli, Derne, Mogadore, Timbuctoo, Monrovia
I see the swarms of Pekin, Canton, Benares, Delhi, Calcutta, Tokio
I see the Kruman in his hut, and the Dahoman and Ashantee-man in their huts
I see the Turk smoking opium in Aleppo
I see the picturesque crowds at the fairs of Khiva and those of Herat
I see Techeran, I see Muscat and Medina and the intervening sands, see the caravans toiling onward
I see Egypt and the Egyptians, I see the pyramids and obelisks.

I look on chisell’d histories, records of conquering kings, dynasties, cut in slabs of sand-stone, or on granite-blocks
I see at Memphis mummy-pits containing mummies embalm’d, swathed in linen cloth, lying there many centuries
I look on the fall’n Theban, the large-ball’d eyes, the side-drooping neck, the hands folded across the breast.

I see all the menials of the earth, laboring
I see all the prisoners in the prisons
I see the defective human bodies of the earth
The blind, the deaf and dumb, idiots, hunchbacks, lunatics
The pirates, thieves, betayers, murderers, slave-makers of the earth
The helpless infants, and the helpless old men and women.

I see male and female everywhere
I see the serene brotherhood of philosophs
I see the constructiveness of my race
I see the results of the perseverance and industry of my race
I see ranks, colors, barbarisms, civilizations, I go among them, I mix indiscriminately
And I salute all the inhabitants of the earth.

321
You whoever you are!
You daughter or son of England!
You of the mighty Slavic tribes and empires! you Russ in Russia!
You dim-descended, black, divine-soul’d African, large, fine-headed, nobly-form’d, superbly destin’d, on equal terms with me!

You Norwegian! Swede! Dane! Icelander! you Prussian!

You Spaniard of Spain! you Portuguese!
You Frenchwoman and Frenchman of France!
You Belge! you liberty-lover of the Netherlands! (you stock whence I myself have descended;) You sturdy Austrian! you Lombard! Hun! Bohemian! farmer of Styria!

You neighbor of the Danube!
You working-man of the Rhine, the Elbe, or the Weser! you working-woman too!
You Sardinian! you Bavarian! Swabian!
Saxon! Wallachian! Bulgarian!

You Roman! Neapolitan! you Greek!

You lithe matador in the arena at Seville!

You mountaineer living lawlessly on the Taurus or Caucasus!

You Bokh horse-herd watching your mares and stallions feeding!

You beautiful-bodied Persian at full speed in the saddle shooting arrows to the mark!

You Chinaman and Chinawoman of China! you Tartar of Tartary!

You women of the earth subordinated at your tasks!

You Jew journeying in your old age through every risk to stand once on Syrian ground!

You other Jews waiting in all lands for your Messiah!

You thoughtful Armenian pondering by some stream of the Euphrates!
You peering amid the ruins of Nineveh! you ascending mount Ararat
You foot-worn pilgrim welcoming the far-away sparkle of the minarets of Mecca!
You sheiks along the stretch from Suez to Bab-el-mandeb ruling your families and tribes!
You olive-grower tending your fruit on fields of Nazareth, Damascus, or lake Tiberias!
You Thibet trader on the wide inland or bargaining in the shops of Lassa!
You Japanese man or woman! you liver in Madagascar, Ceylon, Sumatra, Borneo!
All you continentals of Asia, Africa, Europe, Australia, indifferent of place!
All you on the numberless islands of the archipelagoes of the sea!
And you of centuries hence when you listen to me!
And you each and everywhere whom I specify not, but include just the same!
Health to you! good will to you all, from me and America sent!

Each of us inevitable
Each of us limitless–each of us with his or her right upon the earth
Each of us allow’d the eternal purports of the earth
Each of us here as divinely as any is here.

12

You Hottentot with clicking palate! you woolly-hair’d hordes!

You own’d persons dropping sweat-drops or blood-drops!

You human forms with the fathomless ever-impressive countenances of brutes!

You poor koboo whom the meanest of the rest look down upon for all your glimmering language and spirituality!

You dwarf’d Kamtschatkan, Greenlander, Lapp!

You Austral negro, naked, red, sooty, with protrusive lip, groveling, seeking your food!

You Caffre, Berber, Soudanese!
You haggard, uncouth, untutor’d Bedowee!
You plague-swarms in Madras, Nankin, Kaubul, Cairo!
You benighted roamer of Amazonia! you Patagonian! you Feejeeman!
I do not prefer others so very much before you either
I do not say one word against you, away back there where you stand (You will come forward in due time to my side.)

13

My spirit has pass’ed in compassion and determination around the whole earth
I have look’ed for equals and lovers and found them ready for me in all lands
I think some divine rapport has equalized me with them.

326
You vapors, I think I have risen with you, moved away to distant continents, and fallen down there, for reasons I think I have blown with you you winds; You waters I have finger’d every shore with you. I have run through what any river or strait of the globe has run through. I have taken my stand on the bases of peninsulas and on the high embedded rocks, to cry thence: What cities the light or warmth penetrates I penetrate those cities myself. All islands to which birds wing their way I wing my way myself. Toward you all, in America’s name I raise high the perpendicular hand, I make the signal To remain after me in sight forever For all the haunts and homes of men.
Song of the Open Road

Afoot and light-hearted I take to the open road Healthy, free, the world before me
The long brown path before me leading wherever I choose.
Henceforth I ask not good-fortune, I myself am good-fortune Henceforth I whimper no more, postpone no more, need nothing Done with indoor complaints, libraries, querulous criticisms Strong and content I travel the open road.
The earth, that is sufficient
I do not want the constellations any nearer I know they are very well where they are
I know they suffice for those who belong to them.
(Still here I carry my old delicious burdens
I carry them, men and women, I carry them with me wherever I go
I swear it is impossible for me to get rid of them
I am fill’d with them, and I will fill them in return.

2

You road I enter upon and look around, I believe you are not all that is here
I believe that much unseen is also here.

Here the profound lesson of reception, nor preference nor denial
The black with his woolly head, the felon, the diseas’d, the illiterate person, are not denied;
The birth, the hasting after the physician, the beggar’s tramp, the drunkard’s stagger, the laughing party of mechanics
The escaped youth, the rich person’s carriage, the fop, the eloping couple
The early market-man, the hearse, the moving of furniture into the town, the return back from the town
They pass, I also pass, any thing passes, none can be interdicted None but are accepted, none but shall be dear to me.

3
You air that serves me with breath to speak!
You objects that call from diffusion my meanings and give them shape!
You light that wraps me and all things in delicate equable showers!
You paths worn in the irregular hollows by the roadsides!
I believe you are latent with unseen existences, you are so dear to me.
You flagg’d walks of the cities! you strong curbs at the edges!
You ferries! you planks and posts of wharves! you timber-lined side! you distant ships!
You rows of houses! you window-pierc’d facades! you roofs!
You porches and entrances! you copings and iron guards!
You windows whose transparent shells might expose so much!

You doors and ascending steps! you arches!

You gray stones of interminable pavements! you trodden crossings!

From all that has touch’d you I believe you have imparted to yourselves, and now would impart the same secretly to me

From the living and the dead you have peopled your impassive surfaces, and the spirits thereof would be evident and amicable with me.

The earth expanding right hand and left hand
The picture alive, every part in its best light
The music falling in where it is wanted, and stopping where it is not wanted
The cheerful voice of the public road, the gay fresh sentiment of the road.

O highway I travel, do you say to me Do not leave me?
Do you say Venture not—if you leave me you are lost?
Do you say I am already prepared, I am well-beaten and undenied, adhere to me?
O public road, I say back I am not afraid to leave you, yet I love you
You express me better than I can express myself
You shall be more to me than my poem.

I think heroic deeds were all conceiv’d in the open air, and all free poems also I think I could stop here myself and do miracles
I think whatever I shall meet on the road I shall like, and whoever beholds me shall like me
I think whoever I see must be happy.

5

From this hour I ordain myself loos’d of limits and imaginary lines Going where I list, my own master total and absolute Listening to others, considering well what they say
Pausing, searching, receiving, contemplating Gently, but with undeniable will, divesting myself of the holds that would hold me.

I inhale great draughts of space
The east and the west are mine, and the north and the south are mine.

I am larger, better than I thought
I did not know I held so much goodness.

All seems beautiful to me can repeat over to men and women You have done such good to me I would do the same to you
I will recruit for myself and you as I go
I will scatter myself among men and women as I go
I will toss a new gladness and roughness among them
Whoever denies me it shall not trouble me
Whoever accepts me he or she shall be blessed and shall bless me.
Now if a thousand perfect men were to appear it would not amaze me
Now if a thousand beautiful forms of women appear’d it would not astonish me.

Now I see the secret of the making of the best persons
It is to grow in the open air and to eat and sleep with the earth.

Here a great personal deed has room (Such a deed seizes upon the hearts of the whole race of men Its effusion of strength and will overwelms law and mocks all authority and all argument against it.)

Here is the test of wisdom
Wisdom is not finally tested in schools
Wisdom cannot be pass’d from one having it to another not having it Wisdom is of the soul, is not susceptible of proof, is its own proof Applies to all stages and objects and qualities and is content Is the certainty of the reality and immortality of things, and the excellence of things; Something there is in the float of the sight of things that provokes it out of the soul.

Now I re-examine philosophies and religions They may prove well in lecture-rooms, yet not prove at all under the spacious clouds and along the landscape and flowing currents.

Here is realization Here is a man tallied—he realizes here what he has in him The past, the future, majesty, love—if they are vacant of you, you are vacant of them.

Only the kernel of every object nourishes; Where is he who tears off the husks for you and me? Where is he that undoes stratagems and envelopes for you and me? Here is adhesiveness, it is not previously fashion’d, it is apropos; Do you know what it is as you pass to be loved by strangers? Do you know the talk of those turning eye-
Here is the efflux of the soul
The efflux of the soul comes from within through embower’d gates, ever provoking questions These yearnings why are they? these thoughts in the darkness why are they?
Why are there men and women that while they are nigh me the sunlight expands my blood?
Why when they leave me do my pennants of joy sink flat and lank?
Why are there trees I never walk under but large and melodious thoughts descend upon me?
(I think they hang there winter and summer on those trees and always drop fruit as I pass;)
What is it I interchange so suddenly with strangers?
What with some driver as I ride on the seat by his side?
What with some fisherman drawing his seine by the shore as I walk by and pause? What gives me to be free to a woman’s and man’s good-will? what gives them to be free to mine?

The efflux of the soul is happiness, here is happiness I think it pervades the open air, waiting at all times Now it flows unto us, we are rightly charged.

Here rises the fluid and attaching character The fluid and attaching character is the freshness and sweetness of man and woman (The herbs of the morning sprout no fresher and sweeter every day out of the roots of themselves, than it sprouts fresh and sweet continually out of itself.)

Toward the fluid and attaching character exudes the sweat of the love of young and old From it falls distill’d the charm that mocks beauty and attainments Toward it heaves the shuddering longing ache of contact.

9

Allons! whoever you are come travel with me!

Traveling with me you find what never tires.

The earth never tires
The earth is rude, silent, incomprehensible at first, Nature is rude and incomprehensible at first

Be not discouraged, keep on, there are divine things well envelop’d

I swear to you there are divine things more beautiful than words can tell.

Allons! we must not stop here
However sweet these laid-up stores, however convenient this dwelling we cannot remain here

However shelter’d this port and however calm these waters we must not anchor here

However welcome the hospitality that surrounds us we are permitted to receive it but a little while.

10

Allons! the inducements shall be greater
We will sail pathless and wild seas
We will go where winds blow, waves dash, and the Yankee clipper speeds by under full sail.

Allons! with power, liberty, the earth, the elements
Health, defiance, gayety, self-esteem, curious-ity;
Allons! from all formules!

From your formules, O bat-eyed and materialistic priests.

The stale cadaver blocks up the passage—the burial waits no longer.

Allons! yet take warning!

He traveling with me needs the best blood, thews, endurance
None may come to the trial till he or she bring courage and health
Come not here if you have already spent the best of yourself
Only those may come who come in sweet and determin’d bodies
No diseas’d person, no rum-drinker or vene-real taint is permitted here.

(I and mine do not convince by arguments, similes, rhymes We convince by our presence.)

11

Listen! I will be honest with you
I do not offer the old smooth prizes, but offer rough new prizes
These are the days that must happen to you:
You shall not heap up what is call’d riches
You shall scatter with lavish hand all that you earn or achieve
You but arrive at the city to which you were destin’d, you hardly settle yourself to satisfaction before you are call’d by an irresistible call to depart You shall be treated to the ironical smiles and mockings of those who remain behind you
What beckonings of love you receive you shall only answer with passionate kisses of parting
You shall not allow the hold of those who spread their reach’d hands toward you.

12

Allons! after the great Companions, and to belong to them!

They too are on the road—they are the swift and majestic men—they are the greatest women
Enjoyers of calms of seas and storms of seas
Sailors of many a ship, walkers of many a mile of land Habitues of many distant countries, habitues of far-distant dwellings Trusters of men and women, observers of cities, solitary toilers Pausers and contemplators of tufts, blossoms, shells of the shore Dancers at wedding-dances, kissers of brides, tender helpers of children, bearers of children
Soldiers of revolts, standers by gaping graves, lowerers-down of coffins Journeyers over consecutive seasons, over the years, the curious years each emerging from that which preceded it Journeyers as with companions, namely their own diverse phases Forth-steppers from the latent unrealized baby-days Journeyers gayly with their own youth, journeyers with their bearded and well-grain’d manhood Journeyers with their womanhood, ample, unsurpass’d, content Journeyers with their own sublime old age of manhood or womanhood Old age, calm, expanded, broad with the haughty breadth of the universe Old age, flowing free with the delicious nearby freedom of death.

Allons! to that which is endless as it was beginningless
To undergo much, tramps of days, rests of nights
To merge all in the travel they tend to, and the days and nights they tend to Again to merge them in the start of superior journeys
To see nothing anywhere but what you may reach it and pass it
To conceive no time, however distant, but what you may reach it and pass it
To look up or down no road but it stretches and waits for you, however long but it stretches and waits for you
To see no being, not God’s or any, but you also go thither
To see no possession but you may possess it, enjoying all without labor or purchase, abstracting the feast yet not abstracting one particle of it To take the best of the farmer’s farm and the rich man’s elegant villa, and the chaste blessings of the well-married couple, and the fruits of orchards and flowers of gardens
To take to your use out of the compact cities as you pass through
To carry buildings and streets with you afterward wherever you go To gather the minds of men out of their brains as you encounter them, to gather the love out of their hearts
To take your lovers on the road with you, for all that you leave them behind you
To know the universe itself as a road, as many roads, as roads for traveling souls.

All parts away for the progress of souls
All religion, all solid things, arts, governments—all that was or is apparent upon this globe or any globe, falls into niches and corners before the procession of souls along the grand roads of the universe.

Of the progress of the souls of men and women along the grand roads of the universe, all other progress is the needed emblem and sustenance.
Forever alive, forever forward Stately, solemn, sad, withdrawn, baffled, mad, turbulent, feeble, dissatisfied Desperate, proud, fond, sick, accepted by men, rejected by men They go! they go! I know that they go, but I know not where they go But I know that they go toward the best—toward something great.

Whoever you are, come forth! or man or woman come forth!
You must not stay sleeping and dallying there in the house, though you built it, or though it has been built for you.

Out of the dark confinement! out from behind the screen!
It is useless to protest, I know all and expose it.

Behold through you as bad as the rest
Through the laughter, dancing, dining, sup-ping, of people Inside of dresses and ornaments, inside of those wash’d and trimm’d faces
Behold a secret silent loathing and despair.
No husband, no wife, no friend, trusted to hear the confession Another self, a duplicate of every one, skulking and hiding it goes Formless and wordless through the streets of the cities, polite and bland in the parlors
In the cars of railroads, in steamboats, in the public assembly
Home to the houses of men and women, at the table, in the bedroom, everywhere Smartly attired, countenance smiling, form upright, death under the breast-bones, hell under the skull-bones
Under the broadcloth and gloves, under the ribbons and artificial flowers Keeping fair with the customs, speaking not a syllable of itself
Speaking of any thing else but never of itself.

14

Allons! through struggles and wars!
The goal that was named cannot be countermanded.
Have the past struggles succeeded?
What has succeeded? yourself? your nation?
Nature?
Now understand me well—it is provided in the essence of things that from any fruition of success, no matter what, shall come forth something to make a greater struggle necessary.

My call is the call of battle, I nourish active rebellion
He going with me must go well arm’d
He going with me goes often with spare diet, poverty, angry enemies, desertions.

15

Allons! the road is before us!
It is safe—I have tried it—my own feet have tried it well—be not detain’d!
Let the paper remain on the desk unwritten,
and the book on the shelf unopen’d!
Let the tools remain in the workshop! let the money remain unearn’d!
Let the school stand! mind not the cry of the teacher!

Let the preacher preach in his pulpit! let the lawyer plead in the court, and the judge expound the law.

Camerado, I give you my hand!

I give you my love more precious than money
I give you myself before preaching or law;
Will you give me yourself? will you come travel with me?
Shall we stick by each other as long as we live?
BOOK VIII
Crossing Brooklyn Ferry

1
Flood-tide below me! I see you face to face!
Clouds of the west–sun there half an hour high–I see you also face to face.
Crowds of men and women attired in the usual costumes, how curious you are to me!
On the ferry-boats the hundreds and hundreds that cross, returning home, are more curious to me than you suppose.
And you that shall cross from shore to shore years hence are more to me, and more in my meditations, than you might suppose.

2
The impalpable sustenance of me from all things at all hours of the day
The simple, compact, well-join’d scheme, myself disintegrated, every one disintegrated yet part of the scheme
The similitudes of the past and those of the future
The glories strung like beads on my smallest sights and hearings, on the walk in the street and the passage over the river
The current rushing so swiftly and swimming with me far away
The others that are to follow me, the ties between me and them
The certainty of others, the life, love, sight, hearing of others.

Others will enter the gates of the ferry and cross from shore to shore
Others will watch the run of the flood-tide
Others will see the shipping of Manhattan north and west, and the heights of Brooklyn to the south and east Others will see the islands large and small; Fifty years hence, others will see them as they cross, the sun half an hour high
A hundred years hence, or ever so many hundred years hence, others will see them Will enjoy the sunset, the pouring-in of the flood-tide, the falling-back to the sea of the ebb-tide.

It avails not, time nor place—distance avails not
I am with you, you men and women of a generation, or ever so many generations hence
Just as you feel when you look on the river and sky, so I felt
Just as any of you is one of a living crowd, I was one of a crowd
Just as you are refresh’d by the gladness of the river and the bright flow, I was refresh’d
Just as you stand and lean on the rail, yet hurry with the swift current, I stood yet was hurried
Just as you look on the numberless masts of ships and the thick-stemm’d pipes of steamboats, I look’d.

I too many and many a time cross’d the river of old Watched the Twelfth-month sea-gulls, saw them high in the air floating with motionless wings, oscillating their bodies
Saw how the glistening yellow lit up parts of their bodies and left the rest in strong shadow
Saw the slow-wheeling circles and the gradual edging toward the south
Saw the reflection of the summer sky in the water
Had my eyes dazzled by the shimmering track of beams Look’d at the fine centrifugal spokes of light round the shape of my head in the sunlit water
Look’d on the haze on the hills southward and south-westward Look’d on the vapor as it flew in fleeces tinged with violet Look’d toward the lower bay to notice the vessels arriving Saw their approach, saw aboard those that were near me Saw the white sails of schooners and sloops, saw the ships at anchor
The sailors at work in the rigging or out astride the spars
The round masts, the swinging motion of the hulls, the slender serpentine pennants
The large and small steamers in motion, the pilots in their pilothouses
The white wake left by the passage, the quick tremulous whirl of the wheels
The flags of all nations, the falling of them at sunset
The scallop-edged waves in the twilight, the ladled cups, the frolic-some crests and glistening
The stretch afar growing dimmer and dimmer, the gray walls of the granite storehouses by the docks
On the river the shadowy group, the big steam-tug closely flank’d on each side by the barges, the hay-boat, the belated lighter
On the neighboring shore the fires from the foundry chimneys burning high and glaringly into the night Casting their flicker of black contrasted with wild red and yellow light over the tops of houses, and down into the clefts of streets.

These and all else were to me the same as they are to you
I loved well those cities, loved well the stately and rapid river
The men and women I saw were all near to me
Others the same–others who look back on me because I look’d forward to them (The time will come, though I stop here today and to-night.)

5
What is it then between us?
What is the count of the scores or hundreds of years between us?
Whatever it is, it avails not–distance avails not, and place avails not I too lived, Brooklyn of ample hills was mine
I too walk’d the streets of Manhattan island, and bathed in the waters around it
I too felt the curious abrupt questionings stir within me
In the day among crowds of people sometimes they came upon me
In my walks home late at night or as I lay in my bed they came upon me
I too had been struck from the float forever held in solution
I too had receiv’d identity by my body
That I was I knew was of my body, and what I should be I knew I should be of my body.

6

It is not upon you alone the dark patches fall
The dark threw its patches down upon me also
The best I had done seem’d to me blank and suspicious
My great thoughts as I supposed them, were they not in reality meagre?
Nor is it you alone who know what it is to be evil
I am he who knew what it was to be evil
I too knitted the old knot of contrariety Blabb’d, blush’d, resented, lied, stole, grudg’d
Had guile, anger, lust, hot wishes I dared not speak
Was wayward, vain, greedy, shallow, sly, cowardly, malignant
The wolf, the snake, the hog, not wanting in me.

The cheating look, the frivolous word, the adulterous wish, not wanting Refusals, hates, postponements, meanness, laziness, none of these wanting
Was one with the rest, the days and haps of the rest
Was call’d by my nighest name by clear loud voices of young men as they saw me approaching or passing Felt their arms on my neck as I stood, or the negligent leaning of their flesh against me as I sat
Saw many I loved in the street or ferry-boat or public assembly, yet never told them a word Lived the same life with the rest, the same old laughing, gnawing, sleeping
Play’d the part that still looks back on the actor or actress
The same old role, the role that is what we make it, as great as we like Or as small as we like, or both great and small.

7

Closer yet I approach you
What thought you have of me now, I had as much of you—I laid in my stores in advance
I consider’d long and seriously of you before you were born.

Who was to know what should come home to me?
Who knows but I am enjoying this?
Who knows, for all the distance, but I am as good as looking at you now, for all you cannot see me?

8

Ah, what can ever be more stately and admirable to me than mast-hemm’d Manhattan?
River and sunset and scallop-edg’d waves of flood-tide?
The sea-gulls oscillating their bodies, the hay-boat in the twilight, and the belated lighter?
What gods can exceed these that clasp me by the hand, and with voices I love call me promptly and loudly by my highest name as approach?
What is more subtle than this which ties me to the woman or man that looks in my face?
Which fuses me into you now, and pours my meaning into you?
We understand then do we not?
What I promis’d without mentioning it, have you not accepted?
What the study could not teach—what the preaching could not accomplish is accomplish’d, is it not?

Flow on, river! flow with the flood-tide, and ebb with the ebb-tide!

Frolic on, crested and scallop-edg’d waves!

Gorgeous clouds of the sunset! drench with your splendor me, or the men and women generations after me!

Cross from shore to shore, countless crowds of passengers!

Stand up, tall masts of Mannahatta! stand up, beautiful hills of Brooklyn!

Throb, baffled and curious brain! throw out questions and answers!

Suspend here and everywhere, eternal float of solution!

Gaze, loving and thirsting eyes, in the house or street or public assembly!

Sound out, voices of young men! loudly and musically call me by my nighest name!

Live, old life! play the part that looks back on the actor or actress!

Play the old role, the role that is great or small according as one makes it!
Consider, you who peruse me, whether I may not in unknown ways be looking upon you;
Be firm, rail over the river, to support those who lean idly, yet haste with the hasting current;
Fly on, sea-birds! fly sideways, or wheel in large circles high in the air;
Receive the summer sky, you water, and faithfully hold it till all downcast eyes have time to take it from you!

Diverge, fine spokes of light, from the shape of my head, or any one’s head, in the sun-lit water!

Come on, ships from the lower bay! pass up or down, white-sail’d schooners, sloops, lighters!

Flaunt away, flags of all nations! be duly lower’d at sunset!

Burn high your fires, foundry chimneys! cast black shadows at nightfall! cast red and yellow light over the tops of the houses!
Appearances, now or henceforth, indicate what you are You necessary film, continue to envelop the soul
About my body for me, and your body for you, be hung our divinest aromas Thrive, cities–bring your freight, bring your shows, ample and sufficient rivers Expand, being than which none else is perhaps more spiritual Keep your places, objects than which none else is more lasting.

You have waited, you always wait, you dumb, beautiful ministers
We receive you with free sense at last, and are insatiate henceforward
Not you any more shall be able to foil us, or withhold yourselves from us
We use you, and do not cast you aside–we plant you permanently within us We fathom you not–we love you–there is perfection in you also You furnish your parts toward eternity Great or small, you furnish your parts toward the soul.
BOOK IX
SONG OF THE ANSWERER

1

Now list to my morning’s romanza, I tell the signs of the Answerer
To the cities and farms I sing as they spread in the sunshine before me.

A young man comes to me bearing a message from his brother
How shall the young man know the whether and when of his brother?
Tell him to send me the signs. And I stand before the young man face to face, and take his right hand in my left hand and his left hand in my right hand
And I answer for his brother and for men, and I answer for him that answers for all, and send these signs.

Him all wait for, him all yield up to, his word is decisive and final Him they accept, in him lave, in him perceive themselves as amid light Him they immerse and he immerses them.
Beautiful women, the haughtiest nations, laws, the landscape, people, animals
The profound earth and its attributes and the unquiet ocean, (so tell I my morning’s romanza,)
All enjoyments and properties and money, and whatever money will buy
The best farms, others toiling and planting and he unavoidably reaps
The noblest and costliest cities, others grading and building and he domiciles there Nothing for any one but what is for him, near and far are for him, the ships in the offing
The perpetual shows and marches on land are for him if they are for anybody.

He puts things in their attitudes
He puts to-day out of himself with plasticity and love
He places his own times, reminiscences, parents, brothers and sisters, associations, employment, politics, so that the rest never shame them afterward, nor assume to command them.
He is the Answerer
What can be answer’d he answers, and what cannot be answer’d he shows how it cannot be answer’d.

A man is a summons and challenge (It is vain to skulk—do you hear that mocking and laughter? do you hear the ironical echoes?)
Books, friendships, philosophers, priests, action, pleasure, pride, beat up and down seeking to give satisfaction He indicates the satisfaction, and indicates them that beat up and down also.

Whichever the sex, whatever the season or place, he may go freshly and gently and safely by day or by night He has the pass-key of hearts, to him the response of the prying of hands on the knobs.

His welcome is universal, the flow of beauty is not more welcome or universal than he is

The person he favors by day or sleeps with at night is blessed.

Every existence has its idiom, every thing has an idiom and tongue
He resolves all tongues into his own and bestows it upon men, and any man translates, and any man translates himself also One part does not counteract another part, he is the joiner, he sees how they join.

He says indifferently and alike How are you friend? to the President at his levee
And he says Good-day my brother, to Cudge that hoes in the sugar-field
And both understand him and know that his speech is right.

He walks with perfect ease in the capitol
He walks among the Congress, and one Representative says to another Here is our equal appearing and new.

Then the mechanics take him for a mechanic
And the soldiers suppose him to be a soldier, and the sailors that he has follow’d the sea
And the authors take him for an author, and the artists for an artist
And the laborers perceive he could labor with them and love them
No matter what the work is, that he is the one to follow it or has follow’d it
No matter what the nation, that he might find his brothers and sisters there.

The English believe he comes of their English stock
A Jew to the Jew he seems, a Russ to the Russ, usual and near removed from none.

Whoever he looks at in the traveler’s coffee-house claims him
The Italian or Frenchman is sure, the German is sure, the Spaniard is sure, and the island Cuban is sure
The engineer, the deck-hand on the great lakes, or on the Mississippi or St. Lawrence or Sacramento, or Hudson or Paumanok sound, claims him.

The gentleman of perfect blood acknowledges his perfect blood
The insulter, the prostitute, the angry person, the beggar, see themselves in the ways of him, he strangely transmutes them. They are not vile any more, they hardly know themselves they are so grown.

2

The indications and tally of time

Perfect sanity shows the master among philosophs. Time, always without break, indicates itself in parts. What always indicates the poet is the crowd of the pleasant company of singers, and their words.

The words of the singers are the hours or minutes of the light or dark but the words of the maker of poems are the general light and dark. The maker of poems settles justice, reality, immortality. His insight and power encircle things and the human race.
He is the glory and extract thus far of things and of the human race.

The singers do not beget, only the Poet begets. The singers are welcom’d, understood, appear often enough, but rare. Has the day been, likewise the spot, of the birth of the maker of poems, the Answerer? (Not every century nor even every five centuries has contain’d such a day, for all its names.)

The singers of successive hours of centuries may have ostensible names, but the name of each of them is one of the singers. The name of each is, eye-singer, ear-singer, head-singer sweet-singer, night-singer, parlor-singer, love-singer weird-singer, or something else.

All this time and at all times wait the words of true poems. The words of true poems do not merely please. The true poets are not followers of beauty but the august masters of beauty;
The greatness of sons is the exuding of the greatness of mothers and fathers
The words of true poems are the tuft and final applause of science.

Divine instinct, breadth of vision, the law of reason, health rudeness of body, withdrawnness
Gayety, sun-tan, air-sweetness, such are some of the words of poems.

The sailor and traveler underlie the maker of poems, the Answerer
The builder, geometer, chemist, anatomist, phrenologist, artist, all these underlie the maker of poems, the Answerer.

The words of the true poems give you more than poems
They give you to form for yourself poems, religions, politics, war peace, behavior, histories, essays, daily life, and every thing else
They balance ranks, colors, races, creeds, and the sexes
They do not seek beauty, they are sought
Forever touching them or close upon them follows beauty, longing fain, love-sick.
They prepare for death, yet are they not the finish, but rather the outset
They bring none to his or her terminus or to be content and full Whom they take they take into space to behold the birth of stars, to learn one of the meanings
To launch off with absolute faith, to sweep through the ceaseless rings and never be quiet again.
Our Old Feuillage

Always our old feuillage!

Always Florida’s green peninsula–always the priceless delta of Louisiana–always the cotton-fields of Alabama and Texas Always California’s golden hills and hollows, and the silver mountains of New Mexico–always soft-breath’d Cuba Always the vast slope drain’d by the Southern sea, inseparable with the slopes drain’d by the Eastern and Western seas
The area the eighty-third year of these States, the three and a half millions of square miles
The eighteen thousand miles of sea-coast and bay-coast on the main the thirty thousand miles of river navigation
The seven millions of distinct families and the same number of dwellings–always these, and more, branching forth into numberless branches Always the free range and diversity–always the continent of Democracy;
Always the prairies, pastures, forests, vast cities, travelers Kanada, the snows;
Always these compact lands tied at the hips with the belt stringing the huge oval lakes;
Always the West with strong native persons, the increasing density there the habitans, friendly, threatening, ironical, scorning invaders;
All sights, South, North, East—all deeds, promiscuously done at all times
All characters, movements, growths, a few noticed, myriads unnoticed Through Mannahatta’s streets I walking, these things gathering On interior rivers by night in the glare of pine knots, steamboats wooding up Sunlight by day on the valley of the Susquehanna, and on the valleys of the Potomac and Rappahannock, and the valleys of the Roanoke and Delaware In their northerly wilds beasts of prey haunting the Adirondacks the hills, or lapping the Saginaw waters to drink In a lonesome inlet a sheldrake lost from the flock, sitting on the water rocking silently In farmers’ barns oxen in the stable, their harvest labor done, they rest standing, they are too tired Afar on arctic ice the she-walrus lying drowsily while her cubs play around The hawk sailing where men have not yet sail’d, the farthest polar sea, ripply, crystalline, open, beyond the floes White drift spooning ahead where the ship in the tempest dashes
On solid land what is done in cities as the bells strike midnight together In primitive woods the sounds there also sounding, the howl of the wolf, the scream of the panther, and the hoarse bellow of the elk
In winter beneath the hard blue ice of Moosehead lake, in summer visible through the clear waters, the great trout swimming In lower latitudes in warmer air in the Carolinas the large black buzzard floating slowly high beyond the tree tops
Below, the red cedar festoon’d with tylandria, the pines and cypresses growing out of the white sand that spreads far and flat
Rude boats descending the big Pedee, climbing plants, parasites with color’d flowers and berries enveloping huge trees
The waving drapery on the live-oak trailing long and low noiselessly waved by the wind
The camp of Georgia wagoners just after dark, the supper-fires and the cooking and eating by whites and negroes
Thirty or forty great wagons, the mules, cattle, horses, feeding from troughs
The shadows, gleams, up under the leaves of the old sycamore-trees the flames with the black smoke from the pitch-pine curling and rising; Southern fishermen fishing, the sounds and inlets of North Carolina’s coast, the shad-fishery and the herring-fishery, the large sweep-seines, the windlasses on shore work’d by horses, the clearing, curing, and packing-houses;
Deep in the forest in piney woods turpentine dropping from the incisions in the trees, there are the turpentine works
There are the negroes at work in good health, the ground in all directions is cover’d with pine straw;
In Tennessee and Kentucky slaves busy in the coalings, at the forge by the furnace-blaze, or at the corn-shucking
In Virginia, the planter’s son returning after a long absence joyfully welcom’d and kiss’d by the aged mulatto nurse On rivers boatmen safely moor’d at nightfall in their boats under shelter of high banks Some of the younger men dance to the sound of the banjo or fiddle others sit on the gun-wale smoking and talking;
Late in the afternoon the mocking-bird, the American mimic, singing in the Great Dismal Swamp
There are the greenish waters, the resinous odor, the plenteous moss, the cypresstree, and the juniper-tree; Northward, young men of Mannahatta, the target company from an excursion returning home at evening, the musket-muzzles all bear bunches of flowers presented by women; Children at play, or on his father’s lap a young boy fallen asleep (how his lips move! how he smiles in his sleep!)
The scout riding on horseback over the plains west of the Mississippi, he ascends a knoll and sweeps his eyes around;
California life, the miner, bearded, dress’d in his rude costume the stanch California friendship, the sweet air, the graves one in passing meets solitary just aside the horse-path;
Down in Texas the cotton-field, the negro-cabins, drivers driving mules or oxen before rude carts, cotton bales piled on banks and wharves; Encircling all, vast-darting up and wide, the American Soul, with equal hemispheres, one Love, one Dilation or Pride; In arriere the peace-talk with the Iroquois the aborigines, the calumet, the pipe of goodwill, arbitration, and indorsement The sachem blowing the smoke first toward the sun and then toward the earth The drama of the scalp-dance enacted with painted faces and guttural exclamations The setting out of the war-party, the long and stealthy march The single file, the swinging hatchets, the surprise and slaughter of enemies; All the acts, scenes, ways, persons, attitudes of these States reminiscences, institutions All these States compact, every square mile of these States without excepting a particle; Me pleas’d, rambling in lanes and country fields, Paumanok’s fields Observing the spiral flight of two little yellow butterflies shuffling between each other, ascending high in the air The darting swallow, the destroyer of insects, the fall traveler southward but returning northward early in the spring
The country boy at the close of the day driving the herd of cows and shouting to them as they loiter to browse by the roadside
The city wharf, Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Charleston, New Orleans, San Francisco
The departing ships when the sailors heave at the capstan;
Evening–me in my room–the setting sun
The setting summer sun shining in my open window, showing the swarm of flies, suspended, balancing in the air in the centre of the room, darting athwart, up and down, casting swift shadows in specks on the opposite wall where the shine is;
The athletic American matron speaking in public to crowds of listeners Males, females, immigrants, combinations, the copiousness, the individuality of the States, each for itself–the moneymakers
Factories, machinery, the mechanical forces, the windlass, lever pulley, all certainties
The certainty of space, increase, freedom, futurity
In space the sporades, the scatter’d islands, the stars—on the firm earth, the lands, my lands
O lands! all so dear to me—what you are, (whatever it is,) I putting it at random in these songs, become a part of that, whatever it is Southward there, I screaming, with wings slow flapping, with the myriads of gulls wintering along the coasts of Florida Otherways there atwixt the banks of the Arkansaw, the Rio Grande the Nueces, the Brazos, the Tombigbee, the Red River, the Saskatchawan or the Osage, I with the spring waters laughing and skipping and running Northward, on the sands, on some shallow bay of Paumanok, I with parties of snowy herons wading in the wet to seek worms and aquatic plants Retreating, triumphantly twittering, the king-bird, from piercing the crow with its bill, for amusement–and I triumphantly twittering
The migrating flock of wild geese alighting in autumn to refresh themselves, the body of the flock feed, the sentinels outside move around with erect heads watching, and are from time to time reliev’d by other sentinels–and I feeding and taking turns with the rest In Kanadian forests the moose, large as an ox, corner’d by hunters rising desperately on his hind-feet, and plunging with his fore-feet, the hoofs as sharp as knives–and I, plunging at the hunters, corner’d and desperate
In the Mannahatta, streets, piers, shipping, store-houses, and the countless workmen working in the shops
And I too of the Mannahatta, singing thereof–and no less in myself than the whole of the Mannahatta in itself Singing the song of These, my ever-united lands–my body no more inevitably united, part to part, and made out of a thousand diverse contributions one identity, any more than my lands are inevitably united and made one identity; Nativities, climates, the grass of the great pastoral Plains Cities, labors, death, animals, products, war, good and evil—these me These affording, in all their particulars, the old feuillage to me and to America, how can I do less than pass the clew of the union of them, to afford the like to you? Whoever you are! how can I but offer you divine leaves, that you also be eligible as I am? How can I but as here chanting, invite you for yourself to collect bouquets of the incomparable feuillage of these States?
A Song of Joys

O to make the most jubilant song!
Full of music—full of manhood, womanhood, infancy!
Full of common employments—full of grain and trees.
O for the voices of animals—O for the swiftness and balance of fishes!
O for the dropping of raindrops in a song!
O for the sunshine and motion of waves in a song!
O the joy of my spirit—it is uncaged—it darts like lightning!
It is not enough to have this globe or a certain time
I will have thousands of globes and all time.
O the engineer’s joys! to go with a locomotive!
To hear the hiss of steam, the merry shriek, the steam-whistle, the laughing locomotive!
To push with resistless way and speed off in the distance.
O the gleesome saunter over fields and hillsides!
The leaves and flowers of the commonest weeds, the moist fresh stillness of the woods
The exquisite smell of the earth at daybreak, and all through the forenoon.
O the horseman’s and horsewoman’s joys!
The saddle, the gallop, the pressure upon the seat, the cool gurgling by the ears and hair.
O the fireman’s joys!
I hear the alarm at dead of night
I hear bells, shouts! I pass the crowd, I run!
The sight of the flames maddens me with pleasure.
O the joy of the strong-brawn’d fighter, towering in the arena in perfect condition, conscious of power, thirsting to meet his opponent.

O the joy of that vast elemental sympathy which only the human soul is capable of generating and emitting in steady and limitless floods.

O the mother’s joys!

The watching, the endurance, the precious love, the anguish, the patiently yielded life.

O the of increase, growth, recuperation
The joy of soothing and pacifying, the joy of concord and harmony.

O to go back to the place where I was born
To hear the birds sing once more
To ramble about the house and barn and over the fields once more
And through the orchard and along the old lanes once more.

O to have been brought up on bays, lagoons, creeks, or along the coast
To continue and be employ’d there all my life
The briny and damp smell, the shore, the salt weeds exposed at low water
The work of fishermen, the work of the eel-fisher and clam-fisher;
I come with my clam-rake and spade, I come with my eel-spear
Is the tide out? I Join the group of clam-diggers on the flats
I laugh and work with them, I joke at my work like a mettlesome young man;
In winter I take my eel-basket and eel-spear and travel out on foot on the ice—I have a small axe to cut holes in the ice
Behold me well-clothed going gayly or returning in the afternoon my brood of tough boys accompanying me
My brood of grown and part-grown boys, who love to be with no one else so well as they love to be with me
By day to work with me, and by night to sleep
with me.

Another time in warm weather out in a boat, to lift the lobster-pots where they are sunk with heavy stones, (I know the buoys,) O the sweetness of the Fifth-month morning upon the water as I row just before sunrise toward the buoys
I pull the wicker pots up slantingly, the dark green lobsters are desperate with their claws as I take them out, I insert wooden pegs in the 'oints of their pincers I go to all the places one after another, and then row back to the shore There in a huge kettle of boiling water the lobsters shall be boil’ed till their color becomes scarlet.

Another time mackerel-taking Voracious, mad for the hook, near the surface, they seem to fill the water for miles;
Another time fishing for rock-fish in Chesapeake bay, I one of the brown-faced crew; Another time trailing for blue-fish off Paumanok, I stand with braced body
My left foot is on the gunwale, my right arm throws far out the coils of slender rope In sight around me the quick veering and darting of fifty skiffs, my companions.
O boating on the rivers
The voyage down the St. Lawrence, the superb scenery, the steamers
The ships sailing, the Thousand Islands, the occasional timber-raft and the raftsmen with long-reaching sweep-oars
The little huts on the rafts, and the stream of smoke when they cook supper at evening.

(O something pernicious and dread!
Something far away from a puny and pious life!
Something unproved! something in a trance!
Something escaped from the anchorage and driving free.)

O to work in mines, or forging iron Foundry casting, the foundry itself, the rude high roof, the ample and shadow’d space
The furnace, the hot liquid pour’d out and running.

O to resume the joys of the soldier!
To feel the presence of a brave commanding officer–to feel his sympathy!
To behold his calmness—to be warm’d in the rays of his smile!

To go to battle—to hear the bugles play and the drums beat!

To hear the crash of artillery—to see the glittering of the bayonets and musket-barrels in the sun!

To see men fall and die and not complain!

To taste the savage taste of blood—to be so devilish!

To gloat so over the wounds and deaths of the enemy.

O the whaleman’s joys! O I cruise my old cruise again!

I feel the ship’s motion under me, I feel the Atlantic breezes fanning me

I hear the cry again sent down from the masthead, There—she blows!

Again I spring up the rigging to look with the rest—we descend wild with excitement

I leap in the lower’d boat, we row toward our prey where he lies

394
We approach stealthy and silent, I see the mountainous mass lethargic, basking
I see the harpooneer standing up, I see the weapon dart from his vigorous arm;
O swift again far out in the ocean the wounded whale, settling running to windward, tows me Again I see him rise to breathe, we row close again
I see a lance driven through his side, press’d deep, turn’d in the wound Again we back off, I see him settle again, the life is leaving him fast
As he rises he spouts blood, I see him swim in circles narrower and narrower, swiftly cutting the water–I see him die
He gives one convulsive leap in the centre of the circle, and then falls flat and still in the bloody foam.

O the old manhood of me, my noblest joy of all!

My children and grand-children, my white hair and beard
My largeness, calmness, majesty, out of the long stretch of my life.

O ripen’d joy of womanhood! O happiness at last!

I am more than eighty years of age, I am the most venerable mother
How clear is my mind–how all people draw nigh to me!

What attractions are these beyond any before? what bloom more than the bloom of youth?
What beauty is this that descends upon me and rises out of me?
O the orator’s joys!

To inflate the chest, to roll the thunder of the voice out from the ribs and throat
To make the people rage, weep, hate, desire, with yourself
To lead America–to quell America with a great tongue.

O the joy of my soul leaning pois’d on itself, receiving identity through materials and loving them, observing characters and absorbing them My soul vibrated back to me from them, from sight, hearing, touch reason, articulation, comparison, memory, and the like
The real life of my senses and flesh transcending my senses and flesh
My body done with materials, my sight done with my material eyes Proved to me this day beyond cavil that it is not my material eyes which finally see Nor my material body which finally loves, walks, laughs, shouts, embraces, procreates.

O the farmer’s joys!
Ohioan’s, Illinoisian’s, Wisconsinese’, Kansian’s, Iowan’s Kansian’s, Missourian’s, Oregonese’ joys!
To rise at peep of day and pass forth nimbly to work
To plough land in the fall for winter-sown crops
BOOK XI

To plough land in the spring for maize
To train orchards, to graft the trees, to gather apples in the fall.

O to bathe in the swimming-bath, or in a good place along shore
To splash the water! to walk ankle-deep, or race naked along the shore.

O to realize space!

The plenteousness of all, that there are no bounds
To emerge and be of the sky, of the sun and moon and flying clouds, as one with them.

O the joy a manly self-hood!
To be servile to none, to defer to none, not to any tyrant known or unknown
To walk with erect carriage, a step springy and elastic
To look with calm gaze or with a flashing eye
To speak with a full and sonorous voice out of a broad chest
To confront with your personality all the other personalities of the earth.
Knowist thou the excellent joys of youth?
Joys of the dear companions and of the merry word and laughing face?
Joy of the glad light-beaming day, joy of the wide-breath’d games?
Joy of sweet music, joy of the lighted ball-room and the dancers?
Joy of the plenteous dinner, strong carouse and drinking?
Yet O my soul supreme!

Knowist thou the joys of pensive thought?
Joys of the free and lonesome heart, the tender, gloomy heart?
Joys of the solitary walk, the spirit bow’d yet proud, the suffering and the struggle?
The agonistic throes, the ecstasies, joys of the solemn musings day or night?
Joys of the thought of Death, the great spheres Time and Space?
Prophetic joys of better, loftier love’s ideals, the divine wife the sweet, eternal, perfect comrade?
Joys all thine own undying one, joys worthy thee O soul.

O while I live to be the ruler of life, not a slave
To meet life as a powerful conqueror
No fumes, no ennui, no more complaints or scornful criticisms To these proud laws of the air, the water and the ground, proving my interior soul impregnable
And nothing exterior shall ever take command of me.

For not life’s joys alone I sing, repeating—the joy of death!

The beautiful touch of Death, soothing and benumbing a few moments for reasons Myself discharging my excrementitious body to be burn’d, or render’d to powder, or buried
My real body doubtless left to me for other spheres
My voided body nothing more to me, returning to the purifications further offices, eternal uses of the earth.
O to attract by more than attraction!

How it is I know not—yet behold! the something which obeys none of the rest
It is offensive, never defensive—yet how magnetic it draws.

O to struggle against great odds, to meet enemies undaunted!

To be entirely alone with them, to find how much one can stand!

To look strife, torture, prison, popular odium, face to face!

To mount the scaffold, to advance to the muzzles of guns with perfect nonchalance!

To be indeed a God!

O to sail to sea in a ship!

To leave this steady unendurable land
To leave the tiresome sameness of the streets, the sidewalks and the houses
To leave you O you solid motionless land, and entering a ship
To sail and sail and sail!
O to have life henceforth a poem of new joys!
To dance, clap hands, exult, shout, skip, leap, roll on, float on!
To be a sailor of the world bound for all ports
A ship itself, (see indeed these sails I spread to the sun and air,)
A swift and swelling ship full of rich words, full of joys.
BOOK XII
SONG OF THE BROAD-AXE

1

Weapon shapely, naked, wan
Head from the mother’s bowels drawn Wooded flesh and metal bone, limb only one and lip only one Gray-blue leaf by red-heat grown, helve produced from a little seed sown Resting the grass amid and upon
To be lean’d and to lean on.

Strong shapes and attributes of strong shapes, masculine trades sights and sounds.

Long varied train of an emblem, dabs of music
Fingers of the organist skipping staccato over the keys of the great organ.

2

Welcome are all earth’s lands, each for its kind
Welcome are lands of pine and oak Welcome are lands of the lemon and fig
Welcome are lands of gold
Welcome are lands of wheat and maize, welcome those of the grape Welcome are lands of sugar and rice
Welcome the cotton-lands, welcome those of the white potato and sweet potato Welcome are mountains, flats, sands, forests, prairies
Welcome the rich borders of rivers, table-lands, openings
Welcome the measureless grazing-lands, welcome the teeming soil of orchards, flax, honey, hemp;
Welcome just as much the other more hard-faced lands
Lands rich as lands of gold or wheat and fruit lands
Lands of mines, lands of the manly and rugged ores Lands of coal, copper, lead, tin, zinc
Lands of iron—lands of the make of the axe.
The log at the wood-pile, the axe supported by it
The sylvan hut, the vine over the doorway, the space clear’d for garden
The irregular tapping of rain down on the leaves after the storm is lull’d
The walling and moaning at intervals, the thought of the sea
The thought of ships struck in the storm and put on their beam ends and the cutting away of masts
The sentiment of the huge timbers of old-fashion’d houses and barns
The remember’d print or narrative, the voyage at a venture of men families, goods
The disembarkation, the founding of a new city
The voyage of those who sought a New England and found it, the outset anywhere
The settlements of the Arkansas, Colorado, Ottawa, Willamette
The slow progress, the scant fare, the axe, rifle, saddle-bags;
The beauty of all adventurous and daring persons
The beauty of wood-boys and wood-men with their clear untrimm’d faces
The beauty of independence, departure, actions that rely on themselves
The American contempt for statutes and ceremonies, the boundless impatience of restraint
The loose drift of character, the inkling through random types, the solidification;
The butcher in the slaughter-house, the hands aboard schooners and sloops, the raftsman, the pioneer
Lumbermen in their winter camp, daybreak in the woods, stripes of snow on the limbs of trees, the occasional snapping The glad clear sound of one’s own voice, the merry song, the natural life of the woods, the strong day’s work
The blazing fire at night, the sweet taste of supper, the talk, the bed of hemlockboughs and the bear-skin;
The house-builder at work in cities or anywhere
The preparatory jointing, squaring, sawing, mortising
The hoist-up of beams, the push of them in their places, laying them regular Setting the studs by their tenons in the mortises according as they were prepared
The blows of mallets and hammers, the attitudes of the men, their curv’d limbs Bending, standing, astride the beams, driving in pins, holding on by posts and braces
The hook’d arm over the plate, the other arm wielding the axe
The floor-men forcing the planks close to be nail’d
Their postures bringing their weapons downward on the bearers
The echoes resounding through the vacant building:
The huge storehouse carried up in the city well under way
The six framing-men, two in the middle and two at each end, carefully bearing on their shoulders a heavy stick for a cross-beam
The crowded line of masons with trowels in their right hands rapidly laying the long side-wall, two hundred feet from front to rear
The flexible rise and fall of backs, the continual click of the trowels striking the bricks
The bricks one after another each laid so workmanlike in its place and set with a knock of the trowel-handle
The piles of materials, the mortar on the mortar-boards, and the steady replenishing by the hod-men;
Spar-makers in the spar-yard, the swarming row of well-grown apprentices
The swing of their axes on the square-hew’d log shaping it toward the shape of a mast
The brisk short crackle of the steel driven slantingly into the pine
The butter-color’d chips flying off in great flakes and slivers
The limber motion of brawny young arms and hips in easy costumes
The constructor of wharves, bridges, piers, bulk-heads, floats stays against the sea;
The city fireman, the fire that suddenly bursts forth in the close-pack’d square The arriving engines, the hoarse shouts, the nimble stepping and daring
The strong command through the firetrumpets, the falling in line the rise and fall of the arms forcing the water The slender, spasmic, blue-white jets, the bringing to bear of the hooks and ladders and their execution
The crash and cut away of connecting woodwork, or through floors if the fire smoulders under them
The crowd with their lit faces watching, the glare and dense shadows;
The forger at his forge-furnace and the user of iron after him
The maker of the axe large and small, and the welder and temperer
The chooser breathing his breath on the cold steel and trying the edge with his thumb
The one who clean-shapes the handle and sets it firmly in the socket;
The shadowy processions of the portraits of the past users also
BOOK XII

The primal patient mechanics, the architects and engineers
The far-off Assyrian edifice and Mizra edifice
The Roman lictors preceding the consuls
The antique European warrior with his axe in combat
The uplifted arm, the clatter of blows on the helmeted head
The death-howl, the limpsy tumbling body, the rush of friend and foe thither
The siege of revolted lieges determin’d for liberty
The summons to surrender, the battering at castle gates, the truce and parley
The sack of an old city in its time
The bursting in of mercenaries and bigots tumultuously and disorderly Roar, flames, blood, drunkenness, madness
Goods freely rifled from houses and temples, screams of women in the gripe of brigands Craft and thievery of camp-followers, men running, old persons despairing
The hell of war, the cruelties of creeds
The list of all executive deeds and words just or unjust
The power of personality just or unjust.

Muscle and pluck forever!

What invigorates life invigorates death
And the dead advance as much as the living advance
And the future is no more uncertain than the present
For the roughness of the earth and of man encloses as much as the delicatesse of the earth and of man And nothing endures but personal qualities.

What do you think endures?
Do you think a great city endures?
Or a teeming manufacturing state? or a prepared constitution? or the best built steamships?
Or hotels of granite and iron? or any chef-d’oeuvres of engineering forts, armaments?
Away! these are not to be cherish’d for themselves
They fill their hour, the dancers dance, the musicians play for them
The show passes, all does well enough of course
All does very well till one flash of defiance.

A great city is that which has the greatest men and women
If it be a few ragged huts it is still the greatest city in the whole world.

The place where a great city stands is not the place of stretch’d wharves, docks, manufactures, deposits of produce merely Nor the place of ceaseless salutes of new-comers or the anchor-lifters of the departing
Nor the place of the tallest and costliest buildings or shops selling goods from the rest of the earth
Nor the place of the best libraries and schools, nor the place where money is plentiest Nor the place of the most numerous population.

Where the city stands with the brawniest breed of orators and bards
Where the city stands that is belov’d by these, and loves them in return and understands them
Where no monuments exist to heroes but in the common words and deeds
Where thrift is in its place, and prudence is in its place Where the men and women think lightly of the laws
Where the slave ceases, and the master of slaves ceases
Where the populace rise at once against the never-ending audacity of elected persons Where fierce men and women pour forth as the sea to the whistle of death pours its sweeping and unript waves
Where outside authority enters always after the precedence of inside authority Where the citizen is always the head and ideal, and President
Mayor, Governor and what not, are agents for pay Where children are taught to be laws to themselves, and to depend on themselves Where equanimity is illustrated in affairs
Where speculations on the soul are encouraged
Where women walk in public processions in the streets the same as the men
Where they enter the public assembly and take places the same as the men;
Where the city of the faithfulest friends stands
Where the city of the cleanliness of the sexes stands
Where the city of the healthiest fathers stands
Where the city of the best-bodied mothers stands
There the great city stands.

6

How beggarly appear arguments before a defiant deed!
How the floridness of the materials of cities shrivels before a man’s or woman’s look!
All waits or goes by default till a strong being appears;
A strong being is the proof of the race and of the ability of the universe
When he or she appears materials are overaw’d
The dispute on the soul stops
The old customs and phrases are confronted, turn’d back, or laid away.
What is your money-making now? what can it do now?
What is your respectability now?
What are your theology, tuition, society, traditions, statute-books, now?
Where are your jibes of being now?
Where are your cavils about the soul now?

A sterile landscape covers the ore, there is as good as the best for all the forbidding appearance
There is the mine, there are the miners
The forge-furnace is there, the melt is accomplish’d, the hammersmen are at hand with their tongs and hammers What always served and always serves is at hand.

Than this nothing has better served, it has served all Served the fluent-tongued and subtle-sensed Greek, and long ere the Greek Served in building the buildings that last longer than any Served the Hebrew, the Persian, the most ancient Hindustanee Served the mound-raiser on the Mississippi, served those whose relics remain in Central America Served Albic temples in woods or on plains, with unhewn pillars and the druids Served the artificial clefts, vast, high, silent, on the snow-cover’d hills of Scandinavia Served those who time out of mind made on the granite walls rough sketches of the sun, moon, stars, ships, ocean waves
Served the paths of the irruptions of the Goths, served the pastoral tribes and nomads Served the long distant Kelt, served the hardy pirates of the Baltic Served before any of those the venerable and harmless men of Ethiopia Served the making of helms for the galleys of pleasure and the making of those for war Served all great works on land and all great works on the sea
For the mediaeval ages and before the mediaeval ages Served not the living only then as now, but served the dead.

8

I see the European headsman
He stands mask’d, clothed in red, with huge legs and strong naked arms
And leans on a ponderous axe.

(Whom have you slaughter’d lately European headsman?
Whose is that blood upon you so wet and stuck?
I see the clear sunsets of the martyrs
I see from the scaffolds the descending ghosts
Ghosts of dead lords, uncrown’d ladies, impeach’d ministers, rejected kings Rivals, traitors, poisoners, disgraced chieftains and the rest.

I see those who in any land have died for the good cause
The seed is spare, nevertheless the crop shall never run out (Mind you O foreign kings, O priests, the crop shall never run out.)
I see the blood wash’d entirely away from the axe Both blade and helve are clean
They spirt no more the blood of European nobles, they clasp no more the necks of queens.

I see the headsman withdraw and become useless
I see the scaffold untrodden and mouldy, I see no longer any axe upon it
I see the mighty and friendly emblem of the power of my own race the newest, largest race.

9

(America! I do not vaunt my love for you I have what I have.) The axe leaps!

The solid forest gives fluid utterances They tumble forth, they rise and form Hut, tent, landing, survey Flail, plough, pick, crowbar, spade Shingle, rail, prop, wainscot, lamb, lath, panel, gable Citadel, ceiling, saloon, academy, organ, exhibition-house, library Cornice, trellis, pilaster, balcony, window, turret, porch Hoe, rake, pitchfork, pencil, wagon, staff, saw, jack-plane, mallet wedge, rounce Chair, tub, hoop, table, wicket, vane, sash, floor Work-box, chest, string’d instrument, boat, frame, and what not Capitols of States, and capitol of the nation of States
Long stately rows in avenues, hospitals for orphans or for the poor or sick Manhattan steamboats and clippers taking the measure of all seas.

The shapes arise!

Shapes of the using of axes anyhow, and the users and all that neighbors them
Cutters down of wood and haulers of it to the Penobscot or Kenebec Dwellers in cabins among the Californian mountains or by the little lakes, or on the Columbia Dwellers south on the banks of the Gila or Rio Grande, friendly gatherings, the characters and fun Dwellers along the St. Lawrence, or north in Kanada, or down by the Yellowstone, dwellers on coasts and off coasts Seal-fishers, whalers, arctic seamen breaking passages through the ice.
The shapes arise!

Shapes of factories, arsenals, foundries, markets
Shapes of the two-threaded tracks of railroads Shapes of the sleepers of bridges, vast frameworks, girders, arches Shapes of the fleets of barges, tows, lake and canal craft, river craft Ship-yards and dry-docks along the Eastern and Western seas, and in many a bay and by-place
The live-oak kelsons, the pine planks, the spars, the hackmatack-roots for knees
The ships themselves on their ways, the tiers of scaffolds, the workmen busy outside and inside
The tools lying around, the great auger and little auger, the adze bolt, line, square, gouge, and bead-plane.

10

The shapes arise!

The shape measur’d, saw’d, jack’d, join’d, stain’d
The coffin-shape for the dead to lie within in his shroud
The shape got out in posts, in the bedstead posts, in the posts of the bride’s bed
The shape of the little trough, the shape of the rockers beneath the shape of the babe’s cradle
The shape of the floor-planks, the floor-planks for dancers’ feet
The shape of the planks of the family home, the home of the friendly parents and children
The shape of the roof of the home of the happy young man and woman, the roof over the well-married young man and woman
The roof over the supper joyously cook’d by the chaste wife, and joyously eaten by the chaste husband, content after his day’s work.

The shapes arise!

The shape of the prisoner’s place in the courtroom, and of him or her seated in the place
The shape of the liquor-bar lean’d against by the young rum-drinker and the old rum-drinker
The shape of the shamed and angry stairs tred by sneaking foot-steps
The shape of the sly settee, and the adulterous unwholesome couple
The shape of the gambling-board with its devilish winnings and losings
The shape of the step-ladder for the convicted and sentenced murderer, the murderer with haggard face and pinion’d arms
The sheriff at hand with his deputies, the silent and white-lipp’d crowd, the dangling of the rope.

The shapes arise!

Shapes of doors giving many exits and entrances
The door passing the dissever’d friend flush’d and in haste
The door that admits good news and bad news
The door whence the son left home confident and puff’d up
The door he enter’d again from a long and scandalous absence diseas’d, broken down, without innocence, without means.

11

Her shape arises
She less guarded than ever, yet more guarded than ever
The gross and soil’d she moves among do not make her gross and soil’d
She knows the thoughts as she passes, nothing is conceal’d from her
She is none the less considerate or friendly therefor
She is the best belov’d, it is without exception, she has no reason to fear and she does not fear Oaths, quarrels, hiccupp’d songs, smutty expressions, are idle to her as she passes She is silent, she is possess’d of herself, they do not offend her
She receives them as the laws of Nature receive them, she is strong She too is a law of Nature—there is no law stronger than she is.

12

The main shapes arise!
Shapes of Democracy total, result of centuries
Shapes ever projecting other shapes
Shapes of turbulent manly cities
Shapes of the friends and home-givers of the whole earth Shapes bracing the earth and braced with the whole earth.
BOOK XIII SONG OF THE EXPOSITION

1 (Ah little recks the laborer
How near his work is holding him to God
The loving Laborer through space and time.)
After all not to create only, or found only But to bring perhaps from afar what is already founded
To give it our own identity, average, limitless, free To fill the gross the torpid bulk with vital religious fire
Not to repel or destroy so much as accept, fuse, rehabilitate
To obey as well as command, to follow more than to lead
These also are the lessons of our New World;
While how little the New after all, how much the Old, Old World!

Long and long has the grass been growing
Long and long has the rain been falling Long has the globe been rolling round.
Come Muse migrate from Greece and Ionia
Cross out please those immensely overpaid accounts
That matter of Troy and Achilles’ wrath, and AEneas’, Odysseus’ wanderings Placard "Removed" and "To Let" on the rocks of your snowy Parnassus Repeat at Jerusalem, place the notice high on jaffa’s gate and on Mount Moriah
The same on the walls of your German, French and Spanish castles and Italian collections For know a better, fresher, busier sphere, a wide, untried domain awaits, demands you.

Responsive to our summons
Or rather to her long-nurs’d inclination
Join’d with an irresistible, natural gravitation
She comes! I hear the rustling of her gown
I scent the odor of her breath’s delicious fragrance
I mark her step divine, her curious eyes a-turning, rolling Upon this very scene.

The dame of dames! can I believe then Those ancient temples, sculptures classic, could none of them retain her?
Nor shades of Virgil and Dante, nor myriad memories, poems, old associations, magnetize and hold on to her?
But that she’s left them all—and here?
Yes, if you will allow me to say so I, my friends, if you do not, can plainly see her
The same undying soul of earth’s, activity’s, beauty’s, heroism’s expression
Out from her evolutions hither come, ended the strata of her former themes Hidden and cover’d by to-day’s, foundation of to-day’s Ended, deceas’d through time, her voice by Castaly’s fountain Silent the broken-lipp’d Sphynx in Egypt, silent all those century-baffling tombs Ended for aye the epics of Asia’s, Europe’s helmeted warriors, ended the primitive call of the muses Calliope’s call forever closed, Clio, Melpomene, Thalia dead Ended the stately rhythmus of Una and Oriana, ended the quest of the holy Graal Jerusalem a handful of ashes blown by the wind, extinct The Crusaders’ streams of shadowy midnight troops sped with the sunrise Amadis, Tancred, utterly gone, Charlemagne, Roland, Oliver gone Palmerin, ogre, departed, vanish’d the turrets that Usk from its waters reflected Arthur vanish’d with all his knights, Merlin and Lancelot and Galahad, all gone, dissolv’d utterly like an exhalation; Pass’d! pass’d! for us, forever pass’d, that once so mighty world now void, inanimate, phantom world Embroider’d, dazzling, foreign world, with all its gorgeous legends, myths Its kings and castles proud, its priests and warlike lords and courtly dames Pass’d to its charnel vault, coffin’d with crown and armor on Blazon’d with Shakspere’s purple page
And dirged by Tennyson’s sweet sad rhyme.

I say I see, my friends, if you do not, the illustrious emigre, (having it is true in her day, although the same, changed, journey’d considerable,) Making directly for this rendezvous, vigorously clearing a path for herself, striding through the confusion
By thud of machinery and shrill steam-whistle undismay’d Bluff’d not a bit by drain-pipe, gasometers, artificial fertilizers Smiling and pleas’d with palpable intent to stay She’s here, install’d amid the kitchen ware!

But hold–don’t I forget my manners?
To introduce the stranger, (what else indeed do I live to chant for?) to thee Columbia;
In liberty’s name welcome immortal! clasp hands
And ever henceforth sisters dear be both.
Fear not O Muse! truly new ways and days receive, surround you
I candidly confess a queer, queer race, of novel fashion
And yet the same old human race, the same within, without Faces and hearts the same, feelings the same, yearnings the same
The same old love, beauty and use the same.

5
We do not blame thee elder World, nor really separate ourselves from thee (Would the son separate himself from the father?)
Looking back on thee, seeing thee to thy duties, grandeurs, through past ages bending, building
We build to ours to-day.
Mightier than Egypt’s tombs
Fairer than Grecia’s, Roma’s temples
Prouder than Milan’s statued, spired cathedral
More picturesque than Rhenish castle-keeps
We plan even now to raise, beyond them all Thy great cathedral sacred industry, no tomb
A keep for life for practical invention.

As in a waking vision
E’en while I chant I see it rise, I scan and prophesy outside and in Its manifold ensemble.

Around a palace, loftier, fairer, ampler than any yet Earth’s modern wonder, history’s seven outstripping
High rising tier on tier with glass and iron facades Gladdening the sun and sky, enhued in cheerfullest hues Bronze, lilac, robin’s-egg, marine and crimson Over whose golden roof shall flaunt, beneath thy banner Freedom
The banners of the States and flags of every land
A brood of lofty, fair, but lesser palaces shall cluster.

Somewhere within their walls shall all that forwards perfect human life be started Tried, taught, advanced, visibly exhibited.

Not only all the world of works, trade, products
But all the workmen of the world here to be represented.

Here shall you trace in flowing operation
In every state of practical, busy movement, the rills of civilization Materials here under your eye shall change their shape as if by magic
The cotton shall be pick’d almost in the very field
Shall be dried, clean’d, ginn’d, baled, spun into thread and cloth before you
You shall see hands at work at all the old processes and all the new ones
You shall see the various grains and how flour is made and then bread baked by the bakers.
You shall see the crude ores of California and Nevada passing on and on till they become bullion.
You shall watch how the printer sets type, and learn what a composing-stick is.
You shall mark in amazement the Hoe press whirling its cylinders shedding the printed leaves steady and fast.
The photograph, model, watch, pin, nail, shall be created before you.

In large calm halls, a stately museum shall teach you the infinite lessons of minerals.
In another, woods, plants, vegetation shall be illustrated—in another animals, animal life and development.

One stately house shall be the music house.
Others for other arts—learning, the sciences, shall all be here.
None shall be slighted, none but shall here be honor’d, help’d, exampled.
(This, this and these, America, shall be your pyramids and obelisks Your Alexandrian Pharos, gardens of Babylon
Your temple at Olympia.)
The male and female many laboring not Shall ever here confront the laboring many With precious benefits to both, glory to all
To thee America, and thee eternal Muse.

And here shall ye inhabit powerful Matrons!
In your vast state vaster than all the old Echoed through long, long centuries to come
To sound of different, prouder songs, with stronger themes Practical, peaceful life, the people’s life, the People themselves Lifted, illumin’d, bathed in peace–elate, secure in peace.

Away with themes of war! away with war itself!
Hence from my shuddering sight to never more return that show of blacken’d, mutilated corpses!

That hell unpent and raid of blood, fit for wild tigers or for lop-tongued wolves, not reasoning men
And in its stead speed industry’s campaigns
With thy undaunted armies, engineering
Thy pennants labor, loosen’d to the breeze
Thy bugles sounding loud and clear.

Away with old romance!

Away with novels, plots and plays of foreign courts
Away with love-verses sugar’d in rhyme, the intrigues, amours of idlers Fitted for only banquets of the night where dancers to late music slide
The unhealthy pleasures, extravagant dissipations of the few
With perfumes, heat and wine, beneath the dazzling chandeliers.

To you ye reverent sane sisters
I raise a voice for far superber themes for poets and for art
To exalt the present and the real
To teach the average man the glory of his daily walk and trade
To sing in songs how exercise and chemical life are never to be baffled
To manual work for each and all, to plough, hoe, dig
To plant and tend the tree, the berry, vegetables, flowers
For every man to see to it that he really do something, for every woman too;
To use the hammer and the saw, (rip, or cross-cut,)
To cultivate a turn for carpentering, plastering, painting
To work as tailor, tailoress, nurse, hostler, porter
To invent a little, something ingenious, to aid the washing, cooking cleaning And hold it no disgrace to take a hand at them themselves.

I say I bring thee Muse to-day and here
All occupations, duties broad and close Toil, healthy toil and sweat, endless, without cessation
The old, old practical burdens, interests, joys
The family, parentage, childhood, husband and wife
The house-comforts, the house itself and all its belongings
Food and its preservation, chemistry applied to it Whatever forms the average, strong, complete, sweet-blooded man or woman, the perfect longeve personality
And helps its present life to health and happiness, and shapes its soul
For the eternal real life to come.

With latest connections, works, the inter-transportation of the world
Steam-power, the great express lines, gas, petroleum
These triumphs of our time, the Atlantic’s delicate cable
The Pacific railroad, the Suez canal, the Mont Cenis and Gothard and 440

Hoosac tunnels, the Brooklyn bridge This earth all spann’d with iron rails, with lines of steamships threading in every sea
Our own rondure, the current globe I bring.

And thou America
Thy offspring towering e’er so high, yet higher Thee above all towering With Victory on thy left, and at thy right hand Law;
Thou Union holding all, fusing, absorbing, tolerating all
Thee, ever thee, I sing.

Thou, also thou, a World
With all thy wide geographies, manifold, different, distant
Rounded by thee in one–one common orbic language
One common indivisible destiny for All.

And by the spells which ye vouchsafe to those your ministers in earnest
I here personify and call my themes, to make them pass before ye.

Behold, America! (and thou, ineffable guest and sister!)
For thee come trooping up thy waters and thy lands;
Behold! thy fields and farms, thy far-off woods and mountains
As in procession coming.

Behold, the sea itself
And on its limitless, heaving breast, the ships;
See, where their white sails, bellying in the wind, speckle the green and blue
See, the steamers coming and going, steaming in or out of port See, dusky and undulating, the long pennants of smoke.

Behold, in Oregon, far in the north and west
Or in Maine, far in the north and east, thy cheerful axemen Wielding all day their axes.

Behold, on the lakes, thy pilots at their wheels, thy oarsmen
How the ash writhes under those muscular arms!

There by the furnace, and there by the anvil
Behold thy sturdy blacksmiths swinging their sledges Overhand so steady, overhand they turn and fall with joyous clank
Like a tumult of laughter.

Mark the spirit of invention everywhere, thy rapid patents Thy continual workshops, foundries, risen or rising
See, from their chimneys how the tall flame-fires stream.

Mark, thy interminable farms, North, South Thy wealthy daughter-states, Eastern and Western The varied products of Ohio, Pennsylvania, Missouri, Georgia, Texas and the rest
Thy limitless crops, grass, wheat, sugar, oil, corn, rice, hemp, hops Thy barns all fill’d, the endless freight-train and the bulging store-house
The grapes that ripen on thy vines, the apples in thy orchards
Thy incalculable lumber, beef, pork, potatoes, thy coal, thy gold and silver
The inexhaustible iron in thy mines.

All thine O sacred Union!

Ships, farms, shops, barns, factories, mines
City and State, North, South, item and aggregate
We dedicate, dread Mother, all to thee!

Protectress absolute, thou! bulwark of all!

For well we know that while thou givest each and all, (generous as God,) Without thee neither all nor each, nor land, home Nor ship, nor mine, nor any here this day secure
Nor aught, nor any day secure.

9

And thou, the Emblem waving over all!
Delicate beauty, a word to thee, (it may be salutary,) Remember thou hast not always been as here to-day so comfortably ensovereign’d
In other scenes than these have I observ’d thee flag
Not quite so trim and whole and freshly blooming in folds of stainless silk
But I have seen thee bunting, to tatters torn upon thy splinter’d staff Or clutch’d to some young color-bearer’s breast with desperate hands Savagely struggled for, for life or death, fought over long ’Mid cannons’ thunder-crash and many a curse and groan and yell, and rifle-volleys cracking sharp
And moving masses as wild demons surging, and lives as nothing risk’d
For thy mere remnant grimed with dirt and smoke and sopp’d in blood
For sake of that, my beauty, and that thou might’st dally as now secure up there Many a good man have I seen go under.
Now here and these and hence in peace, all thine O Flag!
And here and hence for thee, O universal Muse! and thou for them!
And here and hence O Union, all the work and workmen thine!
None separate from thee–henceforth One only, we and thou (For the blood of the children, what is it, only the blood maternal?
And lives and works, what are they all at last, except the roads to faith and death?)
While we rehearse our measureless wealth, it is for thee, dear Mother
We own it all and several to-day indissoluble in thee;
Think not our chant, our show, merely for products gross or lucre–it is for thee, the soul in thee, electric, spiritual!
Our farms, inventions, crops, we own in thee! cities and States in thee!
Our freedom all in thee! our very lives in thee!
BOOK XIV
Song of the Redwood-Tree

1
A California song
A prophecy and indirection, a thought impalpable to breathe as air
A chorus of dryads, fading, departing, or hamadryads departing
A murmuring, fateful, giant voice, out of the earth and sky Voice of a mighty dying tree in the redwood forest dense.

Farewell my brethren
Farewell O earth and sky, farewell ye neighboring waters
My time has ended, my term has come.

Along the northern coast
Just back from the rock-bound shore and the caves
In the saline air from the sea in the Mendocino country
With the surge for base and accompaniment low and hoarse
With crackling blows of axes sounding musically driven by strong arms Riven deep by the sharp tongues of the axes, there in the redwood forest dense I heard the might tree its death-chant chanting.

The choppers heard not, the camp shanties echoed not The quick-ear’d teamsters and chain and jack-screw men heard not
As the wood-spirits came from their haunts of a thousand years to join the refrain
But in my soul I plainly heard.

Murmuring out of its myriad leaves
Down from its lofty top rising two hundred feet high
Out of its stalwart trunk and limbs, out of its foot-thick bark
That chant of the seasons and time, chant not of the past only but the future.

You untold life of me
And all you venerable and innocent joys Perennial hardy life of me with joys ’mid rain and many a summer sun
And the white snows and night and the wild winds;
O the great patient rugged joys, my soul’s strong joys unreck’d by man (For know I bear the soul befitting me, I too have consciousness, identity And all the rocks and mountains have, and all the earth,) Joys of the life befitting me and brothers mine
Our time, our term has come.

Nor yield we mournfully majestic brothers
We who have grandly fill’d our time
With Nature’s calm content, with tacit huge delight
We welcome what we wrought for through the past
And leave the field for them.

For them predicted long
For a superber race, they too to grandly fill their time
For them we abdicate, in them ourselves ye forest kings.’
In them these skies and airs, these mountain peaks, Shasta, Nevadas These huge precipitous cliffs, this amplitude, these valleys, far Yosemite
To be in them absorb’d, assimilated.

Then to a loftier strain
Still prouder, more ecstatic rose the chant
As if the heirs, the deities of the West
Joining with master-tongue bore part.

Not wan from Asia’s fetiches
Nor red from Europe’s old dynastic slaughter-house (Area of murder-plots of thrones, with scent left yet of wars and scaffolds everywhere But come from Nature’s long and harmless throes, peacefully builded thence These virgin lands, lands of the Western shore
To the new culminating man, to you, the empire new You promis’d long, we pledge, we dedicate.

You occult deep volitions You average spiritual manhood, purpose of all, pois’d on yourself giving not taking law You womanhood divine, mistress and source of all, whence life and love and aught that comes from life and love You unseen moral essence of all the vast materials of America, age upon age working in death the same as life,)
You that, sometimes known, oftener unknown, really shape and mould the New World, adjusting it to Time and Space
You hidden national will lying in your abysms, conceal’d but ever alert
You past and present purposes tenaciously pursued, may-be unconscious of yourselves Unswerv’d by all the passing errors, perturbations of the surface;
You vital, universal, deathless germs, beneath all creeds, arts statutes, literatures
Here build your homes for good, establish here, these areas entire lands of the Western shore
We pledge, we dedicate to you.
For man of you, your characteristic race
Here may he hardy, sweet, gigantic grow, here tower proportionate to Nature Here climb the vast pure spaces unconfined, uncheck’d by wall or roof Here laugh with storm or sun, here joy, here patiently inure
Here heed himself, unfold himself, (not others’ formulas heed,) here fill his time
To duly fall, to aid, unreck’d at last
To disappear, to serve.

Thus on the northern coast
In the echo of teamsters’ calls and the clinking chains, and the music of choppers’ axes
The falling trunk and limbs, the crash, the muffled shriek, the groan
Such words combined from the redwood-tree, as of voices ecstatic ancient and rustling
The century-lasting, unseen dryads, singing, withdrawing
All their recesses of forests and mountains leaving
From the Cascade range to the Wahsatch, or Idaho far, or Utah
To the deities of the modern henceforth yielding
The chorus and indications, the vistas of coming humanity, the settlements, features all In the Mendocino woods I caught.

2

The flashing and golden pageant of California
The sudden and gorgeous drama, the sunny and ample lands
The long and varied stretch from Puget sound to Colorado south Lands bathed in sweeter, rarer, healthier air, valleys and mountain cliffs
The fields of Nature long prepared and fallow, the silent, cyclic chemistry
The slow and steady ages plodding, the unoccupied surface ripening the rich ores forming beneath;
At last the New arriving, assuming, taking possession
A swarming and busy race settling and organizing everywhere Ships coming in from the whole round world, and going out to the whole world
To India and China and Australia and the thousand island paradises of the Pacific Populous cities, the latest inventions, the steamers on the rivers the railroads, with many a thrifty farm, with machinery
And wool and wheat and the grape, and diggings of yellow gold.

3
But more in you than these, lands of the Western shore (These but the means, the implements, the standing-ground,)
I see in you, certain to come, the promise of thousands of years, till now deferr’d Promis’d to be fulfill’d, our common kind, the race.

The new society at last, proportionate to Nature In man of you, more than your mountain peaks or stalwart trees imperial In woman more, far more, than all your gold or vines, or even vital air.
Fresh come, to a new world indeed, yet long prepared
I see the genius of the modern, child of the real and ideal Clearing the ground for broad humanity, the true America, heir of the past so grand
To build a grander future.
BOOK XV
A Song for Occupations

1

A song for occupations!
In the labor of engines and trades and the labor of fields I find the developments
And find the eternal meanings.

Workmen and Workwomen!

Were all educations practical and ornamental well display’d out of me, what would it amount to?
 Were I as the head teacher, charitable proprietor, wise statesman what would it amount to?
 Were I to you as the boss employing and paying you, would that satisfy you?
The learn’d, virtuous, benevolent, and the usual terms
A man like me and never the usual terms.

Neither a servant nor a master I I take no sooner a large price than a small price, I will have my own whoever enjoys
me
I will be even with you and you shall be even with me.

If you stand at work in a shop I stand as nigh as the nighest in the same shop
If you bestow gifts on your brother or dearest friend I demand as good as your brother or dearest friend
If your lover, husband, wife, is welcome by day or night, I must be personally as welcome
If you become degraded, criminal, ill, then I become so for your sake
If you remember your foolish and outlaw’d deeds, do you think I cannot remember my own foolish and outlaw’d deeds?
If you carouse at the table I carouse at the opposite side of the table
If you meet some stranger in the streets and love him or her, why I often meet strangers in the street and love them.

Why what have you thought of yourself?
Is it you then that thought yourself less?
Is it you that thought the President greater than you?
Or the rich better off than you? or the educated wiser than you?
(Because you are greasy or pimpled, or were once drunk, or a thief
Or that you are diseas’d, or rheumatic, or a prostitute
Or from frivolity or impotence, or that you are no scholar and never saw your name in print
Do you give in that you are any less immortal?)

2

Souls of men and women! it is not you I call unseen, unheard untouchable and untouching
It is not you I go argue pro and con about, and to settle whether you are alive or no
I own publicly who you are, if nobody else owns.

Grown, half-grown and babe, of this country and every country in-doors and out-doors, one just as much as the other, I see
And all else behind or through them.
The wife, and she is not one jot less than the husband
The daughter, and she is just as good as the son
The mother, and she is every bit as much as the father.
Offspring of ignorant and poor, boys apprenticed to trades
Young fellows working on farms and old fellows working on farms Sailor-men, merchant-men, coasters, immigrants
All these I see, but nigher and farther the same I see None shall escape me and none shall wish to escape me.
I bring what you much need yet always have Not money, amours, dress, eating, erudition, but as good
I send no agent or medium, offer no representative of value, but offer the value itself.

There is something that comes to one now and perpetually
It is not what is printed, preach’d, discussed, it eludes discussion and print
It is not to be put in a book, it is not in this book
It is for you whoever you are, it is no farther from you than your hearing and sight are from you
It is hinted by nearest, commonest, readiest, it is ever provoked by them.

You may read in many languages, yet read nothing about it
You may read the President’s message and read nothing about it there Nothing in the reports from the State department or Treasury department, or in the daily papers or weekly papers
Or in the census or revenue returns, prices current, or any accounts of stock.
The sun and stars that float in the open air
The apple-shaped earth and we upon it, surely the drift of them is something grand
I do not know what it is except that it is grand, and that it is happiness
And that the enclosing purport of us here is not a speculation or bon-mot or reconnaisance
And that it is not something which by luck may turn out well for us and without luck must be a failure for us
And not something which may yet be retracted in a certain contingency.

The light and shade, the curious sense of body and identity, the greed that with perfect complaisance devours all things
The endless pride and outstretching of man, unspeakable joys and sorrows
The wonder every one sees in every one else he sees, and the wonders that fill each minute of time forever
What have you reckon’d them for, camerado?
Have you reckon’d them for your trade or farm-work? or for the profits of your store?
Or to achieve yourself a position? or to fill a gentleman’s leisure or a lady’s leisure?
Have you reckon’d that the landscape took substance and form that it might be painted in a picture?
Or men and women that they might be written of, and songs sung?
Or the attraction of gravity, and the great laws and harmonious combinations and the fluids of the air, as subjects for the savans?
Or the brown land and the blue sea for maps and charts?
Or the stars to be put in constellations and named fancy names?
Or that the growth of seeds is for agricultural tables, or agriculture itself?
Old institutions, these arts, libraries, legends, collections, and the practice handed along in manufactures, will we rate them so high?
Will we rate our cash and business high? I have no objection
I rate them as high as the highest—then a child born of a woman and man I rate beyond all rate.

We thought our Union grand, and our Constitution grand I do not say they are not grand and good, for they are
I am this day just as much in love with them as you Then I am in love with You, and with all my fellows upon the earth.

We consider bibles and religions divine—I do not say they are not divine
I say they have all grown out of you, and may grow out of you still
It is not they who give the life, it is you who give the life
Leaves are not more shed from the trees, or trees from the earth than they are shed out of you.
The sum of all known reverence I add up in you whoever you are
The President is there in the White House for you, it is not you who are here for him
The Secretaries act in their bureaus for you, not you here for them
The Congress convenes every Twelfth-month for you Laws, courts, the forming of States, the charters of cities, the going and coming of commerce and malls, are all for you.

List close my scholars dear
Doctrines, politics and civilization exurge from you Sculpture and monuments and any thing inscribed anywhere are tallied in you
The gist of histories and statistics as far back as the records reach is in you this hour, and myths and tales the same
If you were not breathing and walking here, where would they all be?
The most renown’d poems would be ashes, orations and plays would be vacuums.

467
All architecture is what you do to it when you look upon it (Did you think it was in the white or gray stone? or the lines of the arches and cornices?)
All music is what awakes from you when you are reminded by the instruments
It is not the violins and the cornets, it is not the oboe nor the beating drums, nor the score of the baritone singer singing his sweet romanza, nor that of the men’s chorus, nor that of the women’s chorus
It is nearer and farther than they.

5

Will the whole come back then?
Can each see signs of the best by a look in the looking-glass? is there nothing greater or more?
Does all sit there with you, with the mystic unseen soul?
Strange and hard that paradox true I give Objects gross and the unseen soul are one.

House-building, measuring, sawing the boards
Blacksmithing, glass-blowing, nail-making, coopering, tin-roofing shingle-dressing Ship-joining, dock-building, fish-curing, flagging of sidewalks by flaggers
The pump, the pile-driver, the great derrick, the coal-kiln and brickkiln Coal-mines and all that is down there, the lamps in the darkness echoes, songs, what meditations, what vast native thoughts looking through smutch’d faces
Iron-works, forge-fires in the mountains or by river-banks, men around feeling the melt with huge crowbars, lumps of ore, the due combining of ore, limestone, coal
The blast-furnace and the puddling-furnace, the loup-lump at the bottom of the melt at last, the rolling-mill, the stumpy bars of pig-iron, the strong clean-shaped Trail for railroads
Oil-works, silk-works, white-lead-works, the sugar-house steam-saws, the great mills and factories
Stone-cutting, shapely trimmings for facades or window or door-lintels the mallet, the tooth-chisel, the jib to protect the thumb
The calking-iron, the kettle of boiling vault-cement, and the fire under the kettle
The cotton-bale, the stevedore’s hook, the saw and buck of the sawyer, the mould of the moulder, the working-knife of the butcher, the ice-saw, and all the work with ice
The work and tools of the rigger, grappler, sail-maker, block-maker Goods of gutta-percha, papier-mache, colors, brushes, brush-making glazier’s implements
The veneer and glue-pot, the confectioner’s ornaments, the decanter and glasses, the shears and flat-iron
The awl and knee-strap, the pint measure and quart measure, the counter and stool, the writing-pen of quill or metal, the making of all sorts of edged tools
The brewery, brewing, the malt, the vats, ev-very thing that is done by brewers, wine-makers, vinegar-makers Leather-dressing, coach-making, boiler-making, rope-twisting distilling, sign-painting, lime-burning, cotton-picking electroplating, electrotyping, stereotyping Stave-machines, planing-machines, reaping-machines ploughing-machines, thrashing-machines, steam wagons
The cart of the carman, the omnibus, the ponderous dray Pyrotechny, letting off color’d fireworks at night, fancy figures and jets;
Beef on the butcher’s stall, the slaughterhouse of the butcher, the butcher in his killing-clothes
The pens of live pork, the killing-hammer, the hog-hook, the scalder’s tub, gutting, the cutter’s cleaver, the packer’s maul and the plenteous winterwork of pork-packing Flour-works, grinding of wheat, rye, maize, rice, the barrels and the half and quarter barrels, the loaded barges, the high piles on wharves and levees
The men and the work of the men on ferries, railroads, coasters fish-boats, canals;
The hourly routine of your own or any man’s life, the shop, yard store, or factory These shows all near you by day and night—workman! whoever you are, your daily life!

In that and them the heft of the heaviest—in that and them far more than you estimated, (and far less also,)
In them realities for you and me, in them poems for you and me
In them, not yourself-you and your soul enclose all things regardless of estimation In them the development good—in them all themes, hints, possibilities.

I do not affirm that what you see beyond is futile
I do not advise you to stop
I do not say leadings you thought great are not great
But I say that none lead to greater than these 472

Will you seek afar off? you surely come back at last
In things best known to you finding the best, or as good as the best
In folks nearest to you finding the sweetest, strongest, lovingest Happiness, knowledge, not in another place but this place, not for another hour but this hour
Man in the first you see or touch, always in friend, brother nighest neighbor—woman in mother, sister, wife
The popular tastes and employments taking precedence in poems or anywhere
You workwomen and workmen of these States having your own divine and strong life
And all else giving place to men and women like you.

When the psalm sings instead of the singer When the script preaches instead of the preacher
When the pulpit descends and goes instead of the carver that carved the supporting desk
When I can touch the body of books by night or by day, and when they touch my body back again
When a university course convinces like a slumbering woman and child convince When the minted gold in the vault smiles like the night-watchman’s daughter When warrantee deeds loafe in chairs opposite and are my friendly companions I intend to reach them my hand, and make as much of them as I do of men and women like you.
BOOK XVI
A SONG OF THE ROLLING EARTH

A song of the rolling earth, and of words according Were you thinking that those were the words, those upright lines? those curves, angles, dots?
No, those are not the words, the substantial words are in the ground and sea
They are in the air, they are in you.

Were you thinking that those were the words, those delicious sounds out of your friends’ mouths?
No, the real words are more delicious than they.

Human bodies are words, myriads of words (In the best poems re-appears the body, man’s or woman’s well-shaped, natural, gay Every part able, active, receptive, without shame or the need of shame.)
Air, soil, water, fire—those are words
I myself am a word with them—my qualities interpenetrate with theirs—my name is nothing to them Though it were told in the three thousand languages, what would air, soil, water, fire, know of my name?
A healthy presence, a friendly or commanding gesture, are words sayings, meanings
The charms that go with the mere looks of some men and women are sayings and meanings also.

The workmanship of souls is by those inaudible words of the earth
The masters know the earth’s words and use them more than audible words.

Amelioration is one of the earth’s words
The earth neither lags nor hastens
It has all attributes, growths, effects, latent in itself from the jump
It is not half beautiful only, defects and excrescences show just as much as perfections show.

The earth does not withhold, it is generous enough
The truths of the earth continually wait, they are not so conceal’d either.
They are calm, subtle, untransmissible by print.
They are imbued through all things conveying themselves willingly.
Conveying a sentiment and invitation, I utter and utter.
I speak not, yet if you hear me not of what avail am I to you?
To bear, to better, lacking these of what avail am I?
(Acouche! accouchez!
Will you rot your own fruit in yourself there? Will you squat and stifle there?)
The earth does not argue.
Is not pathetic, has no arrangements.
Does not scream, haste, persuade, threaten, promise.
Makes no discriminations, has no conceivable failures.
Closes nothing, refuses nothing, shuts none out.
Of all the powers, objects, states, it notifies, shuts none out.
The earth does not exhibit itself nor refuse to exhibit itself possesses still underneath Underneath the ostensible sounds, the august chorus of heroes, the wail of slaves Persuasions of lovers, curses, gasps of the dying, laughter of young people, accents of bargainers Underneath these possessing words that never fall.
To her children the words of the eloquent dumb great mother never fail
The true words do not fail, for motion does not fail and reflection does not fall
Also the day and night do not fall, and the voyage we pursue does not fall.
Of the interminable sisters
Of the ceaseless cotillons of sisters
Of the centripetal and centrifugal sisters, the elder and younger sisters
The beautiful sister we know dances on with the rest.
With her ample back towards every beholder
With the fascinations of youth and the equal fascinations of age Sits she whom I too love like the rest, sits undisturb’d Holding up in her hand what has the character of a mirror, while her eyes glance back from it Glance as she sits, inviting none, denying none
Holding a mirror day and night tirelessly before her own face.

Seen at hand or seen at a distance
Duly the twenty-four appear in public every day Duly approach and pass with their companions or a companion
Looking from no countenances of their own, but from the countenances of those who are with them
From the countenances of children or women or the manly countenance
From the open countenances of animals or from inanimate things From the landscape or waters or from the exquisite apparition of the sky From our countenances, mine and yours, faithfully returning them
Every day in public appearing without fall, but never twice with the same companions.

Embracing man, embracing all, proceed the three hundred and sixty-five resistlessly round the sun;
Embracing all, soothing, supporting, follow close three hundred and sixty-five offsets of the first, sure and necessary as they.

Tumbling on steadily, nothing dreading Sunshine, storm, cold, heat, forever withstanding, passing, carrying The soul’s realization and determination still inheriting
The fluid vacuum around and ahead still entering and dividing
No balk retarding, no anchor anchoring, on no rock striking Swift, glad, content, unbereav’d, nothing losing
Of all able and ready at any time to give strict account
The divine ship sails the divine sea.

2
Whoever you are! motion and reflection are especially for you
The divine ship sails the divine sea for you.
Whoever you are! you are he or she for whom the earth is solid and liquid
You are he or she for whom the sun and moon hang in the sky
For none more than you are the present and the past
For none more than you is immortality.
Each man to himself and each woman to herself, is the word of the past and present, and the true word of immortality;
No one can acquire for another—not one
Not one can grow for another—not one.
The song is to the singer, and comes back most to him
The teaching is to the teacher, and comes back most to him

482
The murder is to the murderer, and comes back most to him
The theft is to the thief, and comes back most to him
The love is to the lover, and comes back most to him
The gift is to the giver, and comes back most to him—it cannot fail
The oration is to the orator, the acting is to the actor and actress not to the audience
And no man understands any greatness or goodness but his own, or the indication of his own.

I swear the earth shall surely be complete to him or her who shall be complete
The earth remains jagged and broken only to him or her who remains jagged and broken.

I swear there is no greatness or power that does not emulate those of the earth
There can be no theory of any account unless it corroborate the theory of the earth
No politics, song, religion, behavior, or what not, is of account unless it compare with the amplitude of the earth
Unless it face the exactness, vitality, impartiality, rectitude of the earth.

I swear I begin to see love with sweeter spasms than that which responds love
It is that which contains itself, which never invites and never refuses.

I swear I begin to see little or nothing in audible words
All merges toward the presentation of the unspoken meanings of the earth Toward him who sings the songs of the body and of the truths of the earth Toward him who makes the dictionaries of words that print cannot touch.

I swear I see what is better than to tell the best
It is always to leave the best untold.

When I undertake to tell the best I find I cannot My tongue is ineffectual on its pivots
My breath will not be obedient to its organs
I become a dumb man.
The best of the earth cannot be told anyhow, all or any is best
It is not what you anticipated, it is cheaper, easier, nearer
Things are not dismiss’d from the places they held before
The earth is just as positive and direct as it was before Facts, religions, improvements, politics, trades, are as real as before
But the soul is also real, it too is positive and direct
No reasoning, no proof has establish’d it Undeniable growth has establish’d it.

4

These to echo the tones of souls and the phrases of souls (If they did not echo the phrases of souls what were they then?
If they had not reference to you in especial what were they then?)
I swear I will never henceforth have to do with the faith that tells the best I will have to do only with that faith that leaves the best untold.
Say on, sayers! sing on, singers!
Delve! mould! pile the words of the earth!
Work on, age after age, nothing is to be lost
It may have to wait long, but it will certainly come in use
When the materials are all prepared and ready, the architects shall appear.
I swear to you the architects shall appear without fall
I swear to you they will understand you and justify you
The greatest among them shall be he who best knows you, and encloses all and is faithful to all
He and the rest shall not forget you, they shall perceive that you are not an iota less than they
You shall be fully glorified in them.
Youth, Day, Old Age and Night

Youth, large, lusty, loving—youth full of grace, force, fascination
Do you know that Old Age may come after you with equal grace, force, fascination?
Day full-blown and splendid—day of the immense sun, action, ambition, laughter
The Night follows close with millions of suns, and sleep and restoring darkness.
BOOK XVII. BIRDS OF PASSAGE SONG OF THE UNIVERSAL

1
Come said the Muse
Sing me a song no poet yet has chanted Sing me the universal.

In this broad earth of ours
Amid the measureless grossness and the slag
Enclosed and safe within its central heart
Nestles the seed perfection.

By every life a share or more or less
None born but it is born, conceal’d or unconceal’d the seed is waiting.

2
Lo! keen-eyed towering science
As from tall peaks the modern overlooking Successive absolute fiats issuing.

Yet again, lo! the soul, above all science
For it has history gather’d like husks around the globe
For it the entire star-myriads roll through the sky.
In spiral routes by long detours
(As a much-tacking ship upon the sea,)
For it the partial to the permanent flowing
For it the real to the ideal tends.

For it the mystic evolution
Not the right only justified, what we call evil also justified.

Forth from their masks, no matter what From the huge festering trunk, from craft and guile and tears
Health to emerge and joy, joy universal.

Out of the bulk, the morbid and the shallow Out of the bad majority, the varied countless frauds of men and states
Electric, antiseptic yet, cleaving, suffusing all Only the good is universal.

3

Over the mountain-growths disease and sorrow
An uncaught bird is ever hovering, hovering
High in the purer, happier air.
From imperfection’s murkiest cloud
Darts always forth one ray of perfect light
One flash of heaven’s glory.

To fashion’s, custom’s discord
To the mad Babel-din, the deafening orgies Soothing each lull a strain is heard, just heard From some far shore the final chorus sounding.

O the blest eyes, the happy hearts
That see, that know the guiding thread so fine
Along the mighty labyrinth.

4

And thou America
For the scheme’s culmination, its thought and its reality
For these (not for thyself) thou hast arrived.

Thou too surroundest all Embracing carrying welcoming all, thou too by pathways broad and new
To the ideal tendest.

The measure’d faiths of other lands, the grandeurs of the past
Are not for thee, but grandeurs of thine own Deific faiths and amplitudes, absorbing, comprehending all
All eligible to all.

All, all for immortality
Love like the light silently wrapping all Nature’s amelioration blessing all
The blossoms, fruits of ages, orchards divine and certain Forms, objects, growths, humanities, to spiritual images ripening.

Give me O God to sing that thought Give me, give him or her I love this quenchless faith
In Thy ensemble, whatever else withheld withhold not from us Belief in plan of Thee enclosed in Time and Space Health, peace, salvation universal.

Is it a dream?
Nay but the lack of it the dream
And failing it life’s lore and wealth a dream
And all the world a dream.
PIONEERS! O PIONEERS!

Come my tan-faced children
Follow well in order, get your weapons ready
Have you your pistols? have you your sharp-edged axes?
Pioneers! O pioneers!

For we cannot tarry here
We must march my darlings, we must bear the brunt of danger
We the youthful sinewy races, all the rest on us depend
Pioneers! O pioneers!

O you youths, Western youths
So impatient, full of action, full of manly pride and friendship Plain I see you Western youths, see you tramping with the foremost Pioneers! O pioneers!

Have the elder races halted?
Do they droop and end their lesson, wearied over there beyond the seas?
We take up the task eternal, and the burden and the lesson
Pioneers! O pioneers!

All the past we leave behind
We debouch upon a newer mightier world, varied world
Fresh and strong the world we seize, world of labor and the march
Pioneers! O pioneers!

We detachments steady throwing Down the edges, through the passes, up the mountains steep Conquering, holding, daring, venturing as we go the unknown ways
Pioneers! O pioneers!

We primeval forests felling
We the rivers stemming, vexing we and piercing deep the mines within We the surface broad surveying, we the virgin soil upheaving
Pioneers! O pioneers!

Colorado men are we
From the peaks gigantic, from the great sierras and the high plateaus
From the mine and from the gully, from the hunting trail we come
Pioneers! O pioneers!

From Nebraska, from Arkansas
Central inland race are we, from Missouri, with the continental blood intervein’d
All the hands of comrades clasping, all the Southern, all the Northern Pioneers! O pioneers!

O resistless restless race!

O beloved race in all! O my breast aches with tender love for all!

O I mourn and yet exult, I am rapt with love for all
Pioneers! O pioneers!

Raise the mighty mother mistress
Waving high the delicate mistress, over all the starry mistress (bend your heads all,) Raise the fang’d and warlike mistress, stern, impassive, weapon’d mistress
Pioneers! O pioneers!

See my children, resolute children
By those swarms upon our rear we must ever yield or falter Ages back in ghostly millions frowning there behind us urging
Pioneers! O pioneers!

On and on the compact ranks
With accessions ever waiting, with the places of the dead quickly fill’d Through the battle, through defeat, moving yet and never stopping
Pioneers! O pioneers!

O to die advancing on!

Are there some of us to droop and die? has the hour come?
Then upon the march we fittest die, soon and sure the gap is fill’d.

Pioneers! O pioneers!

All the pulses of the world
Falling in they beat for us, with the Western movement beat Holding single or together, steady moving to the front, all for us
Pioneers! O pioneers!

Life’s involv’d and varied pageants
All the forms and shows, all the workmen at their work
All the seamen and the landsmen, all the masters with their slaves
Pioneers! O pioneers!

All the hapless silent lovers
All the prisoners in the prisons, all the righteous and the wicked
All the joyous, all the sorrowing, all the living, all the dying
Pioneers! O pioneers!

I too with my soul and body
We, a curious trio, picking, wandering on our way Through these shores amid the shadows, with the apparitions pressing
Pioneers! O pioneers!
Lo, the darting bowling orb!
Lo, the brother orbs around, all the clustering suns and planets
All the dazzling days, all the mystic nights with dreams
Pioneers! O pioneers!

These are of us, they are with us
All for primal needed work, while the followers there in embryo wait behind We to-day’s procession heading, we the route for travel clearing
Pioneers! O pioneers!

O you daughters of the West!
O you young and elder daughters! O you mothers and you wives!

Never must you be divided, in our ranks you move united
Pioneers! O pioneers!

Minstrels latent on the prairies!
(Shrouded bards of other lands, you may rest, you have done your work,)
Soon I hear you coming warbling, soon you rise and tramp amid us
Pioneers! O pioneers!

Not for delectations sweet
Not the cushion and the slipper, not the peaceful and the studious
Not the riches safe and palling, not for us the tame enjoyment
Pioneers! O pioneers!

Do the feasters gluttonous feast?
Do the corpulent sleepers sleep? have they lock’d and bolted doors?
Still be ours the diet hard, and the blanket on the ground
Pioneers! O pioneers!

Has the night descended?
Was the road of late so toilsome? did we stop discouraged nodding on our way?
Yet a passing hour I yield you in your tracks to pause oblivious
Pioneers! O pioneers!

Till with sound of trumpet
Far, far off the daybreak call—hark! how loud and clear I hear it wind Swift! to the head of the army!—swift! spring to your places
Pioneers! O pioneers!
To You

Whoever you are, I fear you are walking the walks of dreams
I fear these supposed realities are to melt from under your feet and hands Even now your features, joys, speech, house, trade, manners troubles, follies, costume, crimes, dissipate away from you Your true soul and body appear before me.

They stand forth out of affairs, out of commerce, shops, work farms, clothes, the house, buying, selling, eating, drinking suffering, dying.

Whoever you are, now I place my hand upon you, that you be my poem
I whisper with my lips close to your ear.

I have loved many women and men, but I love none better than you.

O I have been dilatory and dumb
I should have made my way straight to you long ago
I should have blabb’d nothing but you, I should have chanted nothing but you.

I will leave all and come and make the hymns of you None has understood you, but I understand you None has done justice to you, you have not done justice to yourself
None but has found you imperfect, I only find no imperfection in you None but would subordinate you, I only am he who will never consent to subordinate you I only am he who places over you no master, owner, better, God beyond what waits intrinsically in yourself.

Painters have painted their swarming groups and the centre-figure of all
From the head of the centre-figure spreading a nimbus of gold-color’d light
But I paint myriads of heads, but paint no head without its nimbus of gold-color’d light
From my hand from the brain of every man and woman it streams effulgentely flowing forever.

O I could sing such grandeurs and glories about you!

You have not known what you are, you have slumber’d upon yourself all your life
Your eyelids have been the same as closed most of the time
What you have done returns already in mockeries (Your thrift, knowledge, prayers, if they do not return in mockeries, what is their return?)
The mockeries are not you
Underneath them and within them I see you lurk
I pursue you where none else has pursued you Silence, the desk, the flippant expression, the night, the accustom’d routine, if these conceal you from others or from yourself, they do not conceal you from me
The shaved face, the unsteady eye, the impure complexion, if these balk others they do not balk me
The pert apparel, the deform’d attitude, drunkenness, greed premature death, all these I part aside.

There is no endowment in man or woman that is not tallied in you
There is no virtue, no beauty in man or woman, but as good is in you
No pluck, no endurance in others, but as good is in you
No pleasure waiting for others, but an equal pleasure waits for you.

As for me, I give nothing to any one except I give the like carefully to you
I sing the songs of the glory of none, not God, sooner than I sing the songs of the glory of you.

Whoever you are! claim your own at any hazard!
These shows of the East and West are tame compared to you These immense meadows, these interminable rivers, you are immense and interminable as they
These furies, elements, storms, motions of Nature, throes of apparent dissolution, you are he or she who is master or mistress over them Master or mistress in your own right over Nature, elements, pain, passion, dissolution.
The hopples fall from your ankles, you find an unfailing sufficiency Old or young, male or female, rude, low, rejected by the rest whatever you are promulges itself
Through birth, life, death, burial, the means are provided, nothing is scanted Through angers, losses, ambition, ignorance, ennui, what you are picks its way.
France (the 18th Year of these States)

A great year and place
A harsh discordant natal scream out-sounding, to touch the mother’s heart closer than any yet.

I walk’d the shores of my Eastern sea
Heard over the waves the little voice Saw the divine infant where she woke mournfully wailing, amid the roar of cannon, curses, shouts, crash of falling buildings

Was not so sick from the blood in the gutters running, nor from the single corpses, nor those in heaps, nor those borne away in the tumbrils

Was not so desperate at the battues of death– was not so shock’d at the repeated fusil-lades of the guns.

Pale, silent, stern, what could I say to that long-accrued retribution?
Could I wish humanity different?
Could I wish the people made of wood and stone?
Or that there be no justice in destiny or time?
O Liberty! O mate for me!

Here too the blaze, the grape-shot and the axe, in reserve, to fetch them out in case of need
Here too, though long represt, can never be destroy’d
Here too could rise at last murdering and ec-static Here too demanding full arrears of vengeance.

Hence I sign this salute over the sea
And I do not deny that terrible red birth and baptism
But remember the little voice that I heard wailing, and wait with perfect trust, no matter how long
And from to-day sad and cogent I maintain the bequeath’d cause, as for all lands
And I send these words to Paris with my love
And I guess some chansonniers there will understand them
For I guess there is latent music yet in France, floods of it
O I hear already the bustle of instruments, they will soon be drowning all that would interrupt them
O I think the east wind brings a triumphal and free march
It reaches hither, it swells me to Joyful madness
I will run transpose it in words, to justify
I will yet sing a song for you ma femme.
Myself and Mine

Myself and mine gymnastic ever
To stand the cold or heat, to take good aim with a gun, to sail a boat, to manage horses, to beget superb children
To speak readily and clearly, to feel at home among common people
And to hold our own in terrible positions on land and sea.

Not for an embroiderer (There will always be plenty of embroiderers, I welcome them also,)
But for the fibre of things and for inherent men and women.

Not to chisel ornaments
But to chisel with free stroke the heads and limbs of plenteous supreme Gods, that the States may realize them walking and talking.

Let me have my own way
Let others promulge the laws, I will make no account of the laws
Let others praise eminent men and hold up peace, I hold up agitation and conflict
I praise no eminent man, I rebuke to his face the one that was thought most worthy.

(Who are you? and what are you secretly guilty of all your life?
Will you turn aside all your life? will you grub and chatter all your life?
And who are you, blabbing by rote, years, pages, languages, reminiscences Unwitting to-day that you do not know how to speak properly a single word?)
Let others finish specimens, I never finish specimens
I start them by exhaustless laws as Nature does, fresh and modern continually.

I give nothing as duties
What others give as duties I give as living impulses (Shall I give the heart’s action as a duty?) Let others dispose of questions, I dispose of nothing, I arouse unanswerable questions
Who are they I see and touch, and what about them?
What about these likes of myself that draw me so close by tender directions and indirections?
I call to the world to distrust the accounts of my friends, but listen to my enemies, as I myself do
I charge you forever reject those who would expound me, for I cannot expound myself
I charge that there be no theory or school founded out of me
I charge you to leave all free, as I have left all free.

After me, vista!

O I see life is not short, but immeasurably long
I henceforth tread the world chaste, temperate, an early riser, a steady grower Every hour the semen of centuries, and still of centuries.

I must follow up these continual lessons of 511 the air, water, earth

I perceive I have no time to lose.
Year of Meteors (1859-60)

Year of meteors! brooding year!

I would bind in words retrospective some of your deeds and signs
I would sing your contest for the 19th Presidentiad
I would sing how an old man, tall, with white hair, mounted the scaffold in Virginia (I was at hand, silent I stood with teeth shut close, I watch’d
I stood very near you old man when cool and indifferent, but trembling with age and your unheal’d wounds you mounted the scaffold;)
I would sing in my copious song your census returns of the States
The tables of population and products, I would sing of your ships and their cargoes
The proud black ships of Manhattan arriving, some fill’d with immigrants, some from the isthmus with cargoes of gold
BOOK XVII. BIRDS OF PASSAGE

Songs thereof would I sing, to all that hitherward comes would welcome give
And you would I sing, fair stripling! welcome to you from me, young prince of England!

(Remember you surging Manhattan’s crowds as you pass’d with your cortege of nobles?
There in the crowds stood I, and singled you out with attachment;
Nor forget I to sing of the wonder, the ship as she swam up my bay Well-shaped and stately the Great Eastern swam up my bay, she was 600 feet long Her moving swiftly surrounded by myriads of small craft I forget not to sing;
Nor the comet that came unannounced out of the north flaring in heaven
Nor the strange huge meteor-procession dazzling and clear shooting over our heads (A moment, a moment long it sail’d its balls of unearthly light over our heads Then departed, dropt in the night, and was gone;
Of such, and fitful as they, I sing—with gleams from them would gleam and patch these chants Your chants, O year all mottled with evil and good—year of forebodings!
Year of comets and meteors transient and strange—lo! even here one equally transient and strange!
As I flit through you hastily, soon to fall and be gone, what is this chant What am I myself but one of your meteors?
With Antecedents

1

With antecedents
With my fathers and mothers and the accumulations of past ages
With all which, had it not been, I would not now be here, as I am With Egypt, India, Phenicia, Greece and Rome
With the Kelt, the Scandinavian, the Alb and the Saxon With antique maritime ventures, laws, artisanship, wars and journeys
With the poet, the skald, the saga, the myth, and the oracle
With the sale of slaves, with enthusiasts, with the troubadour, the crusader, and the monk
With those old continents whence we have come to this new continent
With the fading kingdoms and kings over there
With the fading religions and priests
With the small shores we look back to from our own large and present shores
With countless years drawing themselves onward and arrived at these years
You and me arrived—America arrived and making this year
This year! sending itself ahead countless years to come.

2

O but it is not the years—it is I, it is You
We touch all laws and tally all antecedents
We are the skald, the oracle, the monk and the knight, we easily include them and more
We stand amid time beginningless and endless, we stand amid evil and good
All swings around us, there is as much darkness as light
The very sun swings itself and its system of planets around us
Its sun, and its again, all swing around us.

As for me, (torn, stormy, amid these vehement days,)
I have the idea of all, and am all and believe in all
I believe materialism is true and spiritualism is true, I reject no part.

(Have I forgotten any part? any thing in the past?
Come to me whoever and whatever, till I give you recognition.)
I respect Assyria, China, Teutonia, and the Hebrews
I adopt each theory, myth, god, and demigod
I see that the old accounts, bibles, genealogies, are true, without exception I assert that all past days were what they must have been
And that they could no-how have been better than they were
And that to-day is what it must be, and that America is
And that to-day and America could no-how be better than they are.

3

In the name of these States and in your and my name, the Past

518
And in the name of these States and in your and my name, the Present time.
I know that the past was great and the future will be great
And I know that both curiously conjoint in the present time (For the sake of him I typify, for the common average man’s sake your sake if you are he,)
And that where I am or you are this present day, there is the centre of all days, all races
And there is the meaning to us of all that has ever come of races and days, or ever will come.
BOOK XVIII A BROADWAY PAGEANT

Over the Western sea hither from Niphon come Courteous, the swart-cheek’d two-sworded envoys Leaning back in their open barouches, bare-headed, impassive Ride to-day through Manhattan.

Libertad! I do not know whether others behold what I behold
In the procession along with the nobles of Niphon, the errand-bearers Bringing up the rear, hovering above, around, or in the ranks marching
But I will sing you a song of what I behold Libertad.

When million-footed Manhattan unpent descends to her pavements
When the thunder-cracking guns arouse me with the proud roar love
When the round-mouth’d guns out of the smoke and smell I love spit their salutes
When the fire-flashing guns have fully alerted me, and heaven-clouds canopy my city with a delicate thin haze
When gorgeous the countless straight stems, the forests at the wharves, thicken with colors
When every ship richly drest carries her flag at the peak
When pennants trail and street-festoons hang from the windows
When Broadway is entirely given up to foot-passengers and foot-standers, when the mass is densest
When the facades of the houses are alive with people, when eyes gaze riveted tens of thousands at a time
When the guests from the islands advance, when the pageant moves forward visible
When the summons is made, when the answer that waited thousands of years answers
I too arising, answering, descend to the pavements, merge with the crowd, and gaze with them.

2

Superb-faced Manhattan!
Comrade Americanos! to us, then at last the Orient comes.

To us, my city
Where our tall-topt marble and iron beauties range on opposite sides, to walk in the space between
To-day our Antipodes comes.

The Originatress comes
The nest of languages, the bequeather of poems, the race of eld Florid with blood, pensive, rapt with musings, hot with passion Sultry with perfume, with ample and flowing garments
With sunburnt visage, with intense soul and glittering eyes
The race of Brahma comes.

See my cantabile! these and more are flashing to us from the procession
As it moves changing, a kaleidoscope divine it moves changing before us.

For not the envoys nor the tann’d Japanee from his island only Lithe and silent the Hindoo appears, the Asiatric continent itself appears, the past, the dead
The murky night-morning of wonder and fable inscrutable
The envelop’d mysteries, the old and unknown hive-bees
The north, the sweltering south, eastern Assyria, the Hebrews, the ancient of ancients Vast desolated cities, the gliding present, all of these and more are in the pageant-procession.

Geography, the world, is in it
The Great Sea, the brood of islands, Polynesia, the coast beyond
The coast you henceforth are facing—you Libertad! from your Western golden shores
The countries there with their populations, the millions en-masse are curiously here
The swarming market-places, the temples with idols ranged along the sides or at the end, bonze, brahmin, and llama Mandarin, farmer, merchant, mechanic, and fisherman
The singing-girl and the dancing-girl, the ecstatic persons, the secluded emperors Confucius himself, the great poets and heroes, the warriors, the castes all Trooping up, crowding from all directions, from the Altay mountains From Thibet, from the four winding and far-flowing rivers of China
From the southern peninsulas and the demicontinental islands, from Malaysia These and whatever belongs to them palpable show forth to me, and are seiz’d by me And I am seiz’d by them, and friendlily held by them Till as here them all I chant, Libertad! for themselves and for you.

For I too raising my voice join the ranks of this pageant
I am the chanter, I chant aloud over the pageant
I chant the world on my Western sea
I chant copious the islands beyond, thick as stars in the sky
I chant the new empire grander than any before, as in a vision it comes to me
I chant America the mistress, I chant a greater supremacy
I chant projected a thousand blooming cities yet in time on those groups of sea-islands
My sail-ships and steam-ships threading the archipelagoes
My stars and stripes fluttering in the wind Commerce opening, the sleep of ages having done its work, races reborn, refresh’d Lives, works resumed—the object I know not—but the old, the Asiatic renew’d as it must be Commencing from this day surrounded by the world.

3

And you Libertad of the world!
You shall sit in the middle well-poised thousands and thousands of years
As to-day from one side the nobles of Asia come to you
As to-morrow from the other side the queen of England sends her eldest son to you.

The sign is reversing, the orb is enclosed
The ring is circled, the journey is done
The box-lid is but perceptibly open'd, nevertheless the perfume pours copiously out of the whole box.

Young Libertad! with the venerable Asia, the all-mother
Be considerate with her now and ever hot Libertad, for you are all Bend your proud neck to the long-off mother now sending messages over the archipelagoes to you Bend your proud neck low for once, young Libertad.

Here the children straying westward so long? so wide the tramping?
Were the precedent dim ages debouching westward from Paradise so long?
Were the centuries steadily footing it that way, all the while unknown, for you, for reasons?
They are justified, they are accomplish’d, they shall now be turn’d the other way also, to travel toward you thence They shall now also march obediently eastward for your sake Libertad.
BOOK XIX. SEA-DRIFT
Out of the Cradle Endlessly Rocking

Out of the cradle endlessly rocking
Out of the mocking-bird’s throat, the musical shuttle
Out of the Ninth-month midnight
Over the sterile sands and the fields beyond, where the child leaving his bed wander’d alone, bareheaded, barefoot Down from the shower’d halo
Up from the mystic play of shadows twining and twisting as if they were alive
Out from the patches of briers and blackberries
From the memories of the bird that chanted to me
From your memories sad brother, from the fitful risings and fallings I heard From under that yellow half-moon late-risen and swollen as if with tears
From those beginning notes of yearning and love there in the mist
From the thousand responses of my heart never to cease
From the myriad thence-arous’d words From the word stronger and more delicious than any
From such as now they start the scene revising
As a flock, twittering, rising, or overhead passing
Borne hither, ere all eludes me, hurriedly
A man, yet by these tears a little boy again Throwing myself on the sand, confronting the waves
I, chanter of pains and joys, uniter of here and hereafter
Taking all hints to use them, but swiftly leaping beyond them
A reminiscence sing.

Once Paumanok
When the lilac-scent was in the air and Fifth-month grass was growing Up this seashore in some briers Two feather’d guests from Alabama, two together
And their nest, and four light-green eggs spotted with brown
And every day the he-bird to and fro near at hand
And every day the she-bird crouch’d on her nest, silent, with bright eyes
And every day I, a curious boy, never too close, never disturbing them Cautiously peering, absorbing, translating.

Shine! shine! shine!
Pour down your warmth, great sun.’
While we bask, we two together.

Two together!

Winds blow south, or winds blow north
Day come white, or night come black
Home, or rivers and mountains from home
Singing all time, minding no time
While we two keep together.

Till of a sudden
May-be kill’d, unknown to her mate
One forenoon the she-bird crouch’d not on the nest Nor return’d that afternoon, nor the next Nor ever appear’d again.
And thenceforward all summer in the sound of the sea
And at night under the full of the moon in calmer weather
Over the hoarse surging of the sea
Or flitting from brier to brier by day
I saw, I heard at intervals the remaining one, the he-bird
The solitary guest from Alabama.
Blow! blow! blow!
Blow up sea-winds along Paumanok’s shore;
I wait and I wait till you blow my mate to me.
Yes, when the stars glisten’d
All night long on the prong of a moss-scallop’d stake Down almost amid the slapping waves
Sat the lone singer wonderful causing tears.
He call’d on his mate
He pour’d forth the meanings which I of all men know.
Yes my brother I know
The rest might not, but I have treasur’d every note
For more than once dimly down to the beach gliding Silent, avoiding the moonbeams, blending myself with the shadows
Recalling now the obscure shapes, the echoes, the sounds and sights after their sorts
The white arms out in the breakers tirelessly tossing
I, with bare feet, a child, the wind wafting my hair Listen’d long and long.
Listen’d to keep, to sing, now translating the notes
Following you my brother.
Soothe! soothe! soothe!
Close on its wave soothes the wave behind
And again another behind embracing and lapping, every one close
But my love soothes not me, not me.
Low hangs the moon, it rose late
It is lagging–O I think it is heavy with love, with love.

O madly the sea pushes upon the land
With love, with love.

O night! do I not see my love fluttering out among the breakers?
What is that little black thing I see there in the white?
Loud! loud! loud!

Loud I call to you, my love!

High and clear I shoot my voice over the waves
Surely you must know who is here, is here
You must know who I am, my love.

Low-hanging moon!

What is that dusky spot in your brown yellow?
O it is the shape, the shape of my mate.’
O moon do not keep her from me any longer.

Land! land! O land!

Whichever way I turn, O I think you could give me my mate back again if you only would For I am almost sure I see her dimly whichever way I look.

O rising stars!
Perhaps the one I want so much will rise, will rise with some of you.

O throat! O trembling throat!
Sound clearer through the atmosphere!
Pierce the woods, the earth
Somewhere listening to catch you must be the one I want.

Shake out carols!
Solitary here, the night’s carols!
Carols of lonesome love! death’s carols!
Carols under that lagging, yellow, waning moon!

O under that moon where she droops almost down into the sea!

O reckless despairing carols.
But soft! sink low!
Soft! let me just murmur
And do you wait a moment you husky-nois’d sea
For somewhere I believe I heard my mate responding to me
So faint, I must be still, be still to listen
But not altogether still, for then she might not come immediately to me.

Hither my love!
Here I am! here!
With this just-sustain’d note I announce myself to you
This gentle call is for you my love, for you.
Do not be decoy’d elsewhere
That is the whistle of the wind, it is not my voice
That is the fluttering, the fluttering of the spray
Those are the shadows of leaves.
O darkness! O in vain!
O I am very sick and sorrowful
O brown halo in the sky near the moon, drooping upon the sea!
O troubled reflection in the sea!
O throat! O throbbing heart!
And I singing uselessly, uselessly all the night.
O past! O happy life! O songs of joy!
In the air, in the woods, over fields
Loved! loved! loved! loved! loved!
But my mate no more, no more with me!
We two together no more.
The aria sinking
All else continuing, the stars shining
The winds blowing, the notes of the bird continuous echoing
With angry moans the fierce old mother incessantly moaning
On the sands of Paumanok’s shore gray and rustling
The yellow half-moon enlarged, sagging down, drooping, the face of the sea almost touching
The boy ecstatic, with his bare feet the waves, with his hair the atmosphere dallying
The love in the heart long pent, now loose, now at last tumultuously bursting The aria’s meaning, the ears, the soul, swiftly depositing
The strange tears down the cheeks coursing
The colloquy there, the trio, each uttering
The undertone, the savage old mother incessantly crying
To the boy’s soul’s questions sullenly timing, some drown’d secret hissing
To the outsetting bard.

Demon or bird! (said the boy’s soul,)
Is it indeed toward your mate you sing? or is it really to me?
For I, that was a child, my tongue’s use sleeping, now I have heard you Now in a moment I know what I am for, I awake And already a thousand singers, a thousand songs, clearer, louder and more sorrowful than yours
A thousand warbling echoes have started to life within me, never to die.

O you singer solitary, singing by yourself, projecting me
O solitary me listening, never more shall I cease perpetuating you Never more shall I escape, never more the reverberations Never more the cries of unsatisfied love be absent from me Never again leave me to be the peaceful child I was before what there in the night
By the sea under the yellow and sagging moon
The messenger there arous’d, the fire, the sweet hell within The unknown want, the destiny of me.

O give me the clue! (it lurks in the night here somewhere,) O if I am to have so much, let me have more!

A word then, (for I will conquer it,) The word final, superior to all

540
Subtle, sent up—what is it?—I listen; Are you whispering it, and have been all the time, you sea-waves?
Is that it from your liquid rims and wet
sands?
Where to answering, the sea
Delaying not, hurrying not Whisper’d me through the night, and very plainly before daybreak Lisp’d to me the low and delicious word death
And again death, death, death, death Hissing melodious, neither like the bird nor like my arous’d child’s heart But edging near as privately for me rustling at my feet Creeping thence steadily up to my ears and laving me softly all over Death, death, death, death, death, death.

Which I do not forget.

But fuse the song of my dusky demon and brother
That he sang to me in the moonlight on Paumanok’s gray beach
With the thousand responsive songs at random
My own songs awaked from that hour
And with them the key, the word up from the waves
The word of the sweetest song and all songs
That strong and delicious word which, creeping to my feet (Or like some old crone rocking the cradle, swathed in sweet garments, bending aside,)
The sea whisper’d me.
As I Ebb’d with the Ocean of Life

1

As I ebb’d with the ocean of life
As I wended the shores I know
As I walk’d where the ripples continually wash you Paumanok
Where they rustle up hoarse and sibilant
Where the fierce old mother endlessly cries for her castaways
I musing late in the autumn day, gazing off southward
Held by this electric self out of the pride of which I utter poems Was seiz’d by the spirit that trails in the lines underfoot
The rim, the sediment that stands for all the water and all the land of the globe.

Fascinated, my eyes reverting from the south, dropt, to follow those slender windrows Chaff, straw, splinters of wood, weeds, and the sea-gluten
Scum, scales from shining rocks, leaves of salt-lettuce, left by the tide Miles walking, the sound of breaking waves the other side of me Paumanok there and then as I thought the old thought of likenesses
These you presented to me you fish-shaped island
As I wended the shores I know
As I walk’d with that electric self seeking types.

2
As I wend to the shores I know not As I list to the dirge, the voices of men and women wreck’d
As I inhale the impalpable breezes that set in upon me
As the ocean so mysterious rolls toward me closer and closer
I too but signify at the utmost a little wash’d-up drift
A few sands and dead leaves to gather Gather, and merge myself as part of the sands and drift.
O baffled, balk’d, bent to the very earth Oppress’d with myself that I have dared to open my mouth
Aware now that amid all that blab whose echoes recoil upon me I have not once had the least idea who or what I am But that before all my arrogant poems the real Me stands yet untouch’d, untold, altogether unreach’d Withdrawn far, mocking me with mock-congratulatory signs and bows With peals of distant ironical laughter at every word I have written Pointing in silence to these songs, and then to the sand beneath.

I perceive I have not really understood any thing, not a single object, and that no man ever can Nature here in sight of the sea taking advantage of me to dart upon me and sting me Because I have dared to open my mouth to sing at all.
3
You oceans both, I close with you
We murmur alike reproachfully rolling sands and drift, knowing not why These little shreds indeed standing for you and me and all.
You friable shore with trails of debris
You fish-shaped island, I take what is underfoot
What is yours is mine my father.
I too Paumanok
I too have bubbled up, floated the measureless float, and been wash’d on your shores
I too am but a trail of drift and debris
I too leave little wrecks upon you, you fish-shaped island.
I throw myself upon your breast my father
I cling to you so that you cannot unloose me
I hold you so firm till you answer me something.
Kiss me my father
Touch me with your lips as I touch those I love Breathe to me while I hold you close the secret of the murmuring I envy.

4

Ebb, ocean of life, (the flow will return,) Cease not your moaning you fierce old mother Endlessly cry for your castaways, but fear not, deny not me Rustle not up so hoarse and angry against my feet as I touch you or gather from you.

I mean tenderly by you and all
I gather for myself and for this phantom looking down where we lead and following me and mine.

Me and mine, loose windrows, little corpses
Froth, snowy white, and bubbles (See, from my dead lips the ooze exuding at last See, the prismatic colors glistening and rolling,) Tufts of straw, sands, fragments
Buoy’d hither from many moods, one contradicting another
From the storm, the long calm, the darkness, the swell Musing, pondering, a breath, a briny tear, a dab of liquid or soil
Up just as much out of fathomless workings fermented and thrown A limp blossom or two, torn, just as much over waves floating drifted at random
Just as much for us that sobbing dirge of Nature
Just as much whence we come that blare of the cloud-trumpets
We, capricious, brought hither we know not whence, spread out before you
You up there walking or sitting Whoever you are, we too lie in drifts at your feet.
Tears!

In the night, in solitude, tears
On the white shore dripping, dripping, suck’d in by the sand
Tears, not a star shining, all dark and desolate
Moist tears from the eyes of a muffled head;
O who is that ghost? that form in the dark,
with tears?
What shapeless lump is that, bent, crouch’d there on the sand?
Streaming tears, sobbing tears, throes, choked with wild cries;
O storm, embodied, rising, careering with swift steps along the beach!

O wild and dismal night storm, with wind–O belching and desperate!
O shade so sedate and decorous by day, with calm countenance and regulated pace
But away at night as you fly, none looking–O then the unloosen’d ocean
Of tears! tears! tears!
To the Man-of-War-Bird

Thou who hast slept all night upon the storm
Waking renew’d on thy prodigious pinions (Burst the wild storm? above it thou ascended’st And rested on the sky, thy slave that cradled thee,)
Now a blue point, far, far in heaven floating
As to the light emerging here on deck I watch thee (Myself a speck, a point on the world’s floating vast.) Far, far at sea
After the night’s fierce drifts have strewn the shore with wrecks
With re-appearing day as now so happy and serene
The rosy and elastic dawn, the flashing sun
The limpid spread of air cerulean
Thou also re-appearest.
Thou born to match the gale, (thou art all wings,)
To cope with heaven and earth and sea and hurricane
Thou ship of air that never furl’st thy sails Days, even weeks untired and onward, through spaces, realms gyrating
At dusk that lookist on Senegal, at morn
America
That sport’st amid the lightning-flash and thunder-cloud
In them, in thy experiences, had’st thou my soul
What joys! what joys were thine!
Aboard at a ship’s helm
A young steersman steering with care.
Through fog on a sea-coast dolefully ringing
An ocean-bell—O a warning bell, rock’d by the waves.
O you give good notice indeed, you bell by the sea-reefs ringing Ringing, ringing, to warn the ship from its wreck-place.
For as on the alert O steersman, you mind the loud admonition
The bows turn, the freighted ship tacking speeds away under her gray sails
The beautiful and noble ship with all her precious wealth speeds away gayly and safe.
But O the ship, the immortal ship! O ship aboard the ship!
Ship of the body, ship of the soul, voyaging, voyaging, voyaging.
On the Beach at Night

On the beach at night
Stands a child with her father Watching the east, the autumn sky.

Up through the darkness While ravening clouds, the burial clouds, in black masses spreading
Lower sullen and fast athwart and down the sky
Amid a transparent clear belt of ether yet left in the east Ascends large and calm the lord-star Jupiter
And nigh at hand, only a very little above Swim the delicate sisters the Pleiades.

From the beach the child holding the hand of her father
Those burial-clouds that lower victorious soon to devour all Watching, silently weeps.

Weep not, child
Weep not, my darling
With these kisses let me remove your tears
The ravening clouds shall not long be victorious
They shall not long possess the sky, they devour the stars only in apparition Jupiter shall emerge, be patient, watch again another night, the Pleiades shall emerge
They are immortal, all those stars both silvery and golden shall shine out again
The great stars and the little ones shall shine out again, they endure
The vast immortal suns and the long-enduring pensive moons shall again shine.

Then dearest child mournest thou only for Jupiter?
Considerest thou alone the burial of the stars?
Something there is
(With my lips soothing thee, adding I whisper
I give thee the first suggestion, the problem and indirection,) Something there is more immortal even than the stars
(Many the burials, many the days and nights, passing away,) Something that shall endure longer even than lustrous Jupiter Longer than sun or any revolving satellite
Or the radiant sisters the Pleiades.
The world below the brine
Forests at the bottom of the sea, the branches and leaves Sea-lettuce, vast lichens, strange flowers and seeds, the thick tangle openings, and pink turf Different colors, pale gray and green, purple, white, and gold, the play of light through the water Dumb swimmers there among the rocks, coral, gluten, grass, rushes and the aliment of the swimmers
Sluggish existences grazing there suspended, or slowly crawling close to the bottom
The sperm-whale at the surface blowing air and spray, or disporting with his flukes
The leaden-eyed shark, the walrus, the turtle, the hairy sea-leopard, and the sting-ray Passions there, wars, pursuits, tribes, sight in those ocean-depths breathing that thick-breathing air, as so many do
The change thence to the sight here, and to the subtle air breathed by beings like us who walk this sphere
The change onward from ours to that of beings who walk other spheres.
ON THE BEACH AT NIGHT ALONE

On the beach at night alone
As the old mother sways her to and fro singing her husky song
As I watch the bright stars shining, I think a thought of the clef of the universes and of the future.

A vast similitude interlocks all
All spheres, grown, ungrown, small, large, suns, moons, planets
All distances of place however wide
All distances of time, all inanimate forms All souls, all living bodies though they be ever so different, or in different worlds
All gaseous, watery, vegetable, mineral processes, the fishes, the brutes
All nations, colors, barbarisms, civilizations, languages
All identities that have existed or may exist on this globe, or any globe
All lives and deaths, all of the past, present, future
This vast similitude spans them, and always has spann’d
And shall forever span them and compactly hold and enclose them.
Song for All Seas, All Ships

1

To-day a rude brief recitative
Of ships sailing the seas, each with its special flag or ship-signal
Of unnamed heroes in the ships—of waves spreading and spreading far as the eye can reach
Of dashing spray, and the winds piping and blowing
And out of these a chant for the sailors of all nations Fitful, like a surge.

Of sea-captains young or old, and the mates, and of all intrepid sailors
Of the few, very choice, taciturn, whom fate can never surprise nor death dismay.

Pick’d sparingly without noise by thee old ocean, chosen by thee
Thou sea that pickest and cullest the race in time, and unitest nations Suckled by thee, old husky nurse, embodying thee Indomitable, untamed as thee.
(Ever the heroes on water or on land, by ones or twos appearing Ever the stock preserv’d and never lost, though rare, enough for seed preserv’d.)

Flaunt out O sea your separate flags of nations!
Flaunt out visible as ever the various ship-signals!
But do you reserve especially for yourself and for the soul of man one flag above all the rest
A spiritual woven signal for all nations, emblem of man elate above death Token of all brave captains and all intrepid sailors and mates
And all that went down doing their duty
Reminiscent of them, twined from all intrepid captains young or old A pennant universal, subtly waving all time, o’er all brave sailors
All seas, all ships.
Wild, wild the storm, and the sea high running Steady the roar of the gale, with incessant undertone muttering Shouts of demoniac laughter fitfully piercing and pealing Waves, air, midnight, their savagest trinity lashing
Out in the shadows there milk-white combs careering
On beachy slush and sand spirts of snow fierce slanting
Where through the murk the easterly death-wind breasting Through cutting swirl and spray watchful and firm advancing (That in the distance! is that a wreck? is the red signal flaring?)
Slush and sand of the beach tireless till daylight wending Steadily, slowly, through hoarse roar never remitting
Along the midnight edge by those milk-white combs careering
A group of dim, weird forms, struggling, the night confronting That savage trinity warily watching.
After the Sea-Ship

After the sea-ship, after the whistling winds
After the white-gray sails taut to their spars and ropes
Below, a myriad myriad waves hastening, lifting up their necks Tending in ceaseless flow toward the track of the ship
Waves of the ocean bubbling and gurgling, blithely prying Waves, undulating waves, liquid, uneven, emulous waves Toward that whirling current, laughing and buoyant, with curves
Where the great vessel sailing and tacking displaced the surface Larger and smaller waves in the spread of the ocean yearnfully flowing
The wake of the sea-ship after she passes, flashing and frolicsome under the sun
A motley procession with many a fleck of foam and many fragments Following the stately and rapid ship, in the wake following.
BOOK XX. BY THE ROADSIDE
A Boston Ballad (1854)

To get betimes in Boston town I rose this morning early Here’s a good place at the corner, I must stand and see the show.

Clear the way there Jonathan!
Way for the President’s marshal–way for the government cannon!
Way for the Federal foot and dragoons, (and the apparitions copiously tumbling.)
I love to look on the Stars and Stripes, I hope the fifes will play Yankee Doodle.

How bright shine the cutlasses of the foremost troops!

Every man holds his revolver, marching stiff through Boston town.

A fog follows, antiques of the same come limping
Some appear wooden-legged, and some appear bandaged and bloodless.
Why this is indeed a show—it has called the dead out of the earth!

The old graveyards of the hills have hurried to see!

Phantoms! phantoms countless by flank and rear!

Cock’d hats of mothy mould—crutches made of mist!

Arms in slings—old men leaning on young men’s shoulders.

What troubles you Yankee phantoms? what is all this chattering of bare gums? Does the ague convulse your limbs? do you mistake your crutches for firelocks and level them?

If you blind your eyes with tears you will not see the President’s marshal

If you groan such groans you might balk the government cannon.

For shame old maniacs—bring down those toss’d arms, and let your white hair be Here gape your great grandsons, their wives gaze at them from the windows See how well dress’d, see how orderly they conduct themselves.

Worse and worse–can’t you stand it? are you retreating?
Is this hour with the living too dead for you?
Retreat then–pell-mell!

To your graves–back–back to the hills old limpers!

I do not think you belong here anyhow.

But there is one thing that belongs here–shall I tell you what it is, gentlemen of Boston?
I will whisper it to the Mayor, he shall send a committee to England
They shall get a grant from the Parliament, go with a cart to the royal vault Dig out King George’s coffin, unwrap him quick from the graveclothes, box up his bones for a journey Find a swift Yankee clipper–here is freight for you, black-bellied clipper Up with your anchor—shake out your sails—steer straight toward Boston bay.
Now call for the President’s marshal again, bring out the government cannon Fetch home the roarers from Congress, make another procession guard it with foot and dragoons.
This centre-piece for them;
Look, all orderly citizens—look from the windows, women!
The committee open the box, set up the regal ribs, glue those that will not stay Clap the skull on top of the ribs, and clap a crown on top of the skull.
You have got your revenge, old buster—the crown is come to its own, and more than its own.
Stick your hands in your pockets, Jonathan—you are a made man from this day You are mighty cute—and here is one of your bargains.
Suddenly out of its stale and drowsy lair, the lair of slaves
Like lightning it le’pt forth half startled at itself
Its feet upon the ashes and the rags, its hands tight to the throats of kings.
O hope and faith!
O aching close of exiled patriots’ lives!
O many a sicken’d heart!
Turn back unto this day and make yourselves afresh.
And you, paid to defile the People—you liars, mark!
Not for numberless agonies, murders, lusts
For court thieving in its manifold mean forms, worming from his simplicity the poor man’s wages
For many a promise sworn by royal lips and broken and laugh’d at in the breaking Then in their power not for all these did the blows strike revenge or the heads of the nobles fall; The People scorn’d the ferocity of kings.

But the sweetness of mercy brew’d bitter destruction, and the frighten’d monarchs come back Each comes in state with his train, hangman, priest, tax-gatherer Soldier, lawyer, lord, jailer, and sycophant.

Yet behind all lowering stealing, lo, a shape Vague as the night, draped interminably, head, front and form, in scarlet folds Whose face and eyes none may see Out of its robes only this, the red robes lifted by the arm One finger crook’d pointed high over the top, like the head of a snake appears.

Meanwhile corpses lie in new-made graves, bloody corpses of young men The rope of the gibbet hangs heavily, the bullets of princes are flying, the creatures of power laugh aloud.
And all these things bear fruits, and they are good.

Those corpses of young men
Those martyrs that hang from the gibbets, those hearts pierc’d by the gray lead
Cold and motionless as they seem live elsewhere with unslaughter’d vitality.

They live in other young men O kings!
They live in brothers again ready to defy you
They were purified by death, they were taught and exalted.

Not a grave of the murder’d for freedom but grows seed for freedom in its turn to bear seed
Which the winds carry afar and re-sow, and the rains and the snows nourish.

Not a disembodied spirit can the weapons of tyrants let loose
But it stalks invisibly over the earth, whispering, counseling, cautioning.

Liberty, let others despair of you—I never despair of you.
Is the house shut? is the master away? Nevertheless, be ready, be not weary of watching
He will soon return, his messengers come anon.
A Hand-Mirror

Hold it up sternly—see this it sends back,
(who is it? is it you?)
Outside fair costume, within ashes and filth
No more a flashing eye, no more a sonorous voice or springy step
Now some slave’s eye, voice, hands, step
A drunkard’s breath, unwholesome eater’s face, venerealee’s flesh Lungs rotting away piecemeal, stomach sour and cankerous Joints rheumatic, bowels clogged with abomination Blood circulating dark and poisonous streams
Words babble, hearing and touch callous
No brain, no heart left, no magnetism of sex;
Such from one look in this looking-glass ere you go hence
Such a result so soon—and from such a beginning!
Gods

Lover divine and perfect Comrade
Waiting content, invisible yet, but certain
Be thou my God.

Thou, thou, the Ideal Man
Fair, able, beautiful, content, and loving Complete in body and dilate in spirit
Be thou my God.

O Death, (for Life has served its turn,) Opener and usher to the heavenly mansion
Be thou my God.

Aught, aught of mightiest, best I see, conceive, or know (To break the stagnant tie–thee, thee to free, O soul,)
Be thou my God.

All great ideas, the races’ aspirations
All heroisms, deeds of rapt enthusiasts
Be ye my Gods.

Or Time and Space
Or shape of Earth divine and wondrous
Or some fair shape I viewing, worship
Or lustrous orb of sun or star by night
Be ye my Gods.
Forms, qualities, lives, humanity, language, thoughts
The ones known, and the ones unknown, the ones on the stars
The stars themselves, some shaped, others unshaped Wonders as of those countries, the soil, trees, cities, inhabitants whatever they may be Splendid suns, the moons and rings, the countless combinations and effects
Such-like, and as good as such-like, visible here or anywhere, stand provided for a handful of space, which I extend my arm and half enclose with my hand That containing the start of each and all, the virtue, the germs of all.
Thoughts

Of ownership—as if one fit to own things could not at pleasure enter upon all, and incorporate them into himself or herself;
Of vista—suppose some sight in arriere through the formative chaos presuming the growth, fulness, life, now attain’d on the journey
Of what was once lacking on earth, and in due time has become supplied—and of what will yet be supplied Because all I see and know I believe to have its main purport in what will yet be supplied.
When I heard the learn’d astronomer
When the proofs, the figures, were ranged in columns before me
When I was shown the charts and diagrams, to add, divide, and measure them
When I sitting heard the astronomer where he lectured with much applause in the lecture-room
How soon unaccountable I became tired and sick Till rising and gliding out I wander’d off by myself
In the mystical moist night-air, and from time to time Look’d up in perfect silence at the stars.
PERFECTIONS

Only themselves understand themselves and the like of themselves
As souls only understand souls.
O me! O life! of the questions of these recurring
Of the endless trains of the faithless, of cities fill’d with the foolish
Of myself forever reproaching myself, (for who more foolish than I and who more faithless?)
Of eyes that vainly crave the light, of the objects mean, of the struggle ever renew’d
Of the poor results of all, of the plodding and sordid crowds I see around me
Of the empty and useless years of the rest, with the rest me intertwined
The question, O me! so sad, recurring—What good amid these, O me, O life?
Answer.
That you are here—that life exists and identity
That the powerful play goes on, and you may contribute a verse.
To a President

All you are doing and saying is to America dangled mirages
You have not learn’d of Nature–of the politics of Nature you have not learn’d the great amplitude, rectitude, impartiality You have not seen that only such as they are for these States
And that what is less than they must sooner or later lift off from these States.
I SIT AND LOOK OUT

I sit and look out upon all the sorrows of the world, and upon all oppression and shame
I hear secret convulsive sobs from young men at anguish with themselves, remorseful after deeds done
I see in low life the mother misused by her children, dying neglected, gaunt, desperate
I see the wife misused by her husband, I see the treacherous seducer of young women
I mark the ranklings of jealousy and unrequited love attempted to be hid, I see these sights on the earth
I see the workings of battle, pestilence, tyranny, I see martyrs and prisoners
I observe a famine at sea, I observe the sailors casting lots who shall be kill’d to preserve the lives of the rest
I observe the slights and degradations cast by arrogant persons upon laborers, the poor, and upon negroes, and the like;
All these—all the meanness and agony without end I sitting look out upon See, hear, and am silent.
To Rich Givers

What you give me I cheerfully accept A little sustenance, a hut and garden, a little money, as I rendezvous with my poems
A traveler’s lodging and breakfast as journey through the States,– why should I be ashamed to own such gifts?
why to advertise for them?
For I myself am not one who bestows nothing upon man and woman
For I bestow upon any man or woman the entrance to all the gifts of the universe.
The Dalliance of the Eagles

Skirting the river road, (my forenoon walk, my rest,) Skyward in air a sudden muffled sound, the dalliance of the eagles
The rushing amorous contact high in space together
The clinching interlocking claws, a living, fierce, gyrating wheel
Four beating wings, two beaks, a swirling mass tight grappling
In tumbling turning clustering loops, straight downward falling Till o’er the river pois’d, the twain yet one, a moment’s lull
A motionless still balance in the air, then parting, talons loosing Upward again on slow-firm pinions slanting, their separate diverse flight
She hers, he his, pursuing.
Roaming in Thought (After reading Hegel)

Roaming in thought over the Universe, I saw the little that is Good steadily hastening towards immortality
And the vast all that is call’d Evil I saw hastening to merge itself and become lost and dead.
A Farm Picture

Through the ample open door of the peaceful country barn
A sunlit pasture field with cattle and horses feeding
And haze and vista, and the far horizon fading away.
A Child’s Amaze

Silent and amazed even when a little boy
I remember I heard the preacher every Sunday put God in his statements
As contending against some being or influence.
THE RUNNER

On a flat road runs the well-train’d runner
He is lean and sinewy with muscular legs
He is thinly clothed, he leans forward as he runs
With lightly closed fists and arms partially rais’d.
Beautiful Women

Women sit or move to and fro, some old, some young
The young are beautiful—but the old are more beautiful than the young.
Mother and Babe

I see the sleeping babe nestling the breast of its mother
The sleeping mother and babe—hush’d, I study them long and long.
Thought

Of obedience, faith, adhesiveness;
As I stand aloof and look there is to me something profoundly affecting in large masses of men following the lead of those who do not believe in men.
Visor’d

A mask, a perpetual natural disguiser of herself Concealing her face, concealing her form
Changes and transformations every hour, every moment Falling upon her even when she sleeps.
Thought

Of justice—as if could be any thing but the same ample law expounded by natural judges and saviors
As if it might be this thing or that thing, according to decisions.
GLIDING O’ER ALL

Gliding o’er all, through all Through Nature, Time, and Space
As a ship on the waters advancing
The voyage of the soul—not life alone Death, many deaths I’ll sing.
Hast Never Come to Thee an Hour

Hast never come to thee an hour
A sudden gleam divine, precipitating, bursting all these bubbles fashions, wealth?
These eager business aims—books, politics, art, amours
To utter nothingness?
Of Equality—as if it harm’d me, giving others the same chances and rights as myself—as if it were not indispensable to my own rights that others possess the same.
To Old Age

I see in you the estuary that enlarges and spreads itself grandly as it pours in the great sea.
Locations and Times

Locations and times—what is it in me that meets them all, whenever and wherever, and makes me at home?
Forms, colors, densities, odors—what is it in me that corresponds with them?
Offerings

A thousand perfect men and women appear Around each gathers a cluster of friends, and gay children and youths, with offerings.
To The States (To Identify the 16th, 17th, or 18th Presidentiad)

Why reclining, interrogating? why myself and all drowsing?
What deepening twilight-scum floating atop of the waters
Who are they as bats and night-dogs askant in the capitol?
What a filthy Presidentiad! (O South, your torrid suns! O North, your arctic freezings!)
Are those really Congressmen? are those the great Judges? is that the President?
Then I will sleep awhile yet, for I see that these States sleep, for reasons;
(With gathering murk, with muttering thunder and lambent shoots we all duly awake South, North, East, West, inland and seaboard, we will surely awake.)
BOOK XXI. DRUM-TAPS
First O Songs for a Prelude

First O songs for a prelude Lightly strike on the stretch’d tympanum pride and joy in my city How she led the rest to arms, how she gave the cue How at once with lithe limbs unwaiting a moment she sprang (O superb! O Manhattan, my own, my peerless!

O strongest you in the hour of danger, in crisis! O truer than steel!)
How you sprang—how you threw off the costumes of peace with indifferent hand How your soft opera-music changed, and the drum and fife were heard in their stead How you led to the war, (that shall serve for our prelude, songs of soldiers,) How Manhattan drum-taps led.

Forty years had I in my city seen soldiers parading
Forty years as a pageant, till unawares the lady of this teeming and turbulent city Sleepless amid her ships, her houses, her incalculable wealth
With her million children around her, suddenly
At dead of night, at news from the south Incens’d struck with clinch’d hand the pavement.

A shock electric, the night sustain’d it Till with ominous hum our hive at daybreak pour’d out its myriads.

From the houses then and the workshops, and through all the doorways Leapt they tumultuous, and lo! Manhattan arming.

To the drum-taps prompt
The young men falling in and arming The mechanics arming, (the trowel, the jack-plane, the blacksmith’s hammer, tost aside with precipitation,)
The lawyer leaving his office and arming, the judge leaving the court
The driver deserting his wagon in the street, jumping down, throwing the reins abruptly down on the horses’ backs
The salesman leaving the store, the boss, book-keeper, porter, all leaving;
Squads gather everywhere by common consent and arm
The new recruits, even boys, the old men show them how to wear their accoutrements, they buckle the straps carefully
Outdoors arming, indoors arming, the flash of the musket-barrels
The white tents cluster in camps, the arm’d sentries around, the sunrise cannon and again at sunset
Arm’d regiments arrive every day, pass through the city, and embark from the wharves (How good they look as they tramp down to the river, sweaty, with their guns on their shoulders!
How I love them! how I could hug them, with their brown faces and their clothes and knapsacks cover’d with dust!)
The blood of the city up-arm’d! arm’d! the cry everywhere
The flags flung out from the steeples of churches and from all the public buildings and stores
The tearful parting, the mother kisses her son, the son kisses his mother (Loth is the mother to part, yet not a word does she speak to detain him,)
The tumultuous escort, the ranks of policemen preceding, clearing the way The unpent enthusiasm, the wild cheers of the crowd for their favorites
The artillery, the silent cannons bright as gold, drawn along, rumble lightly over the stones
(Silent cannons, soon to cease your silence Soon unlimber’d to begin the red business;)
All the mutter of preparation, all the determin’d arming
The hospital service, the lint, bandages and medicines
The women volunteering for nurses, the work begun for in earnest, no mere parade now;
War! an arm’d race is advancing! the welcome for battle, no turning away!
War! be it weeks, months, or years, an arm’d race is advancing to welcome it.
Mannahatta a-march—and it’s O to sing it well!
It’s O for a manly life in the camp.
And the sturdy artillery
The guns bright as gold, the work for giants, to serve well the guns Unlimber them! (no more as the past forty years for salutes for courtesies merely Put in something now besides powder and wadding.)
And you lady of ships, you Mannahatta
Old matron of this proud, friendly, turbulent city
Often in peace and wealth you were pensive or covertly frown’d amid all your children But now you smile with joy exulting old Mannahatta.
Eighteen Sixty-One

Arm’d year–year of the struggle
No dainty rhymes or sentimental love verses for you terrible year Not you as some pale poetling seated at a desk lisping cadenzas piano
But as a strong man erect, clothed in blue clothes, advancing carrying rifle on your shoulder
With well-gristled body and sunburnt face and hands, with a knife in the belt at your side
As I heard you shouting loud, your sonorous voice ringing across the continent Your masculine voice O year, as rising amid the great cities
Amid the men of Manhattan I saw you as one of the workmen, the dwellers in Manhattan Or with large steps crossing the prairies out of Illinois and Indiana Rapidly crossing the West with springy gait and descending the Allghanies
Or down from the great lakes or in Pennsylvania, or on deck along the Ohio river Or southward along the Tennessee or Cumberland rivers, or at Chattanooga on the mountain top Saw I your gait and saw I your sinewy limbs clothed in blue, bearing weapons, robust year Heard your determin’d voice launch’d forth again and again
Year that suddenly sang by the mouths of the round-lipp’d cannon
I repeat you, hurrying, crashing, sad, distracted year.
Beat! Beat! Drums!

Beat! beat! drums!–blow! bugles! blow!

Through the windows–through doors–burst like a ruthless force Into the solemn church, and scatter the congregation
Into the school where the scholar is studying;
Leave not the bridegroom quiet–no happiness must he have now with his bride
Nor the peaceful farmer any peace, ploughing his field or gathering his grain
So fierce you whirr and pound you drums–so shrill you bugles blow.

Beat! beat! drums!–blow! bugles! blow!

Over the traffic of cities–over the rumble of wheels in the streets;
Are beds prepared for sleepers at night in the houses? no sleepers must sleep in those beds
No bargainers’ bargains by day–no brokers or speculators–would they continue?
Would the talkers be talking? would the singer attempt to sing?
Would the lawyer rise in the court to state his case before the judge?
Then rattle quicker, heavier drums–you bugles wilder blow.

Beat! beat! drums!–blow! bugles! blow!
Make no parley–stop for no expostulation
Mind not the timid–mind not the weeper or prayer
Mind not the old man beseeching the young man
Let not the child’s voice be heard, nor the mother’s entreaties
Make even the trestles to shake the dead where they lie awaiting the hearse
So strong you thump O terrible drums–so loud you bugles blow.
From Paumanok starting I fly like a bird
Around and around to soar to sing the idea of all
To the north betaking myself to sing there arctic songs
To Kanada till I absorb Kanada in myself, to Michigan then
To Wisconsin, Iowa, Minnesota, to sing their songs, (they are inimitable;)
Then to Ohio and Indiana to sing theirs, to Missouri and Kansas and Arkansas to sing theirs
To Tennessee and Kentucky, to the Carolinas and Georgia to sing theirs
To Texas and so along up toward California, to roam accepted everywhere;
To sing first, (to the tap of the war-drum if need be,)
The idea of all, of the Western world one and inseparable
And then the song of each member of these States.
Song of the Banner at Daybreak

Poet:
O A new song, a free song Flapping, flapping, flapping, flapping, by sounds, by voices clearer
By the wind’s voice and that of the drum By the banner’s voice and child’s voice and sea’s voice and father’s voice
Low on the ground and high in the air
On the ground where father and child stand In the upward air where their eyes turn
Where the banner at daybreak is flapping.

Words! book-words! what are you?
Words no more, for hearken and see My song is there in the open air, and I must sing
With the banner and pennant a-flapping.

I’ll weave the chord and twine in Man’s desire and babe’s desire, I’ll twine them in, I’ll put in life I’ll put the bayonet’s flashing point, I’ll let bullets and slugs whizz
(As one carrying a symbol and menace far into the future Crying with trumpet voice, Arouse and beware! Beware and arouse!)
I’ll pour the verse with streams of blood, full of volition, full of joy
Then loosen, launch forth, to go and compete
With the banner and pennant a-flapping.

Pennant:
Come up here, bard, bard
Come up here, soul, soul
Come up here, dear little child To fly in the clouds and winds with me, and play with the measureless light.

Child:
Father what is that in the sky beckoning to me with long finger?
And what does it say to me all the while?
Father:
Nothing my babe you see in the sky
And nothing at all to you it says—but look you my babe Look at these dazzling things in the houses, and see you the money-shops opening And see you the vehicles preparing to crawl along the streets with goods;
These, ah these, how valued and toil’d for these!

How envied by all the earth.

Poet:
Fresh and rosy red the sun is mounting high On floats the sea in distant blue careering through its channels
On floats the wind over the breast of the sea setting in toward land
The great steady wind from west or west-by-south
Floating so buoyant with milk-white foam on the waters.

But I am not the sea nor the red sun
I am not the wind with girlish laughter
Not the immense wind which strengthens, not the wind which lashes Not the spirit that ever lashes its own body to terror and death
But I am that which unseen comes and sings, sings, sings
Which babbles in brooks and scoots in showers on the land
Which the birds know in the woods mornings and evenings
And the shore-sands know and the hissing wave, and that banner and pennant Aloft there flapping and flapping.

Child:
O father it is alive–it is full of people–it has children
O now it seems to me it is talking to its children
I hear it–it talks to me–O it is wonderful!
O it stretches–it spreads and runs so fast–O my father
It is so broad it covers the whole sky.

Father:
Cease, cease, my foolish babe
What you are saying is sorrowful to me, much ‘t displeases me;
Behold with the rest again I say, behold not banners and pennants aloft

620
But the well-prepared pavements behold, and mark the solid-wall’d houses.

Banner and Pennant:
Speak to the child O bard out of Manhattan
To our children all, or north or south of Manhattan
Point this day, leaving all the rest, to us over all–and yet we know not why For what are we, mere strips of cloth profiting nothing
Only flapping in the wind?

Poet:
I hear and see not strips of cloth alone
I hear the tramp of armies, I hear the challenging sentry
I hear the jubilant shouts of millions of men,
I hear Liberty!

I hear the drums beat and the trumpets blowing
I myself move abroad swift-rising flying then I use the wings of the land-bird and use the wings of the sea-bird, and look down as from a height
I do not deny the precious results of peace, I see populous cities with wealth incalculable
I see numberless farms, I see the farmers working in their fields or barns
I see mechanics working, I see buildings everywhere founded, going up, or finish'd
I see trains of cars swiftly speeding along railroad tracks drawn by the locomotives
I see the stores, depots, of Boston, Baltimore, Charleston, New Orleans
I see far in the West the immense area of grain, I dwell awhile hovering
I pass to the lumber forests of the North, and again to the Southern plantation, and again to California;
Sweeping the whole I see the countless profit, the busy gatherings, earn'd wages
See the Identity formed out of thirty-eight spacious and haughty States, (and many more to come,) See forts on the shores of harbors, see ships sailing in and out; Then over all, (aye! aye!) my little and lengthen’d pennant shaped like a sword Runs swiftly up indicating war and defiance– and now the halyards have rais’d it Side of my banner broad and blue, side of my starry banner
Discarding peace over all the sea and land.

Banner and Pennant:
Yet louder, higher, stronger, bard! yet farther, wider cleave!

No longer let our children deem us riches and peace alone
We may be terror and carnage, and are so now
Not now are we any one of these spacious and haughty States, (nor any five, nor ten,) Nor market nor depot we, nor money-bank in the city
But these and all, and the brown and spreading land, and the mines below, are ours
And the shores of the sea are ours, and the rivers great and small And the fields they moisten, and the crops and the fruits are ours
Bays and channels and ships sailing in and out are ours—while we over all Over the area spread below, the three or four millions of square miles, the capitals
The forty millions of people,—O bard! in life and death supreme We, even we, henceforth flaunt out masterful, high up above
Not for the present alone, for a thousand years chanting through you This song to the soul of one poor little child.

Child:
O my father I like not the houses
They will never to me be any thing, nor do I like money
But to mount up there I would like, O father dear, that banner I like That pennant I would be and must be.

Father:
Child of mine you fill me with anguish
To be that pennant would be too fearful Little you know what it is this day, and after this day, forever
It is to gain nothing, but risk and defy every thing
Forward to stand in front of wars—and O, such wars!—what have you to do with them?
With passions of demons, slaughter, prema- ture death?

Banner:
Demons and death then I sing
Put in all, aye all will I, sword-shaped pen- nant for war
And a pleasure new and ecstatic, and the prattled yearning of children Blent with the sounds of the peaceful land and the liquid wash of the sea
And the black ships fighting on the sea envelop’d in smoke
And the icy cool of the far, far north, with rustling cedars and pines
And the whirr of drums and the sound of sol- diers marching, and the hot sun shining south And the beach-waves combing over the beach on my Eastern shore, and my Western shore the same And all between those shores, and my ever running Mississippi with bends and chutes
And my Illinois fields, and my Kansas fields, and my fields of Missouri
The Continent, devoting the whole identity without reserving an atom Pour in! whelm that which asks, which sings, with all and the yield of all Fusing and holding, claiming, devouring the whole
No more with tender lip, nor musical labial sound
But out of the night emerging for good, our voice persuasive no more Croaking like crows here in the wind.

Poet:
My limbs, my veins dilate, my theme is clear at last Banner so broad advancing out of the night, I sing you haughty and resolute I burst through where I waited long, too long, deafen’d and blinded
My hearing and tongue are come to me, (a little child taught me,)
I hear from above O pennant of war your ironical call and demand Insensate! insensate! (yet I at any rate chant you,) O banner!

Not houses of peace indeed are you, nor any nor all their prosperity, (if need be, you shall again have every one of those houses to destroy them
You thought not to destroy those valuable houses, standing fast, full of comfort, built with money May they stand fast, then? not an hour except you above them and all stand fast;)
O banner, not money so precious are you, not farm produce you, nor the material good nutriment
Nor excellent stores, nor landed on wharves from the ships
Not the superb ships with sail-power or steam-power, fetching and carrying cargoes Nor machinery, vehicles, trade, nor revenues—but you as henceforth
I see you
Running up out of the night, bringing your cluster of stars, (ever-enlarging stars,) Divider of daybreak you, cutting the air, touch’d by the sun, measuring the sky (Passionately seen and yearn’d for by one poor little child While others remain busy or smartly talking, forever teaching thrift, thrift;) O you up there! O pennant! where you undulate like a snake hissing so curious
Out of reach, an idea only, yet furiously fought for, risking bloody death, loved by me
So loved—O you banner leading the day with stars brought from the night!

Valueless, object of eyes, over all and demanding all—(absolute owner of all)— —O banner and pennant!

I too leave the rest—great as it is, it is nothing—houses, machines are nothing—I see them not
I see but you, O warlike pennant! O banner so broad, with stripes, sing you only Flapping up there in the wind.
Rise O Days from Your Fathomless Deeps

1
Rise O days from your fathomless deeps, till you loftier, fiercer sweep Long for my soul hungering gymnastic I devour’d what the earth gave me Long I roam’d amid the woods of the north, long I watch’d Niagara pouring I travel’d the prairies over and slept on their breast
I cross’d the Nevadas
I cross’d the plateaus
I ascended the towering rocks along the Pacific, I sail’d out to sea I sail’d through the storm, I was refresh’d by the storm
I watch’d with joy the threatening maws of
the waves
I mark’d the white combs where they career’d so high, curling over I heard the wind piping, I saw the black clouds Saw from below what arose and mounted, (O superb! O wild as my heart, and powerful!

Heard the continuous thunder as it bellow’d after the lightning Noted the slender and jagged threads of lightning as sudden and fast amid the din they chased each other across the sky; These, and such as these, I, elate, saw—saw with wonder, yet pensive and masterful All the menacing might of the globe uprisen around me Yet there with my soul I fed, I fed content, supercilious.

2

’Twas well, O soul—’twas a good preparation you gave me
Now we advance our latent and ampler hunger to fill
Now we go forth to receive what the earth and the sea never gave us Not through the mighty woods we go, but through the mightier cities Something for us is pouring now more than Niagara pouring Torrents of men, (sources and rills of the Northwest are you indeed inexhaustible?)
What, to pavements and homesteads here, what were those storms of the mountains and sea?
What, to passions I witness around me today? was the sea risen?
Was the wind piping the pipe of death under the black clouds?
Lo! from deeps more unfathomable, something more deadly and savage Manhattan rising, advancing with menacing front–Cincinnati, Chicago unchain’td; What was that swell I saw on the ocean? behold what comes here
How it climbs with daring feet and hands– how it dashes!

How the true thunder bellows after the lightning–how bright the flashes of lightning!

How Democracy with desperate vengeful port strides on, shown through the dark by those flashes of lightning!

(Yet a mournful wall and low sob I fancied I heard through the dark In a lull of the deafening confusion.)

Thunder on! stride on, Democracy! strike with vengeful stroke!

And do you rise higher than ever yet O days, O cities!

Crash heavier, heavier yet O storms! you have done me good My soul prepared in the mountains absorbs your immortal strong nutriment Long had I walk’d my cities, my country roads through farms, only half satisfied One doubt nauseous undulating like a snake, crawl’d on the ground before me Continually preceding my steps, turning upon me oft, ironically hissing low; The cities I loved so well I abandon’d and left, I sped to the certainties suitable to me
Hungering, hungering, hungering, for primal energies and Nature’s dauntlessness
I refresh’d myself with it only, I could relish it only
I waited the bursting forth of the pent fire–on the water and air waited long;
But now I no longer wait, I am fully satisfied, I am glutted
I have witness’d the true lightning, I have witness’d my cities electric
I have lived to behold man burst forth and warlike America rise
Hence I will seek no more the food of the northern solitary wilds
No more the mountains roam or sail the stormy sea.
The noble sire fallen on evil days
I saw with hand uplifted, menacing, brandishing (Memories of old in abeyance, love and faith in abeyance,)
The insane knife toward the Mother of All.

The noble son on sinewy feet advancing
I saw, out of the land of prairies, land of Ohio’s waters and of Indiana
To the rescue the stalwart giant hurry his plenteous offspring Drest in blue, bearing their trusty rifles on their shoulders.

Then the Mother of All with calm voice speaking
As to you Rebellious, (I seemed to hear her say,) why strive against me, and why seek my life?
When you yourself forever provide to defend me?
For you provided me Washington—and now these also.
City of Ships

City of ships!
(O the black ships! O the fierce ships!
O the beautiful sharp-bow’d steam-ships and sail-ships!) City of the world! (for all races are here
All the lands of the earth make contributions here;)
City of the sea! city of hurried and glittering tides!

City whose gleeful tides continually rush or recede, whirling in and out with eddies and foam!

City of wharves and stores–city of tall facades of marble and iron!

Proud and passionate city–mettlesome, mad, extravagant city!

Spring up O city–not for peace alone, but be indeed yourself, warlike!

Fear not–submit to no models but your own O city!
Behold me—incarnate me as I have incarnated you!
I have rejected nothing you offer’d me—whom you adopted I have adopted Good or bad I never question you—I love all—I do not condemn any thing
I chant and celebrate all that is yours—yet peace no more
In peace I chanted peace, but now the drum of war is mine War, red war is my song through your streets, O city!
THE CENTENARIAN’S STORY

(Volunteer of 1861-2, at Washington Park, Brooklyn, assisting the Centenarian.) Give me your hand old Revolutionary
The hill-top is nigh, but a few steps, (make room gentlemen,)
Up the path you have follow’d me well, spite of your hundred and extra years
You can walk old man, though your eyes are almost done
Your faculties serve you, and presently I must have them serve me.
Rest, while I tell what the crowd around us means
On the plain below recruits are drilling and exercising
There is the camp, one regiment departs to-morrow
Do you hear the officers giving their orders?
Do you hear the clank of the muskets?
Why what comes over you now old man?
Why do you tremble and clutch my hand so convulsively?
The troops are but drilling, they are yet surrounded with smiles Around them at hand the well-drest friends and the women
While splendid and warm the afternoon sun shines down
Green the midsummer verdure and fresh blows the dallying breeze O’er proud and peaceful cities and arm of the sea between.

But drill and parade are over, they march back to quarters
Only hear that approval of hands! hear what a clapping!
As wending the crowds now part and disperse—but we old man
Not for nothing have I brought you hither—we must remain
You to speak in your turn, and I to listen and tell.

(The Centenarian)
When I clutch’d your hand it was not with terror
But suddenly pouring about me here on every side
And below there where the boys were drilling, and up the slopes they ran
And where tents are pitch’d, and wherever you see south and south-east and south-west Over hills, across lowlands, and in the skirts of woods
And along the shores, in mire (now fill’d over) came again and suddenly raged
As eighty-five years agone no mere parade receiv’d with applause of friends
But a battle which I took part in myself—aye, long ago as it is, I took part in it Walking then this hilltop, this same ground.

Aye, this is the ground
My blind eyes even as I speak behold it re-peopled from graves
The years recede, pavements and stately houses disappear Rude forts appear again, the old hoop’d guns are mounted I see the lines of rais’d earth stretching from river to bay
I mark the vista of waters, I mark the uplands and slopes;
Here we lay encamp’d, it was this time in summer also.
As I talk I remember all, I remember the Declaration
It was read here, the whole army paraded, it was read to us here
By his staff surrounded the General stood in the middle, he held up his unsheath’d sword
It glitter’d in the sun in full sight of the army.
Twas a bold act then–the English war-ships had just arrived
We could watch down the lower bay where they lay at anchor
And the transports swarming with soldiers.
A few days more and they landed, and then the battle.
Twenty thousand were brought against us
A veteran force furnish’d with good artillery.
I tell not now the whole of the battle
But one brigade early in the forenoon order’d forward to engage the red-coats
Of that brigade I tell, and how steadily it march’d
And how long and well it stood confronting death.

Who do you think that was marching steadily sternly confronting death?
It was the brigade of the youngest men, two thousand strong Rais’d in Virginia and Maryland, and most of them known personally to the General.

Jauntily forward they went with quick step toward Gowanus’ waters
Till of a sudden unlook’d for by defiles through the woods, gain’d at night
The British advancing, rounding in from the east, fiercely playing their guns
That brigade of the youngest was cut off and at the enemy’s mercy.

The General watch’d them from this hill
They made repeated desperate attempts to burst their environment
Then drew close together, very compact, their flag flying in the middle But O from the hills how the cannon were thinning and thinning them!
It sickens me yet, that slaughter!
I saw the moisture gather in drops on the face of the General.
I saw how he wrung his hands in anguish.
Meanwhile the British manoeuvr’d to draw us out for a pitch’d battle
But we dared not trust the chances of a pitch’d battle.
We fought the fight in detachments
Sallying forth we fought at several points, but in each the luck was against us
Our foe advancing, steadily getting the best of it, push’d us back to the works on this hill Till we turn’d menacing here, and then he left us.
That was the going out of the brigade of the youngest men, two thousand strong Few return’d, nearly all remain in Brooklyn.
That and here my General’s first battle
No women looking on nor sunshine to bask in, it did not conclude with applause Nobody clapp’d hands here then.

But in darkness in mist on the ground under a chill rain Wearied that night we lay foil’d and sullen
While scornfully laugh’d many an arrogant lord off against us encamp’d Quite within hearing, feasting, clinking wine-glasses together over their victory.

So dull and damp and another day
But the night of that, mist lifting, rain ceasing Silent as a ghost while they thought they were sure of him, my General retreated.

I saw him at the river-side
Down by the ferry lit by torches, hastening the embarcation;
My General waited till the soldiers and wounded were all pass’d over
And then, (it was just ere sunrise,) these eyes rested on him for the last time.
Every one else seem’d fill’d with gloom
Many no doubt thought of capitulation.
But when my General pass’d me
As he stood in his boat and look’d toward the coming sun
I saw something different from capitulation.

(Terminus)

Enough, the Centenarian’s story ends
The two, the past and present, have interchanged
I myself as connecter, as chansonnier of a great future, am now speaking.
And is this the ground Washington trod?
And these waters I listlessly daily cross, are these the waters he cross’d
As resolute in defeat as other generals in their proudest triumphs?
I must copy the story, and send it eastward and westward
I must preserve that look as it beam’d on you rivers of Brooklyn.
See–as the annual round returns the phantoms return
It is the 27th of August and the British have landed
The battle begins and goes against us, behold through the smoke Washington’s face
The brigade of Virginia and Maryland have march’d forth to intercept the enemy
They are cut off, murderous artillery from the hills plays upon them Rank after rank falls, while over them silently droops the flag Baptized that day in many a young man’s bloody wounds.

In death, defeat, and sisters’, mothers’ tears.

Ah, hills and slopes of Brooklyn! I perceive you are more valuable than your owners supposed;
In the midst of you stands an encampment very old Stands forever the camp of that dead brigade.
CAVALRY CROSSING A FORD

A line in long array where they wind betwixt green islands
They take a serpentine course, their arms flash in the sun–hark to the musical clank Behold the silvery river, in it the splashing horses loitering stop to drink
Behold the brown-faced men, each group, each person a picture, the negligent rest on the saddles
Some emerge on the opposite bank, others are just entering the ford–while Scarlet and blue and snowy white
The guidon flags flutter gayly in the wind.
Bivouac on a Mountain Side

I see before me now a traveling army halting Below a fertile valley spread, with barns and the orchards of summer
Behind, the terraced sides of a mountain, abrupt, in places rising high Broken, with rocks, with clinging cedars, with tall shapes dingily seen The numerous camp-fires scatter’d near and far, some away up on the mountain The shadowy forms of men and horses, looming, large-sized, flickering And over all the sky—the sky! far, far out of reach, studded breaking out, the eternal stars.
AN ARMY CORPS ON THE MARCH

With its cloud of skirmishers in advance
With now the sound of a single shot snapping like a whip, and now an irregular volley The swarming ranks press on and on, the dense brigades press on Glittering dimly, toiling under the sun—the dust-cover’d men
In columns rise and fall to the undulations of the ground
With artillery interspers’d—the wheels rumble, the horses sweat
As the army corps advances.
By the Bivouac’s Fitful Flame

By the bivouac’s fitful flame
A procession winding around me, solemn and sweet and slow— but first I note
The tents of the sleeping army, the fields’ and woods’ dim outline
The darkness lit by spots of kindled fire, the silence
Like a phantom far or near an occasional figure moving
The shrubs and trees, (as I lift my eyes they seem to be stealthily watching me,) While wind in procession thoughts, O tender and wondrous thoughts
Of life and death, of home and the past and loved, and of those that are far away;
A solemn and slow procession there as I sit on the ground
By the bivouac’s fitful flame.
Come Up from the Fields Father

Come up from the fields father, here’s a letter from our Pete
And come to the front door mother, here’s a letter from thy dear son.

Lo, ’tis autumn
Lo, where the trees, deeper green, yellower and redder
Cool and sweeten Ohio’s villages with leaves fluttering in the moderate wind Where apples ripe in the orchards hang and grapes on the trellis’d vines (Smell you the smell of the grapes on the vines?
Smell you the buckwheat where the bees were lately buzzing?)
Above all, lo, the sky so calm, so transparent after the rain, and with wondrous clouds Below too, all calm, all vital and beautiful, and the farm prospers well.

Down in the fields all prospers well But now from the fields come father, come at the daughter’s call.
And come to the entry mother, to the front door come right away.
Fast as she can she hurries, something ominous, her steps trembling
She does not tarry to smooth her hair nor adjust her cap.
Open the envelope quickly
O this is not our son’s writing, yet his name is sign’d
O a strange hand writes for our dear son, O stricken mother’s soul!
All swims before her eyes, flashes with black, she catches the main words only Sentences broken, gunshot wound in the breast, cavalry skirmish, taken to hospital At present low, but will soon be better.
Ah now the single figure to me
Amid all teeming and wealthy Ohio with all its cities and farms Sickly white in the face and dull in the head, very faint
By the jamb of a door leans.
Grieve not so, dear mother, (the just-grown daughter speaks through her sobs
The little sisters huddle around speechless and dismay’d,) See, dearest mother, the letter says Pete will soon be better.

Alas poor boy, he will never be better, (nor may-be needs to be better, that brave and simple soul,) While they stand at home at the door he is dead already
The only son is dead.

But the mother needs to be better
She with thin form presently drest in black
By day her meals untouch’d, then at night fit-fully sleeping, often waking
In the midnight waking, weeping, longing with one deep longing
O that she might withdraw unnoticed, silent from life escape and withdraw
To follow, to seek, to be with her dear dead son.
Vigil Strange I Kept on the Field One Night

Vigil strange I kept on the field one night; When you my son and my comrade dropt at my side that day
One look I but gave which your dear eyes return’d with a look I shall never forget
One touch of your hand to mine O boy, reach’d up as you lay on the ground
Then onward I sped in the battle, the even-contested battle Till late in the night reliev’d to the place at last again I made my way Found you in death so cold dear comrade, found your body son of responding kisses, (never again on earth responding,) Bared your face in the starlight, curious the scene, cool blew the moderate night-wind Long there and then in vigil I stood, dimly around me the battlefield spreading Vigil wondrous and vigil sweet there in the fragrant silent night But not a tear fell, not even a long-drawn sigh, long, long I gazed Then on the earth partially reclining sat by your side leaning my chin in my hands Passing sweet hours, immortal and mystic hours with you dearest comrade—not a tear, not a word
Vigil of silence, love and death, vigil for you my son and my soldier
As onward silently stars aloft, eastward new ones upward stole Vigil final for you brave boy, (I could not save you, swift was your death
I faithfully loved you and cared for you living, I think we shall surely meet again,) Till at latest lingering of the night, indeed just as the dawn appear’d
My comrade I wrapt in his blanket, envelop’d well his form
Folded the blanket well, tucking it carefully over head and carefully under feet
And there and then and bathed by the rising sun, my son in his grave, in his rude-dug grave I deposited Ending my vigil strange with that, vigil of night and battle-field dim Vigil for boy of responding kisses, (never again on earth responding,) Vigil for comrade swiftly slain, vigil I never forget, how as day brighten’d
I rose from the chill ground and folded my soldier well in his blanket
And buried him where he fell.
A March in the Ranks Hard-Prest, and the Road Unknown

A march in the ranks hard-prest, and the road unknown
A route through a heavy wood with muffled steps in the darkness
Our army foil’d with loss severe, and the sullen remnant retreating Till after midnight glimmer upon us the lights of a dim-lighted building
We come to an open space in the woods, and halt by the dim-lighted building
’Tis a large old church at the crossing roads, now an impromptu hospital Entering but for a minute I see a sight beyond all the pictures and poems ever made Shadows of deepest, deepest black, just lit by moving candles and lamps
And by one great pitchy torch stationary with wild red flame and clouds of smoke
By these, crowds, groups of forms vaguely I see on the floor, some in the pews laid down
At my feet more distinctly a soldier, a mere lad, in danger of bleeding to death, (he is shot in the abdomen,)
I stanch the blood temporarily, (the youngster’s face is white as a lily,) Then before I depart I sweep my eyes o’er the scene fain to absorb it all Faces, varieties, postures beyond description, most in obscurity, some of them dead Surgeons operating, attendants holding lights, the smell of ether, odor of blood
The crowd, O the crowd of the bloody forms, the yard outside also fill’d
Some on the bare ground, some on planks or stretchers, some in the death-spasm sweating
An occasional scream or cry, the doctor’s shouted orders or calls
The glisten of the little steel instruments catching the glint of the torches
These I resume as I chant, I see again the forms, I smell the odor Then hear outside the orders given, Fall in, my men, fall in;
But first I bend to the dying lad, his eyes open, a half-smile gives he me
Then the eyes close, calmly close, and I speed forth to the darkness Resuming, marching, ever in darkness marching, on in the ranks
The unknown road still marching.
A SIGHT IN CAMP IN THE DAYBREAK GRAY AND DIM

A sight in camp in the daybreak gray and dim
As from my tent I emerge so early sleepless As slow I walk in the cool fresh air the path near by the hospital tent Three forms I see on stretchers lying, brought out there untended lying Over each the blanket spread, ample brownish woolen blanket
Gray and heavy blanket, folding, covering all.

Curious I halt and silent stand Then with light fingers I from the face of the nearest the first just lift the blanket;
Who are you elderly man so gaunt and grim, with well-gray’d hair, and flesh all sunken about the eyes?
Who are you my dear comrade?
Then to the second I step–and who are you my child and darling?
Who are you sweet boy with cheeks yet blooming?
Then to the third—a face nor child nor old,
very calm, as of beautiful yellow-white ivory;
Young man I think I know you—I think this face is the face of the Christ himself Dead and divine and brother of all, and here again he lies.
As Toilsome I Wander’d Virginia’s Woods

As toilsome I wander’d Virginia’s woods
To the music of rustling leaves kick’d by my feet, (for ’twas autumn,) I mark’d at the foot of a tree the grave of a soldier;
Mortally wounded he and buried on the retreat, (easily all could understand,) The halt of a mid-day hour, when up! no time to lose—yet this sign left On a tablet scrawl’d and nail’d on the tree by the grave Bold, cautious, true, and my loving comrade.

Long, long I muse, then on my way go wandering Many a changeful season to follow, and many a scene of life Yet at times through changeful season and scene, abrupt, alone, or in the crowded street Comes before me the unknown soldier’s grave, comes the inscription rude in Virginia’s woods Bold, cautious, true, and my loving comrade.
Not the Pilot

Not the pilot has charged himself to bring his ship into port, though beaten back and many times baffled;
Not the pathfinder penetrating inland weary and long
By deserts parch’d, snows chill’d, rivers wet, perseveres till he reaches his destination
More than I have charged myself, heeded or unheeded, to compose march for these States
For a battle-call, rousing to arms if need be, years, centuries hence.
Year That Trembled and Reel’d Beneath Me

Year that trembled and reel’d beneath me!
Your summer wind was warm enough, yet the air I breathed froze me A thick gloom fell through the sunshine and darken’d me
Must I change my triumphant songs? said I to myself
Must I indeed learn to chant the cold dirges of the baffled?
And sullen hymns of defeat?
THE WOUND-DRESSER

1

An old man bending I come among new faces Years looking backward resuming in answer to children
Come tell us old man, as from young men and maidens that love me (Arous’d and angry, I’d thought to beat the alarum, and urge relentless war But soon my fingers fail’d me, my face droop’d and I resign’d myself To sit by the wounded and soothe them, or silently watch the dead;)
Years hence of these scenes, of these furious passions, these chances Of unsurpass’d heroes, (was one side so brave? the other was equally brave;)
Now be witness again, paint the mightiest armies of earth
Of those armies so rapid so wondrous what saw you to tell us?
What stays with you latest and deepest? of curious panics
Of hard-fought engagements or sieges tremendous what deepest remains?

2

O maidens and young men I love and that love me
What you ask of my days those the strangest and sudden your talking recalls Soldier alert I arrive after a long march cover’d with sweat and dust
In the nick of time I come, plunge in the fight, loudly shout in the rush of successful charge
Enter the captur’d works—yet lo, like a swift-running river they fade Pass and are gone they fade—I dwell not on soldiers’ perils or soldiers’ joys (Both I remember well—many the hardships, few the joys, yet I was content.)
But in silence, in dreams’ projections
While the world of gain and appearance and mirth goes on So soon what is over forgotten, and waves wash the imprints off the sand With hinged knees returning I enter the doors, (while for you up there Whoever you are, follow without noise and be of strong heart.)
Bearing the bandages, water and sponge
Straight and swift to my wounded I go Where they lie on the ground after the battle brought in Where their priceless blood reddens the grass the ground
Or to the rows of the hospital tent, or under the roof’d hospital
To the long rows of cots up and down each side I return To each and all one after another I draw near, not one do I miss An attendant follows holding a tray, he carries a refuse pail Soon to be fill’d with clotted rags and blood, emptied, and fill’d again.

I onward go, I stop
With hinged knees and steady hand to dress wounds
I am firm with each, the pangs are sharp yet 669 unavoidable

One turns to me his appealing eyes—poor boy! I never knew you Yet I think I could not refuse this moment to die for you, if that would save you.

3

On, on I go, (open doors of time! open hospital doors!)
The crush’d head I dress, (poor crazed hand tear not the bandage away,)
The neck of the cavalry-man with the bullet through and through examine Hard the breathing rattles, quite glazed already the eye, yet life struggles hard (Come sweet death! be persuaded O beautiful death!

In mercy come quickly.)
From the stump of the arm, the amputated hand
I undo the clotted lint, remove the slough, wash off the matter and blood Back on his pillow the soldier bends with curv’d neck and side falling head
His eyes are closed, his face is pale, he dares not look on the bloody stump
And has not yet look’d on it.
I dress a wound in the side, deep, deep
But a day or two more, for see the frame all wasted and sinking
And the yellow-blue countenance see.
I dress the perforated shoulder, the foot with the bullet-wound Cleanse the one with a gnawing and putrid gangrene, so sickening, so offensive While the attendant stands behind aside me holding the tray and pail.
I am faithful, I do not give out
The fractur’d thigh, the knee, the wound in the abdomen
These and more I dress with impassive hand, (yet deep in my breast a fire, a burning flame.)

Thus in silence in dreams’ projections
Returning, resuming, I thread my way through the hospitals
The hurt and wounded I pacify with soothing hand
I sit by the restless all the dark night, some are so young
Some suffer so much, I recall the experience sweet and sad (Many a soldier’s loving arms about this neck have cross’d and rested Many a soldier’s kiss dwells on these bearded lips.)
Long, too long America Traveling roads all even and peaceful you learn’d from joys and prosperity only But now, ah now, to learn from crises of anguish, advancing, grappling with direst fate and recoiling not
And now to conceive and show to the world what your children en-masse really are (For who except myself has yet conceiv’d what your children en-masse really are?)
Give Me the Splendid Silent Sun

1
Give me the splendid silent sun with all his beams full-dazzling
Give me autumnal fruit ripe and red from the orchard
Give me a field where the unmow'd grass grows
Give me an arbor, give me the trellis'd grape Give me fresh corn and wheat, give me serene-moving animals teaching content
Give me nights perfectly quiet as on high plateaus west of the Mississippi, and I looking up at the stars
Give me odorous at sunrise a garden of beautiful flowers where I can walk undisturb'd Give me for marriage a sweet-breath'd woman of whom I should never tire Give me a perfect child, give me away aside from the noise of the world a rural domestic life Give me to warble spontaneous songs recluse by myself, for my own ears only Give me solitude, give me Nature, give me again O Nature your primal sanities!
These demanding to have them, (tired with ceaseless excitement, and rack’d by the war-strife,) These to procure incessantly asking, rising in cries from my heart
While yet incessantly asking still I adhere to my city
Day upon day and year upon year O city, walking your streets
Where you hold me enchain’d a certain time refusing to give me up Yet giving to make me glutted, enrich’d of soul, you give me forever faces; (O I see what I sought to escape, confronting, reversing my cries see my own soul tram-pling down what it ask’d for.)

2

Keep your splendid silent sun
Keep your woods O Nature, and the quiet places by the woods Keep your fields of clover and timothy, and your corn-fields and orchards Keep the blossoming buckwheat fields where the Ninth-month bees hum; Give me faces and streets–give me these phantoms incessant and endless along the trottoirs!

Give me interminable eyes–give me women– give me comrades and lovers by the thousand!

Let me see new ones every day–let me hold new ones by the hand every day!

Give me such shows–give me the streets of Manhattan!

Give me Broadway, with the soldiers marching–give me the sound of the trumpets and drums!

(The soldiers in companies or regiments– some starting away, flush’d and reckless Some, their time up, returning with thinn’d ranks, young, yet very old, worn, marching, noticing nothing;)
Give me the shores and wharves heavy-fringed with black ships!

676
O such for me! O an intense life, full to repletion and varied!

The life of the theatre, bar-room, huge hotel, for me!

The saloon of the steamer! the crowded excursion for me! the torchlight procession!

The dense brigade bound for the war, with high piled military wagons following;
People, endless, streaming, with strong voices, passions, pageants Manhattan streets with their powerful throbs, with beating drums as now
The endless and noisy chorus, the rustle and clank of muskets, (even the sight of the wounded,) Manhattan crowds, with their turbulent musical chorus!

Manhattan faces and eyes forever for me.
DIRGE FOR TWO VETERANS

The last sunbeam
Lightly falls from the finish’d Sabbath
On the pavement here, and there beyond it is looking Down a new-made double grave.

Lo, the moon ascending
Up from the east the silvery round moon Beautiful over the house-tops, ghastly, phantom moon Immense and silent moon.

I see a sad procession
And I hear the sound of coming full-key’d bugles
All the channels of the city streets they’re flooding
As with voices and with tears.

I hear the great drums pounding
And the small drums steady whirring
And every blow of the great convulsive drums Strikes me through and through.
For the son is brought with the father (In the foremost ranks of the fierce assault they fell
Two veterans son and father dropt together
And the double grave awaits them.)
Now nearer blow the bugles
And the drums strike more convulsive
And the daylight o’er the pavement quite has faded
And the strong dead-march enwraps me.
In the eastern sky up-buoying
The sorrowful vast phantom moves illumin’d (’Tis some mother’s large transparent face In heaven brighter growing.)
O strong dead-march you please me!
O moon immense with your silvery face you soothe me!
O my soldiers twain! O my veterans passing to burial!
What I have I also give you.
The moon gives you light
And the bugles and the drums give you music
And my heart, O my soldiers, my veterans
My heart gives you love.
Over the Carnage Rose Prophetic a Voice

Over the carnage rose prophetic a voice
Be not dishearten’d, affection shall solve the problems of freedom yet
Those who love each other shall become invincible
They shall yet make Columbia victorious.
Sons of the Mother of All, you shall yet be victorious
You shall yet laugh to scorn the attacks of all the remainder of the earth.
No danger shall balk Columbia’s lovers
If need be a thousand shall sternly immolate themselves for one.
One from Massachusetts shall be a Missourian’s comrade
From Maine and from hot Carolina, and another an Oregonese, shall be friends triune More precious to each other than all the riches of the earth.
To Michigan, Florida perfumes shall tenderly come
Not the perfumes of flowers, but sweeter, and wafted beyond death.
It shall be customary in the houses and streets to see manly affection
The most dauntless and rude shall touch face to face lightly
The dependence of Liberty shall be lovers
The continuance of Equality shall be comrades.
These shall tie you and band you stronger than hoops of iron
I, ecstatic, O partners! O lands! with the love of lovers tie you.

(Were you looking to be held together by lawyers?
Or by an agreement on a paper? or by arms?
Nay, nor the world, nor any living thing, will so cohere.)
I SAW OLD GENERAL AT BAY

I saw old General at bay
(Old as he was, his gray eyes yet shone out in battle like stars,) His small force was now completely hemm’d in, in his works
He call’d for volunteers to run the enemy’s lines, a desperate emergency
I saw a hundred and more step forth from the ranks, but two or three were selected
I saw them receive their orders aside, they listen’d with care, the adjutant was very grave
I saw them depart with cheerfulness, freely risking their lives.
While my wife at my side lies slumbering, and the wars are over long
And my head on the pillow rests at home, and the vacant midnight passes
And through the stillness, through the dark,
I hear, just hear, the breath of my infant
There in the room as I wake from sleep this vision presses upon me;
The engagement opens there and then in fantasy unreal
The skirmishers begin, they crawl cautiously ahead, I hear the irregular snap! snap!
I hear the sounds of the different missiles, the short t-h-t! t-h-t! of the rifle-balls
I see the shells exploding leaving small white clouds, I hear the great shells shrieking as they pass
The grape like the hum and whirr of wind through the trees, (tumultuous now the contest rages,)
All the scenes at the batteries rise in detail before me again
The crashing and smoking, the pride of the men in their pieces
The chief-gunner ranges and sights his piece and selects a fuse of the right time After firing I see him lean aside and look eagerly off to note the effect;
Elsewhere I hear the cry of a regiment charging, (the young colonel leads himself this time with brandish’d sword,)
I see the gaps cut by the enemy’s volleys, (quickly fill’d up, no delay,)
I breathe the suffocating smoke, then the flat clouds hover low concealing all;
Now a strange lull for a few seconds, not a shot fired on either side
Then resumed the chaos louder than ever, with eager calls and orders of officers While from some distant part of the field the wind wafts to my ears a shout of applause, (some special success,)
And ever the sound of the cannon far or near, (rousing even in dreams a devilish exultation and all the old mad joy in the depths of my soul,)
And ever the hastening of infantry shifting positions, batteries cavalry, moving hither and thither
(The falling, dying, I heed not, the wounded dripping and red heed not, some to the rear are hobbling,) Grime, heat, rush, aide-de-camps galloping by or on a full run With the patter of small arms, the warning s-s-t of the rifles, (these in my vision I hear or see,)
And bombs bursting in air, and at night the vari-color’d rockets.
ETHIOPIA SALUTING THE COLORS

Who are you dusky woman, so ancient hardly human
With your woolly-white and turban’d head, and bare bony feet?
Why rising by the roadside here, do you the colors greet?
(‘Tis while our army lines Carolina’s sands and pines Forth from thy hovel door thou Ethiopia com’st to me As under doughty Sherman I march toward the sea.)
Me master years a hundred since from my parents sunder’d
A little child, they caught me as the savage beast is caught Then hither me across the sea the cruel slaver brought.
No further does she say, but lingering all the day
Her high-borne turban’d head she wags, and rolls her darkling eye
And courtesies to the regiments, the guidons moving by.

What is it fateful woman, so blear, hardly human?

Why wag your head with turban bound, yellow, red and green?

Are the things so strange and marvelous you see or have seen?
Not Youth Pertains to Me

Not youth pertains to me
Nor delicatess, I cannot beguile the time with talk
Awkward in the parlor, neither a dancer nor elegant
In the learn’d coterie sitting constrain’d and still, for learning inures not to me Beauty, knowledge, inure not to me—yet there are two or three things inure to me I have nourish’d the wounded and sooth’d many a dying soldier
And at intervals waiting or in the midst of camp
Composed these songs.
Race of Veterans

Race of veterans—race of victors!
Race of the soil, ready for conflict—race of the conquering march!

(No more credulity’s race, abiding-temper’d race,) Race henceforth owning no law but the law of itself Race of passion and the storm.
World take good notice, silver stars fading
Milky hue ript, wet of white detaching
Coals thirty-eight, baleful and burning Scarlet, significant, hands off warning
Now and henceforth flaunt from these shores.
O TAN-FACED PRAIRIE-BOY

O tan-faced prairie-boy
Before you came to camp came many a welcome gift Praises and presents came and nourishing food, till at last among the recruits
You came, taciturn, with nothing to give—we but look’d on each other When lo! more than all the gifts of the world you gave me.
Look Down Fair Moon

Look down fair moon and bathe this scene
Pour softly down night’s nimbus floods on faces ghastly, swollen, purple
On the dead on their backs with arms toss’d wide Pour down your unstinted nimbus sacred moon.
Reconciliation

Word over all, beautiful as the sky
Beautiful that war and all its deeds of carnage must in time be utterly lost
That the hands of the sisters Death and Night incessantly softly wash again, and ever again, this solid world;
For my enemy is dead, a man divine as myself is dead
I look where he lies white-faced and still in the coffin–I draw near Bend down and touch lightly with my lips the white face in the coffin.
How Solemn As One by One
(Washington City, 1865)

How solemn as one by one
As the ranks returning worn and sweaty, as the men file by where stand
As the faces the masks appear, as I glance at the faces studying the masks (As I glance upward out of this page studying you, dear friend, whoever you are,) How solemn the thought of my whispering soul to each in the ranks, and to you
I see behind each mask that wonder a kindred soul
O the bullet could never kill what you really are, dear friend Nor the bayonet stab what you really are;
The soul! yourself I see, great as any, good as the best Waiting secure and content, which the bullet could never kill Nor the bayonet stab O friend.
As I Lay with My Head in Your Lap
Cameroado

As I lay with my head in your lap camerado
The confession I made I resume, what I said to you and the open air
I resume
I know I am restless and make others so I know my words are weapons full of danger, full of death
For I confront peace, security, and all the settled laws, to unsettle them I am more resolute because all have denied me than I could ever have been had all accepted me
I heed not and have never heeded either experience, cautions, majorities, nor ridicule And the threat of what is call’d hell is little or nothing to me
And the lure of what is call’d heaven is little or nothing to me;
Dear camerado! I confess I have urged you onward with me, and still urge you, without the least idea what is our destination
Or whether we shall be victorious, or utterly quell’d and defeated.
Delicate Cluster

Delicate cluster! flag of teeming life!
Covering all my lands–all my seashores lining!
Flag of death! (how I watch’d you through the smoke of battle pressing!
How I heard you flap and rustle, cloth defiant!)
Flag cerulean–sunny flag, with the orbs of night dappled!
Ah my silvery beauty–ah my woolly white and crimson!
Ah to sing the song of you, my matron mighty!
My sacred one, my mother.
To a Certain Civilian

Did you ask dulcet rhymes from me?
Did you seek the civilian’s peaceful and languishing rhymes?
Did you find what I sang erewhile so hard to follow?
Why I was not singing erewhile for you to follow, to understand—nor am I now; (I have been born of the same as the war was born
The drum-corps’ rattle is ever to me sweet music, I love well the martial dirge With slow wail and convulsive throb leading the officer’s funeral;)
What to such as you anyhow such a poet as I? therefore leave my works
And go lull yourself with what you can understand, and with piano-tunes For I lull nobody, and you will never understand me.
Lo, Victress on the Peaks

Lo, Victress on the peaks
Where thou with mighty brow regarding the world
(The world O Libertad, that vainly conspired against thee,) Out of its countless beleaguering toils, after thwarting them all Dominant, with the dazzling sun around thee Flauntest now unharm’d in immortal soundness and bloom—lo, in these hours supreme No poem proud, I chanting bring to thee, nor mastery’s rapturous verse
But a cluster containing night’s darkness and blood-dripping wounds
And psalms of the dead.
Spirit Whose Work Is Done (Washington City, 1865)

Spirit whose work is done—spirit of dreadful hours!

Ere departing fade from my eyes your forests of bayonets;
Spirit of gloomiest fears and doubts, (yet onward ever unfaltering pressing,) Spirit of many a solemn day and many a savage scene—electric spirit
That with muttering voice through the war now closed, like a tireless phantom flitted Rousing the land with breath of flame, while you beat and beat the drum
Now as the sound of the drum, hollow and harsh to the last, reverberates round me
As your ranks, your immortal ranks, return, return from the battles
As the muskets of the young men yet lean over their shoulders
As I look on the bayonets bristling over their shoulders
As those slanted bayonets, whole forests of them appearing in the distance, approach and pass on, returning homeward Moving with steady motion, swaying to and fro to the right and left Evenly lightly rising and falling while the steps keep time;
Spirit of hours I knew, all hectic red one day, but pale as death next day Touch my mouth ere you depart, press my lips close Leave me your pulses of rage—bequeath them to me—fill me with currents convulsive
Let them scorch and blister out of my chants when you are gone
Let them identify you to the future in these songs.
Adieu to a Soldier

Adieu O soldier
You of the rude campaigning, (which we shared,)
The rapid march, the life of the camp
The hot contention of opposing fronts, the long manoeuvre
Red battles with their slaughter, the stimulus, the strong terrific game Spell of all brave and manly hearts, the trains of time through you and like of you all fill’d With war and war’s expression.

Adieu dear comrade
Your mission is fulfill’d— but I, more warlike Myself and this contentious soul of mine Still on our own campaigning bound Through untried roads with ambushes opponents lined Through many a sharp defeat and many a crisis, often baffled Here marching, ever marching on, a war fight out— aye here
To fiercer, weightier battles give expression.
TURN O LIBERTAD

Turn O Libertad, for the war is over
From it and all henceforth expanding, doubting no more, resolute, sweeping the world Turn from lands retrospective recording proofs of the past
From the singers that sing the trailing glories of the past
From the chants of the feudal world, the triumphs of kings, slavery, caste Turn to the world, the triumphs reserv'd and to come–give up that backward world Leave to the singers of hitherto, give them the trailing past
But what remains remains for singers for you–wars to come are for you (Lo, how the wars of the past have duly inured to you, and the wars of the present also inure;)
Then turn, and be not alarm’d O Libertad–turn your undying face To where the future, greater than all the past Is swiftly, surely preparing for you.
To the Leaven’d Soil They Trod

To the leaven’d soil they trod calling I sing for the last (Forth from my tent emerging for good, loos-ing, untying the tent-ropes,)
In the freshness the forenoon air, in the far-stretching circuits and vistas again to peace restored
To the fiery fields emanative and the endless vistas beyond, to the South and the North To the leaven’d soil of the general Western world to attest my songs
To the Alleghanian hills and the tireless Mississippi
To the rocks I calling sing, and all the trees in the woods
To the plains of the poems of heroes, to the prairies spreading wide
To the far-off sea and the unseen winds, and the sane impalpable air;
And responding they answer all, (but not in words,)
The average earth, the witness of war and peace, acknowledges mutely
The prairie draws me close, as the father to bosom broad the son
The Northern ice and rain that began me nourish me to the end
But the hot sun of the South is to fully ripen my songs.
BOOK XXII. MEMORIES OF PRESIDENT LINCOLN
When lilacs last in the dooryard bloom’d
And the great star early droop’d in the western sky in the night
I mourn’d, and yet shall mourn with ever-returning spring.

Ever-returning spring, trinity sure to me you bring Lilac blooming perennial and drooping star in the west
And thought of him I love.

O powerful western fallen star!
O shades of night—O moody, tearful night!
O great star disappear’d—O the black murk that hides the star!
O cruel hands that hold me powerless—O helpless soul of me!
O harsh surrounding cloud that will not free my soul.
3

In the dooryard fronting an old farm-house near the white-wash’d palings Stands the lilac-bush tall-growing with heart-shaped leaves of rich green
With many a pointed blossom rising delicate, with the perfume strong I love
With every leaf a miracle—and from this bush in the dooryard
With delicate-color’d blossoms and heart-shaped leaves of rich green A sprig with its flower I break.

4

In the swamp in secluded recesses
A shy and hidden bird is warbling a song.

Solitary the thrush
The hermit withdrawn to himself, avoiding the settlements Sings by himself a song.

Song of the bleeding throat Death’s outlet song of life, (for well dear brother I know

710
If thou wast not granted to sing thou wouldst surely die.)

5

Over the breast of the spring, the land, amid cities
Amid lanes and through old woods, where lately the violets peep’d from the ground, spotting the gray debris
Amid the grass in the fields each side of the lanes, passing the endless grass Passing the yellow-speard wheat, every grain from its shroud in the dark-brown fields uprisen Passing the apple-tree blows of white and pink in the orchards Carrying a corpse to where it shall rest in the grave
Night and day journeys a coffin.

6

Coffin that passes through lanes and streets
Through day and night with the great cloud darkening the land
With the pomp of the inloop’d flags with the cities draped in black
With the show of the States themselves as of crape-veil’d women standing With processions long and winding and the flambeaus of the night
With the countless torches lit, with the silent sea of faces and the unbared heads
With the waiting depot, the arriving coffin, and the sombre faces With dirges through the night, with the thousand voices rising strong and solemn With all the mournful voices of the dirges pour’d around the coffin
The dim-lit churches and the shuddering organs—where amid these you journey
With the tolling tolling bells’ perpetual clang
Here, coffin that slowly passes
I give you my sprig of lilac.

7

(Nor for you, for one alone Blossoms and branches green to coffins all I bring) For fresh as the morning, thus would I chant a song for you O sane and sacred death.

All over bouquets of roses
O death, I cover you over with roses and early lilies
But mostly and now the lilac that blooms the first Copious I break, I break the sprigs from the bushes
With loaded arms I come, pouring for you For you and the coffins all of you O death.)

8

O western orb sailing the heaven
Now I know what you must have meant as a month since I walk’d
As I walk’d in silence the transparent shadowy night
As I saw you had something to tell as you bent to me night after night
As you droop’d from the sky low down as if to my side, (while the other stars all look’d on,)
As we wander'd together the solemn night,
(for something I know not what kept me from sleep,)
As the night advanced, and I saw on the rim of the west how full you were of woe
As I stood on the rising ground in the breeze in the cool transparent night
As I watch'd where you pass'd and was lost in the netherward black of the night As my soul in its trouble dissatisfied sank, as where you sad orb
Concluded, dropt in the night, and was gone.

9

Sing on there in the swamp
O singer bashful and tender, I hear your notes, I hear your call
I hear, I come presently, I understand you But a moment I linger, for the lustrous star has detain'd me
The star my departing comrade holds and detains me.

10

O how shall I warble myself for the dead one there I loved?
And how shall I deck my song for the large sweet soul that has gone?
And what shall my perfume be for the grave of him I love?
Sea-winds blown from east and west Blown from the Eastern sea and blown from the Western sea, till there on the prairies meeting
These and with these and the breath of my chant
I'll perfume the grave of him I love.

11

O what shall I hang on the chamber walls?
And what shall the pictures be that I hang on the walls
To adorn the burial-house of him I love?
Pictures of growing spring and farms and homes
With the Fourth-month eve at sundown, and the gray smoke lucid and bright With floods of the yellow gold of the gorgeous, indolent, sinking sun, burning, expanding the air
With the fresh sweet herbage under foot, and the pale green leaves of the trees prolific
In the distance the flowing glaze, the breast of the river, with a wind-dapple here and there With ranging hills on the banks, with many a line against the sky, and shadows
And the city at hand with dwellings so dense, and stacks of chimneys
And all the scenes of life and the workshops, and the workmen homeward returning.

12

Lo, body and soul–this land
My own Manhattan with spires, and the sparkling and hurrying tides, and the ships
The varied and ample land, the South and the North in the light Ohio’s shores and flashing Missouri
And ever the far-spreading prairies cover’d with grass and corn.
Lo, the most excellent sun so calm and haughty
The violet and purple morn with just-felt breezes
The gentle soft-born measureless light
The miracle spreading bathing all, the fulfill’d noon
The coming eve delicious, the welcome night and the stars
Over my cities shining all, enveloping man and land.

Sing on, sing on you gray-brown bird
Sing from the swamps, the recesses, pour your chant from the bushes Limitless out of the dusk, out of the cedars and pines.

Sing on dearest brother, warble your reedy song
Loud human song, with voice of uttermost woe.

O liquid and free and tender!
O wild and loose to my soul—O wondrous singer!

You only I hear—yet the star holds me, (but will soon depart,)
Yet the lilac with mastering odor holds me.

Now while I sat in the day and look’d forth
In the close of the day with its light and the fields of spring, and the farmers preparing their crops
In the large unconscious scenery of my land with its lakes and forests
In the heavenly aerial beauty, (after the perturb’d winds and the storms,) Under the arching heavens of the afternoon swift passing, and the voices of children and women
The many-moving sea-tides, and I saw the ships how they sail’d
And the summer approaching with richness, and the fields all busy with labor And the infinite separate houses, how they all went on, each with its meals and minutia of daily usages
And the streets how their throbblings throb'd, and the cities pent–lo, then and there Falling upon them all and among them all, enveloping me with the rest Appear'd the cloud, appear'd the long black trail
And I knew death, its thought, and the sacred knowledge of death.

Then with the knowledge of death as walking one side of me
And the thought of death close-walking the other side of me
And I in the middle as with companions, and as holding the hands of companions
I fled forth to the hiding receiving night that talks not Down to the shores of the water, the path by the swamp in the dimness
To the solemn shadowy cedars and ghostly pines so still.

And the singer so shy to the rest receiv'd me

719
The gray-brown bird I know receiv’d us comrades three
And he sang the carol of death, and a verse for him I love.

From deep secluded recesses
From the fragrant cedars and the ghostly pines so still Came the carol of the bird.

And the charm of the carol rapt me
As I held as if by their hands my comrades in the night
And the voice of my spirit tallied the song of the bird.

Come lovely and soothing death
Undulate round the world, serenely arriving, arriving
In the day, in the night, to all, to each Sooner or later delicate death.

Prais’d be the fathomless universe
For life and joy, and for objects and knowledge curious
And for love, sweet love—but praise! praise! praise!
For the sure-enwinding arms of cool-enfolding death.
Dark mother always gliding near with soft feet
Have none chanted for thee a chant of fullest welcome?
Then I chant it for thee, I glorify thee above all
I bring thee a song that when thou must indeed come, come unfalteringly.
Approach strong deliveress
When it is so, when thou hast taken them I joyously sing the dead
Lost in the loving floating ocean of thee
Laved in the flood of thy bliss O death.
From me to thee glad serenades
Dances for thee I propose saluting thee, adornments and feastings for thee
And the sights of the open landscape and the high-spread shy are fitting
And life and the fields, and the huge and thoughtful night.
The night in silence under many a star
The ocean shore and the husky whispering wave whose voice I know
And the soul turning to thee O vast and well-veil’d death
And the body gratefully nestling close to thee.

Over the tree-tops I float thee a song
Over the rising and sinking waves, over the myriad fields and the prairies wide
Over the dense-pack’d cities all and the teeming wharves and ways
I float this carol with joy, with joy to thee O death.

15

To the tally of my soul
Loud and strong kept up the gray-brown bird
With pure deliberate notes spreading filling the night.

Loud in the pines and cedars dim Clear in the freshness moist and the swamp-perfume
And I with my comrades there in the night.
While my sight that was bound in my eyes unclosed
As to long panoramas of visions.

And I saw askant the armies
I saw as in noiseless dreams hundreds of battle-flags Borne through the smoke of the battles and pierc’d with missiles I saw them
And carried hither and yon through the smoke, and torn and bloody
And at last but a few shreds left on the staffs, (and all in silence,)
And the staffs all splinter’d and broken.

I saw battle-corpses, myriads of them
And the white skeletons of young men, I saw them
I saw the debris and debris of all the slain soldiers of the war
But I saw they were not as was thought They themselves were fully at rest, they suffer’d not
The living remain’d and suffer’d, the mother suffer’d
And the wife and the child and the musing comrade suffer’d
And the armies that remain’d suffer’d.

Passing the visions, passing the night
Passing, unloosing the hold of my comrades’ hands
Passing the song of the hermit bird and the tallying song of my soul Victorious song, death’s outlet song, yet varying ever-altering song
As low and wailing, yet clear the notes, rising and falling, flooding the night
Sadly sinking and fainting, as warning and warning, and yet again bursting with joy Covering the earth and filling the spread of the heaven
As that powerful psalm in the night I heard from recesses Passing, I leave thee lilac with heart-shaped leaves
I leave thee there in the door-yard, blooming, returning with spring.
I cease from my song for thee
From my gaze on thee in the west, fronting the west, communing with thee

O comrade lustrous with silver face in the night.

Yet each to keep and all, retrievements out of the night
The song, the wondrous chant of the gray-brown bird
And the tallying chant, the echo arous’d in my soul
With the lustrous and drooping star with the countenance full of woe
With the holders holding my hand nearing the call of the bird Comrades mine and I in the midst, and their memory ever to keep, for the dead I loved so well
For the sweetest, wisest soul of all my days and lands—and this for his dear sake Lilac and star and bird twined with the chant of my soul
There in the fragrant pines and the cedars dusk and dim.
O Captain! my Captain! our fearful trip is done
The ship has weather’d every rack, the prize we sought is won
The port is near, the bells I hear, the people all exulting While follow eyes the steady keel, the vessel grim and daring;
But O heart! heart! heart!

O the bleeding drops of red
Where on the deck my Captain lies
Fallen cold and dead.

O Captain! my Captain! rise up and hear the bells;
Rise up—for you the flag is flung—for you the bugle trills
For you bouquets and ribbon’d wreaths—for you the shores a-crowding For you they call, the swaying mass, their eager faces turning;
Here Captain! dear father!
This arm beneath your head!
It is some dream that on the deck
You’ve fallen cold and dead.

My Captain does not answer, his lips are pale and still My father does not feel my arm, he has no pulse nor will
The ship is anchor’d safe and sound, its voyage closed and done
From fearful trip the victor ship comes in with object won;
Exult O shores, and ring O bells!

But I with mournful tread Walk the deck my Captain lies
Fallen cold and dead.
Hush’d Be the Camps To-Day (May 4, 1865)

Hush’d be the camps to-day
And soldiers let us drape our war-worn weapons
And each with musing soul retire to celebrate Our dear commander’s death.

No more for him life’s stormy conflicts
Nor victory, nor defeat–no more time’s dark events Charging like ceaseless clouds across the sky.

But sing poet in our name
Sing of the love we bore him–because you, dweller in camps, know it truly.

As they invault the coffin there
Sing–as they close the doors of earth upon him–one verse
For the heavy hearts of soldiers.
This was once the Man
Gentle, plain, just and resolute, under whose cautious hand
Against the foulest crime in history known in any land or age Was saved the Union of these States.
BOOK XXIII
By Blue Ontario's Shore

1

By blue Ontario's shore
As I mused of these warlike days and of peace return'd, and the dead that return no more
A Phantom gigantic superb, with stern visage accosted me Chant me the poem, it said, that comes from the soul of America chant me the carol of victory
And strike up the marches of Libertad, marches more powerful yet
And sing me before you go the song of the throes of Democracy.

(Democracy, the destin'd conqueror, yet treacherous lip-smiles everywhere And death and infidelity at every step.)

2

A Nation announcing itself
I myself make the only growth by which I can be appreciated
I reject none, accept all, then reproduce all in my own forms.

A breed whose proof is in time and deeds
What we are we are, nativity is answer enough to objections
We wield ourselves as a weapon is wielded
We are powerful and tremendous in ourselves
We are executive in ourselves, we are sufficient in the variety of ourselves
We are the most beautiful to ourselves and in ourselves
We stand self-poised in the middle, branching thence over the world From Missouri, Nebraska, or Kansas, laughing attacks to scorn.

Nothing is sinful to us outside of ourselves
Whatever appears, whatever does not appear, we are beautiful or sinful in ourselves only.

(O Mother–O Sisters dear!

If we are lost, no victor else has destroy’d us
It is by ourselves we go down to eternal night.)

3
Have you thought there could be but a single supreme?
There can be any number of supremes—one does not countervail another any more than one eyesight countervails another, or one life countervails another.

All is eligible to all
All is for individuals, all is for you
No condition is prohibited, not God’s or any.

All comes by the body, only health puts you rapport with the universe.

Produce great Persons, the rest follows.

4
Piety and conformity to them that like Peace, obesity, allegiance, to them that like I am he who tauntingly compels men, women, nations
Crying, Leap from your seats and contend for your lives!
I am he who walks the States with a barb’d tongue, questioning everyone I meet
Who are you that wanted only to be told what you knew before?
Who are you that wanted only a book to join you in your nonsense?
(With pangs and cries as thine own O bearer of many children These clamors wild to a race of pride I give.)
O lands, would you be freer than all that has ever been before?
If you would be freer than all that has been before, come listen to me.

Fear grace, elegance, civilization, delicatesse
Fear the mellow sweet, the sucking of honey-juice
Beware the advancing mortal ripening of Nature
Beware what precedes the decay of the ruggedness of states and men.

Ages, precedents, have long been accumulating undirected materials America brings builders, and brings its own styles.

The immortal poets of Asia and Europe have done their work and pass’d to other spheres.
A work remains, the work of surpassing all they have done.

America, curious toward foreign characters, stands by its own at all hazards.
Stands removed, spacious, composite, sound, initiates the true use of precedents.
Does not repel them or the past or what they have produced under their forms.
Takes the lesson with calmness, perceives the corpse slowly borne from the house.
Perceives that it waits a little while in the door, that it was fittest for its days.
That its life has descended to the stalwart and well-shaped heir who approaches.
And that he shall be fittest for his days.

Any period one nation must lead.
One land must be the promise and reliance of the future.
These States are the amplest poem
Here is not merely a nation but a teeming Nation of nations
Here the doings of men correspond with the broadcast doings of the day and night Here is what moves in magnificent masses careless of particulars
Here are the roughs, beards, friendliness, combativeness, the soul loves
Here the flowing trains, here the crowds, equality, diversity, the soul loves.

6

Land of lands and bards to corroborate!

Of them standing among them, one lifts to the light a west-bred face To him the hereditary countenance be-queath’d both mother’s and father’s His first parts substances, earth, water, animals, trees
Built of the common stock, having room for far and near
Used to dispense with other lands, incarnating this land

737
Attracting it body and soul to himself, hanging on its neck with incomparable love Plunging his seminal muscle into its merits and demerits Making its cities, beginnings, events, diversities, wars, vocal in him Making its rivers, lakes, bays, embouchure in him Mississippi with yearly freshets and changing chutes, Columbia Niagara, Hudson, spending themselves lovingly in him
If the Atlantic coast stretch or the Pacific coast stretch, he stretching with them North or South Spanning between them East and West, and touching whatever is between them Growths growing from him to offset the growths of pine, cedar, hemlock live-oak, locust, chestnut, hickory, cotton-wood, orange, magnolia Tangles as tangled in him as any canebrake or swamp
He likening sides and peaks of mountains, forests coated with northern transparent ice Off him pasturage sweet and natural as savanna, upland, prairie
Through him flights, whirls, screams, answering those of the fish-hawk, mocking-bird, night-heron, and eagle
His spirit surrounding his country’s spirit, unclosed to good and evil Surrounding the essences of real things, old times and present times Surrounding just found shores, islands, tribes of red aborigines Weather-beaten vessels, landings, settlements, embryo stature and muscle
The haughty defiance of the Year One, war, peace, the formation of the Constitution
The separate States, the simple elastic scheme, the immigrants
The Union always swarming with blatherers and always sure and impregnable
The unsurvey’d interior, log-houses, clearings, wild animals, hunters, trappers Surrounding the multiform agriculture, mines, temperature, the gestation of new States Congress convening every Twelfth-month, the members duly coming up from the uttermost parts Surrounding the noble character of mechanics and farmers, especially the young men Responding their manners, speech, dress, friendships, the gait they have of persons who never knew how it felt to stand in the presence of superiors
The freshness and candor of their physiognomy, the copiousness and decision of their phrenology
The picturesque looseness of their carriage, their fierceness when wrong’d
The fluency of their speech, their delight in music, their curiosity, good temper and open-handedness, the whole composite make
The prevailing ardor and enterprise, the large amativeness
The perfect equality of the female with the male, the fluid movement of the popula-
The superior marine, free commerce, fisheries, whaling, gold-digging Wharf-hemm’d cities, railroad and steamboat lines intersecting all points Factories, mercantile life, labor-saving machinery, the Northeast, Northwest, Southwest Manhattan firemen, the Yankee swap, southern plantation life Slavery—the murderous, treacherous conspiracy to raise it upon the ruins of all the rest
On and on to the grapple with it—Assassin! then your life or ours be the stake, and respite no more.

(Lo, high toward heaven, this day
Libertad, from the conqueress’ field return’d
I mark the new aureola around your head
No more of soft astral, but dazzling and fierce With war’s flames and the lambent lightnings playing
And your port immovable where you stand
With still the inextinguishable glance and the clinch’d and lifted fist
And your foot on the neck of the menacing one, the scowler utterly crush’d beneath you
The menacing arrogant one that strode and advanced with his senseless scorn, bearing the murderous knife,
   The wide-swelling one, the braggart that would yesterday do so much
To-day a carrion dead and damn’d, the despised of all the earth
An offal rank, to the dunghill maggots spurn’d.)

8

Others take finish, but the Republic is ever constructive and ever keeps vista Others adorn the past, but you O days of the present, I adorn you
O days of the future I believe in you–I isolate myself for your sake
O America because you build for mankind I build for you

742
O well-beloved stone-cutters, I lead them who plan with decision and science Lead the present with friendly hand toward the future.

(Bravas to all impulses sending sane children to the next age!
But damn that which spends itself with no thought of the stain pains, dismay, feebleness, it is bequeathing.)

I listened to the Phantom by Ontario’s shore
I heard the voice arising demanding bards
By them all native and grand, by them alone can these States be fused into the compact organism of a Nation.

To hold men together by paper and seal or by compulsion is no account
That only holds men together which aggregates all in a living principle, as the hold of the limbs of the body or the fibres of plants.

Of all races and eras these States with veins full of poetical stuff most need poets, and are to have the greatest, and use them the greatest Their Presidents shall not be their common referee so much as their poets shall.
(Soul of love and tongue of fire!
Eye to pierce the deepest deeps and sweep the world!
Ah Mother, prolific and full in all besides, yet how long barren, barren?)

Of these States the poet is the equable man
Not in him but off from him things are grotesque, eccentric, fail of their full returns
Nothing out of its place is good, nothing in its place is bad
He bestows on every object or quality its fit proportion, neither more nor less
He is the arbiter of the diverse, he is the key
He is the equalizer of his age and land
He supplies what wants supplying, he checks what wants checking
In peace out of him speaks the spirit of peace, large, rich thrifty, building populous towns, encouraging agriculture, arts, commerce, lighting the study of man, the soul, health, immortality, government
In war he is the best backer of the war, he fetches artillery as good as the engineer’s, he can make every word he speaks draw blood
The years straying toward infidelity he withholds by his steady faith
He is no arguer, he is judgment, (Nature accepts him absolutely,)
He judges not as the judge judges but as the sun failing round helpless thing
As he sees the farthest he has the most faith
His thoughts are the hymns of the praise of things
In the dispute on God and eternity he is silent
He sees eternity less like a play with a prologue and denouement He sees eternity in men and women, he does not see men and women as dreams or dots.

For the great Idea, the idea of perfect and free individuals
For that, the bard walks in advance, leader of leaders
The attitude of him cheers up slaves and horrifies foreign despots.

Without extinction is Liberty, without retrograde is Equality
They live in the feelings of young men and the best women (Not for nothing have the indomitable heads of the earth been always ready to fall for Liberty.)

11

For the great Idea
That, O my brethren, that is the mission of poets.

Songs of stern defiance ever ready
Songs of the rapid arming and the march
The flag of peace quick-folded, and instead the flag we know Warlike flag of the great Idea.

(Angry cloth I saw there leaping!
I stand again in leaden rain your flapping folds saluting
I sing you over all, flying beckoning through the fight–O the hard-contested fight!
The cannons ope their rosy-flashing muzzles–the hurtled balls scream
The battle-front forms amid the smoke–the volleys pour incessant from the line Hark, the ringing word Charge!–now the tussle and the furious maddening yells Now the corpses tumble curl’d upon the ground
Cold, cold in death, for precious life of you Angry cloth I saw there leaping.)

12

Are you he who would assume a place to teach or be a poet here in the States?
The place is august, the terms obdurate.
Who would assume to teach here may well prepare himself body and mind
He may well survey, ponder, arm, fortify, harden, make lithe himself
He shall surely be question’d beforehand by me with many and stern questions.

Who are you indeed who would talk or sing to America?
Have you studied out the land, its idioms and men?
Have you learn’d the physiology, phrenology, politics, geography, pride, freedom, friendship of the land? its substratums and objects?
Have you consider’d the organic compact of the first day of the first year of Independence, sign’d by the Commissioners, ratified by the States, and read by Washington at the head of the army?
Have you possess’d yourself of the Federal Constitution?
Do you see who have left all feudal processes and poems behind them, and assumed the poems and processes of Democracy?
Are you faithful to things? do you teach what the land and sea, the bodies of men, womanhood, amativeness, heroic angers, teach?
Have you sped through fleeting customs, popularities?
Can you hold your hand against all seductions, follies, whirls, fierce contentions?
Are you very strong? are you really of the whole People?
Are you not of some coterie? some school or mere religion?
Are you done with reviews and criticisms of life? animating now to life itself?
Have you vivified yourself from the maternity of these States?
Have you too the old ever-fresh forbearance and impartiality?
Do you hold the like love for those hardening to maturity? for the last-born? little and big? and for the errant?
What is this you bring my America?
Is it uniform with my country?
Is it not something that has been better told or done before?
Have you not imported this or the spirit of it in some ship?
Is it not a mere tale? a rhyme? a prettiness?—Is the good old cause in it?
Has it not dangled long at the heels of the poets, politicians, literats, of enemies’ lands?
Does it not assume that what is notoriously gone is still here?
Does it answer universal needs? will it improve manners?
Does it sound with trumpet-voice the proud victory of the Union in that secession war?
Can your performance face the open fields and the seaside?
Will it absorb into me as I absorb food, air, to appear again in my strength, gait, face?
Have real employments contributed to it? original makers, not mere amanuenses?
Does it meet modern discoveries, calibres, facts, face to face?
What does it mean to American persons, progresses, cities? Chicago, Kanada, Arkansas?
Does it see behind the apparent custodians the real custodians standing, menacing, silent, the mechanics, Manhattanese, Western men, Southerners, significant alike in their apathy, and in the promptness of their love?
Does it see what finally befalls, and has always finally befallen, each temporizer, patcher, outsider, partialist, alarmist, infidel, who has ever ask’d any thing of America?
What mocking and scornful negligence?
The track strew’d with the dust of skeletons
By the roadside others disdainfully toss’d.

13

Rhymes and rhymers pass away, poems distill’d from poems pass away
The swarms of reflectors and the polite pass, and leave ashes
Admirers, importers, obedient persons, make but the soil of literature
America justifies itself, give it time, no disguise can deceive it or conceal from it, it is impassive enough
Only toward the likes of itself will it advance to meet them
If its poets appear it will in due time advance to meet them, there is no fear of mistake
(The proof of a poet shall be sternly deferr’d till his country absorbs him as affectionately as he has absorb’d it.)
He masters whose spirit masters, he tastes sweetest who results sweetest in the long run
The blood of the brawn beloved of time is unconstraint;
In the need of songs, philosophy, an appropriate native grand-opera, shipcraft, any craft
He or she is greatest who contributes the greatest original practical example.
Already a nonchalant breed, silently emerging, appears on the streets People’s lips salute only doers, lovers, satisfiers, positive knowers
There will shortly be no more priests, I say their work is done Death is without emergencies here, but life is perpetual emergencies here Are your body, days, manners, superb? after death you shall be superb Justice, health, self-esteem, clear the way with irresistible power;
How dare you place any thing before a man?

14

Fall behind me States!
A man before all–myself, typical, before all.
Give me the pay I have served for Give me to sing the songs of the great Idea, take all the rest
I have loved the earth, sun, animals, I have despised riches
I have given aims to every one that ask’d, stood up for the stupid and crazy, devoted my income and labor to others Hated tyrants, argued not concerning God, had patience and indulgence toward the people, taken off my hat to nothing known or unknown
Gone freely with powerful uneducated persons and with the young, and with the mothers of families
Read these leaves to myself in the open air, tried them by trees, stars, rivers Dismiss’d whatever insulted my own soul or defiled my body
Claim’d nothing to myself which I have not carefully claim’d for others on the same terms
Sped to the camps, and comrades found and accepted from every State (Upon this breast has many a dying soldier lean’d to breathe his last This arm, this hand, this voice, have nour-ish’d, rais’d, restored
To life recalling many a prostrate form;) I am willing to wait to be understood by the growth of the taste of myself Rejecting none, permitting all.

(Say O Mother, have I not to your thought been faithful?
Have I not through life kept you and yours before me?)
I swear I begin to see the meaning of these things
It is not the earth, it is not America who is so great
It is I who am great or to be great, it is You up there, or any one
It is to walk rapidly through civilizations, governments, theories Through poems, pageants, shows, to form individuals.

Underneath all, individuals
I swear nothing is good to me now that ignores individuals
The American compact is altogether with individuals
The only government is that which makes minute of individuals
The whole theory of the universe is directed unerringly to onesingle individual—namely to You.

(Mother! with subtle sense severe, with the naked sword in your hand I saw you at last refuse to treat but directly with individuals.)

16

Underneath all, Nativity
I swear I will stand by my own nativity, pious or impious so be it;
I swear I am charm’d with nothing except nativity Men, women, cities, nations, are only beautiful from nativity.

Underneath all is the Expression of love for men and women
(I swear I have seen enough of mean and impotent modes of expressing love for men and women After this day I take my own modes of expressing love for men and women.) in myself
I swear I will have each quality of my race in myself (Talk as you like, he only suits these States whose manners favor the audacity and sublime turbulence of the States.)
Underneath the lessons of things, spirits, Nature, governments, ownerships, I swear I perceive other lessons Underneath all to me is myself, to you yourself, (the same monotonous old song.)

17

O I see flashing that this America is only you and me
Its power, weapons, testimony, are you and me
Its crimes, lies, thefts, defections, are you and me
Its Congress is you and me, the officers, capitals, armies, ships, are you and me
Its endless gestations of new States are you and me
The war, (that war so bloody and grim, the war I will henceforth forget), was you and me
Natural and artificial are you and me
Freedom, language, poems, employments, are you and me
Past, present, future, are you and me.

I dare not shirk any part of myself
Not any part of America good or bad
Not to build for that which builds for mankind
Not to balance ranks, complexions, creeds, and the sexes
Not to justify science nor the march of equality
Nor to feed the arrogant blood of the brawn belov’d of time.

I am for those that have never been master’d
For men and women whose tempers have never been master’d
For those whom laws, theories, conventions, can never master.

I am for those who walk abreast with the whole earth
Who inaugurate one to inaugurate all.

I will not be outfaced by irrational things
I will penetrate what it is in them that is sarcastic upon me
I will make cities and civilizations defer to me
This is what I have learnt from America—it is the amount, and it I teach again.
(Democracy, while weapons were everywhere aim’d at your breast
I saw you serenely give birth to immortal children, saw in dreams your dilating form Saw you with spreading mantle covering the world.)

18

I will confront these shows of the day and night
I will know if I am to be less than they I will see if I am not as majestic as they I will see if I am not as subtle and real as they I will see if I am to be less generous than they
I will see if I have no meaning, while the houses and ships have meaning
I will see if the fishes and birds are to be enough for themselves, and I am not to be enough for myself.

I match my spirit against yours you orbs, growths, mountains, brutes

Copious as you are I absorb you all in myself, and become the master myself America isolated yet embodying all, what is it finally except myself?
These States, what are they except myself?
I know now why the earth is gross, tantalizing, wicked, it is for my sake
I take you specially to be mine, you terrible, rude forms.

(Mother, bend down, bend close to me your face
I know not what these plots and wars and deferments are for I know not fruition’s success, but I know that through war and crime your work goes on, and must yet go on.)

19

Thus by blue Ontario’s shore
While the winds fann’d me and the waves came trooping toward me I thrill’d with the power’s pulsations, and the charm of my theme was upon me
Till the tissues that held me parted their ties upon me.
And I saw the free souls of poets
The loftiest bards of past ages strode before me
Strange large men, long unwaked, undisclosed, were disclosed to me.

O my rapt verse, my call, mock me not!
Not for the bards of the past, not to invoke them have I launch’d you forth
Not to call even those lofty bards here by Ontario’s shores
Have I sung so capricious and loud my savage song.

Bards for my own land only I invoke (For the war the war is over, the field is clear’d,) Till they strike up marches henceforth triumphant and onward
To cheer O Mother your boundless expectant soul.

Bards of the great Idea! bards of the peaceful inventions! (for the war, the war is over!)
Yet bards of latent armies, a million soldiers waiting ever-ready Bards with songs as from burning coals or the lightning’s fork’d stripes!
Ample Ohio’s, Kanada’s bards–bards of California! inland bards– bards of the war!
You by my charm I invoke.
Reversals

Let that which stood in front go behind
Let that which was behind advance to the front
Let bigots, fools, unclean persons, offer new propositions
Let the old propositions be postponed
Let a man seek pleasure everywhere except in himself
Let a woman seek happiness everywhere except in herself
BOOK XXIV. AUTUMN RIVULETS
As Consequent, Etc.

As consequent from store of summer rains
Or wayward rivulets in autumn flowing
Or many a herb-lined brook’s reticulations
Or subterranean sea-rills making for the sea
Songs of continued years I sing.

Life’s ever-modern rapids first, (soon, soon to blend With the old streams of death.)
Some threading Ohio’s farm-fields or the woods
Some down Colorado’s canons from sources of perpetual snow
Some half-hid in Oregon, or away southward in Texas
Some in the north finding their way to Erie, Niagara, Ottawa
Some to Atlantica’s bays, and so to the great salt brine.

In you whoe’er you are my book perusing
In I myself, in all the world, these currents flowing
All, all toward the mystic ocean tending.

Currents for starting a continent new Overtures sent to the solid out of the liquid Fusion of ocean and land, tender and pensive waves (Not safe and peaceful only, waves rous’d and ominous too
Out of the depths the storm’s abysmic waves, who knows whence?
Raging over the vast, with many a broken spar and tatter’d sail.)
Or from the sea of Time, collecting vasting all, I bring A windrow-drift of weeds and shells.

O little shells, so curious-convoluted, so limpid-cold and voiceless
Will you not little shells to the tympanas of temples held Murmurs and echoes still call up, eternity’s music faint and far Wafted inland, sent from Atlantica’s rim, strains for the soul of the prairies Whisper’d reverberations, chords for the ear of the West joyously sounding
Your tidings old, yet ever new and untranslatable Infinitesimals out of my life, and many a life (For not my life and years alone I give—all, all I give,) These waifs from the deep, cast high and dry Wash’d on America’s shores?
THE RETURN OF THE HEROES

1
For the lands and for these passionate days and for myself
Now I awhile retire to thee O soil of autumn fields Reclining on thy breast, giving myself to thee Answering the pulses of thy sane and equable heart
Turning a verse for thee.
O earth that hast no voice, confide to me a voice
O harvest of my lands–O boundless summer growths
O lavish brown parturient earth–O infinite teeming womb
A song to narrate thee.

2
Ever upon this stage
Is acted God’s calm annual drama
Gorgeous processions, songs of birds
Sunrise that fullest feeds and freshens most the soul
The heaving sea, the waves upon the shore, the musical, strong waves
The woods, the stalwart trees, the slender, tapering trees
The liliput countless armies of the grass
The heat, the showers, the measureless pasturages
The scenery of the snows, the winds’ free orchestra
The stretching light-hung roof of clouds, the clear cerulean and the silvery fringes
The high-dilating stars, the placid beckoning stars
The moving flocks and herds, the plains and emerald meadows
The shows of all the varied lands and all the growths and products.

3

Fecund America—today
Thou art all over set in births and joys!
Thou groan’st with riches, thy wealth clothes thee as a swathing-garment
Thou laughest loud with ache of great possessions
A myriad-twining life like interlacing vines binds all thy vast demesne
As some huge ship freighted to water’s edge thou ridest into port
As rain falls from the heaven and vapors rise from earth, so have the precious values fallen upon thee and risen out of thee;
Thou envy of the globe! thou miracle!

Thou, bathed, choked, swimming in plenty Thou lucky Mistress of the tranquil barns
Thou Prairie Dame that sittest in the middle and lookest out upon thy world, and lookest East and lookest West Dispensatress, that by a word givest a thousand miles, a million farms, and missest nothing Thou all-acceptress–thou hospitable, (thou only art hospitable as God is hospitable.)
When late I sang sad was my voice
Sad were the shows around me with deafening noises of hatred and smoke of war;
In the midst of the conflict, the heroes, I stood
Or pass’d with slow step through the wounded and dying.

But now I sing not war
Nor the measur’d march of soldiers, nor the tents of camps
Nor the regiments hastily coming up deploying in line of battle;
No more the sad, unnatural shows of war.

Ask’d room those flush’d immortal ranks, the first forth-stepping armies?
Ask room alas the ghastly ranks, the armies dread that follow’d.

(Pass, pass, ye proud brigades, with your tramping sinewy legs
With your shoulders young and strong, with your knapsacks and your muskets;
How elate I stood and watch’d you, where starting off you march’d.

Pass–then rattle drums again
For an army heaves in sight, O another gathering army Swarming, trailing on the rear, O you dread accruing army
O you regiments so piteous, with your mortal diarrhoea, with your fever
O my land’s maim’d darlings, with the plenteous bloody bandage and the crutch Lo, your pallid army follows.)

But on these days of brightness
On the far-stretching beauteous landscape, the roads and lanes the high-piled farm-wagons, and the fruits and barns Should the dead intrude?
Ah the dead to me mar not, they fit well in Nature
They fit very well in the landscape under the trees and grass
And along the edge of the sky in the horizon’s far margin.

Nor do I forget you Departed
Nor in winter or summer my lost ones
But most in the open air as now when my soul is rapt and at peace like pleasing phantoms
Your memories rising glide silently by me.

6

I saw the day the return of the heroes (Yet the heroes never surpass’d shall never return Them that day I saw not.)
I saw the interminable corps, I saw the processions of armies
I saw them approaching, defiling by with divisions Streaming northward, their work done, camping awhile in clusters of mighty camps.

No holiday soldiers–youthful, yet veterans
Worn, swart, handsome, strong, of the stock of homestead and workshop Harden’d of many a long campaign and sweaty march Inured on many a hard-fought bloody field.
A pause–the armies wait
A million flush’d embattled conquerors wait
The world too waits, then soft as breaking night and sure as dawn
They melt, they disappear.

Exult O lands! victorious lands!
Not there your victory on those red shuddering fields
But here and hence your victory.

Melt, melt away ye armies—disperse ye blue-clad soldiers Resolve ye back again, give up for good your deadly arms
Other the arms the fields henceforth for you, or South or North With saner wars, sweet wars, life-giving wars.

7

Loud O my throat, and clear O soul!
The season of thanks and the voice of full-yielding
The chant of joy and power for boundless fertility.
All till’d and untill’d fields expand before me
I see the true arenas of my race, or first or last Man’s innocent and strong arenas.

I see the heroes at other toils
I see well-wielded in their hands the better weapons.

I see where the Mother of All
With full-spanning eye gazes forth, dwells long
And counts the varied gathering of the products.

Busy the far, the sunlit panorama
Prairie, orchard, and yellow grain of the North Cotton and rice of the South and Louisianian cane Open unseeded fallows, rich fields of clover and timothy Kine and horses feeding, and droves of sheep and swine
And many a stately river flowing and many a jocund brook And healthy uplands with herby-perfumed breezes
And the good green grass, that delicate miracle the ever-recurring grass.

Toil on heroes! harvest the products!
Not alone on those warlike fields the Mother of All
With dilated form and lambent eyes watch’d you.
Toil on heroes! toil well! handle the weapons well!
The Mother of All, yet here as ever she watches you.
Well-pleased America thou beholdest
Over the fields of the West those crawling monsters
The human-divine inventions, the labor-saving implements;
Beholdest moving in every direction imbued as with life the revolving hay-rakes
The steam-power reaping-machines and the horse-power machines
The engines, thrashers of grain and cleaners of grain, well separating the straw, the nimble work of the patent pitchfork Beholdest the newer saw-mill, the southern cotton-gin, and the rice-cleanser.

Beneath thy look O Maternal With these and else and with their own strong hands the heroes harvest.

All gather and all harvest Yet but for thee O Powerful, not a scythe might swing as now in security Not a maize-stalk dangle as now its silken tassels in peace.

Under thee only they harvest, even but a wisp of hay under thy great face only Harvest the wheat of Ohio, Illinois, Wisconsin, every barbed spear under thee Harvest the maize of Missouri, Kentucky, Tennessee, each ear in its light-green sheath Gather the hay to its myriad mows in the odorous tranquil barns Oats to their bins, the white potato, the buckwheat of Michigan, to theirs; Gather the cotton in Mississippi or Alabama, dig and hoard the golden the sweet potato of Georgia and the Carolinas Clip the wool of California or Pennsylvania Cut the flax in the Middle States, or hemp or tobacco in the Borders Pick the pea and the bean, or pull apples from the trees or bunches of grapes from the vines
Or aught that ripens in all these States or North or South
Under the beaming sun and under thee.
There Was a Child Went Forth

There was a child went forth every day
And the first object he look’d upon, that object he became
And that object became part of him for the day or a certain part of the day Or for many years or stretching cycles of years.

The early lilacs became part of this child
And grass and white and red morning-glories, and white and red clover, and the song of the phoebe-bird
And the Third-month lambs and the sow’s pink-faint litter, and the mare’s foal and the cow’s calf
And the noisy brood of the barnyard or by the mire of the pond-side
And the fish suspending themselves so curiously below there, and the beautiful curious liquid
And the water-plants with their graceful flat heads, all became part of him.
The field-sprouts of Fourth-month and Fifth-month became part of him Winter-grain sprouts and those of the light-yellow corn, and the esculent roots of the garden
And the apple-trees cover’d with blossoms and the fruit afterward, and wood-berries, and the commonest weeds by the road
And the old drunkard staggering home from the outhouse of the tavern whence he had lately risen
And the schoolmistress that pass’d on her way to the school
And the friendly boys that pass’d, and the quarrelsome boys
And the tidy and fresh-cheek’d girls, and the barefoot negro boy and girl
And all the changes of city and country wherever he went.

His own parents, he that had father’d him and she that had conceiv’d him in her womb and birth’d him They gave this child more of themselves than that
They gave him afterward every day, they became part of him.

The mother at home quietly placing the dishes on the supper-table
The mother with mild words, clean her cap and gown, a wholesome odor falling off her person and clothes as she walks by
The father, strong, self-sufficient, manly, mean, anger’d, unjust
The blow, the quick loud word, the tight bargain, the crafty lure
The family usages, the language, the company, the furniture, the yearning and swelling heart Affection that will not be gainsay’d, the sense of what is real, the thought if after all it should prove unreal
The doubts of day-time and the doubts of night-time, the curious whether and how Whether that which appears so is so, or is it all flashes and specks?
Men and women crowding fast in the streets, if they are not flashes and specks what are they?
The streets themselves and the facades of houses, and goods in the windows Vehicles, teams, the heavy-plank’d wharves, the huge crossing at the ferries
The village on the highland seen from afar at sunset, the river between Shadows, aureola and mist, the light falling on roofs and gables of white or brown two miles off
The schooner near by sleepily dropping down the tide, the little boat slack-tow’d astern
The hurrying tumbling waves, quick-broken crests, slapping
The strata of color’d clouds, the long bar of maroon-tint away solitary by itself, the spread of purity it lies motionless in
The horizon’s edge, the flying sea-crow, the fragrance of salt marsh and shore mud These became part of that child who went forth every day, and who now goes, and will always go forth every day.
Old Ireland

Far hence amid an isle of wondrous beauty
Crouching over a grave an ancient sorrowful mother
Once a queen, now lean and tatter’d seated on the ground
Her old white hair drooping dishevel’d round her shoulders
At her feet fallen an unused royal harp
Long silent, she too long silent, mourning her shrouded hope and heir
Of all the earth her heart most full of sorrow because most full of love.

Yet a word ancient mother
You need crouch there no longer on the cold ground with forehead between your knees
O you need not sit there veil’d in your old white hair so dishevel’d
For know you the one you mourn is not in that grave
It was an illusion, the son you love was not really dead
The Lord is not dead, he is risen again young and strong in another country Even while you wept there by your fallen harp by the grave
What you wept for was translated, pass’d from the grave
The winds favor’d and the sea sail’d it
And now with rosy and new blood
Moves to-day in a new country.
The City Dead-House

By the city dead-house by the gate
As idly sauntering wending my way from the clangor
I curious pause, for lo, an outcast form, a poor dead prostitute brought Her corpse they deposit unclaim’d, it lies on the damp brick pavement
The divine woman, her body, I see the body, I look on it alone
That house once full of passion and beauty, all else I notice not Nor stillness so cold, nor running water from faucet, nor odors morbific impress me
But the house alone—that wondrous house—that delicate fair house—that ruin!

That immortal house more than all the rows of dwellings ever built!

Or white-domed capitol with majestic figure surmounted, or all the old high-spired cathedrals That little house alone more than them all—poor, desperate house!
Fair, fearful wreck—tenement of a soul—itself a soul
Unclaim’d, avoided house—take one breath from my tremulous lips Take one tear dropt aside as I go for thought of you Dead house of love—house of madness and sin, crumbled, crush’d House of life, erewhile talking and laughing—but ah, poor house, dead even then Months, years, an echoing, garnish’d house—but dead, dead, dead.
Something startles me where I thought I was safest
I withdraw from the still woods I loved
I will not go now on the pastures to walk
I will not strip the clothes from my body to meet my lover the sea
I will not touch my flesh to the earth as to other flesh to renew me.

O how can it be that the ground itself does not sicken?
How can you be alive you growths of spring?
How can you furnish health you blood of herbs, roots, orchards, grain?
Are they not continually putting distemper’d corpses within you?
Is not every continent work’d over and over with sour dead?
Where have you disposed of their carcasses?
Those drunkards and gluttons of so many generations?
Where have you drawn off all the foul liquid and meat?
I do not see any of it upon you to-day, or perhaps I am deceiv’d
I will run a furrow with my plough, I will press my spade through the sod and turn it up underneath
I am sure I shall expose some of the foul meat.

2

Behold this compost! behold it well!
Perhaps every mite has once form’d part of a sick person—yet behold!
The grass of spring covers the prairies
The bean bursts noiselessly through the mould in the garden
The delicate spear of the onion pierces upward
The apple-buds cluster together on the apple-branches
The resurrection of the wheat appears with pale visage out of its graves
The tinge awakes over the willow-tree and the mulberry-tree
The he-birds carol mornings and evenings while the she-birds sit on their nests
The young of poultry break through the hatch’d eggs
The new-born of animals appear, the calf is dropt from the cow, the colt from the mare Out of its little hill faithfully rise the potato’s dark green leaves
Out of its hill rises the yellow maize-stalk, the lilacs bloom in the dooryards
The summer growth is innocent and disdain-ful above all those strata of sour dead.

What chemistry!

That the winds are really not infectious
That this is no cheat, this transparent green-wash of the sea which is so amorous after me
That it is safe to allow it to lick my naked body all over with its tongues
That it will not endanger me with the fevers that have deposited themselves in it
That all is clean forever and forever
That the cool drink from the well tastes so
That blackberries are so flavorous and juicy That the fruits of the apple-orchard and the orange-orchard, that melons, grapes, peaches, plums, will none of them poison me
That when I recline on the grass I do not catch any disease Though probably every spear of grass rises out of what was once catching disease.

Now I am terrified at the Earth, it is that calm and patient
It grows such sweet things out of such corruptions
It turns harmless and stainless on its axis, with such endless successions of diseas’d corpses
It distills such exquisite winds out of such infused fetor
It renews with such unwitting looks its prodigious, annual, sumptuous crops
It gives such divine materials to men, and accepts such leavings from them at last.
Courage yet, my brother or my sister!
Keep on–Liberty is to be subserv’d whatever occurs;
That is nothing that is quell’d by one or two failures, or any number of failures
Or by the indifference or ingratitude of the people, or by any unfaithfulness
Or the show of the tushes of power, soldiers, cannon, penal statutes.
What we believe in waits latent forever through all the continents Invites no one, promises nothing, sits in calmness and light, is positive and composed, knows no discouragement
Waiting patiently, waiting its time.
(Not songs of loyalty alone are these But songs of insurrection also
For I am the sworn poet of every dauntless rebel the world over
And he going with me leaves peace and routine behind him
And stakes his life to be lost at any moment.)
The battle rages with many a loud alarm and frequent advance and retreat
The infidel triumphs, or supposes he triumphs
The prison, scaffold, garrotes, handcuffs, iron necklace and leadballs do their work
The named and unnamed heroes pass to other spheres
The great speakers and writers are exiled, they lie sick in distant lands
The cause is asleep, the strongest throats are choked with their own blood
The young men droop their eyelashes toward the ground when they meet;
But for all this Liberty has not gone out of the place, nor the infidel enter’d into full possession.

When liberty goes out of a place it is not the first to go, nor the second or third to go
It waits for all the rest to go, it is the last.

When there are no more memories of heroes and martyrs
And when all life and all the souls of men and women are discharged from any part of the earth
Then only shall liberty or the idea of liberty be discharged from that part of the earth
And the infidel come into full possession.

Then courage European revolter, revoltress!

For till all ceases neither must you cease.

I do not know what you are for, (I do not know what I am for myself, nor what any thing is for,)
But I will search carefully for it even in being foil’d

In defeat, poverty, misconception, imprisonment—for they too are great.

Did we think victory great?

So it is—but now it seems to me, when it cannot be help’d, that defeat is great
And that death and dismay are great.
Nations ten thousand years before these States, and many times ten thousand years before these States Garner’d clusters of ages that men and women like us grew up and travel’d their course and pass’d on What vast-built cities, what orderly republics, what pastoral tribes and nomads
What histories, rulers, heroes, perhaps transcending all others
What laws, customs, wealth, arts, traditions
What sort of marriage, what costumes, what physiology and phrenology
What of liberty and slavery among them, what they thought of death and the soul
Who were witty and wise, who beautiful and poetic, who brutish and undevelop’d
Not a mark, not a record remains—and yet all remains.

O I know that those men and women were not for nothing, any more than we are for nothing
I know that they belong to the scheme of the world every bit as much as we now belong to it.

Afar they stand, yet near to me they stand
Some with oval countenances learn’d and calm
Some naked and savage, some like huge collections of insects
Some in tents, herdsmen, patriarchs, tribes, horsemen
Some prowling through woods, some living peaceably on farms, laboring, reaping, filling barns
Some traversing paved avenues, amid temples, palaces, factories, libraries, shows, courts, theatres, wonderful monuments.

Are those billions of men really gone?
Are those women of the old experience of the earth gone?
Do their lives, cities, arts, rest only with us?
Did they achieve nothing for good for themselves?
I believe of all those men and women that fill’d the unnamed lands, every one exists this hour here or elsewhere, invisible to us.

In exact proportion to what he or she grew from in life, and out of what he or she did, felt, became, loved, sinn’d, in life.

I believe that was not the end of those nations or any person of them, any more than this shall be the end of my nation, or of me; Of their languages, governments, marriage, literature, products, games, wars, manners, crimes, prisons, slaves, heroes, poets I suspect their results curiously await in the yet unseen world, counterparts of what accrued to them in the seen world I suspect I shall meet them there I suspect I shall there find each old particular of those unnamed lands.
Song of Prudence

Manhattan’s streets I saunter’d pondering On Time, Space, Reality—on such as these, and abreast with them Prudence.

The last explanation always remains to be made about prudence Little and large alike drop quietly aside from the prudence that suits immortality.

The soul is of itself
All verges to it, all has reference to what ensues
All that a person does, says, thinks, is of consequence
Not a move can a man or woman make, that affects him or her in a day, month, any part of the direct lifetime, or the hour of death
But the same affects him or her onward afterward through the indirect lifetime.

The indirect is just as much as the direct
The spirit receives from the body just as much as it gives to the body, if not more.
Not one word or deed, not venereal sore, discoloration, privacy of the onanist Putridity of gluttons or rum-drinkers, peculation, cunning, betrayal, murder, seduction, prostitution
But has results beyond death as really as before death.

Charity and personal force are the only investments worth any thing.

No specification is necessary, all that a male or female does, that is vigorous, benevolent, clean, is so much profit to him or her
In the unshakable order of the universe and through the whole scope of it forever.

Who has been wise receives interest
Savage, felon, President, judge, farmer, sailor, mechanic, literate young, old, it is the same
The interest will come round—all will come round.

Singly, wholly, to affect now, affected their time, will forever affect all of the past and all of the present and all of the future
All the brave actions of war and peace
All help given to relatives, strangers, the poor, old, sorrowful young children, widows, the sick, and to shunn’d persons
All self-denial that stood steady and aloof on wrecks, and saw others fill the seats of the boats
All offering of substance or life for the good old cause, or for a friend’s sake, or opinion’s sake
All pains of enthusiasts scoff’d at by their neighbors
All the limitless sweet love and precious suffering of mothers
All honest men baffled in strifes recorded or unrecorded
All the grandeur and good of ancient nations whose fragments we inherit
All the good of the dozens of ancient nations unknown to us by name date, location
All that was ever manfully begun, whether it succeeded or no
All suggestions of the divine mind of man or the divinity of his mouth, or the shaping of his great hands
All that is well thought or said this day on any part of the globe or on any of the wandering stars, or on any of the fix’d stars by those there as we are here
All that is henceforth to be thought or done by you whoever you are or by any one
These inure, have inured, shall inure, to the identities from which they sprang, or shall spring.

Did you guess any thing lived only its moment?
The world does not so exist, no parts palpable or impalpable so exist
No consummation exists without being from some long previous consummation, and that from some other Without the farthest conceivable one coming a bit nearer the beginning than any.

Whatever satisfies souls is true;
Prudence entirely satisfies the craving and glut of souls
Itself only finally satisfies the soul
The soul has that measureless pride which revolts from every lesson but its own.

Now I breathe the word of the prudence that walks abreast with time space, reality
That answers the pride which refuses every lesson but its own.

What is prudence is indivisible
Declines to separate one part of life from every part Divides not the righteous from the unrighteous or the living from the dead Matches every thought or act by its correlative Knows no possible forgiveness or deputed atonement Knows that the young man who composedly peril’d his life and lost it has done exceedingly well for himself without doubt That he who never peril’d his life, but retains it to old age in riches and ease, has probably achiev’d nothing for himself worth mentioning
Knows that only that person has really learn’d who has learn’d to prefer results Who favors body and soul the same
Who perceives the indirect assuredly following the direct Who in his spirit in any emergency whatever neither hurries nor avoids death.
The Singer in the Prison

O sight of pity, shame and dole!
O fearful thought—a convict soul.

1

Rang the refrain along the hall, the prison
Rose to the roof, the vaults of heaven above
Pouring in floods of melody in tones so pensive sweet and strong the like whereof was never heard Reaching the far-off sentry and the armed guards, who ceas’d their pacing Making the hearer’s pulses stop for ecstasy and awe.

2

The sun was low in the west one winter day
When down a narrow aisle amid the thieves and outlaws of the land (There by the hundreds seated, sear-faced murderers, wily counterfeiterers Gather’d to Sunday church in prison walls, the keepers round Plenteous, well-armed, watching with vigilant eyes,) Calmly a lady walk’d holding a little innocent child by either hand Whom seating on their stools beside her on the platform
She, first preluding with the instrument a low and musical prelude
In voice surpassing all, sang forth a quaint old hymn.

A soul confined by bars and bands
Cries, help! O help! and wrings her hands Blinded her eyes, bleeding her breast
Nor pardon finds, nor balm of rest.

Ceaseless she paces to and fro
O heart-sick days! O nights of woe!
Nor hand of friend, nor loving face
Nor favor comes, nor word of grace.

It was not I that sinn’d the sin
The ruthless body dragg’d me in;
Though long I strove courageously
The body was too much for me.

Dear prison’d soul bear up a space
For soon or late the certain grace;
To set thee free and bear thee home
The heavenly pardoner death shall come.
Convict no more, nor shame, nor dole!
Depart—a God-enfranchis’d soul!

3

The singer ceas’d
One glance swept from her clear calm eyes o’er all those upturn’d faces Strange sea of prison faces, a thousand varied, crafty, brutal seam’d and beauteous faces
Then rising, passing back along the narrow aisle between them
While her gown touch’d them rustling in the silence
She vanish’d with her children in the dusk.
While upon all, convicts and armed keepers ere they stirr’d (Convict forgetting prison, keeper his loaded pistol,)
A hush and pause fell down a wondrous minute

805
With deep half-stifled sobs and sound of bad men bow’d and moved to weeping And youth’s convulsive breathings, memories of home The mother’s voice in lullaby, the sister’s care, the happy childhood The long-pent spirit rous’d to reminiscence; A wondrous minute then–but after in the solitary night, to many many there Years after, even in the hour of death, the sad refrain, the tune the voice, the words Resumed, the large calm lady walks the narrow aisle The wailing melody again, the singer in the prison sings O sight of pity, shame and dole! O fearful thought–a convict soul.
Warble me now for joy of lilac-time, (returning in reminiscence,) Sort me O tongue and lips for Nature’s sake, souvenirs of earliest summer Gather the welcome signs, (as children with pebbles or stringing shells,) Put in April and May, the hylas croaking in the ponds, the elastic air Bees, butterflies, the sparrow with its simple notes
Blue-bird and darting swallow, nor forget the high-hole flashing his golden wings
The tranquil sunny haze, the clinging smoke, the vapor Shimmer of waters with fish in them, the cerulean above
All that is jocund and sparkling, the brooks running
The maple woods, the crisp February days and the sugar-making
The robin where he hops, bright-eyed, brown-breasted With musical clear call at sunrise, and again at sunset
Or flitting among the trees of the apple-orchard, building the nest of his mate
The melted snow of March, the willow sending forth its yellow-green sprouts
For spring-time is here! the summer is here! and what is this in it and from it?
Thou, soul, unloosen’d—the restlessness after I know not what;
Come, let us lag here no longer, let us be up and away!

O if one could but fly like a bird!

O to escape, to sail forth as in a ship!

To glide with thee O soul, o’er all, in all, as a ship o’er the waters;
Gathering these hints, the preludes, the blue sky, the grass, the morning drops of dew
The lilac-scent, the bushes with dark green heart-shaped leaves
Wood-violets, the little delicate pale blossoms called innocence Samples and sorts not for themselves alone, but for their atmosphere
To grace the bush I love—to sing with the birds
A warble for joy of returning in reminiscence.
What may we chant, O thou within this tomb?
What tablets, outlines, hang for thee, O millionaire?
The life thou lived’st we know not
But that thou walk’dst thy years in barter, ’mid the haunts of brokers Nor heroism thine, nor war, nor glory.

Silent, my soul
With drooping lids, as waiting, ponder’d
Turning from all the samples, monuments of heroes.

While through the interior vistas Noiseless uprose, phantasmic, (as by night Auroras of the north,) Lambent tableaus, prophetic, bodiless scenes Spiritual projections.

In one, among the city streets a laborer’s home appear’d
After his day’s work done, cleanly, sweet-air’d, the gaslight burning
The carpet swept and a fire in the cheerful stove.

In one, the sacred parturition scene
A happy painless mother birth’d a perfect child.

In one, at a bounteous morning meal
Sat peaceful parents with contented sons.

In one, by twos and threes, young people
Hundreds concentr’ing, walk’d the paths and streets and roads Toward a tall-domed school.

In one a trio beautiful Grandmother, loving daughter, loving daughter’s daughter, sat Chatting and sewing.

In one, along a suite of noble rooms
‘Mid plenteous books and journals, paintings on the walls, fine statuettes Were groups of friendly journeymen, mechanics young and old Reading, conversing.

All, all the shows of laboring life
City and country, women’s, men’s and children’s Their wants provided for, hued in the sun and tinged for once with joy Marriage, the street, the factory, farm, the house-room, lodging-room
Labor and toll, the bath, gymnasium, playground, library, college
The student, boy or girl, led forward to be taught
The sick cared for, the shoeless shod, the orphan father’d and mother’d
The hungry fed, the houseless housed;
(The intentions perfect and divine The workings, details, haply human.)

3

O thou within this tomb
From thee such scenes, thou stintless, lavish giver Tallying the gifts of earth, large as the earth Thy name an earth, with mountains, fields and tides.

Nor by your streams alone, you rivers
By you, your banks Connecticut
By you and all your teeming life old Thames
By you Potomac laving the ground Washington trod, by you Patapsco
You Hudson, you endless Mississippi—nor you alone
But to the high seas launch, my thought, his memory.
Out from Behind This Mask (To Confront a Portrait)

1

Out from behind this bending rough-cut mask
These lights and shades, this drama of the whole
This common curtain of the face contain’d in me for me, in you for you, in each for each (Tragedies, sorrows, laughter, tears—0 heaven!
The passionate teeming plays this curtain hid!)
This glaze of God’s serenest purest sky
This film of Satan’s seething pit
This heart’s geography’s map, this limitless small continent, this soundless sea;
Out from the convolutions of this globe
This subtler astronomic orb than sun or moon, than Jupiter, Venus, Mars
This condensation of the universe, (nay here the only universe Here the idea, all in this mystic handful wrapt;)
These burin’d eyes, flashing to you to pass to future time
To launch and spin through space revolving sideling, from these to emanate
To you whoe’er you are—a look.

2

A traveler of thoughts and years, of peace and war
Of youth long sped and middle age declining (As the first volume of a tale perused and laid away, and this the second Songs, ventures, speculations, presently to close,) Lingering a moment here and now, to you I opposite turn
As on the road or at some crevice door by chance, or open’d window Pausing, inclining, baring my head, you specially I greet
To draw and clinch your soul for once inseparably with mine
Then travel travel on.
VOCALISM

Vocalism, measure, concentration, determination, and the divine power to speak words;
Are you full-lung’d and limber-lipp’d from long trial? from vigorous practice? from physique?
Do you move in these broad lands as broad as they?
Come duly to the divine power to speak words?
For only at last after many years, after chastity, friendship procreation, prudence, and nakedness
After treading ground and breasting river and lake
After a loosen’d throat, after absorbing eras, temperaments, races after knowledge, freedom, crimes
After complete faith, after clarifyings, elevations, and removing obstructions After these and more, it is just possible there comes to a man woman, the divine power to speak words;
Then toward that man or that woman swiftly hasten all—none refuse, all attend Armies, ships, antiquities, libraries, paintings, machines, cities hate, despair, amity, pain, theft, murder, aspiration, form in close ranks
They debouch as they are wanted to march obediently through the mouth of that man or that woman.

2
O what is it in me that makes me tremble so at voices?
Surely whoever speaks to me in the right voice, him or her I shall follow As the water follows the moon, silently, with fluid steps, anywhere around the globe.

All waits for the right voices;
Where is the practis’d and perfect organ?
where is the develop’d soul?
For I see every word utter’d thence has deeper, sweeter, new sounds impossible on less terms.

I see brains and lips closed, tympan and temples unstruck Until that comes which has the quality to strike and to unclose Until that comes which has the quality to bring forth what lies slumbering forever ready in all words.
To Him That Was Crucified

My spirit to yours dear brother
Do not mind because many sounding your name do not understand you
I do not sound your name, but I understand you
I specify you with joy O my comrade to salute you, and to salute those who are with you, before and since, and those to come also
That we all labor together transmitting the same charge and succession
We few equals indifferent of lands, indifferent of times
We, enclosers of all continents, all castes, allowers of all theologies Compassionaters, perceivers, rapport of men
We walk silent among disputes and assertions, but reject not the disputers nor any thing that is asserted
We hear the bawling and din, we are reach’d at by divisions jealousies, recriminations on every side
They close peremptorily upon us to surround us, my comrade
Yet we walk unheld, free, the whole earth over, journeying up and down till we make our ineffaceable mark upon time and the diverse eras Till we saturate time and eras, that the men and women of races ages to come, may prove brethren and lovers as we are.
YOU FELONS ON TRIAL IN COURTS

You felons on trial in courts
You convicts in prison-cells, you sentenced assassins chain’d and handcuff’d with iron Who am I too that I am not on trial or in prison?
Me ruthless and devilish as any, that my wrists are not chain’d with iron, or my ankles with iron?
You prostitutes flaunting over the trottoirs or obscene in your rooms
Who am I that I should call you more obscene than myself?
O culpable! I acknowledge—I expose!
(O admirers, praise not me—compliment not me—you make me wince I see what you do not—I know what you do not.)
Inside these breast-bones I lie smutch’d and choked Beneath this face that appears so impassive hell’s tides continually run Lusts and wickedness are acceptable to me
I walk with delinquents with passionate love
I feel I am of them—I belong to those convicts and prostitutes myself
And henceforth I will not deny them—for how can I deny myself?
Laws for Creations

Laws for creations
For strong artists and leaders, for fresh broods of teachers and perfect literats for America
For noble savans and coming musicians.
All must have reference to the ensemble of the world, and the compact truth of the world
There shall be no subject too pronounced—all works shall illustrate the divine law of indirections.

What do you suppose creation is?
What do you suppose will satisfy the soul, except to walk free and own no superior?
What do you suppose I would intimate to you in a hundred ways, but that man or woman is as good as God?
And that there is no God any more divine than Yourself?
And that that is what the oldest and newest myths finally mean?
And that you or any one must approach creations through such laws?
To a Common Prostitute

Be composed—be at ease with me—I am Walt Whitman, liberal and lusty as Nature
Not till the sun excludes you do I exclude you Not till the waters refuse to glisten for you and the leaves to rustle for you, do my words refuse to glisten and rustle for you.

My girl I appoint with you an appointment, and I charge you that you make preparation to be worthy to meet me
And I charge you that you be patient and perfect till I come.

Till then I salute you with a significant look that you do not forget me.
I was looking a long while for Intentions
For a clew to the history of the past for myself, and for these chants—and now I have found it
It is not in those paged fables in the libraries, (them I neither accept nor reject,) It is no more in the legends than in all else
It is in the present—it is this earth to-day
It is in Democracy—(the purport and aim of all the past,)
It is the life of one man or one woman to-day—the average man of to-day
It is in languages, social customs, literatures, arts
It is in the broad show of artificial things, ships, machinery politics, creeds, modern improvements, and the interchange of nations
All for the modern—all for the average man of to-day.
Thought

Of persons arrived at high positions, ceremonies, wealth scholarships, and the like; (To me all that those persons have arrived at sinks away from them except as it results to their bodies and souls So that often to me they appear gaunt and naked And often to me each one mocks the others, and mocks himself or herself And of each one the core of life, namely happiness, is full of the rotten excrement of maggots And often to me those men and women pass unwittingly the true realities of life, and go toward false realities And often to me they are alive after what custom has served them but nothing more And often to me they are sad, hasty, unwaked sonnambules walking the dusk.)
Why, who makes much of a miracle?
As to me I know of nothing else but miracles
Whether I walk the streets of Manhattan
Or dart my sight over the roofs of houses toward the sky
Or wade with naked feet along the beach just in the edge of the water Or stand under trees in the woods
Or talk by day with any one I love, or sleep in the bed at night with any one I love
Or sit at table at dinner with the rest
Or look at strangers opposite me riding in the car
Or watch honey-bees busy around the hive of a summer forenoon
Or animals feeding in the fields
Or birds, or the wonderfulness of insects in the air
Or the wonderfulness of the sundown, or of stars shining so quiet and bright
Or the exquisite delicate thin curve of the new moon in spring;
These with the rest, one and all, are to me miracles
The whole referring, yet each distinct and in its place.
To me every hour of the light and dark is a miracle
Every cubic inch of space is a miracle
Every square yard of the surface of the earth is spread with the same Every foot of the interior swarms with the same.
To me the sea is a continual miracle
The fishes that swim—the rocks—the motion of the waves—the ships with men in them What stranger miracles are there?
Sparkles from the Wheel

Where the city’s ceaseless crowd moves on the livelong day Withdrawn I join a group of children watching, I pause aside with them.

By the curb toward the edge of the flagging
A knife-grinder works at his wheel sharpening a great knife Bending over he carefully holds it to the stone, by foot and knee
With measur’d tread he turns rapidly, as he presses with light but firm hand Forth issue then in copious golden jets
Sparkles from the wheel.

The scene and all its belongings, how they seize and affect me
The sad sharp-chinn’d old man with worn clothes and broad shoulder-band of leather
Myself effusing and fluid, a phantom curiously floating, now here absorb’d and arrested
The group, (an unminded point set in a vast surrounding,)
The attentive, quiet children, the loud, proud, restive base of the streets
The low hoarse purr of the whirling stone, the light-press’d blade Diffusing, dropping, sideways-darting, in tiny showers of gold Sparkles from the wheel.
To a Pupil

Is reform needed? is it through you?
The greater the reform needed, the greater the Personality you need to accomplish it.

You! do you not see how it would serve to have eyes, blood complexion, clean and sweet?
Do you not see how it would serve to have such a body and soul that when you enter the crowd an atmosphere of desire and command enters with you, and every one is impress’d with your Personality?
O the magnet! the flesh over and over!

Go, dear friend, if need be give up all else, and commence to-day to inure yourself to pluck, reality, self-esteem, definiteness elevatedness
Rest not till you rivet and publish yourself of your own Personality.
Unfolded out of the folds of the woman man comes unfolded, and is always to come unfolded Unfolded only out of the superbest woman of the earth is to come the superbest man of the earth
Unfolded out of the friendliest woman is to come the friendliest man Unfolded only out of the perfect body of a woman can a man be form’d of perfect body Unfolded only out of the inimitable poems of woman can come the poems of man, (only thence have my poems come;)
Unfolded out of the strong and arrogant woman I love, only thence can appear the strong and arrogant man I love
Unfolded by brawny embraces from the well-muscled woman love, only thence come the brawny embraces of the man Unfolded out of the folds of the woman’s brain come all the folds of the man’s brain, duly obedient
Unfolded out of the justice of the woman all justice is unfolded Unfolded out of the sympathy of the woman is all sympathy;
A man is a great thing upon the earth and through eternity, but every of the greatness of man is unfolded out of woman;
First the man is shaped in the woman, he can then be shaped in himself.
What am I after all but a child, pleas’d with the sound of my own name? repeating it over and over;
I stand apart to hear—it never tires me.
To you your name also;
Did you think there was nothing but two or three pronunciations in the sound of your name?
Who includes diversity and is Nature Who is the amplitude of the earth, and the coarseness and sexuality of the earth, and the great charity of the earth, and the equilibrium also
Who has not look’d forth from the windows the eyes for nothing or whose brain held audience with messengers for nothing Who contains believers and disbelievers, who is the most majestic lover Who holds duly his or her triune proportion of realism
spiritualism, and of the aesthetic or intellectual
Who having consider’d the body finds all its organs and parts good Who, out of the theory of the earth and of his or her body understands by subtle analogies all other theories
The theory of a city, a poem, and of the large politics of these States;
Who believes not only in our globe with its sun and moon, but in other globes with their suns and moons
Who, constructing the house of himself or herself, not for a day but for all time, sees races, eras, dates, generations
The past, the future, dwelling there, like space, inseparable together.
Others may praise what they like;
But I, from the banks of the running Missouri, praise nothing in art or aught else
Till it has well inhaled the atmosphere of this river, also the western prairie-scent
And exudes it all again.
Who Learns My Lesson Complete?

Who learns my lesson complete?
Boss, journeyman, apprentice, churchman and atheist
The stupid and the wise thinker, parents and offspring, merchant clerk, porter and customer
Editor, author, artist, and schoolboy–draw nigh and commence;
It is no lesson–it lets down the bars to a good lesson
And that to another, and every one to another still.

The great laws take and effuse without argument
I am of the same style, for I am their friend I love them quits and quits, I do not halt and make salaams.

I lie abstracted and hear beautiful tales of things and the reasons of things
They are so beautiful I nudge myself to listen.
I cannot say to any person what I hear–I cannot say it to myself—it is very wonderful.

It is no small matter, this round and delicious globe moving so exactly in its orbit for ever and ever, without one jolt or the un-truth of a single second.

I do not think it was made in six days, nor in ten thousand years nor ten billions of years.

Nor plann’d and built one thing after another as an architect plans and builds a house.

I do not think seventy years is the time of a man or woman.

Nor that seventy millions of years is the time of a man or woman.

Nor that years will ever stop the existence of me, or any one else.

Is it wonderful that I should be immortal? as every one is immortal;

I know it is wonderful, but my eyesight is equally wonderful, and how I was con-ceived in my mother’s womb is equally wonderful.

And pass’d from a babe in the creeping trance.
of a couple of summers and winters to articulate and walk—all this is equally wonderful.

And that my soul embraces you this hour, and we affect each other without ever seeing each other, and never perhaps to see each other, is every bit as wonderful.

And that I can think such thoughts as these is just as wonderful
And that I can remind you, and you think them and know them to be true, is just as wonderful.

And that the moon spins round the earth and on with the earth, is equally wonderful
And that they balance themselves with the sun and stars is equally wonderful.
Tests

All submit to them where they sit, inner, secure, unapproachable to analysis in the soul
Not traditions, not the outer authorities are the judges
They are the judges of outer authorities and of all traditions
They corroborate as they go only whatever corroborates themselves and touches themselves;
For all that, they have it forever in themselves to corroborate far and near without one exception.
THE TORCH

On my Northwest coast in the midst of the night a fishermen’s group stands watching.
Out on the lake that expands before them, others are spearing salmon.
The canoe, a dim shadowy thing, moves across the black water.
Bearing a torch ablaze at the prow.
O Star of France (1870-71)

O star of France
The brightness of thy hope and strength and fame
Like some proud ship that led the fleet so long Beseems to-day a wreck driven by the gale, a mastless hulk
And ‘mid its teeming madden’d half-drown’d crowds Nor helm nor helmsman.

Dim smitten star
Orb not of France alone, pale symbol of my soul, its dearest hopes
The struggle and the daring, rage divine for liberty
Of aspirations toward the far ideal, enthusiast’s dreams of brotherhood Of terror to the tyrant and the priest.

Star crucified—by traitors sold
Star panting o’er a land of death, heroic land Strange, passionate, mocking, frivolous land.
Miserable! yet for thy errors, vanities, sins, I will not now rebuke thee Thy unexampled woes and pangs have quell’d them all
And left thee sacred.

In that amid thy many faults thou ever aimedst highly
In that thou wouldst not really sell thyself however great the price
In that thou surely wakedst weeping from thy drugg’d sleep In that alone among thy sisters thou, giantess, didst rend the ones that shamed thee
In that thou couldst not, wouldst not, wear the usual chains
This cross, thy livid face, thy pierced hands and feet
The spear thrust in thy side.

O star! O ship of France, beat back and baffled long!
Bear up O smitten orb! O ship continue on!
Sure as the ship of all, the Earth itself Product of deathly fire and turbulent chaos
Forth from its spasms of fury and its poisons Issuing at last in perfect power and beauty Onward beneath the sun following its course
So thee O ship of France!

Finish’d the days, the clouds dispel’d
The travail o’er, the long-sought extrication When lo! reborn, high o’er the European world (In gladness answering thence, as face afar to face, reflecting ours Columbia,) Again thy star O France, fair lustrous star In heavenly peace, clearer, more bright than ever
Shall beam immortal.
In a far-away northern county in the placid pastoral region
Lives my farmer friend, the theme of my recitative, a famous tamer of oxen
There they bring him the three-year-olds and the four-year-olds to break them
He will take the wildest steer in the world and break him and tame him He will go fearless without any whip where the young bullock chafes up and down the yard
The bullock’s head tosses restless high in the air with raging eyes
Yet see you! how soon his rage subsides—how soon this tamer tames him;
See you! on the farms hereabout a hundred oxen young and old and he is the man who has tamed them
They all know him, all are affectionate to him;
See you! some are such beautiful animals, so lofty looking;
Some are buff-color’d, some mottled, one has a white line running along his back, some are brindled
Some have wide flaring horns (a good sign)—see you! the bright hides
See, the two with stars on their foreheads—see, the round bodies and broad backs
How straight and square they stand on their legs—what fine sagacious eyes!
How straight they watch their tamer—they wish him near them—how they turn to look after him!
What yearning expression! how uneasy they are when he moves away from them;
Now I marvel what it can be he appears to them, (books, politics poems, depart—all else departs,)
I confess I envy only his fascination—my silent, illiterate friend Whom a hundred oxen love there in his life on farms
In the northern county far, in the placid pastoral region.
An Old Man’s Thought of School

(For the Inauguration of a Public School, Camden, New Jersey, 1874)

An old man’s thought of school
An old man gathering youthful memories and blooms that youth itself cannot.

Now only do I know you
O fair auroral skies—O morning dew upon the grass!

And these I see, these sparkling eyes
These stores of mystic meaning, these young lives
Building, equipping like a fleet of ships, immortal ships Soon to sail out over the measureless seas
On the soul’s voyage.

Only a lot of boys and girls?
Only the tiresome spelling, writing, ciphering classes?
Only a public school?
Ah more, infinitely more;
(As George Fox rais’d his warning cry, "Is it this pile of brick and mortar, these dead floors, windows, rails, you call the church?
Why this is not the church at all—the church is living, ever living souls.")
And you America
Cast you the real reckoning for your present? The lights and shadows of your future, good or evil?
To girlhood, boyhood look, the teacher and the school.
WANDERING AT MORN

Wandering at morn
Emerging from the night from gloomy thoughts, thee in my thoughts Yearning for thee harmonious Union! thee, singing bird divine!

Thee coil’d in evil times my country, with craft and black dismay with every meanness, treason thrust upon thee
This common marvel I beheld—the parent thrush I watch’d feeding its young
The singing thrush whose tones of joy and faith ecstatic Fail not to certify and cheer my soul.

There ponder’d, felt I
If worms, snakes, loathsome grubs, may to sweet spiritual songs be turn’d
If vermin so transposed, so used and bless’d may be Then may I trust in you, your fortunes, days, my country;
Who knows but these may be the lessons fit for you?
From these your future song may rise with joyous trills
Destin’d to fill the world.
Italian Music in Dakota

("The Seventeenth—the finest Regimental Band I ever heard.")

Through the soft evening air enwinding all Rocks, woods, fort, cannon, pacing sentries, endless wilds
In dulcet streams, in flutes’ and cornets’ notes Electric, pensive, turbulent, artificial (Yet strangely fitting even here, meanings unknown before Subtler than ever, more harmony, as if born here, related here Not to the city’s fresco’d rooms, not to the audience of the opera house Sounds, echoes, wandering strains, as really here at home Sonnambula’s innocent love, trios with Norma’s anguish And thy ecstatic chorus Poliuto;) Ray’d in the limpid yellow slanting sundown Music, Italian music in Dakota.
While Nature, sovereign of this gnarl’d realm Lurking in hidden barbaric grim recesses
Acknowledging rapport however far remov’d (As some old root or soil of earth its last-born flower or fruit,) Listens well pleas’d.
With All Thy Gifts

With all thy gifts America
Standing secure, rapidly tending, overlooking the world Power, wealth, extent, vouchsafed to thee—with these and like of these vouchsafed to thee
What if one gift thou lackest? (the ultimate human problem never solving,)
The gift of perfect women fit for thee—what if that gift of gifts thou lackest?
The towering feminine of thee? the beauty, health, completion, fit for thee?
The mothers fit for thee?
My Picture-Gallery

In a little house keep I pictures suspended, it is not a fix’d house
It is round, it is only a few inches from one side to the other;
Yet behold, it has room for all the shows of the world, all memories!
Here the tableaus of life, and here the groupings of death;
Here, do you know this? this is cicerone himself
With finger rais’d he points to the prodigal pictures.
The Prairie States

A newer garden of creation, no primal solitude
Dense, joyous, modern, populous millions, cities and farms
With iron interlaced, composite, tied, many in one
By all the world contributed—freedom’s and law’s and thrift’s society
The crown and teeming paradise, so far, of time’s accumulations
To justify the past.
BOOK XXV
Proud Music of the Storm

1

Proud music of the storm
Blast that careers so free, whistling across the prairies Strong hum of forest tree-tops–wind of the mountains
Personified dim shapes–you hidden orchestras
You serenades of phantoms with instruments alert Blending with Nature’s rhythmus all the tongues of nations;
You chords left as by vast composers–you choruses
You formless, free, religious dances–you from the Orient
You undertone of rivers, roar of pouring cataracts
You sounds from distant guns with galloping cavalry
Echoes of camps with all the different bugle-calls Trooping tumultuous, filling the midnight late, bending me powerless Entering my lonesome slumber-chamber, why have you seiz’d me?

2

Come forward O my soul, and let the rest retire Listen, lose not, it is toward thee they tend Parting the midnight, entering my slumber-chamber
For thee they sing and dance O soul.

A festival song
The duet of the bridegroom and the bride, a marriage-march
With lips of love, and hearts of lovers fill’d to the brim with love
The red-flush’d cheeks and perfumes, the cortege swarming full of friendly faces young and old
To flutes’ clear notes and sounding harps’ cantabile.

Now loud approaching drums Victoria! seest thou in powder-smoke the banners torn but flying? the rout of the baffled?
Hearest those shouts of a conquering army?
(Ah soul, the sobs of women, the wounded groaning in agony
The hiss and crackle of flames, the blacken’d ruins, the embers of cities
The dirge and desolation of mankind.)
Now airs antique and mediaeval fill me
I see and hear old harpers with their harps at Welsh festivals
I hear the minnesingers singing their lays of love
I hear the minstrels, gleemen, troubadours, of the middle ages.

Now the great organ sounds Tremulous, while underneath, (as the hid footholds of the earth
On which arising rest, and leaping forth depend
All shapes of beauty, grace and strength, all hues we know
Green blades of grass and warbling birds, children that gambol and play, the clouds

862 of heaven above,)
The strong base stands, and its pulsations intermits not Bathing, supporting, merging all the rest, maternity of all the rest
And with it every instrument in multitudes
The players playing, all the world’s musicians
The solemn hymns and masses rousing adoration
All passionate heart-chants, sorrowful appeals
The measureless sweet vocalists of ages
And for their solvent setting earth’s own diapason
Of winds and woods and mighty ocean waves
A new composite orchestra, binder of years and climes, ten-fold renewer
As of the far-back days the poets tell, the Paradiso
The straying thence, the separation long, but now the wandering done
The journey done, the journeyman come home
And man and art with Nature fused again.

Tutti! for earth and heaven;
(The Almighty leader now for once has signal’d with his wand.)
The manly strophe of the husbands of the world
And all the wives responding.

The tongues of violins
(I think O tongues ye tell this heart, that cannot tell itself This brooding yearning heart, that cannot tell itself.)

3

Ah from a little child
Thou knowest soul how to me all sounds became music
My mother’s voice in lullaby or hymn
(The voice, O tender voices, memory’s loving voices Last miracle of all, O dearest mother’s, sister’s, voices;)
The rain, the growing corn, the breeze among the long-leav’d corn
The measur’d sea-surf beating on the sand
The twittering bird, the hawk’s sharp scream
The wild-fowl’s notes at night as flying low migrating north or south
The psalm in the country church or mid the clustering trees, the open air camp-meeting
The fiddler in the tavern, the glee, the long-strung sailor-song
The lowing cattle, bleating sheep, the crowing cock at dawn.

All songs of current lands come sounding round me
The German airs of friendship, wine and love Irish ballads, merry jigs and dances, English warbles Chansons of France, Scotch tunes, and o’er the rest Italia’s peerless compositions.

Across the stage with pallor on her face, yet lurid passion Stalks Norma brandishing the dagger in her hand.
I see poor crazed Lucia’s eyes’ unnatural gleam
Her hair down her back falls loose and dishevel’d.

I see where Ernani walking the bridal garden
Amid the scent of night-roses, radiant, holding his bride by the hand Hears the infernal call, the death-pledge of the horn.

To crossing swords and gray hairs bared to heaven
The clear electric base and baritone of the world
The trombone duo, Libertad forever!

From Spanish chestnut trees’ dense shade
By old and heavy convent walls a wailing song
Song of lost love, the torch of youth and life quench’d in despair Song of the dying swan, Fernando’s heart is breaking.
Awaking from her woes at last retriev’d Am- ina sings Copious as stars and glad as morning light the torrents of her joy.

(The teeming lady comes
The lustrious orb, Venus contralto, the blooming mother Sister of loftiest gods, Alboni’s self I hear.)

4

I hear those odes, symphonies, operas
I hear in the William Tell the music of an arous’d and angry people
I hear Meyerbeer’s Huguenots, the Prophet, or Robert Gounod’s Faust, or Mozart’s Don Juan.

I hear the dance-music of all nations
The waltz, some delicious measure, lapsing, bathing me in bliss
The bolero to tinkling guitars and clattering castanets.

I see religious dances old and new
I hear the sound of the Hebrew lyre
I see the crusaders marching bearing the cross on high, to the martial clang of cymbals
I hear dervishes monotonously chanting, interspers’d with frantic shouts, as they spin around turning always towards Mecca
I see the rapt religious dances of the Persians and the Arabs Again, at Eleusis, home of Ceres, I see the modern Greeks dancing
I hear them clapping their hands as they bend their bodies
I hear the metrical shuffling of their feet.

I see again the wild old Corybantian dance, the performers wounding each other
I see the Roman youth to the shrill sound of flageolets throwing and catching their weapons
As they fall on their knees and rise again.

I hear from the Mussulman mosque the muezzin calling
I see the worshippers within, nor form nor sermon, argument nor word

868
But silent, strange, devout, rais’d, glowing heads, ecstatic faces.

I hear the Egyptian harp of many strings
The primitive chants of the Nile boatmen
The sacred imperial hymns of China
To the delicate sounds of the king, (the stricken wood and stone,)
Or to Hindu flutes and the fretting twang of the vina
A band of bayaderes.

Now Asia, Africa leave me, Europe seizing inflates me
To organs huge and bands I hear as from vast concourses of voices Luther’s strong hymn Eine feste Burg ist unser Gott Rossini’s Stabat Mater dolorosa
Or floating in some high cathedral dim with gorgeous color’d windows
The passionate Agnus Dei or Gloria in Excel-sis.

Composers! mighty maestros!
And you, sweet singers of old lands, soprani, tenori, bassi!

To you a new bard caroling in the West
Obeisant sends his love.

(Such led to thee O soul
All senses, shows and objects, lead to thee
But now it seems to me sound leads o’er all the rest.)

I hear the annual singing of the children in St. Paul’s cathedral Or, under the high roof of some colossal hall, the symphonies
oratorios of Beethoven, Handel, or Haydn
The Creation in billows of godhood laves me.

Give me to hold all sounds, (I madly struggling cry,) Fill me with all the voices of the universe Endow me with their throbblings, Nature’s also The tempests, waters, winds, operas and chants, marches and dances Utter, pour in, for I would take them all!

6
Then I woke softly
And pausing, questioning awhile the music of my dream
And questioning all those reminiscences, the tempest in its fury
And all the songs of sopranos and tenors
And those rapt oriental dances of religious fervor
And the sweet varied instruments, and the diapason of organs
And all the artless plaints of love and grief and death
I said to my silent curious soul out of the bed of the slumber-chamber Come, for I have found the clew I sought so long
Let us go forth refresh’d amid the day Cheerfully tallying life, walking the world, the real
Nourish’d henceforth by our celestial dream.

And I said, moreover Haply what thou hast heard O soul was not the sound of winds
Nor dream of raging storm, nor sea-hawk’s flapping wings nor harsh scream
Nor vocalism of sun-bright Italy
Nor German organ majestic, nor vast concourse of voices, nor layers of harmonies
Nor strophes of husbands and wives, nor sound of marching soldiers Nor flutes, nor harps, nor the bugle-calls of camps
But to a new rhythmus fitted for thee Poems bridging the way from Life to Death, vaguely wafted in night air, uncaught, unwritten
Which let us go forth in the bold day and write.
BOOK XXVI
Passage to India

Singing my days
Singing the great achievements of the present Singing the strong light works of engineers
Our modern wonders, (the antique ponderous Seven outvied,)
In the Old World the east the Suez canal
The New by its mighty railroad spann’d
The seas inlaid with eloquent gentle wires;
Yet first to sound, and ever sound, the cry with thee O soul
The Past! the Past! the Past!
The Past–the dark unfathom’d retrospect!
The teeming gulf–the sleepers and the shad-ows!
The past–the infinite greatness of the past!
For what is the present after all but a growth out of the past?
(As a projectile form’d, impell’d, passing a certain line, still keeps on So the present, utterly form’d, impell’d by the past.)

Passage O soul to India!
Eclaircise the myths Asiatic, the primitive fables.
Not you alone proud truths of the world
Nor you alone ye facts of modern science
But myths and fables of eld, Asia’s, Africa’s fables
The far-darting beams of the spirit, the unloos’d dreams
The deep diving bibles and legends
The daring plots of the poets, the elder religions;
O you temples fairer than lilies pour’d over by the rising sun!
O you fables spurning the known, eluding the hold of the known mounting to heaven!
You lofty and dazzling towers, pinnacled, red as roses, burnish’d with gold!
Towers of fables immortal fashion’d from mortal dreams!
You too I welcome and fully the same as the rest!
You too with joy I sing.
Passage to India!
Lo, soul, seest thou not God’s purpose from the first?
The earth to be spann’d, connected by network
The races, neighbors, to marry and be given in marriage
The oceans to be cross’d, the distant brought near The lands to be welded together.
A worship new I sing
You captains, voyagers, explorers, yours
You engineers, you architects, machinists, yours
You, not for trade or transportation only
But in God’s name, and for thy sake O soul.

3
Passage to India!

Lo soul for thee of tableaus twain
I see in one the Suez canal initiated, open’d
I see the procession of steamships, the Empress Engenie’s leading the van I mark from on deck the strange landscape, the pure sky, the level sand in the distance
I pass swiftly the picturesque groups, the workmen gather’d
The gigantic dredging machines.

In one again, different, (yet thine, all thine, O soul, the same,)
I see over my own continent the Pacific railroad surmounting every barrier
I see continual trains of cars winding along the Platte carrying freight and passengers
I hear the locomotives rushing and roaring, and the shrill steam-whistle
I hear the echoes reverberate through the grandest scenery in the world
I cross the Laramie plains, I note the rocks in grotesque shapes the buttes
I see the plentiful larkspur and wild onions, the barren, colorless sage-deserts
I see in glimpses afar or towering immediately above me the great mountains, I see the Wind river and the Wahsatch mountains
I see the Monument mountain and the Eagle’s Nest, I pass the Promontory, I ascend the Nevadas
I scan the noble Elk mountain and wind around its base
I see the Humboldt range, I thread the valley and cross the river
I see the clear waters of lake Tahoe, I see forests of majestic pines Or crossing the great desert, the alkaline plains, I behold enchanting mirages of waters and meadows Marking through these and after all, in duplicate slender lines
Bridging the three or four thousand miles of land travel Tying the Eastern to the Western sea
The road between Europe and Asia.
(Ah Genoese thy dream! thy dream!
Centuries after thou art laid in thy grave
The shore thou foundest verifies thy dream.)

4

Passage to India!
Struggles of many a captain, tales of many a sailor dead
Over my mood stealing and spreading they come Like clouds and cloudlets in the unreach’d sky.
Along all history, down the slopes
As a rivulet running, sinking now, and now again to the surface rising
A ceaseless thought, a varied train–lo, soul, to thee, thy sight they rise
The plans, the voyages again, the expeditions;
Again Vasco de Gama sails forth
Again the knowledge gain’d, the mariner’s compass Lands found and nations born, thou born America
For purpose vast, man’s long probation fill’d Thou rondure of the world at last accomplish’d.

5

O vast Rondure, swimming in space
Cover’d all over with visible power and beauty
Alternate light and day and the teeming spiritual darkness Unspeakable high processions of sun and moon and countless stars above Below, the manifold grass and waters, animals, mountains, trees
With inscrutable purpose, some hidden prophetic intention Now first it seems my thought begins to span thee.

Down from the gardens of Asia descending radiating Adam and Eve appear, then their myriad progeny after them Wandering, yearning, curious, with restless explorations
With questionings, baffled, formless, feverish, with never-happy hearts With that sad incessant refrain, Wherefore unsatisfied soul? and Whither O mocking life?
Ah who shall soothe these feverish children?
Who Justify these restless explorations?
Who speak the secret of impassive earth?
Who bind it to us? what is this separate Nature so unnatural?
What is this earth to our affections? (unloving earth, without a throb to answer ours Cold earth, the place of graves.)
Yet soul be sure the first intent remains, and shall be carried out Perhaps even now the time has arrived.

After the seas are all cross’d, (as they seem already cross’d,)
After the great captains and engineers have accomplish’d their work
After the noble inventors, after the scientists, the chemist, the geologist, ethnologist
Finally shall come the poet worthy that name
The true son of God shall come singing his Then not your deeds only O voyagers, O scientists and inventors shall be justified
All these hearts as of fretted children shall be sooth’d
All affection shall be fully responded to, the secret shall be told
All these separations and gaps shall be taken up and hook’d and link’d together
The whole earth, this cold, impassive, voiceless earth, shall be completely Justified Trinitas divine shall be gloriously accomplish’d and compacted by the true son of God, the poet (He shall indeed pass the straits and conquer the mountains He shall double the cape of Good Hope to some purpose,) Nature and Man shall be disjoin’d and diffused no more
The true son of God shall absolutely fuse them.
Year at whose wide-flung door I sing!
Year of the purpose accomplish’d!
Year of the marriage of continents, climates and oceans!

(No mere doge of Venice now wedding the Adriatic,)
I see O year in you the vast terraqueous globe given and giving all Europe to Asia, Africa join’d, and they to the New World
The lands, geographies, dancing before you, holding a festival garland
As brides and bridegrooms hand in hand.

Passage to India!

Cooling airs from Caucasus far, soothing cradle of man
The river Euphrates flowing, the past lit up again.

Lo soul, the retrospect brought forward
The old, most populous, wealthiest of earth’s lands
The streams of the Indus and the Ganges and their many affluents (I my shores of America walking to-day behold, resuming all,)
The tale of Alexander on his warlike marches suddenly dying
On one side China and on the other side Persia and Arabia
To the south the great seas and the bay of Bengal
The flowing literatures, tremendous epics, religions, castes Old occult Brahma interminably far back, the tender and junior Buddha Central and southern empires and all their belongings, possessors
The wars of Tamerlane, the reign of Aurungzebe
The traders, rulers, explorers, Moslems, Venetians, Byzantium, the Arabs, Portuguese
The first travelers famous yet, Marco Polo, Batouta the Moor Doubts to be solv’d, the map incognita, blanks to be fill’d
The foot of man unstay’d, the hands never at rest Thyself O soul that will not brook a challenge.
The mediaeval navigators rise before me
The world of 1492, with its awaken’d enterprise Something swelling in humanity now like the sap of the earth in spring
The sunset splendor of chivalry declining.

And who art thou sad shade?
Gigantic, visionary, thyself a visionary
With majestic limbs and pious beaming eyes
Spreading around with every look of thine a golden world Enhuing it with gorgeous hues.

As the chief histrion
Down to the footlights walks in some great scena Dominating the rest I see the Admiral himself (History’s type of courage, action, faith,) Behold him sail from Palos leading his little fleet
His voyage behold, his return, his great fame
His misfortunes, calumniators, behold him a prisoner, chain’d Behold his dejection, poverty, death.
(Curious in time I stand, noting the efforts of heroes
Is the deferment long? bitter the slander, poverty, death?
Lies the seed unreck’d for centuries in the ground? lo, to God’s due occasion Uprising in the night, it sprouts, blooms
And fills the earth with use and beauty.)

Passage indeed O soul to primal thought
Not lands and seas alone, thy own clear freshness
The young maturity of brood and bloom
To realms of budding bibles.
O soul, repressless, I with thee and thou with me Thy circumnavigation of the world begin
Of man, the voyage of his mind’s return
To reason’s early paradise
Back, back to wisdom’s birth, to innocent intuitions Again with fair creation.

8

O we can wait no longer
We too take ship O soul
Joyous we too launch out on trackless seas
Fearless for unknown shores on waves of ecstasy to sail Amid the wafting winds, (thou pressing me to thee, I thee to me, O soul,) Caroling free, singing our song of God
Chanting our chant of pleasant exploration.

With laugh and many a kiss
(Let others deprecate, let others weep for sin, remorse, humiliation,) O soul thou pleasest me, I thee.

Ah more than any priest O soul we too believe in God
But with the mystery of God we dare not dally.

O soul thou pleasest me, I thee
Sailing these seas or on the hills, or waking in the night Thoughts, silent thoughts, of Time and Space and Death, like waters flowing Bear me indeed as through the regions infinite Whose air I breathe, whose ripples hear, lave me all over Bathe me O God in thee, mounting to thee
I and my soul to range in range of thee.

O Thou transcendent
Nameless, the fibre and the breath
Light of the light, shedding forth universes, thou centre of them Thou mightier centre of the true, the good, the loving Thou moral, spiritual fountain–affection’s source–thou reservoir (O pensive soul of me–O thirst unsatisfied–waitest not there?
Waitest not haply for us somewhere there the Comrade perfect?)
Thou pulse–thou motive of the stars, suns, systems
That, circling, move in order, safe, harmonious Athwart the shapeless vastnesses of space
How should I think, how breathe a single breath, how speak, if, out of myself
I could not launch, to those, superior universes?
Swiftly I shrivel at the thought of God
At Nature and its wonders, Time and Space and Death
But that I, turning, call to thee O soul, thou actual Me
And lo, thou gently masterest the orbs
Thou matest Time, smilest content at Death
And fillest, swellest full the vastnesses of Space.

Greater than stars or suns
Bounding O soul thou journeyest forth;
What love than thine and ours could wider amplify?
What aspirations, wishes, outvie thine and ours O soul?
What dreams of the ideal? what plans of purity, perfection, strength?
What cheerful willingness for others’ sake to give up all?
For others’ sake to suffer all?
Reckoning ahead O soul, when thou, the time achiev’d
The seas all cross’d, weather’d the capes, the voyage done Surrounded, capest, frontest God, yieldest, the aim attain’d
As fill’d with friendship, love complete, the Elder Brother found
The Younger melts in fondness in his arms.

Passage to more than India!
Are thy wings plumed indeed for such far flights?
O soul, voyagest thou indeed on voyages like those?
Disportest thou on waters such as those?
Soundest below the Sanscrit and the Vedas?
Then have thy bent unleash’d.

Passage to you, your shores, ye aged fierce enigmas!
Passage to you, to mastership of you, ye strangling problems!
You, strew’d with the wrecks of skeletons, that, living, never reach’d you.
Passage to more than India!
O secret of the earth and sky!
Of you O waters of the sea! O winding creeks and rivers!
Of you O woods and fields! of you strong mountains of my land!
Of you O prairies! of you gray rocks!
O morning red! O clouds! O rain and snows!
O day and night, passage to you!
O sun and moon and all you stars! Sirius and Jupiter!
Passage to you!
Passage, immediate passage! the blood burns in my veins!
Away O soul! hoist instantly the anchor!
Cut the hawsers–haul out–shake out every sail!
Have we not stood here like trees in the ground long enough?
Have we not grovel’d here long enough, eating and drinking like mere brutes?
Have we not darken’d and dazed ourselves with books long enough?
Sail forth–steer for the deep waters only Reckless O soul, exploring, I with thee, and thou with me
For we are bound where mariner has not yet dared to go
And we will risk the ship, ourselves and all.
O my brave soul!
O farther farther sail!
O daring joy, but safe! are they not all the seas of God?
O farther, farther, farther sail!
BOOK XXVII
PRAYER OF COLUMBUS

A batter’d, wreck’d old man
Thrown on this savage shore, far, far from home Pent by the sea and dark rebellious brows, twelve dreary months
Sore, stiff with many toils, sicken’d and nigh to death
I take my way along the island’s edge
Venting a heavy heart.
I am too full of woe!

Haply I may not live another day;
I cannot rest O God, I cannot eat or drink or sleep Till I put forth myself, my prayer, once more to Thee Breathe, bathe myself once more in Thee, commune with Thee Report myself once more to Thee.

Thou knowest my years entire, my life
My long and crowded life of active work, not adoration merely;
Thou knowest the prayers and vigils of my youth Thou knowest my manhood’s solemn and visionary meditations
Thou knowest how before I commenced I devoted all to come to Thee Thou knowest I have in age ratified all those vows and strictly kept them Thou knowest I have not once lost nor faith nor ecstasy in Thee
In shackles, prison’d, in disgrace, repining not Accepting all from Thee, as duly come from Thee.

All my emprises have been fill’d with Thee
My speculations, plans, begun and carried on in thoughts of Thee Sailing the deep or journeying the land for Thee;
Intentions, purports, aspirations mine, leaving results to Thee.

O I am sure they really came from Thee
The urge, the ardor, the unconquerable will
The potent, felt, interior command, stronger than words
A message from the Heavens whispering to me even in sleep
These sped me on.

By me and these the work so far accomplish’d
By me earth’s elder cloy’d and stifled lands uncloy’d, unloos’d
By me the hemispheres rounded and tied, the unknown to the known.

The end I know not, it is all in Thee
Or small or great I know not–haply what broad fields, what lands Haply the brutish measureless human under-growth I know Transplanted there may rise to stature, knowledge worthy Thee Haply the swords I know may there indeed be turn’d to reaping-tools Haply the lifeless cross I know, Europe’s dead cross, may bud and blossom there.

One effort more, my altar this bleak sand;
That Thou O God my life hast lighted
With ray of light, steady, ineffable, vouchsafed of Thee Light rare untellable, lighting the very light
Beyond all signs, descriptions, languages;
For that O God, be it my latest word, here on my knees Old, poor, and paralyzed, I thank Thee.

My terminus near
The clouds already closing in upon me
The voyage balk’d, the course disputed, lost I yield my ships to Thee.

My hands, my limbs grow nerveless
My brain feels rack’d, bewilder’d
Let the old timbers part, I will not part
I will cling fast to Thee, O God, though the waves buffet me Thee, Thee at least I know.

Is it the prophet’s thought I speak, or am I raving?
What do I know of life? what of myself?
I know not even my own work past or present Dim ever-shifting guesses of it spread before me
Of newer better worlds, their mighty parturition
Mocking, perplexing me.
And these things I see suddenly, what mean they?
As if some miracle, some hand divine unseal’d my eyes Shadowy vast shapes smile through the air and sky
And on the distant waves sail countless ships
And anthems in new tongues I hear saluting me.
BOOK XXVIII
The Sleepers

1

I wander all night in my vision
Stepping with light feet, swiftly and noiselessly stepping and stopping Bending with open eyes over the shut eyes of sleepers Wandering and confused, lost to myself, ill-assorted, contradictory Pausing, gazing, bending, and stopping.
How solemn they look there, stretch’d and still How quiet they breathe, the little children in their cradles.

The wretched features of ennuyes, the white features of corpses, the livid faces of drunkards, the sick-gray faces of onanists
The gash’d bodies on battle-fields, the insane in their strong-door’d rooms, the sacred idiots, the new-born emerging from gates, and the dying emerging from gates
The night pervades them and infolds them.

The married couple sleep calmly in their bed, he with his palm on the hip of the wife, and she with her palm on the hip of the husband. The sisters sleep lovingly side by side in their bed. The men sleep lovingly side by side in theirs. And the mother sleeps with her little child carefully wrapt.

The blind sleep, and the deaf and dumb sleep. The prisoner sleeps well in the prison, the runaway son sleeps. The murderer that is to be hung next day, how does he sleep? And the murder’d person, how does he sleep? The female that loves unrequited sleeps. And the male that loves unrequited sleeps. The head of the money-maker that plotted all day sleeps. And the enraged and treacherous dispositions, all, all sleep.
I stand in the dark with drooping eyes by the worst-suffering and the most restless
I pass my hands soothingly to and fro a few inches from them
The restless sink in their beds, they fitfully sleep.
Now I pierce the darkness, new beings appear
The earth recedes from me into the night
I saw that it was beautiful, and I see that what is not the earth is beautiful.
I go from bedside to bedside, I sleep close with the other sleepers each in turn
I dream in my dream all the dreams of the other dreamers
And I become the other dreamers.
I am a dance–play up there! the fit is whirling me fast!
I am the ever-laughing–it is new moon and twilight
I see the hiding of douceurs, I see nimble ghosts whichever way look Cache and cache again deep in the ground and sea, and where it is neither ground nor sea.

Well do they do their jobs those journeymen divine Only from me can they hide nothing, and would not if they could I reckon I am their boss and they make me a pet besides
And surround me and lead me and run ahead when I walk
To lift their cunning covers to signify me with stretch’d arms, and resume the way;
Onward we move, a gay gang of black-guards! with mirth-shouting music and wild-flapping pennants of joy!

I am the actor, the actress, the voter, the politician
The emigrant and the exile, the criminal that stood in the box
He who has been famous and he who shall be famous after to-day
The stammerer, the well-form’d person, the wasted or feeble person.
I am she who adorn’d herself and folded her hair expectantly
My truant lover has come, and it is dark.
Double yourself and receive me darkness
Receive me and my lover too, he will not let me go without him.
I roll myself upon you as upon a bed, I resign myself to the dusk.
He whom I call answers me and takes the place of my lover
He rises with me silently from the bed.
Darkness, you are gentler than my lover, his flesh was sweaty and panting
I feel the hot moisture yet that he left me.
My hands are spread forth, I pass them in all directions
I would sound up the shadowy shore to which you are journeying.
Be careful darkness! already what was it touch’d me?
I thought my lover had gone, else darkness and he are one
I hear the heart-beat, I follow, I fade away.

2

I descend my western course, my sinews are flaccid Perfume and youth course through me and I am their wake.

It is my face yellow and wrinkled instead of the old woman’s
I sit low in a straw-bottom chair and carefully darn my grandson’s stockings.

It is I too, the sleepless widow looking out on the winter midnight
I see the sparkles of starshine on the icy and pallid earth.

A shroud I see and I am the shroud, I wrap a body and lie in the coffin
It is dark here under ground, it is not evil or pain here, it is blank here, for reasons.

(It seems to me that every thing in the light and air ought to be happy

905 Whoever is not in his coffin and the dark grave let him know he has enough.)

3

I see a beautiful gigantic swimmer swimming naked through the eddies of the sea
His brown hair lies close and even to his head, he strikes out with courageous arms, he urges himself with his legs
I see his white body, I see his undaunted eyes
I hate the swift-running eddies that would dash him head-foremost on the rocks.

What are you doing you ruffianly red-trickled waves?
Will you kill the courageous giant? will you kill him in the prime of his middle age?
Steady and long he struggles
He is baffled, bang’d, bruis’d, he holds out while his strength holds out
The slapping eddies are spotted with his blood, they bear him away they roll him, swing him, turn him His beautiful body is borne in the circling eddies, it is continually bruis’d on rocks Swiftly and ought of sight is borne the brave corpse.

4

I turn but do not extricate myself
Confused, a past-reading, another, but with darkness yet.

The beach is cut by the razory ice-wind, the wreck-guns sound
The tempest lulls, the moon comes floundering through the drifts.

I look where the ship helplessly heads end on, I hear the burst as she strikes, I hear the howls of dismay, they grow fainter and fainter.

I cannot aid with my wringing fingers
I can but rush to the surf and let it drench me and freeze upon me.

I search with the crowd, not one of the company is wash’d to us alive
In the morning I help pick up the dead and lay them in rows in a barn.
Now of the older war-days, the defeat at Brooklyn
Washington stands inside the lines, he stands on the intrench’d hills amid a crowd of officers.

His face is cold and damp, he cannot repress the weeping drops
He lifts the glass perpetually to his eyes, the color is blanch’d from his cheeks
He sees the slaughter of the southern braves confided to him by their parents.

The same at last and at last when peace is declared
He stands in the room of the old tavern, the well-belov’d soldiers all pass through The officers speechless and slow draw near in their turns
The chief encircles their necks with his arm and kisses them on the cheek
He kisses lightly the wet cheeks one after another, he shakes hands and bids good-bye to the army.
Now what my mother told me one day as we sat at dinner together
Of when she was a nearly grown girl living home with her parents on the old homestead.

A red squaw came one breakfast-time to the old homestead
On her back she carried a bundle of rushes for rush-bottoming chairs
Her hair, straight, shiny, coarse, black, profuse, half-envelop’d her face Her step was free and elastic, and her voice sounded exquisitely as she spoke.

My mother look’d in delight and amazement at the stranger
She look’d at the freshness of her tall-borne face and full and pliant limbs
The more she look’d upon her she loved her Never before had she seen such wonderful beauty and purity
She made her sit on a bench by the jamb of the fireplace, she cook’d food for her
She had no work to give her, but she gave her remembrance and fondness.

The red squaw staid all the forenoon, and toward the middle of the afternoon she went away.

O my mother was loth to have her go away.

All the week she thought of her, she watch’d for her many a month.

She remember’d her many a winter and many a summer.

But the red squaw never came nor was heard of there again.

7

A show of the summer softness—a contact of something unseen—an amour of the light and air.

I am jealous and overwhelm’d with friendliness.

And will go gallivant with the light and air myself.

O love and summer, you are in the dreams and in me.
Autumn and winter are in the dreams, the farmer goes with his thrift
The droves and crops increase, the barns are well-fill’d.

Elements merge in the night, ships make tacks in the dreams
The sailor sails, the exile returns home
The fugitive returns unharmed, the immigrant is back beyond months and years
The poor Irishman lives in the simple house of his childhood with the well-known neighbors and faces
They warmly welcome him, he is barefoot again, he forgets he is well off
The Dutchman voyages home, and the Scotchman and Welshman voyage home, and the native of the Mediterranean voyages home
To every port of England, France, Spain, enter well-fill’d ships
The Swiss foots it toward his hills, the Prussian goes his way, the Hungarian his way, and the Pole his way The Swede returns, and the Dane and Norwegian return.
The homeward bound and the outward bound
The beautiful lost swimmer, the ennuye, the onanist, the female that loves unrequited, the money-maker
The actor and actress, those through with their parts and those waiting to commence
The affectionate boy, the husband and wife, the voter, the nominee that is chosen and the nominee that has fail’d
The great already known and the great any time after to-day
The stammerer, the sick, the perfect-form’d, the homely
The criminal that stood in the box, the judge that sat and sentenced him, the fluent lawyers, the jury, the audience
The laugher and weeper, the dancer, the midnight widow, the red squaw
The consumptive, the erysipalite, the idiot, he that is wrong’d
The antipodes, and every one between this and them in the dark
I swear they are averaged now–one is no better than the other
The night and sleep have liken’d them and restored them.

I swear they are all beautiful
Every one that sleeps is beautiful, every thing in the dim light is beautiful The wildest and bloodiest is over, and all is peace.

Peace is always beautiful
The myth of heaven indicates peace and night.

The myth of heaven indicates the soul
The soul is always beautiful, it appears more or it appears less, it comes or it lags behind
It comes from its embower’d garden and looks pleasantly on itself and encloses the world
Perfect and clean the genitals previously jetting, and perfect and clean the womb cohering
The head well-grown proportion’d and plumb, and the bowels and joints proportion’d and plumb.

The soul is always beautiful
The universe is duly in order, every thing is in its place
What has arrived is in its place and what waits shall be in its place
The twisted skull waits, the watery or rotten blood waits
The child of the glutton or venerealee waits long, and the child of the drunkard waits long, and the drunkard himself waits long
The sleepers that lived and died wait, the far advanced are to go on in their turns, and the far behind are to come on in their turns
The diverse shall be no less diverse, but they shall flow and unite–they unite now.

The sleepers are very beautiful as they lie unclothed
They flow hand in hand over the whole earth from east to west as they lie unclothed. The Asiatic and African are hand in hand, the European and American are hand in hand. Learn’d and unlearn’d are hand in hand, and male and female are hand in hand. The bare arm of the girl crosses the bare breast of her lover, they press close without lust, his lips press her neck. The father holds his grown or ungrown son in his arms with measureless love, and the son holds the father in his arms with measureless love. The white hair of the mother shines on the white wrist of the daughter. The breath of the boy goes with the breath of the man, friend is inarm’d by friend. The scholar kisses the teacher and the teacher kisses the scholar the wrong ’d made right. The call of the slave is one with the master’s call, and the master salutes the slave. The felon steps forth from the prison, the insane becomes sane, the suffering of sick persons is reliev’d.
The sweatings and fevers stop, the throat that was unsound is sound the lungs of the consumptive are resumed, the poor distress’d head is free
The joints of the rheumatic move as smoothly as ever, and smoother than ever Stiflings and passages open, the paralyzed become supple
The swell’d and convuls’d and congested awake to themselves in condition
They pass the invigoration of the night and the chemistry of the night, and awake.

I too pass from the night
I stay a while away O night, but I return to you again and love you.

Why should I be afraid to trust myself to you? I am not afraid, I have been well brought forward by you
I love the rich running day, but I do not desert her in whom I lay so long
I know not how I came of you and I know not where I go with you, but I know I came well and shall go well.
I will stop only a time with the night, and rise betimes
I will duly pass the day O my mother, and duly return to you.
Transpositions

Let the reformers descend from the stands where they are forever bawling—let an idiot or insane person appear on each of the stands; Let judges and criminals be transposed—let the prison-keepers be put in prison—let those that were prisoners take the keys; Let them that distrust birth and death lead the rest.
BOOK XXIX
To Think of Time

1

To think of time—of all that retrospection
To think of to-day, and the ages continued henceforward.

Have you guess’d you yourself would not continue?
Have you dreaded these earth-beetles?
Have you fear’d the future would be nothing to you?
Is to-day nothing? is the beginningless past nothing?
If the future is nothing they are just as surely nothing.

To think that the sun rose in the east—that men and women were flexible, real, alive—that every thing was alive
To think that you and I did not see, feel, think, nor bear our part
To think that we are now here and bear our part.

2
Not a day passes, not a minute or second without an accouchement
Not a day passes, not a minute or second without a corpse.

The dull nights go over and the dull days also
The soreness of lying so much in bed goes over
The physician after long putting off gives the silent and terrible look for an answer
The children come hurried and weeping, and the brothers and sisters are sent for Medicines stand unused on the shelf, (the camphor-smell has long pervaded the rooms,)
The faithful hand of the living does not desert the hand of the dying
The twitching lips press lightly on the forehead of the dying
The breath ceases and the pulse of the heart ceases
The corpse stretches on the bed and the living look upon it
It is palpable as the living are palpable.
The living look upon the corpse with their eyesight
But without eyesight lingers a different living and looks curiously on the corpse.

3

To think the thought of death merged in the thought of materials To think of all these wonders of city and country, and others taking great interest in them, and we taking no interest in them.
To think how eager we are in building our houses
To think others shall be just as eager, and we quite indifferent.
(I see one building the house that serves him a few years, or seventy or eighty years at most I see one building the house that serves him longer than that.) Slow-moving and black lines creep over the whole earth—they never cease–they are the burial lines
He that was President was buried, and he that is now President shall surely be buried.

4

A reminiscence of the vulgar fate
A frequent sample of the life and death of workmen
Each after his kind.

Cold dash of waves at the ferry-wharf, posh and ice in the river half-frozen mud in the streets
A gray discouraged sky overhead, the short last daylight of December
A hearse and stages, the funeral of an old Broadway stage-driver the cortege mostly drivers.

Steady the trot to the cemetery, duly rattles the death-bell
The gate is pass’d, the new-dug grave is halted at, the living alight, the hearse un-closes
The coffin is pass’d out, lower’d and settled, the whip is laid on the coffin, the earth is swiftly shovel’d in The mound above is flatted with the spades—silence
A minute—no one moves or speaks—it is done
He is decently put away—is there any thing more?
He was a good fellow, free-mouth’d, quick-temper’d, not bad-looking Ready with life or death for a friend, fond of women, gambled, ate hearty, drank hearty
Had known what it was to be flush, grew low-spirited toward the last, sicken’d, was help’d by a contribution Died, aged forty-one years—and that was his funeral.

Thumb extended, finger uplifted, apron, cape, gloves, strap wet-weather clothes, whip carefully chosen Boss, spotter, starter, hostler, somebody loafing on you, you loafing on somebody, headway, man before and man behind Good day’s work, bad day’s work, pet stock, mean stock, first out last out, turning-in at night To think that these are so much and so nigh to other drivers, and he there takes no interest in them.

5

The markets, the government, the working-man’s wages, to think what account they are through our nights and days
To think that other working-men will make just as great account of them, yet we make little or no account.

The vulgar and the refined, what you call sin and what you call goodness, to think how wide a difference
To think the difference will still continue to others, yet we lie beyond the difference.

To think how much pleasure there is
Do you enjoy yourself in the city? or engaged in business? or planning a nomination and election? or with your wife and family?
Or with your mother and sisters? or in womanly housework? or the beautiful maternal cares?
These also flow onward to others, you and I flow onward
But in due time you and I shall take less interest in them.

Your farm, profits, crops—-to think how engross’d you are
To think there will still be farms, profits, crops, yet for you of what avail?

What will be will be well, for what is is well
To take interest is well, and not to take interest shall be well.

The domestic joys, the dally housework or business, the building of houses, are not phantasms, they have weight, form, location
Farms, profits, crops, markets, wages, government, are none of them phantasms
The difference between sin and goodness is no delusion
The earth is not an echo, man and his life and all the things of his life are well-consider’ed.

You are not thrown to the winds, you gather certainly and safely around yourself Yourself! yourself! yourself, for ever and ever!

It is not to diffuse you that you were born of your mother and father, it is to identify you
It is not that you should be undecided, but that you should be decided Something long preparing and formless is arrived and form’d in you
You are henceforth secure, whatever comes or goes.

The threads that were spun are gather’d, the wet crosses the warp the pattern is systematic.
The preparations have every one been justified
The orchestra have sufficiently tuned their instruments, the baton has given the signal.
The guest that was coming, he waited long, he is now housed
He is one of those who are beautiful and happy, he is one of those that to look upon and be with is enough.
The law of the past cannot be eluded
The law of the present and future cannot be eluded
The law of the living cannot be eluded, it is eternal
The law of promotion and transformation cannot be eluded
The law of heroes and good-doers cannot be eluded
The law of drunkards, informers, mean persons, not one iota thereof can be eluded.

8

Slow moving and black lines go ceaselessly over the earth
Northerner goes carried and Southerner goes carried, and they on the Atlantic side and they on the Pacific And they between, and all through the Mississippi country, and all over the earth.

The great masters and kosmos are well as they go, the heroes and good-doers are well
The known leaders and inventors and the rich owners and pious and distinguish’d may be well
But there is more account than that, there is strict account of all.

The interminable hordes of the ignorant and wicked are not nothing
The barbarians of Africa and Asia are not nothing
The perpetual successions of shallow people are not nothing as they go.

Of and in all these things I have dream’d that we are not to be changed so much, nor the law of us changed
I have dream’d that heroes and good-doers shall be under the present and past law And that murderers, drunkards, liars, shall be under the present and past law For I have dream’d that the law they are under now is enough.

And I have dream’d that the purpose and essence of the known life the transient Is to form and decide identity for the unknown life, the permanent.

If all came but to ashes of dung
If maggots and rats ended us, then Alarum!
  for we are betray’d
Then indeed suspicion of death.

Do you suspect death? if I were to suspect death I should die now Do you think I could walk pleasantly and well-suited toward annihilation?
Pleasantly and well-suited I walk Whither I walk I cannot define, but I know it is good
The whole universe indicates that it is good The past and the present indicate that it is good.

How beautiful and perfect are the animals!

How perfect the earth, and the minutest thing upon it!

What is called good is perfect, and what is called bad is just as perfect

The vegetables and minerals are all perfect, and the imponderable fluids perfect;

Slowly and surely they have pass’d on to this, and slowly and surely they yet pass on.

9

I swear I think now that every thing without exception has an eternal soul!

The trees have, rooted in the ground! the weeds of the sea have! the animals!

I swear I think there is nothing but immortality!

That the exquisite scheme is for it, and the nebulous float is for it, and the cohering is for it!
And all preparation is for it–and identity is for it–and life and materials are altogether for it!
BOOK XXX. WHISPERS OF HEAVENLY DEATH
Darest thou now O soul
Walk out with me toward the unknown region
Where neither ground is for the feet nor any path to follow?
No map there, nor guide
Nor voice sounding, nor touch of human hand
Nor face with blooming flesh, nor lips, nor eyes, are in that land.

I know it not O soul
Nor dost thou, all is a blank before us
All waits undream’d of in that region, that inaccessible land.

Till when the ties loosen
All but the ties eternal, Time and Space
Nor darkness, gravitation, sense, nor any bounds bounding us.

Then we burst forth, we float
In Time and Space O soul, prepared for them Equal, equipt at last, (O joy! O fruit of all!) them to fulfil O soul.
Whispers of heavenly death murmur’d I hear Labial gossip of night, sibilant chorals Footsteps gently ascending, mystical breezes wafted soft and low Ripples of unseen rivers, tides of a current flowing, forever flowing (Or is it the plashing of tears? the measureless waters of human tears?)
I see, just see skyward, great cloud-masses Mournfully slowly they roll, silently swelling and mixing
With at times a half-dimm’d sadden’d far-off star
Appearing and disappearing.
(Some parturition rather, some solemn immortal birth;
On the frontiers to eyes impenetrable Some soul is passing over.)
Chanting the Square Deific

1

Chanting the square deific, out of the One advancing, out of the sides
Out of the old and new, out of the square entirely divine Solid, four-sided, (all the sides needed,) from this side Jehovah am I Old Brahm I, and I Saturnius am;
Not Time affects me–I am Time, old, modern as any Unpersuadable, relentless, executing righteous judgments
As the Earth, the Father, the brown old Kronos, with laws Aged beyond computation, yet never new, ever with those mighty laws rolling Relentless I forgive no man–whoever sins dies–I will have that man’s life;
Therefore let none expect mercy–have the seasons, gravitation, the appointed days, mercy? no more have I
But as the seasons and gravitation, and as all the appointed days that forgive not
I dispense from this side judgments inexorable without the least remorse.

2 Consolator most mild, the promis’d one advancing
With gentle hand extended, the mightier God am I Foretold by prophets and poets in their most rapt prophecies and poems
From this side, lo! the Lord Christ gazes–lo!
Hermes I–lo! mine is Hercules’ face
All sorrow, labor, suffering, I, tallying it, absorb in myself
Many times have I been rejected, taunted, put in prison, and crucified, and many times shall be again
All the world have I given up for my dear brothers’ and sisters’ sake, for the soul’s sake
Wanding my way through the homes of men, rich or poor, with the kiss of affection For I am affection, I am the cheer-bringing God, with hope and all-enclosing charity With indulgent words as to children, with fresh and sane words, mine only Young and strong I pass knowing well I am destin’d myself to an early death;
But my charity has no death—my wisdom dies not, neither early nor late And my sweet love bequeath’d here and elsewhere never never dies.

3

Aloof, dissatisfied, plotting revolt
Comrade of criminals, brother of slaves
Crafty, despised, a drudge, ignorant With sudra face and worn brow, black, but in the depths of my heart proud as any Lifted now and always against whoever scorning assumes to rule me Morose, full of guile, full of reminiscences, brooding, with many wiles (Though it was thought I was baffled, and dispel’d, and my wiles done, but that will never be,) Defiant, I, Satan, still live, still utter words, in new lands duly appearing, (and old ones also,) Permanent here from my side, warlike, equal with any, real as any Nor time nor change shall ever change me or my words.

4

Santa Spirita, breather, life
Beyond the light, lighter than light
Beyond the flames of hell, joyous, leaping easily above hell
Beyond Paradise, perfumed solely with mine own perfume Including all life on earth, touching, including God, including Saviour and Satan Ethereal, pervading all, (for without me what were all? what were God?)
Essence of forms, life of the real identities, permanent, positive (namely the unseen,) Life of the great round world, the sun and stars, and of man, I, the general soul Here the square finishing, the solid, I the most solid
Breathe my breath also through these songs.
Of him I love day and night I dream’d I heard he was dead
And I dream’d I went where they had buried him I love, but he was not in that place
And I dream’d I wander’d searching among burial-places to find him
And I found that every place was a burial-place;
The houses full of life were equally full of death, (this house is now,)
The streets, the shipping, the places of amusement, the Chicago Boston, Philadelphia, the Mannahatta, were as full of the dead as of the living
And fuller, O vastly fuller of the dead than of the living;
And what I dream’d I will henceforth tell to every person and age
And I stand henceforth bound to what I dream’d
And now I am willing to disregard burial-places and dispense with them And if the memorials of the dead were put up indifferently everywhere even in the room where I eat or sleep, I should be satisfied
And if the corpse of any one I love, or if my own corpse, be duly render’d to powder and pour’d in the sea, I shall be satisfied Or if it be distributed to the winds I shall be satisfied.
Yet, Yet, Ye Downcast Hours

Yet, yet, ye downcast hours, I know ye also Weights of lead, how ye clog and cling at my ankles Earth to a chamber of mourning turns—I hear the o’erweening, mocking voice Matter is conqueror—matter, triumphant only, continues onward.

Despairing cries float ceaselessly toward me
The call of my nearest lover, putting forth, alarm’d, uncertain
The sea I am quickly to sail, come tell me Come tell me where I am speeding, tell me my destination.

I understand your anguish, but I cannot help you
I approach, hear, behold, the sad mouth, the look out of the eyes your mute inquiry Whither I go from the bed I recline on, come tell me,— Old age, alarm’d, uncertain—a young woman’s voice, appealing to me for comfort;
A young man’s voice, Shall I not escape?
As If a Phantom Caress’d Me

As if a phantom caress’d me
I thought I was not alone walking here by the shore;
But the one I thought was with me as now I walk by the shore, the one I loved that caress’d me
As I lean and look through the glimmering light, that one has utterly disappear’d.
And those appear that are hateful to me and mock me.
Assurances

I need no assurances, I am a man who is preoccupied of his own soul;
I do not doubt that from under the feet and beside the hands and face I am cognizant of, are now looking faces I am not cognizant of, calm and actual faces
I do not doubt but the majesty and beauty of the world are latent in any iota of the world
I do not doubt I am limitless, and that the universes are limitless in vain I try to think how limitless
I do not doubt that the orbs and the systems of orbs play their swift sports through the air on purpose, and that I shall one day be eligible to do as much as they, and more than they
I do not doubt that temporary affairs keep on and on millions of years
I do not doubt interiors have their interiors, and exteriors have their exteriors, and that the eyesight has another eyesight, and the hearing another hearing, and the voice another voice
I do not doubt that the passionately-wept deaths of young men are provided for, and that the deaths of young women and the deaths of little children are provided for (Did you think Life was so well provided for, and Death, the purport of all Life, is not well provided for?)
I do not doubt that wrecks at sea, no matter what the horrors of them, no matter whose wife, child, husband, father, lover, has gone down, are provided for, to the minutest points
I do not doubt that whatever can possibly happen anywhere at any time, is provided for in the inherences of things
I do not think Life provides for all and for Time and Space, but I believe Heavenly Death provides for all.
Quicksand Years

Quicksand years that whirl me I know not whither Your schemes, politics, fail, lines give way, substances mock and elude me
Only the theme I sing, the great and strong-possess’d soul, eludes not One’s-self must never give way—that is the final substance—that out of all is sure
Out of politics, triumphs, battles, life, what at last finally remains?
When shows break up what but One’s-Self is sure?
That Music Always Round Me

That music always round me, unceasing, unbeginning, yet long untaught I did not hear
But now the chorus I hear and am elated
A tenor, strong, ascending with power and health, with glad notes of daybreak I hear
A soprano at intervals sailing buoyantly over the tops of immense waves
A transparent base shuddering lusciously under and through the universe
The triumphant tutti, the funeral wailings with sweet flutes and violins, all these I fill myself with I hear not the volumes of sound merely, I am moved by the exquisite meanings
I listen to the different voices winding in and out, striving contending with fiery vehemence to excel each other in emotion;
I do not think the performers know themselves—but now I think begin to know them.
What ship puzzled at sea, cons for the true reckoning?
Or coming in, to avoid the bars and follow the channel a perfect pilot needs?
Here, sailor! here, ship! take aboard the most perfect pilot Whom, in a little boat, putting off and rowing, I hailing you offer.
A NOISELESS PATIENT SPIDER

A noiseless patient spider
I mark’d where on a little promontory it stood isolated Mark’d how to explore the vacant vast surrounding It launch’d forth filament, filament, filament out of itself
Ever unreeling them, ever tirelessly speeding them.

And you O my soul where you stand Surrounded, detached, in measureless oceans of space Ceaselessly musing, venturing, throwing, seeking the spheres to connect them Till the bridge you will need be form’d, till the ductile anchor hold Till the gossamer thread you fling catch somewhere, O my soul.
O Living Always, Always Dying

O living always, always dying!
O the burials of me past and present
O me while I stride ahead, material, visible, imperious as ever;
O me, what I was for years, now dead, (I lament not, I am content;)
O to disengage myself from those corpses of me, which I turn and look at where I cast them
To pass on, (O living! always living!) and leave the corpses behind.
To One Shortly to Die

From all the rest I single out you, having a message for you
You are to die—let others tell you what they please, I cannot prevaricate
I am exact and merciless, but I love you—there is no escape for you.

Softly I lay my right hand upon you, you ’ust feel it
I do not argue, I bend my head close and half envelop it
I sit quietly by, I remain faithful
I am more than nurse, more than parent or neighbor
I absolve you from all except yourself spiritual bodily, that is eternal, you yourself will surely escape
The corpse you will leave will be but excrementitious.

The sun bursts through in unlooked-for directions Strong thoughts fill you and confidence, you smile
You forget you are sick, as I forget you are sick
You do not see the medicines, you do not mind the weeping friends
I am with you
I exclude others from you, there is nothing to be commiserated
I do not commiserate, I congratulate you.
Night on the Prairies

Night on the prairies
The supper is over, the fire on the ground burns low
The wearied emigrants sleep, wrapt in their blankets;
I walk by myself—I stand and look at the stars, which I think now never realized before.

Now I absorb immortality and peace
I admire death and test propositions.

How plenteous! how spiritual! how resume!
The same old man and soul—the same old aspirations, and the same content.

I was thinking the day most splendid till I saw what the not-day exhibited I was thinking this globe enough till there sprang out so noiseless around me myriads of other globes.

Now while the great thoughts of space and eternity fill me I will measure myself by them
And now touch'd with the lives of other globes arrived as far along as those of the earth
Or waiting to arrive, or pass'd on farther than those of the earth
I henceforth no more ignore them than I ignore my own life
Or the lives of the earth arrived as far as mine, or waiting to arrive.

O I see now that life cannot exhibit all to me, as the day cannot
I see that I am to wait for what will be exhibited by death.
Thought

As I sit with others at a great feast, suddenly while the music is playing
To my mind, (whence it comes I know not,) spectral in mist of a wreck at sea
Of certain ships, how they sail from port with flying streamers and wafted kisses, and that is the last of them
Of the solemn and murky mystery about the fate of the President Of the flower of the marine science of fifty generations founder’d off the Northeast coast and going down–of the steamship Arctic going down
Of the veil’d tableau-women gather’d together on deck, pale, heroic waiting the moment that draws so close–O the moment!
A huge sob–a few bubbles–the white foam spiriting up–and then the women gone Sinking there while the passionless wet flows on–and I now pondering, Are those women indeed gone?
Are souls drown’d and destroy’d so?
Is only matter triumphant?
The Last Invocation

At the last, tenderly
From the walls of the powerful fortress’d house
From the clasp of the knitted locks, from the keep of the well-closed doors
Let me be wafted.

Let me glide noiselessly forth;
With the key of softness unlock the locks—with a whisper Set ope the doors O soul.

Tenderly—be not impatient (Strong is your hold O mortal flesh Strong is your hold O love.)
As I watch the Ploughman Ploughing

As I watch’d the ploughman ploughing
Or the sower sowing in the fields, or the harvester harvesting
I saw there too, O life and death, your analogies; (Life, life is the tillage, and Death is the harvest according.) Pensive and Faltering

Pensive and faltering
The words the Dead I write
For living are the Dead (Haply the only living, only real And I the apparition, I the spectre.)
BOOK XXXI
Thou Mother with Thy Equal Brood

1

Thou Mother with thy equal brood
Thou varied chain of different States, yet one identity only
A special song before I go I’d sing o’er all the rest
For thee, the future.

I’d sow a seed for thee of endless Nationality I’d fashion thy ensemble including body and soul
I’d show away ahead thy real Union, and how it may be accomplish’d.

The paths to the house I seek to make
But leave to those to come the house itself.

Belief I sing, and preparation;
As Life and Nature are not great with reference to the present only
But greater still from what is yet to come Out of that formula for thee I sing.

2
As a strong bird on pinions free
Joyous, the amplest spaces heavenward cleaving
Such be the thought I’d think of thee America
Such be the recitative I’d bring for thee.

The conceits of the poets of other lands I’d bring thee not Nor the compliments that have served their turn so long Nor rhyme, nor the classics, nor perfume of foreign court or indoor library;
But an odor I’d bring as from forests of pine in Maine, or breath of an Illinois prairie With open airs of Virginia or Georgia or Tennessee, or from Texas uplands, or Florida’s glades
Or the Saguenay’s black stream, or the wide blue spread of Huron With presentment of Yellowstone’s scenes, or Yosemite
And murmuring under, pervading all, I’d bring the rustling sea-sound That endlessly sounds from the two Great Seas of the world.
And for thy subtler sense subtler refrains dread Mother
Preludes of intellect tallying these and thee, mind-formulas fitted for thee, real and sane and large as these and thee Thou! mounting higher, diving deeper than we knew, thou transcendental Union!

By thee fact to be justified, blended with thought
Thought of man justified, blended with God Through thy idea, lo, the immortal reality!

Through thy reality, lo, the immortal idea!

3

Brain of the New World, what a task is thine To formulate the Modern—out of the peerless grandeur of the modern
Out of thyself, comprising science, to recast poems, churches, art (Recast, may-be discard them, end them—maybe their work is done who knows?) By vision, hand, conception, on the background of the mighty past, the dead
To limn with absolute faith the mighty living present.

And yet thou living present brain, heir of the dead, the Old World brain Thou that lay folded like an unborn babe within its folds so long Thou carefully prepared by it so long–haply thou but unfoldest it only maturest it
It to eventuate in thee–the essence of the by-gone time contain’d in thee
Its poems, churches, arts, unwitting to themselves, destined with reference to thee;
Thou but the apples, long, long, long a-growing
The fruit of all the Old ripening to-day in thee.

4

Sail, sail thy best, ship of Democracy
Of value is thy freight, ’tis not the Present only
The Past is also stored in thee
Thou holdest not the venture of thyself alone, not of the Western continent alone
Earth’s resume entire floats on thy keel O ship, is steadied by thy spars
With thee Time voyages in trust, the antecedent nations sink or swim with thee
With all their ancient struggles, martyrs, heroes, epics, wars, thou bear’st the other continents Theirs, theirs as much as thine, the destination-port triumphant;
Steer then with good strong hand and wary eye O helmsman, thou carriest great companions Venerable priestly Asia sails this day with thee
And royal feudal Europe sails with thee.

5

Beautiful world of new superber birth that rises to my eyes
Like a limitless golden cloud filling the western sky Emblem of general maternity lifted above all Sacred shape of the bearer of daughters and sons
Out of thy teeming womb thy giant babes in ceaseless procession issuing Acceding from such gestation, taking and giving continual strength and life World of the real–world of the twain in one World of the soul, born by the world of the real alone, led to identity, body, by it alone
Yet in beginning only, incalculable masses of composite precious materials
By history’s cycles forwarded, by every nation, language, hither sent Ready, collected here, a freer, vast, electric world, to be constructed here
(The true New World, the world of orbic science, morals, literatures to come,) Thou wonder world yet undefined, uniform’d, neither do I define thee
How can I pierce the impenetrable blank of the future?
I feel thy ominous greatness evil as well as good
I watch thee advancing, absorbing the present, transcending the past I see thy light lighting, and thy shadow shadowing, as if the entire globe But I do not undertake to define thee, hardly to comprehend thee
I but thee name, thee prophesy, as now
I merely thee ejaculate!

Thee in thy future
Thee in thy only permanent life, career, thy own unloosen’d mind thy soaring spirit
Thee as another equally needed sun, radiant, ablaze, swift-moving fructifying all Thee risen in potent cheerfulness and joy, in endless great hilarity Scattering for good the cloud that hung so long, that weigh’d so long upon the mind of man
The doubt, suspicion, dread, of gradual, certain decadence of man;
Thee in thy larger, saner brood of female, male–thee in thy athletes, moral, spiritual,
South, North, West, East (To thy immortal breasts, Mother of All, thy every daughter, son endear’d alike, forever equal,)
Thee in thy own musicians, singers, artists, unborn yet, but certain Thee in thy moral wealth and civilization, (until which thy proudest material civilization must remain in vain,) Thee in thy all-supplying, all-enclosing worship—thee in no single bible, saviour, merely Thy saviours countless, latent within thyself, thy bibles incessant within thyself, equal to any, divine as any (Thy soaring course thee formulating, not in thy two great wars, nor in thy century’s visible growth But far more in these leaves and chants, thy chants, great Mother!)
Thee in an education grown of thee, in teachers, studies, students born of thee Thee in thy democratic fetes en-masse, thy high original festivals operas, lecturers, preachers Thee in thy ultimate, (the preparations only now completed, the edifice on sure foundations tied,) Thee in thy pinnacles, intellect, thought, thy topmost rational joys, thy love and god-like aspiration
In thy resplendent coming literati, thy full-lung’d orators, thy sacerdotal bards, kos-mic savans
These! these in thee, (certain to come,) to-day
I prophesy.

Land tolerating all, accepting all, not for the good alone, all good for thee Land in the realms of God to be a realm unto thyself
Under the rule of God to be a rule unto thyself.

(Lo, where arise three peerless stars
To be thy natal stars my country, Ensemble, Evolution, Freedom
Set in the sky of Law.)
Land of unprecedented faith, God’s faith
Thy soil, thy very subsoil, all upheav’d
The general inner earth so long so sedulously draped over, now hence for what it is boldly laid bare
Open’d by thee to heaven’s light for benefit or bale.

Not for success alone
Not to fair-sail unintermitted always
The storm shall dash thy face, the murk of war and worse than war shall cover thee all over (Wert capable of war, its tug and trials? be capable of peace, its trials For the tug and mortal strain of nations come at last in prosperous peace, not war;)
In many a smiling mask death shall approach beguiling thee, thou in disease shalt swelter
The livid cancer spread its hideous claws, clinging upon thy breasts, seeking to strike thee deep within Consumption of the worst, moral consumption, shall rouge thy face with hectic
But thou shalt face thy fortunes, thy diseases, and surmount them all Whatever they are to-day and whatever through time they may be They each and all shall lift and pass away and cease from thee
While thou, Time’s spirals rounding, out of thyself, thyself still extricating, fusing Equable, natural, mystical Union thou, (the mortal with immortal blent,) Shalt soar toward the fulfilment of the future, the spirit of the body and the mind
The soul, its destinies.
The soul, its destinies, the real real (Purport of all these apparitions of the real;)
In thee America, the soul, its destinies
Thou globe of globes! thou wonder nebulous!
By many a throe of heat and cold convuls’d, (by these thyself solidifying,)
Thou mental, moral orb–thou New, indeed new, Spiritual World!
The Present holds thee not–for such vast growth as thine
For such unparallel’d flight as thine, such brood as thine
The FUTURE only holds thee and can hold thee.
A Paumanok Picture

Two boats with nets lying off the sea-beach, quite still Ten fishermen waiting—they discover a thick school of mossbonkers —they drop the join’d seine-ends in the water
The boats separate and row off, each on its rounding course to the beach, enclosing the mossbonkers
The net is drawn in by a windlass by those who stop ashore
Some of the fishermen lounge in their boats, others stand ankle-deep in the water, pois’d on strong legs
The boats partly drawn up, the water slapping against them Strew’d on the sand in heaps and windrows, well out from the water the green-back’d spotted mossbonkers.
BOOK XXXII. FROM NOON TO STARRY NIGHT
Thou Orb Aloft Full-Dazzling

Thou orb aloft full-dazzling! thou hot October noon!

Flooding with sheeny light the gray beach sand
The sibilant near sea with vistas far and foam
And tawny streaks and shades and spreading blue;
O sun of noon refulgent! my special word to thee.

Hear me illustrious!

Thy lover me, for always I have loved thee
Even as basking babe, then happy boy alone by some wood edge, thy touching-distant beams enough Or man matured, or young or old, as now to thee I launch my invocation.

(Thou canst not with thy dullness me deceive
I know before the fitting man all Nature yields Though answering not in words, the skies, trees, hear his voice—and thou O sun
As for thy throes, thy perturbations, sudden breaks and shafts of flame gigantic I understand them, I know those flames, those perturbations well.
Thou that with fructifying heat and light O’er myriad farms, o’er lands and waters
North and South
O’er Mississippi’s endless course, o’er Texas’ grassy plains Kanada’s woods O’er all the globe that turns its face to thee shining in space
Thou that impartially enfoldest all, not only continents, seas
Thou that to grapes and weeds and little wild flowers givest so liberally Shed, shed thyself on mine and me, with but a fleeting ray out of thy million millions Strike through these chants.

Nor only launch thy subtle dazzle and thy strength for these Prepare the later afternoon of me myself—prepare my lengthening shadows

978
Prepare my starry nights.
Sauntering the pavement or riding the country by-road, faces!

Faces of friendship, precision, caution, suavity, ideality
The spiritual-prescient face, the always welcome common benevolent face
The face of the singing of music, the grand faces of natural lawyers and judges broad at the back-top
The faces of hunters and fishers bulged at the brows, the shaved blanch’d faces of orthodox citizens
The pure, extravagant, yearning, questioning artist’s face
The ugly face of some beautiful soul, the handsome detested or despised face
The sacred faces of infants, the illuminated face of the mother of many children
The face of an amour, the face of veneration
The face as of a dream, the face of an immo-bile rock
The face withdrawn of its good and bad, a castrated face
A wild hawk, his wings clipp’d by the clipper
A stallion that yielded at last to the thongs and knife of the gelder.

Sauntering the pavement thus, or crossing the ceaseless ferry, faces and faces and faces
I see them and complain not, and am content with all.

2

Do you suppose I could be content with all if I thought them their own finale?
This now is too lamentable a face for a man
Some abject louse asking leave to be, cringing for it
Some milk-nosed maggot blessing what lets it wrig to its hole.

This face is a dog’s snout sniffing for garbage
Snakes nest in that mouth, I hear the sibilant threat.
This face is a haze more chill than the arctic sea
Its sleepy and wobbling icebergs crunch as they go.

This is a face of bitter herbs, this an emetic, they need no label
And more of the drug-shelf, laudanum, caoutchouc, or hog’s-lard.

This face is an epilepsy, its wordless tongue gives out the unearthly cry
Its veins down the neck distend, its eyes roll till they show nothing but their whites
Its teeth grit, the palms of the hands are cut by the turn’d-in nails
The man falls struggling and foaming to the ground, while he speculates well.

This face is bitten by vermin and worms
And this is some murderer’s knife with a half-pull’d scabbard.

This face owes to the sexton his dismalest fee
An unceasing death-bell tolls there.

3 Features of my equals would you trick me with your creas’d and cadaverous march?
Well, you cannot trick me.
I see your rounded never-erased flow I see ’neath the rims of your haggard and mean disguises.
Splay and twist as you like, poke with the tangling fores of fishes or rats You’ll be unmuzzled, you certainly will.
I saw the face of the most smear’d and slob-bering idiot they had at the asylum And I knew for my consolation what they knew not
I knew of the agents that emptied and broke my brother
The same wait to clear the rubbish from the fallen tenement
And I shall look again in a score or two of ages
And I shall meet the real landlord perfect and unharm’d, every inch as good as myself.

4
The Lord advances, and yet advances

983
Always the shadow in front, always the reach’d hand bringing up the laggards.

Out of this face emerge banners and horses—O superb! I see what is coming
I see the high pioneer-caps, see staves of runners clearing the way I hear victorious drums.

This face is a life-boat
This is the face commanding and bearded, it asks no odds of the rest
This face is flavor’d fruit ready for eating
This face of a healthy honest boy is the programme of all good.

These faces bear testimony slumbering or awake
They show their descent from the Master himself.

Off the word I have spoken I except not one—red, white, black, are all deific
In each house is the ovum, it comes forth after a thousand years.
Spots or cracks at the windows do not disturb me
Tall and sufficient stand behind and make signs to me
I read the promise and patiently wait.
This is a full-grown lily’s face
She speaks to the limber-hipp’d man near the garden pickets
Come here she blushingly cries, Come nigh to me limber-hipp’d man Stand at my side till I lean as high as I can upon you Fill me with albescent honey, bend down to me
Rub to me with your chafing beard, rub to my breast and shoulders.

5

The old face of the mother of many children
Whist! I am fully content.

Lull’d and late is the smoke of the First-day morning
It hangs low over the rows of trees by the fences

985
It hangs thin by the sassafras and wild-cherry and cat-brier under them.

I saw the rich ladies in full dress at the soiree
I heard what the singers were singing so long Heard who sprang in crimson youth from the white froth and the water-blue.

Behold a woman!

She looks out from her quaker cap, her face is clearer and more beautiful than the sky.

She sits in an armchair under the shaded porch of the farmhouse
The sun just shines on her old white head.

Her ample gown is of cream-hued linen Her grandsons raised the flax, and her granddaughters spun it with the distaff and the wheel.

The melodious character of the earth
The finish beyond which philosophy cannot go and does not wish to go
The justified mother of men.
The Mystic Trumpeter

1
Hark, some wild trumpeter, some strange musician
Hovering unseen in air, vibrates capricious tunes to-night.
I hear thee trumpeter, listening alert I catch thy notes
Now pouring, whirling like a tempest round me
Now low, subdued, now in the distance lost.

2
Come nearer bodiless one, haply in thee re-sounds
Some dead composer, haply thy pensive life
Was fill’d with aspirations high, unform’d ideals Waves, oceans musical, chaotically surging
That now ecstatic ghost, close to me bending, thy cornet echoing, pealing Gives out to no one’s ears but mine, but freely gives to mine
That I may thee translate.

3
Blow trumpeter free and clear, I follow thee
While at thy liquid prelude, glad, serene
The fretting world, the streets, the noisy hours of day withdraw
A holy calm descends like dew upon me
I walk in cool refreshing night the walks of Paradise
I scent the grass, the moist air and the roses;
Thy song expands my numb’d imbonded spirit, thou freest, launchest me Floating and basking upon heaven’s lake.

4
Blow again trumpeter! and for my sensuous eyes
Bring the old pageants, show the feudal world.
What charm thy music works! thou makest pass before me
Ladies and cavaliers long dead, barons are in their castle halls the troubadours are singing Arm’d knights go forth to redress wrongs, some in quest of the holy Graal; I see the tournament, I see the contestants incased in heavy armor seated on stately champing horses I hear the shouts, the sounds of blows and smiting steel; I see the Crusaders’ tumultuous armies—hark, how the cymbals clang Lo, where the monks walk in advance, bearing the cross on high.

Blow again trumpeter! and for thy theme Take now the enclosing theme of all, the solvent and the setting Love, that is pulse of all, the sustenance and the pang The heart of man and woman all for love No other theme but love—knitting, enclosing, all-diffusing love. O how the immortal phantoms crowd around me! I see the vast alembic ever working, I see and know the flames that heat the world
The glow, the blush, the beating hearts of lovers
So blissful happy some, and some so silent, dark, and nigh to death;
Love, that is all the earth to lovers–love, that mocks time and space
Love, that is day and night–love, that is sun and moon and stars Love, that is crimson, sumptuous, sick with perfume
No other words but words of love, no other thought but love.

Blow again trumpeter–conjure war’s alarums.

Swift to thy spell a shuddering hum like distant thunder rolls
Lo, where the arm’d men hasten–lo, mid the clouds of dust the glint of bayonets I see the grime-faced cannoneers, I mark the rosy flash amid the smoke, I hear the cracking of the guns;
Nor war alone—thy fearful music-song, wild player, brings every sight of fear
The deeds of ruthless brigands, rapine, murder—I hear the cries for help!

I see ships foundering at sea, I behold on deck and below deck the terrible tableaus.

7

O trumpeter, methinks I am myself the instrument thou playest Thou melt’st my heart, my brain—thou movest, drawest, changest them at will;
And now thy sullen notes send darkness through me
Thou takest away all cheering light, all hope
I see the enslaved, the overthrown, the hurt, the opprest of the whole earth
I feel the measureless shame and humiliation of my race, it becomes all mine Mine too the revenges of humanity, the wrongs of ages, baffled feuds and hatreds Utter defeat upon me weighs—all lost—the foe victorious (Yet ’mid the ruins Pride colossal stands unshaken to the last Endurance, resolution to the last.)

Now trumpeter for thy close Vouchsafe a higher strain than any yet
Sing to my soul, renew its languishing faith and hope Rouse up my slow belief, give me some vision of the future Give me for once its prophecy and joy.
O glad, exulting, culminating song!
A vigor more than earth’s is in thy notes Marches of victory—man disenthral’d—the conqueror at last Hymns to the universal God from universal man—all joy!
A reborn race appears—a perfect world, all joy!
Women and men in wisdom innocence and health—all joy!
Riotous laughing bacchanals fill’d with joy!

992
War, sorrow, suffering gone—the rank earth purged—nothing but joy left!
The ocean fill’d with joy—the atmosphere all joy!
Joy! joy! in freedom, worship, love! joy in the ecstasy of life!
Enough to merely be! enough to breathe!
Joy! joy! all over joy!
To a Locomotive in Winter

Thee for my recitative
Thee in the driving storm even as now, the snow, the winter-day declining Thee in thy panoply, thy measur’d dual throbbing and thy beat convulsive Thy black cylindric body, golden brass and silvery steel Thy ponderous side-bars, parallel and connecting rods, gyrating shuttling at thy sides Thy metrical, now swelling pant and roar, now tapering in the distance Thy great protruding head-light fix’d in front Thy long, pale, floating vapor-pennants, tinged with delicate purple
The dense and murky clouds out-belching from thy smoke-stack Thy knitted frame, thy springs and valves, the tremulous twinkle of thy wheels Thy train of cars behind, obedient, merrily following Through gale or calm, now swift, now slack, yet steadily careering;
Type of the modern–emblem of motion and power–pulse of the continent
For once come serve the Muse and merge in verse, even as here I see thee
With storm and buffeting gusts of wind and falling snow
By day thy warning ringing bell to sound its notes
By night thy silent signal lamps to swing.

Fierce-throated beauty!

Roll through my chant with all thy lawless music, thy swinging lamps at night Thy madly-whistled laughter, echoing, rumbling like an earthquake rousing all Law of thyself complete, thine own track firmly holding (No sweetness debonair of tearful harp or glib piano thine,) Thy trills of shrieks by rocks and hills return’d Launch’d o’er the prairies wide, across the lakes
To the free skies unpent and glad and strong.
O Magnet-South

O magnet-south!  O glistening perfumed South! my South!

O quick mettle, rich blood, impulse and love! good and evil! O all dear to me!

O dear to me my birth-things—all moving things and the trees where I was born—the grains, plants, rivers
Dear to me my own slow sluggish rivers where they flow, distant over flats of slivery sands or through swamps
Dear to me the Roanoke, the Savannah, the Altamahaw, the Pedee, the Tombigbee, the Santee, the Coosa and the Sabine

O pensive, far away wandering, I return with my soul to haunt their banks again
Again in Florida I float on transparent lakes, I float on the Okeechobee, I cross the hummock-land or through pleasant openings or dense forests
I see the parrots in the woods, I see the papaw-tree and the blossoming titi;
Again, sailing in my coaster on deck, I coast off Georgia, I coast up the Carolinas
I see where the live-oak is growing, I see where the yellow-pine the scented bay-tree, the lemon and orange, the cypress, the graceful palmetto
I pass rude sea-headlands and enter Pamlico sound through an inlet and dart my vision inland;
O the cotton plant! the growing fields of rice, sugar, hemp!
The cactus guarded with thorns, the laurel-tree with large white flowers
The range afar, the richness and barrenness, the old woods charged with mistletoe and trailing moss
The piney odor and the gloom, the awful natural stillness, (here in these dense swamps the freebooter carries his gun, and the fugitive has his conceal’d hut;)
O the strange fascination of these half-known half-impassable swamps, infested by reptiles, resounding with the bellow of the alligator, the sad noises of the night-owl and the wild-cat, and the whirr of the rattlesnake

The mocking-bird, the American mimic, singing all the forenoon singing through the moon-lit night

The humming-bird, the wild turkey, the raccoon, the opossum;

A Kentucky corn-field, the tall, graceful, long-leav’ed corn slender, flapping, bright green, with tassels, with beautiful ears each well-sheath’d in its husk;

O my heart! O tender and fierce pangs, I can stand them not, I will depart;

O to be a Virginian where I grew up! O to be a Carolinian!

O longings irrepressible! O I will go back to old Tennessee and never wander more.
I was asking for something specific and perfect for my city
Whereupon lo! upsprang the aboriginal name.
Now I see what there is in a name, a word, liquid, sane, unruly musical, self-sufficient
I see that the word of my city is that word from of old Because I see that word nested in nests of water-bays, superb Rich, hemm’d thick all around with sailships and steamships, an island sixteen miles long, solid-founded Numberless crowded streets, high growths of iron, slender, strong light, splendidly rising toward clear skies
Tides swift and ample, well-loved by me, toward sundown
The flowing sea-currents, the little islands, larger adjoining islands, the heights, the villas
The countless masts, the white shore-steamers, the lighters, the ferry-boats, the black sea-steamers well-model’d
The down-town streets, the jobbers’ houses of business, the houses of business of the ship-merchants and money-brokers, the river-streets
Immigrants arriving, fifteen or twenty thousand in a week
The carts hauling goods, the manly race of drivers of horses, the brown-faced sailors
The summer air, the bright sun shining, and the sailing clouds aloft
The winter snows, the sleigh-bells, the broken ice in the river passing along up or down with the flood-tide or ebb-tide
The mechanics of the city, the masters, well-form’d beautiful-faced, looking you straight in the eyes
Trottoirs throng’d, vehicles, Broadway, the women, the shops and shows
A million people—manners free and superb—open voices—hospitality—the most courageous and friendly young men
City of hurried and sparkling waters! city of spires and masts!
City nested in bays! my city!
O me, man of slack faith so long Standing aloof, denying portions so long Only aware to-day of compact all-diffused truth
Discovering to-day there is no lie or form of lie, and can be none but grows as inevitably upon itself as the truth does upon itself
Or as any law of the earth or any natural production of the earth does.
(This is curious and may not be realized immediately, but it must be realized
I feel in myself that I represent falsehoods equally with the rest
And that the universe does.)
Where has fail’d a perfect return indifferent of lies or the truth?
Is it upon the ground, or in water or fire? or in the spirit of man? or in the meat and blood?
Meditating among liars and retreating sternly into myself, I see that there are really no liars or lies after all
And that nothing fails its perfect return, and that what are called lies are perfect returns
And that each thing exactly represents itself and what has preceded it
And that the truth includes all, and is compact just as much as space is compact
And that there is no flaw or vacuum in the amount of the truth—but that all is truth without exception;
And henceforth I will go celebrate any thing I see or am
And sing and laugh and deny nothing.
A Riddle Song

That which eludes this verse and any verse Unheard by sharpest ear, uniform’d in clearest eye or cunningest mind
Nor lore nor fame, nor happiness nor wealth
And yet the pulse of every heart and life throughout the world incessantly Which you and I and all pursuing ever ever miss Open but still a secret, the real of the real, an illusion
Costless, vouchsafed to each, yet never man the owner
Which poets vainly seek to put in rhyme, historians in prose
Which sculptor never chisel’d yet, nor painter painted
Which vocalist never sung, nor orator nor actor ever utter’d Invoking here and now I challenge for my song.
Indifferently, ’mid public, private haunts, in solitude
Behind the mountain and the wood Companion of the city’s busiest streets, through the assemblage
It and its radiations constantly glide.

In looks of fair unconscious babes
Or strangely in the coffin’d dead
Or show of breaking dawn or stars by night
As some dissolving delicate film of dreams
Hiding yet lingering.

Two little breaths of words comprising it
Two words, yet all from first to last comprised in it.

How ardently for it!
How many ships have sail’d and sunk for it!
How many travelers started from their homes and neer return’d!

How much of genius boldly staked and lost for it!

What countless stores of beauty, love, ventur’d for it!

How all superbest deeds since Time began are traceable to it—and shall be to the end!
How all heroic martyrdoms to it!
How, justified by it, the horrors, evils, battles of the earth!

How the bright fascinating lambent flames of it, in every age and land, have drawn men’s eyes
Rich as a sunset on the Norway coast, the sky, the islands, and the cliffs Or midnight’s silent glowing northern lights unreachable.

Haply God’s riddle it, so vague and yet so certain
The soul for it, and all the visible universe for it And heaven at last for it.
Who has gone farthest? for I would go farther And who has been just? for I would be the most just person of the earth And who most cautious? for I would be more cautious
And who has been happiest? O I think it is I–I think no one was ever happier than I
And who has lavish’d all? for I lavish constantly the best I have
And who proudest? for I think I have reason to be the proudest son alive–for I am the son of the brawny and tall-topt city And who has been bold and true? for I would be the boldest and truest being of the universe
And who benevolent? for I would show more benevolence than all the rest And who has receiv’d the love of the most friends? for I know what it is to receive the passionate love of many friends And who possesses a perfect and enamour’d body? for I do not believe any one possesses a more perfect or enamour’d body than mine
And who thinks the ampest thoughts? for I would surround those thoughts
And who has made hymns fit for the earth?
for I am mad with devouring ecstasy to make joyous hymns for the whole earth.
Ah Poverties, Wincings, and Sulky Retreats

Ah poverties, wincings, and sulky retreats
Ah you foes that in conflict have overcome me (For what is my life or any man’s life but a conflict with foes, the old, the incessant war?)
You degradations, you tussle with passions and appetites
You smarts from dissatisfied friendships, (ah wounds the sharpest of all!)
You toil of painful and choked articulations, you meannesses
You shallow tongue-talks at tables, (my tongue the shallowest of any;)
You broken resolutions, you racking angers, you smother’d ennuis!

Ah think not you finally triumph, my real self has yet to come forth
It shall yet march forth o’ermastering, till all lies beneath me
It shall yet stand up the soldier of ultimate victory.
Thoughts

Of public opinion
Of a calm and cool fiat sooner or later, (how impassive! how certain and final!)
Of the President with pale face asking secretly to himself, What will the people say at last?
Of the frivolous Judge–of the corrupt Congressman, Governor Mayor–of such as these standing helpless and exposed
Of the mumbling and screaming priest, (soon, soon deserted,)
Of the lessening year by year of venerableness, and of the dicta of officers, statutes, pulpits, schools
Of the rising forever taller and stronger and broader of the intuitions of men and women, and of Self-esteem and Personality;
Of the true New World–of the Democracies resplendent en-masse
Of the conformity of politics, armies, navies, to them
Of the shining sun by them–of the inherent light, greater than the rest Of the envelopment of all by them, and the effusion of all from them.
MEDIUMS

They shall arise in the States
They shall report Nature, laws, physiology, and happiness
They shall illustrate Democracy and the kosmos
They shall be alimentive, amative, perceptive
They shall be complete women and men, their pose brawny and supple their drink water, their blood clean and clear
They shall fully enjoy materialism and the sight of products, they shall enjoy the sight of the beef, lumber, bread-stuffs, of Chicago the great city.
They shall train themselves to go in public to become orators and oratresses Strong and sweet shall their tongues be, poems and materials of poems shall come from their lives, they shall be makers and finders
Of them and of their works shall emerge divine conveyers, to convey gospels Characters, events, retrospections, shall be convey’d in gospels trees, animals, waters, shall be convey’d Death, the future, the invisible faith, shall all be convey’d.
Weave in, my hardy life
Weave yet a soldier strong and full for great campaigns to come Weave in red blood, weave sinews in like ropes, the senses, sight weave in Weave lasting sure, weave day and night the wet, the warp, incessant weave, tire not (We know not what the use O life, nor know the aim, the end, nor really aught we know But know the work, the need goes on and shall go on, the death-envelop’d march of peace as well as war goes on,)
For great campaigns of peace the same the wiry threads to weave
We know not why or what, yet weave, forever weave.
Spain, 1873-74

Out of the murk of heaviest clouds
Out of the feudal wrecks and heap’d-up skeletons of kings
Out of that old entire European debris, the shatter’d mummeries Ruin’d cathedrals, crumble of palaces, tombs of priests
Lo, Freedom’s features fresh undimm’d look forth—the same immortal face looks forth;
(A glimpse as of thy Mother’s face Columbia
A flash significant as of a sword Beaming towards thee.)
Nor think we forget thee maternal;
Lag’d’st thou so long? shall the clouds close again upon thee?
Ah, but thou hast thyself now appear’d to us—we know thee
Thou hast given us a sure proof, the glimpse of thyself
Thou waitest there as everywhere thy time.
By broad Potomac’s shore, again old tongue (Still uttering, still ejaculating, canst never cease this babble?) Again old heart so gay, again to you, your sense, the full flush spring returning Again the freshness and the odors, again Virginia’s summer sky pellucid blue and silver
Again the forenoon purple of the hills
Again the deathless grass, so noiseless soft and green
Again the blood-red roses blooming.
Perfume this book of mine O blood-red roses!
Lave subtly with your waters every line Potomac!
Give me of you O spring, before I close, to put between its pages!
O forenoon purple of the hills, before I close, of you!
O deathless grass, of you!
From far Dakota’s canyons Lands of the wild ravine, the dusky Sioux, the lonesome stretch, the silence
Haply to-day a mournful wall, haply a trumpet-note for heroes.

The battle-bulletin
The Indian ambuscade, the craft, the fatal environment
The cavalry companies fighting to the last in sternest heroism
In the midst of their little circle, with their slaughter’d horses for breastworks
The fall of Custer and all his officers and men.

Continues yet the old, old legend of our race
The loftiest of life upheld by death
The ancient banner perfectly maintain’d
O lesson opportune, O how I welcome thee!

As sitting in dark days
Lone, sulky, through the time’s thick murk looking in vain for light, for hope
From unsuspected parts a fierce and momentary proof
(The sun there at the centre though conceal’d Electric life forever at the centre,) Breaks forth a lightning flash.

Thou of the tawny flowing hair in battle
I erewhile saw, with erect head, pressing ever in front, bearing a bright sword in thy hand
Now ending well in death the splendid fever of thy deeds
(I bring no dirge for it or thee, I bring a glad triumphal sonnet,) Desperate and glorious, aye in defeat most desperate, most glorious After thy many battles in which never yielding up a gun or a color Leaving behind thee a memory sweet to soldiers Thou yieldest up thyself.
Old War-Dreams

In midnight sleep of many a face of anguish
Of the look at first of the mortally wounded, (of that indescribable look,)
Of the dead on their backs with arms extended wide
I dream, I dream, I dream.

Of scenes of Nature, fields and mountains
Of skies so beauteous after a storm, and at night the moon so unearthly bright Shining sweetly, shining down, where we dig the trenches and gather the heaps
I dream, I dream, I dream.

Long have they pass’d, faces and trenches and fields
Where through the carnage I moved with a callous composure, or away from the fallen Onward I sped at the time—but now of their forms at night
I dream, I dream, I dream.
Thick-Sprinkled Bunting

Thick-sprinkled bunting! flag of stars!
Long yet your road, fateful flag—long yet your road, and lined with bloody death
For the prize I see at issue at last is the world
All its ships and shores I see interwoven with your threads greedy banner; Dream’d again the flags of kings, highest borne to flaunt unrival’d?
O hasten flag of man—O with sure and steady step, passing highest flags of kings Walk supreme to the heavens mighty symbol—run up above them all Flag of stars! thick-sprinkled bunting!
What Best I See in Thee

(To U. S. G. return’d from his World’s Tour)

What best I see in thee
Is not that where thou mov’st down history’s great highways
Ever undimm’d by time shoots warlike vic-tory’s dazzle
Or that thou sat’st where Washington sat, ruling the land in peace Or thou the man whom feudal Europe feted, venerable Asia swarm’d upon Who walk’d with kings with even pace the round world’s promenade;
But that in foreign lands, in all thy walks with kings
Those prairie sovereigns of the West, Kansas, Missouri, Illinois
Ohio’s, Indiana’s millions, comrades, farmers, soldiers, all to the front Invisibly with thee walking with kings with even pace the round world’s promenade Were all so justified.
Spirit that form'd this scene
These tumbled rock-piles grim and red
These reckless heaven-ambitious peaks
These gorges, turbulent-clear streams, this naked freshness
These formless wild arrays, for reasons of their own
I know thee, savage spirit—we have communed together
Mine too such wild arrays, for reasons of their own;
Wast charged against my chants they had forgotten art?
To fuse within themselves its rules precise and delicatesse?
The lyrist’s measur’d beat, the wrought-out temple’s grace—column and polish’d arch forgot?
But thou that revelest here—spirit that form’d this scene
They have remember’d thee.
As I walk these broad majestic days of peace (For the war, the struggle of blood finish’d, wherein, O terrific Ideal Against vast odds erewhile having gloriously won
Now thou stridest on, yet perhaps in time toward denser wars
Perhaps to engage in time in still more dreadful contests, dangers Longer campaigns and crises, labors beyond all others,)
Around me I hear that eclat of the world, politics, produce
The announcements of recognized things, science
The approved growth of cities and the spread of inventions.
I see the ships, (they will last a few years,)
The vast factories with their foremen and workmen
And hear the indorsement of all, and do not object to it.
But I too announce solid things
Science, ships, politics, cities, factories, are not nothing Like a grand procession to music of distant bugles pouring triumphantly moving, and grander heaving in sight They stand for realities—all is as it should be.

Then my realities;
What else is so real as mine?
Libertad and the divine average, freedom to every slave on the face of the earth
The rapt promises and lumine of seers, the spiritual world, these centuries-lasting songs
And our visions, the visions of poets, the most solid announcements of any.
A Clear Midnight

This is thy hour O Soul, thy free flight into the wordless Away from books, away from art, the day erased, the lesson done Thee fully forth emerging, silent, gazing, pondering the themes thou lovest best Night, sleep, death and the stars.
BOOK XXXIII. SONGS OF PARTING
As the Time Draws Nigh

As the time draws nigh glooming a cloud
A dread beyond of I know not what darkens me.

I shall go forth
I shall traverse the States awhile, but I cannot tell whither or how long Perhaps soon some day or night while I am singing my voice will suddenly cease.

O book, O chants! must all then amount to but this?
Must we barely arrive at this beginning of us?–and yet it is enough, O soul;
O soul, we have positively appear’d–that is enough.
Years of the Modern

Years of the modern! years of the unperform’d!
Your horizon rises, I see it parting away for more august dramas
I see not America only, not only Liberty’s nation but other nations preparing I see tremendous entrances and exits, new combinations, the solidarity of races
I see that force advancing with irresistible power on the world’s stage (Have the old forces, the old wars, played their parts? are the acts suitable to them closed?)
I see Freedom, completely arm’d and victorious and very haughty with Law on one side and Peace on the other
A stupendous trio all issuing forth against the idea of caste;
What historic denouements are these we so rapidly approach?
I see men marching and countermarching by swift millions
I see the frontiers and boundaries of the old aristocracies broken
I see the landmarks of European kings removed I see this day the People beginning their landmarks, (all others give way;)
Never were such sharp questions ask'd as this day
Never was average man, his soul, more energetic, more like a God Lo, how he urges and urges, leaving the masses no rest!

His daring foot is on land and sea everywhere, he colonizes the Pacific, the archipelagoes
With the steamship, the electric telegraph, the newspaper, the wholesale engines of war
With these and the world-spreading factories he interlinks all geography, all lands;
What whispers are these O lands, running ahead of you, passing under the seas?
Are all nations communing? is there going to be but one heart to the globe?
Is humanity forming en-masse? for lo, tyrants tremble, crowns grow dim
The earth, restive, confronts a new era, perhaps a general divine war
No one knows what will happen next, such portents fill the days and nights;
Years prophetical! the space ahead as I walk, as I vainly try to pierce it, is full of phantoms Unborn deeds, things soon to be, project their shapes around me
This incredible rush and heat, this strange ecstatic fever of dreams O years!
Your dreams O years, how they penetrate through me! (I know not whether I sleep or wake;)
The perform’d America and Europe grow dim, retiring in shadow behind me
The unperform’d, more gigantic than ever, advance, advance upon me.
Ashes of Soldiers

Ashes of soldiers South or North
As I muse retrospective murmuring a chant in thought
The war resumes, again to my sense your shapes
And again the advance of the armies.

Noiseless as mists and vapors
From their graves in the trenches ascending From cemeteries all through Virginia and Tennessee
From every point of the compass out of the countless graves
In wafted clouds, in myriads large, or squads of twos or threes or single ones they come
And silently gather round me.

Now sound no note O trumpeters
Not at the head of my cavalry parading on spirited horses
With sabres drawn and glistening, and carbines by their thighs, (ah my brave horsemen!

My handsome tan-faced horsemen! what life, what joy and pride
With all the perils were yours.)
Nor you drummers, neither at reveille at dawn
Nor the long roll alarming the camp, nor even the muffled beat for burial Nothing from you this time O drummers bearing my warlike drums.

But aside from these and the marts of wealth and the crowded promenade Admitting around me comrades close unseen by the rest and voiceless
The slain elate and alive again, the dust and debris alive
I chant this chant of my silent soul in the name of all dead soldiers.

Faces so pale with wondrous eyes, very dear, gather closer yet
Draw close, but speak not.

Phantoms of countless lost
Invisible to the rest henceforth become my companions
Follow me ever–desert me not while I live.

Sweet are the blooming cheeks of the living–sweet are the musical voices sounding
But sweet, ah sweet, are the dead with their silent eyes.

Dearest comrades, all is over and long gone
But love is not over–and what love, O comrades!

Perfume from battle-fields rising, up from the foetor arising.

Perfume therefore my chant, O love, immortal love
Give me to bathe the memories of all dead soldiers Shroud them, embalm them, cover them all over with tender pride.

Perfume all–make all wholesome
Make these ashes to nourish and blossom
O love, solve all, fructify all with the last chemistry.
Give me exhaustless, make me a fountain That I exhale love from me wherever I go like a moist perennial dew
For the ashes of all dead soldiers South or North.
Thoughts

1
Of these years I sing
How they pass and have pass’d through convuls’d pains, as through parturitions
How America illustrates birth, muscular youth, the promise, the sure fulfilment, the absolute success, despite of people—illustrates evil as well as good
The vehement struggle so fierce for unity in one’s-self
How many hold despairingly yet to the models departed, caste, myths obedience, compulsion, and to infidelity
How few see the arrived models, the athletes, the Western States, or see freedom or spirituality, or hold any faith in results
(But I see the athletes, and I see the results of the war glorious and inevitable, and they again leading to other results.)
How the great cities appear—how the Democratic masses, turbulent willful, as I love them How the whirl, the contest, the wrestle of evil with good, the sounding and resounding, keep on and on How society waits unform’d, and is for a while between things ended and things begun How America is the continent of glories, and of the triumph of freedom and of the Democracies, and of the fruits of society, and of all that is begun
And how the States are complete in themselves—and how all triumphs and glories are complete in themselves, to lead onward
And how these of mine and of the States will in their turn be convuls’d, and serve other parturitions and transitions
And how all people, sights, combinations, the democratic masses too serve—and how every fact, and war itself, with all its horrors serves
And how now or at any time each serves the exquisite transition of death.

1039
Of seeds dropping into the ground, of births
Of the steady concentration of America, inland, upward, to impregnable and swarming places Of what Indiana, Kentucky, Arkansas, and the rest, are to be
Of what a few years will show there in Nebraska, Colorado, Nevada and the rest (Or afar, mounting the Northern Pacific to Sitka or Alaska,)
Of what the feuillage of America is the preparation for—and of what all sights, North, South, East and West, are
Of this Union welded in blood, of the solemn price paid, of the unnamed lost ever present in my mind;
Of the temporary use of materials for identity’s sake
Of the present, passing, departing—of the growth of completer men than any yet
Of all sloping down there where the fresh free giver the mother, the Mississippi flows
Of mighty inland cities yet unsurvey’d and unsuspected
Of the new and good names, of the modern developments, of inalienable homesteads
Of a free and original life there, of simple diet and clean and sweet blood Of litheness, majestic faces, clear eyes, and perfect physique there
Of immense spiritual results future years far West, each side of the Anahuacs
Of these songs, well understood there, (being made for that area,)
Of the native scorn of grossness and gain there (O it lurks in me night and day–what is gain after all to savageness and freedom?)
Song at Sunset

Splendor of ended day floating and filling me
Hour prophetic, hour resuming the past Inflating my throat, you divine average
You earth and life till the last ray gleams I sing.

Open mouth of my soul uttering gladness
Eyes of my soul seeing perfection
Natural life of me faithfully praising things Corroborating forever the triumph of things.

Illustrious every one!

Illustrious what we name space, sphere of unnumber’d spirits Illustrious the mystery of motion in all beings, even the tiniest insect Illustrious the attribute of speech, the senses, the body Illustrious the passing light–illustrious the pale reflection on the new moon in the western sky Illustrious whatever I see or hear or touch, to the last.
GOOD IN ALL
In the satisfaction and aplomb of animals
In the annual return of the seasons
In the hilarity of youth
In the strength and flush of manhood
In the grandeur and exquisiteness of old age
In the superb vistas of death.

Wonderful to depart!
Wonderful to be here!

The heart, to jet the all-alike and innocent blood!

To breathe the air, how delicious!

To speak—to walk—to seize something by the hand!

To prepare for sleep, for bed, to look on my rose-color’d flesh!

To be conscious of my body, so satisfied, so large!

To be this incredible God I am!

To have gone forth among other Gods, these men and women I love.
Wonderful how I celebrate you and myself
How my thoughts play subtly at the spectacles around!

How the clouds pass silently overhead!
How the earth darts on and on! and how the sun, moon, stars, dart on and on!

How the water sports and sings! (surely it is alive!)
How the trees rise and stand up, with strong trunks, with branches and leaves!

(Surely there is something more in each of the trees, some living soul.)
O amazement of things—even the least particle!

O spirituality of things!

O strain musical flowing through ages and continents, now reaching me and America!

I take your strong chords, intersperse them, and cheerfully pass them forward.
I too carol the sun, usher’d or at noon, or as now, setting
I too throb to the brain and beauty of the earth and of all the growths of the earth
I too have felt the resistless call of myself.

As I steam’d down the Mississippi
As I wander’d over the prairies
As I have lived, as I have look’d through my windows my eyes
As I went forth in the morning, as I beheld the light breaking in the east As I bathed on the beach of the Eastern Sea, and again on the beach of the Western Sea
As I roam’d the streets of inland Chicago, whatever streets I have roam’d
Or cities or silent woods, or even amid the sights of war Wherever I have been I have charged myself with contentment and triumph.

I sing to the last the equalities modern or old
I sing the endless finales of things
I say Nature continues, glory continues
I praise with electric voice
For I do not see one imperfection in the universe
And I do not see one cause or result lamentable at last in the universe.

O setting sun! though the time has come
I still warble under you, if none else does, unmitigated adoration.
As at Thy Portals Also Death

As at thy portals also death
Entering thy sovereign, dim, illimitable grounds
To memories of my mother, to the divine blending, maternity
To her, buried and gone, yet buried not, gone not from me (I see again the calm benignant face fresh and beautiful still I sit by the form in the coffin
I kiss and kiss convulsively again the sweet old lips, the cheeks the closed eyes in the coffin;)
To her, the ideal woman, practical, spiritual, of all of earth life, love, to me the best
I grave a monumental line, before I go, amid these songs
And set a tombstone here.
My Legacy

The business man the acquirer vast After assiduous years surveying results, preparing for departure Devises houses and lands to his children, bequeaths stocks, goods funds for a school or hospital Leaves money to certain companions to buy tokens, souvenirs of gems and gold.
But I, my life surveying, closing
With nothing to show to devise from its idle years
Nor houses nor lands, nor tokens of gems or gold for my friends
Yet certain remembrances of the war for you, and after you
And little souvenirs of camps and soldiers, with my love
I bind together and bequeath in this bundle of songs.
Pensive on her dead gazing I heard the Mother of All
Desperate on the torn bodies, on the forms covering the battlefields gazing (As the last gun ceased, but the scent of the powder-smoke linger’d,)
As she call’d to her earth with mournful voice while she stalk’d Absorb them well O my earth, she cried, I charge you lose not my sons, lose not an atom
And you streams absorb them well, taking their dear blood
And you local spots, and you airs that swim above lightly impalpable
And all you essences of soil and growth, and you my rivers’ depths
And you mountain sides, and the woods where my dear children’s blood trickling redden’d
And you trees down in your roots to bequeath to all future trees
My dead absorb or South or North—my young men’s bodies absorb and their precious precious blood Which holding in trust for me faithfully back again give me many a year hence In unseen essence and odor of surface and grass, centuries hence In blowing airs from the fields back again give me my darlings, give my immortal heroes Exhale me them centuries hence, breathe me their breath, let not an atom be lost O years and graves! O air and soil! O my dead, an aroma sweet!

Exhale them perennial sweet death, years, centuries hence.
Camps of Green

Nor alone those camps of white, old comrades of the wars
When as order’d forward, after a long march Footsore and weary, soon as the light lessens we halt for the night
Some of us so fatigued carrying the gun and knapsack, dropping asleep in our tracks Others pitching the little tents, and the fires lit up begin to sparkle Outposts of pickets posted surrounding alert through the dark
And a word provided for countersign, careful for safety Till to the call of the drummers at daybreak loudly beating the drums
We rise up refresh’d, the night and sleep pass’d over, and resume our journey
Or proceed to battle.

Lo, the camps of the tents of green
Which the days of peace keep filling, and the days of war keep filling With a mystic army, (is it too order’d forward? is it too only halting awhile Till night and sleep pass over?)
Now in those camps of green, in their tents dotting the world
In the parents, children, husbands, wives, in them, in the old and young Sleeping under the sunlight, sleeping under the moonlight, content and silent there at last Behold the mighty bivouac-field and waiting-camp of all Of the corps and generals all, and the President over the corps and generals all
And of each of us O soldiers, and of each and all in the ranks we fought (There without hatred we all, all meet.)
For presently O soldiers, we too camp in our place in the bivouac-camps of green
But we need not provide for outposts, nor word for the countersign Nor drummer to beat the morning drum.
The sobbing of the bells, the sudden death-news everywhere
The slumberers rouse, the rapport of the People (Full well they know that message in the darkness Full well return, respond within their breasts, their brains, the sad reverberations,)
The passionate toll and clang—city to city, joining, sounding, passing
Those heart-beats of a Nation in the night.
As They Draw to a Close

As they draw to a close
Of what underlies the precedent songs—of my aims in them
Of the seed I have sought to plant in them
Of joy, sweet joy, through many a year, in them (For them, for them have I lived, in them my work is done,)
Of many an aspiration fond, of many a dream and plan;
Through Space and Time fused in a chant, and the flowing eternal identity
To Nature encompassing these, encompassing God—to the joyous electric all
To the sense of Death, and accepting exulting in Death in its turn the same as life
The entrance of man to sing;
To compact you, ye parted, diverse lives
To put rapport the mountains and rocks and streams
And the winds of the north, and the forests of oak and pine With you O soul.
Joy, shipmate, Joy!
(Pleas’d to my soul at death I cry,)
Our life is closed, our life begins
The long, long anchorage we leave
The ship is clear at last, she leaps!
She swiftly courses from the shore
Joy, shipmate, joy.
THE UNTOLD WANT

The untold want by life and land ne’er granted
Now voyager sail thou forth to seek and find.
PORTALS

What are those of the known but to ascend and enter the Unknown?
And what are those of life but for Death?
These Carols

These carols sung to cheer my passage through the world I see For completion I dedicate to the Invisible World.
Now Finale to the Shore

Now finale to the shore
Now land and life finale and farewell
Now Voyager depart, (much, much for thee is yet in store,) Often enough hast thou adventur’d o’er the seas
Cautiously cruising, studying the charts
Duly again to port and hawser’s tie returning;
But now obey thy cherish’d secret wish Embrace thy friends, leave all in order To port and hawser’s tie no more returning Depart upon thy endless cruise old Sailor.
To conclude, I announce what comes after me.

I remember I said before my leaves sprang at all
I would raise my voice jocund and strong with reference to consummations.

When America does what was promis’d
When through these States walk a hundred millions of superb persons
When the rest part away for superb persons and contribute to them
When breeds of the most perfect mothers denote America
Then to me and mine our due fruition.

I have press’d through in my own right
I have sung the body and the soul, war and peace have I sung, and the songs of life and death
And the songs of birth, and shown that there are many births.
I have offer’d my style to every one, I have journey’d with confident step; While my pleasure is yet at the full I whisper So long!
And take the young woman’s hand and the young man’s hand for the last time.
I announce natural persons to arise
I announce justice triumphant
I announce uncompromising liberty and equality
I announce the justification of candor and the justification of pride.
I announce that the identity of these States is a single identity only
I announce the Union more and more compact, indissoluble
I announce splendors and majesties to make all the previous politics of the earth insignificant.
I announce adhesiveness, I say it shall be limitless, unloosen’d
I say you shall yet find the friend you were looking for.

1062
I announce a man or woman coming, perhaps you are the one, (So long!)
I announce the great individual, fluid as Nature, chaste affectionate, compassionate, fully arm’d.

I announce a life that shall be copious, vehement, spiritual, bold
I announce an end that shall lightly and joyfully meet its translation.

I announce myriads of youths, beautiful, gigantic, sweet-blooded
I announce a race of splendid and savage old men.

O thicker and faster—(So long!)
O crowding too close upon me
I foresee too much, it means more than I thought It appears to me I am dying.

Hasten throat and sound your last Salute me—salute the days once more. Peal the old cry once more.

Screaming electric, the atmosphere using
At random glancing, each as I notice absorbing Swiftly on, but a little while alighting Curious envelop’d messages delivering Sparkles hot, seed ethereal down in the dirt dropping Myself unknowing, my commission obeying, to question it never daring
To ages and ages yet the growth of the seed leaving
To troops out of the war arising, they the tasks I have set promulging To women certain whispers of myself bequeathing, their affection more clearly explaining To young men my problems offering—no dallier I—I the muscle of their brains trying
So I pass, a little time vocal, visible, contrary Afterward a melodious echo, passionately bent for, (death making me really undying,)
The best of me then when no longer visible, for toward that I have been incessantly preparing.
What is there more, that I lag and pause and crouch extended with unshut mouth? Is there a single final farewell? My songs cease, I abandon them From behind the screen where I hid I advance personally solely to you.

Camerado, this is no book Who touches this touches a man (Is it night? are we here together alone?) It is I you hold and who holds you I spring from the pages into your arms—decease calls me forth.

O how your fingers drowse me Your breath falls around me like dew, your pulse lulls the tympans of my ears I feel immerged from head to foot Delicious, enough.

Enough O deed impromptu and secret Enough O gliding present—enough O summ’d-up past.

Dear friend whoever you are take this kiss I give it especially to you, do not forget me
I feel like one who has done work for the day to retire awhile
I receive now again of my many translations, from my avataras ascending, while others doubtless await me An unknown sphere more real than I dream’d, more direct, darts awakening rays about me, So long!

Remember my words, I may again return
I love you, I depart from materials
I am as one disembodied, triumphant, dead.
BOOK XXXIV. SANDS AT SEVENTY MANNAHATTA

My city’s fit and noble name resumed Choice aboriginal name, with marvellous beauty, meaning
A rocky founded island–shores where ever gaily dash the coming going, hurrying sea waves.
Paumanok

Sea-beauty! stretch’d and basking!
One side thy inland ocean laving, broad, with copious commerce steamers, sails
And one the Atlantic’s wind caressing, fierce or gentle–mighty hulls dark-gliding in the distance.

Isle of sweet brooks of drinking-water–healthy air and soil!
Isle of the salty shore and breeze and brine!
FROM MONTAUK POINT

I stand as on some mighty eagle’s beak
Eastward the sea absorbing, viewing, (nothing but sea and sky,)
The tossing waves, the foam, the ships in the distance
The wild unrest, the snowy, curling caps—that inbound urge and urge of waves Seeking the shores forever.
To Those Who’ve Fail’d

To those who’ve fail’d, in aspiration vast
To unnam’d soldiers fallen in front on the lead
To calm, devoted engineers–to over-ardent travelers–to pilots on their ships
To many a lofty song and picture without recognition–I’d rear laurel-cover’d monument High, high above the rest–To all cut off before their time Possess’d by some strange spirit of fire
Quench’d by an early death.
A CAROL CLOSING SIXTY-NINE

A carol closing sixty-nine—a resume—a repetition
My lines in joy and hope continuing on the same
Of you, my Land—your rivers, prairies, States—you, mottled Flag I love
Your aggregate retain’d entire—Of north, south, east and west, your items all;
Of me myself—the jocund heart yet beating in my breast
The body wreck’d, old, poor and paralyzed—the strange inertia falling pall-like round me
The burning fires down in my sluggish blood not yet extinct
The undiminish’d faith—the groups of loving friends.
The Bravest Soldiers

Brave, brave were the soldiers (high named to-day) who lived through the fight;
But the bravest press’d to the front and fell, unnamed, unknown.
A Font of Type

This latent mine—these unlaunch’d voices—passionate powers Wrath, argument, or praise, or comic leer, or prayer devout (Not nonpareil, brevier, bourgeois, long primer merely,) These ocean waves arousable to fury and to death
Or sooth’d to ease and sheeny sun and sleep
Within the pallid slivers slumbering.
As I sit writing here, sick and grown old
Not my least burden is that dulness of the years, querilities Ungracious glooms, aches, lethargy, constipation, whimpering ennui
May filter in my dally songs.
MY CANARY BIRD

Did we count great, O soul, to penetrate the themes of mighty books Absorbing deep and full from thoughts, plays, speculations?
But now from thee to me, caged bird, to feel thy joyous warble Filling the air, the lonesome room, the long forenoon
Is it not just as great, O soul?
Queries to My Seventieth Year

Approaching, nearing, curious
Thou dim, uncertain spectre—bringest thou life or death?
Strength, weakness, blindness, more paralysis and heavier?
Or placid skies and sun? Wilt stir the waters yet?
Or haply cut me short for good? Or leave me here as now Dull, parrot-like and old, with crack’d voice harping, screeching?
The Wallabout Martyrs

Greater than memory of Achilles or Ulysses
More, more by far to thee than tomb of Alexander Those cart loads of old charnel ashes, scales and splints of mouldy bones
Once living men—once resolute courage, aspiration, strength
The stepping stones to thee to-day and here, America.
THE FIRST DANDELION

Simple and fresh and fair from winter’s close emerging As if no artifice of fashion, business, politics, had ever been Forth from its sunny nook of shelter’d grass—innocent, golden, calm as the dawn
The spring’s first dandelion shows its trustful face.
America

Centre of equal daughters, equal sons
All, all alike endear’d, grown, ungrown, young or old
Strong, ample, fair, enduring, capable, rich Perennial with the Earth, with Freedom, Law and Love
A grand, sane, towering, seated Mother Chair’d in the adamant of Time.
Memories

How sweet the silent backward tracings!
The wanderings as in dreams—the meditation of old times resumed—their loves, joys, persons, voyages.
To-Day and Thee

The appointed winners in a long-stretch’d game;
The course of Time and nations–Egypt, India,
  Greece and Rome;
The past entire, with all its heroes, histories, arts, experiments
Its store of songs, inventions, voyages, teachers, books Garner’d for now and thee–To think of it!
The heirdom all converged in thee!
After the Dazzle of Day

After the dazzle of day is gone
Only the dark, dark night shows to my eyes
the stars;
After the clangor of organ majestic, or chorus, or perfect band
Silent, athwart my soul, moves the symphony true.
To-day, from each and all, a breath of prayer– a pulse of thought
To memory of Him–to birth of Him.
Out of May’s Shows Selected

Apple orchards, the trees all cover’d with blossoms;
Wheat fields carpeted far and near in vital emerald green;
The eternal, exhaustless freshness of each early morning;
The yellow, golden, transparent haze of the warm afternoon sun;
The aspiring lilac bushes with profuse purple or white flowers.
Not from successful love alone
Nor wealth, nor honor’d middle age, nor victories of politics or war;
But as life wanes, and all the turbulent passions calm
As gorgeous, vapory, silent hues cover the evening sky
As softness, fulness, rest, suffuse the frame, like freshier, balmier air
As the days take on a mellower light, and the apple at last hangs really finish’d and indolent-ripe on the tree
Then for the teeming quietest, happiest days of all!
The brooding and blissful halcyon days!
FANCIES AT NAVERSEINK

(I) The Pilot in the Mist
Steaming the northern rapids—(an old St. Lawrence reminiscence
A sudden memory-flash comes back, I know not why Here waiting for the sunrise, gazing from this hill;)
Again 'tis just at morning—a heavy haze contends with daybreak
Again the trembling, laboring vessel veers me—I press through foam-dash'd rocks that almost touch me Again I mark where aft the small thin Indian helmsman
Looms in the mist, with brow elate and governing hand.

(II) Had I the Choice
Had I the choice to tally greatest bards
To limn their portraits, stately, beautiful, and emulate at will Homer with all his wars and warriors—Hector, Achilles, Ajax
Or Shaksper’s woe-entangled Hamlet, Lear, Othello—Tennyson’s fair ladies Metre or wit the best, or choice conceit to wield in perfect rhyme delight of singers;
These, these, O sea, all these I’d gladly barter
Would you the undulation of one wave, its trick to me transfer Or breathe one breath of yours upon my verse
And leave its odor there.

(III) You Tides with Ceaseless Swell
You tides with ceaseless swell! you power that does this work!
FANCIES AT NAVESINK

You unseen force, centripetal, centrifugal, through space’s spread Rapport of sun, moon, earth, and all the constellations
What are the messages by you from distant stars to us? what Sirius’?
what Capella’s?
What central heart—and you the pulse—vivifies all? what boundless aggregate of all?
What subtle indirection and significance in you? what clue to all in you? what fluid, vast identity
Holding the universe with all its parts as one—as sailing in a ship?

(IV) Last of Ebb, and Daylight Waning
Last of ebb, and daylight waning Scented sea-cool landward making, smells of sedge and salt incoming
With many a half-caught voice sent up from the eddies
Many a muffled confession—many a sob and whisper’d word
As of speakers far or hid.

1089
How they sweep down and out! how they mutter!
Poets unnamed—artists greatest of any, with cherish’d lost designs
Love’s unresponse—a chorus of age’s complaints—hope’s last words
Some suicide’s despairing cry, Away to the boundless waste, and never again return.
On to oblivion then!

On, on, and do your part, ye burying, ebbing tide!

On for your time, ye furious debouche!

(V) And Yet Not You Alone
And yet not you alone, twilight and burying ebb
Nor you, ye lost designs alone—nor failures, aspirations;
I know, divine deceitful ones, your glamour’s seeming;
Duly by you, from you, the tide and light again—duly the hinges turning Duly the needed discord-parts offsetting, blending Weaving from you, from Sleep, Night, Death itself
The rhythmus of Birth eternal.

(VI) Proudly the Flood Comes In Proudly the flood comes in, shouting, foaming, advancing Long it holds at the high, with bosom broad outswelling
All throbs, dilates—the farms, woods, streets of cities—workmen at work Mainsails, topsails, jibs, appear in the offing—steamers’ pennants of smoke—and under the forenoon sun Freighted with human lives, gaily the outward bound, gaily the inward bound Flaunting from many a spar the flag I love.

(VII) By That Long Scan of Waves
By that long scan of waves, myself call’d back, resumed upon myself
In every crest some undulating light or shade—some retrospect Joys, travels, studies, silent panoramas—scenes ephemeral
The long past war, the battles, hospital sights, the wounded and the dead Myself through every by-gone phase—my idle youth—old age at hand
My three-score years of life summ’d up, and more, and past
By any grand ideal tried, intentionless, the whole a nothing
And haply yet some drop within God’s scheme’s ensemble—some wave, or part of wave Like one of yours, ye multitudinous ocean.

(VIII) Then Last Of All
Then last of all, caught from these shores, this hill
Of you O tides, the mystic human meaning:
Only by law of you, your swell and ebb, enclosing me the same
The brain that shapes, the voice that chants this song.
Election Day, November, 1884

If I should need to name, O Western World, your powerfulest scene and show
'Twould not be you, Niagara–nor you, ye limitless prairies–nor your huge rifts of canyons, Colorado
Nor you, Yosemite–nor Yellowstone, with all its spasmic geyser-loops ascending to the skies, appearing and disappearing Nor Oregon’s white cones–nor Huron’s belt of mighty lakes–nor Mississippi’s stream:
–This seething hemisphere’s humanity, as now, I’d name–the still small voice vibrating–America’s choosing day
(The heart of it not in the chosen–the act itself the main, the quadriennial choosing,)
The stretch of North and South arous’d–sea-board and inland–Texas to Maine–the Prairie States–Vermont, Virginia, California
The final ballot-shower from East to West–the paradox and conflict
The countless snow-flakes falling—(a swordless conflict Yet more than all Rome’s wars of old, or modern Napoleon’s:) the peaceful choice of all Or good or ill humanity—welcoming the darker odds, the dross:
—Foams and ferments the wine? it serves to purify—while the heart pants, life glows:
These stormy gusts and winds waft precious ships Swell’d Washington’s, Jefferson’s, Lincoln’s sails.
With Husky-Haughty Lips, O Sea!

With husky-haughty lips, O sea!
Where day and night I wend thy surf-beat shore
Imagining to my sense thy varied strange suggestions (I see and plainly list thy talk and conference here,) Thy troops of white-maned racers racing to the goal
Thy ample, smiling face, dash’d with the sparkling dimples of the sun Thy brooding scowl and murk–thy unloos’ed hurricanes Thy unsubduedness, caprices, wilfulness;
Great as thou art above the rest, thy many tears–a lack from all eternity in thy content (’Naught but the greatest struggles, wrongs, defeats, could make thee greatest–no less could make thee,) Thy lonely state–something thou ever seek’st and seek’st, yet never gain’st Surely some right withheld—some voice, in huge monotonous rage, of freedom-lover pent
Some vast heart, like a planet’s, chain’d and chafing in those breakers
By lengthen’d swell, and spasm, and panting breath
And rhythmic rasping of thy sands and waves
And serpent hiss, and savage peals of laughter
And undertones of distant lion roar (Sounding, appealing to the sky’s deaf ear—but now, rapport for once
A phantom in the night thy confidant for once,)
The first and last confession of the globe
Outsurging, muttered from thy soul’s abysms
The tale of cosmic elemental passion Thou tellest to a kindred soul.
DEATH OF GENERAL GRANT

As one by one withdraw the lofty actors
From that great play on history’s stage eterne
That lurid, partial act of war and peace–of old and new contending Fought out through wrath, fears, dark dismays, and many a long suspense;
All past–and since, in countless graves receding, mellowing Victor’s and vanquish’d–Lincoln’s and Lee’s–now thou with them
Man of the mighty days–and equal to the days!

Thou from the prairies!–tangled and many-vein’d and hard has been thy part
To admiration has it been enacted!
RED JACKET (FROM ALOFT)

Upon this scene, this show
Yielded to-day by fashion, learning, wealth (Nor in caprice alone–some grains of deepest meaning,)
Haply, aloft, (who knows?) from distant sky-clouds’ blended shapes
As some old tree, or rock or cliff, thrill’d with its soul
Product of Nature’s sun, stars, earth direct–a towering human form
In hunting-shirt of film, arm’d with the rifle, a half-ironical
smile curving its phantom lips
Like one of Ossian’s ghosts looks down.
Washington’s Monument February, 1885

Ah, not this marble, dead and cold:
Far from its base and shaft expanding—the round zones circling comprehending Thou, Washington, art all the world’s, the continents’ entire—not yours alone, America Europe’s as well, in every part, castle of lord or laborer’s cot
Or frozen North, or sultry South—the African’s—the Arab’s in his tent Old Asia’s there with venerable smile, seated amid her ruins; (Greets the antique the hero new? ’tis but the same—the heir legitimate, continued ever The indomitable heart and arm—proofs of the never-broken line
Courage, alertness, patience, faith, the same—e’en in defeat defeated not, the same:
Wherever sails a ship, or house is built on land, or day or night Through teeming cities’ streets, indoors or out, factories or farms
Now, or to come, or past—where patriot wills existed or exist
Wherever Freedom, pois’d by Toleration, sway’d by Law
Stands or is rising thy true monument.
Of That Blithe Throat of Thine

Of that blithe throat of thine from arctic bleak and blank
I’ll mind the lesson, solitary bird–let me too welcome chilling drifts E’en the profoundest chill, as now–a torpid pulse, a brain unnerv’d
Old age land-lock’d within its winter bay– (cold, cold, O cold!)
These snowy hairs, my feeble arm, my frozen feet
For them thy faith, thy rule I take, and grave it to the last;
Not summer’s zones alone–not chants of youth, or south’s warm tides alone But held by sluggish floes, pack’d in the northern ice, the cumulus of years
These with gay heart I also sing.
Broadway

What hurrying human tides, or day or night!
What passions, winnings, losses, ardors, swim thy waters!
What whirls of evil, bliss and sorrow, stem thee!
What curious questioning glances–glints of love!
Leer, envy, scorn, contempt, hope, aspiration!
Thou portal–thou arena–thou of the myriad long-drawn lines and groups!
(Could but thy flagstones, curbs, facades, tell their inimitable tales; Thy windows rich, and huge hotels–thy sidewalks wide;)
Thou of the endless sliding, mincing, shuffling feet!
Thou, like the parti-colored world itself–like infinite, teeming mocking life!
Thou visor’d, vast, unspeakable show and lesson!
To get the Final Lilt of Songs

To get the final lilt of songs
To penetrate the inmost lore of poets–to know the mighty ones
Job, Homer, Eschylus, Dante, Shakespere, Tennyson, Emerson;
To diagnose the shifting-delicate tints of love and pride and doubt–to truly understand
To encompass these, the last keen faculty and entrance-price
Old age, and what it brings from all its past experiences.
Old Salt Kossabone

Far back, related on my mother’s side
Old Salt Kossabone, I’ll tell you how he died: (Had been a sailor all his life–was nearly 90– lived with his married grandchild, Jenny; House on a hill, with view of bay at hand, and distant cape, and stretch to open sea;)
The last of afternoons, the evening hours, for many a year his regular custom
In his great arm chair by the window seated (Sometimes, indeed, through half the day,) Watching the coming, going of the vessels, he mutters to himself–
And now the close of all:
One struggling outbound brig, one day, baffled for long–cross-tides and much wrong going At last at nightfall strikes the breeze aright, her whole luck veering
And swiftly bending round the cape, the darkness proudly entering cleaving, as he watches
"She’s free–she’s on her destination"–these the last words—when Jenny came, he sat there dead Dutch Kossabone, Old Salt, related on my mother’s side, far back.
The Dead Tenor

As down the stage again
With Spanish hat and plumes, and gait inimitable Back from the fading lessons of the past, I’d call, I’d tell and own How much from thee! the revelation of the singing voice from thee!

(So firm—so liquid-soft—again that tremulous, manly timbre!

The perfect singing voice—deepest of all to me the lesson—trial and test of all:)
How through those strains distill’d—how the rapt ears, the soul of me, absorbing Fernando’s heart, Manrico’s passionate call, Ernani’s, sweet Gennaro’s
I fold thenceforth, or seek to fold, within my chants transmuting Freedom’s and Love’s and Faith’s unloos’d cantabile (As perfume’s, color’s, sunlight’s correlation:)
From these, for these, with these, a hurried line, dead tenor
A wafted autumn leaf, dropt in the closing grave, the shovel’d earth
To memory of thee.
CONTINUITIES

Nothing is ever really lost, or can be lost
No birth, identity, form–no object of the world.

Nor life, nor force, nor any visible thing;
Appearance must not foil, nor shifted sphere confuse thy brain.

Ample are time and space–ample the fields of Nature.

The body, sluggish, aged, cold–the embers left from earlier fires
The light in the eye grown dim, shall duly flame again;
The sun now low in the west rises for mornings and for noons continual;
To frozen clods ever the spring’s invisible law returns
With grass and flowers and summer fruits and corn.
Yonnondio

A song, a poem of itself—the word itself a dirge
Amid the wilds, the rocks, the storm and wintry night
To me such misty, strange tableaux the syllables calling up;
Yonnondio—I see, far in the west or north, a limitless ravine, with plains and mountains dark
I see swarms of stalwart chieftains, medicine-men, and warriors
As flitting by like clouds of ghosts, they pass and are gone in the twilight (Race of the woods, the landscapes free, and the falls!
No picture, poem, statement, passing them to the future:)
Yonnondio! Yonnondio!—unlimn’d they disappear;
To-day gives place, and fades—the cities, farms, factories fade;
A muffled sonorous sound, a wailing word is borne through the air for a moment
Then blank and gone and still, and utterly lost.
Life

Ever the undiscouraged, resolute, struggling soul of man;
(Have former armies fail’d? then we send fresh armies–and fresh again;)
Ever the grappled mystery of all earth’s ages old or new;
Ever the eager eyes, hurrahs, the welcome-clapping hands, the loud applause;
Ever the soul dissatisfied, curious, unconvinced at last;
Struggling to-day the same–battling the same.
"GOING SOMEWHERE"

My science-friend, my noblest woman-friend (Now buried in an English grave—and this a memory-leaf for her dear sake,) Ended our talk—"The sum, concluding all we know of old or modern learning, intuitions deep
"Of all Geologies—Histories—of all Astronomy—of Evolution Metaphysics all "Is, that we all are onward, onward, speeding slowly, surely bettering
"Life, life an endless march, an endless army, (no halt, but it is duly over,) "The world, the race, the soul—in space and time the universes
"All bound as is befitting each—all surely going somewhere."
Small the Theme of My Chant

Small the theme of my Chant, yet the greatest—namely, One’s-Self—a simple, separate person. That, for the use of the New World, I sing.

Man’s physiology complete, from top to toe, I sing. Not physiognomy alone nor brain alone, is worthy for the Muse;–I say the Form complete is worthier far. The Female equally with the Male, I sing.

Nor cease at the theme of One’s-Self. I speak the word of the modern, the word En-Masse.

My Days I sing, and the Lands—with interstice I knew of hapless War.

(O friend, whoe’er you are, at last arriving hither to commence, I feel through every leaf the pressure of your hand, which I return.

And thus upon our journey, footing the road, and more than once, and link’d together let us go.)
True Conquerors

Old farmers, travelers, workmen (no matter how crippled or bent,) Old sailors, out of many a perilous voyage, storm and wreck Old soldiers from campaigns, with all their wounds, defeats and scars;
Enough that they’ve survived at all–long life’s unflinching ones!
Forth from their struggles, trials, fights, to have emerged at all–in that alone True conquerors o’er all the rest.
THE UNITED STATES TO OLD WORLD CRITICS

Here first the duties of to-day, the lessons of the concrete Wealth, order, travel, shelter, products, plenty;
As of the building of some varied, vast, perpetual edifice
Whence to arise inevitable in time, the towering roofs, the lamps
The solid-planted spires tall shooting to the stars.
THE CALMING THOUGHT OF ALL

That coursing on, whate’er men’s speculations
Amid the changing schools, theologies, philosophies Amid the bawling presentations new and old
The round earth’s silent vital laws, facts, modes continue.
Thanks in Old Age

Thanks in old age–thanks ere I go
For health, the midday sun, the impalpable air–for life, mere life
For precious ever-lingering memories, (of you my mother dear–you father–you, brothers, sisters, friends,)
For all my days–not those of peace alone–the days of war the same
For gentle words, caresses, gifts from foreign lands
For shelter, wine and meat–for sweet appreciation (You distant, dim unknown–or young or old–countless, unspecified readers belov’d We never met, and neer shall meet–and yet our souls embrace, long close and long;)
For beings, groups, love, deeds, words, books–for colors, forms
For all the brave strong men–devoted, hardy men–who’ve forward sprung in freedom’s help, all years, all lands For braver, stronger, more devoted men–(a special laurel ere I go to life’s war’s chosen ones
The cannoneers of song and thought—the great artillerists—the foremost leaders, captains of the soul:
As soldier from an ended war return’d—As traveler out of myriads to the long procession retrospective Thanks—joyful thanks!—a soldier’s, traveler’s thanks.
Life and Death

The two old, simple problems ever inter-twined
Close home, elusive, present, baffled, grappled.
By each successive age insoluble, pass’d on
To ours to-day—and we pass on the same.
The Voice of the Rain

And who art thou? said I to the soft-falling shower
Which, strange to tell, gave me an answer, as here translated:
I am the Poem of Earth, said the voice of the rain Eternal I rise impalpable out of the land and the bottomless sea Upward to heaven, whence, vaguely form’d, altogether changed, and yet the same
I descend to lave the drouths, atomies, dust-layers of the globe
And all that in them without me were seeds only, latent, unborn;
And forever, by day and night, I give back life to my own origin and make pure and beautify it;
(For song, issuing from its birth-place, after fulfilment, wandering Reck’d or unreck’d, duly with love returns.)
Soon Shall the Winter’s Foil Be Here

Soon shall the winter’s foil be here;
Soon shall these icy ligatures unbind and melt—A little while And air, soil, wave, suffused shall be in softness, bloom and growth—a thousand forms shall rise
From these dead clods and chills as from low burial graves.

Thine eyes, ears—all thy best attributes—all that takes cognizance of natural beauty Shall wake and fill. Thou shalt perceive the simple shows, the delicate miracles of earth Dandelions, clover, the emerald grass, the early scents and flowers
The arbutus under foot, the willow’s yellow-green, the blossoming plum and cherry;
With these the robin, lark and thrush, singing their songs—the flitting bluebird;
For such the scenes the annual play brings on.
While not the past forgetting To-day, at least, contention sunk entire—peace, brotherhood uprisen;
For sign reciprocal our Northern, Southern hands
Lay on the graves of all dead soldiers, North or South (Nor for the past alone—for meanings to the future,)
Wreaths of roses and branches of palm.
The Dying Veteran

Amid these days of order, ease, prosperity
Amid the current songs of beauty, peace, decorum
I cast a reminiscence—(likely ’twill offend you I heard it in my boyhood;)—More than a generation since A queer old savage man, a fighter under Washington himself (Large, brave, cleanly, hot-blooded, no talker, rather spiritualistic Had fought in the ranks—fought well—had been all through the Revolutionary war,) Lay dying—sons, daughters, church-deacons, lovingly tending him Sharping their sense, their ears, towards his murmuring, half-caught words:
"Let me return again to my war-days
To the sights and scenes—to forming the line of battle
To the scouts ahead reconnoitering
To the cannons, the grim artillery
To the galloping aides, carrying orders
To the wounded, the fallen, the heat, the suspense
The perfume strong, the smoke, the deafening noise;
Away with your life of peace!—your joys of peace!
Give me my old wild battle-life again!
Stronger Lessons

Have you learn’d lessons only of those who admired you, and were tender with you, and stood aside for you? Have you not learn’d great lessons from those who reject you, and brace themselves against you? or who treat you with contempt or dispute the passage with you?
A Prairie Sunset

Shot gold, maroon and violet, dazzling silver, emerald, fawn
The earth’s whole amplitude and Nature’s multiform power consign’d for once to colors;
The light, the general air possess’d by them—colors till now unknown
No limit, confine—not the Western sky alone—the high meridian—North, South, all Pure luminous color fighting the silent shadows to the last.
Twenty Years

Down on the ancient wharf, the sand, I sit, with a new-comer chatting:
He shipp’d as green-hand boy, and sail’d away, (took some sudden vehement notion;)
Since, twenty years and more have circled round and round
While he the globe was circling round and round, –and now returns:
How changed the place–all the old landmarks gone–the parents dead;
(Yes, he comes back to lay in port for good–to settle–has a well-fill’d purse–no spot will do but this;)
The little boat that scull’d him from the sloop, now held in leash I see
I hear the slapping waves, the restless keel, the rocking in the sand
I see the sailor kit, the canvas bag, the great box bound with brass
I scan the face all berry-brown and bearded—the stout-strong frame Dress’d in its russet suit of good Scotch cloth:
(Then what the told-out story of those twenty years? What of the future?)
Orange Buds by Mail from Florida

A lesser proof than old Voltaire’s, yet greater Proof of this present time, and thee, thy broad expanse, America
To my plain Northern hut, in outside clouds and snow Brought safely for a thousand miles o’er land and tide
Some three days since on their own soil live-sprouting
Now here their sweetness through my room unfolding
A bunch of orange buds by mail from Florida.
Twilight

The soft voluptuous opiate shades
The sun just gone, the eager light dispell’d–(I too will soon be gone, dispell’d,)
A haze–nirwana–rest and night–oblivion.
You Lingering Sparse Leaves of Me

You lingering sparse leaves of me on winter-nearing boughs
And I some well-shorn tree of field or orchard-row;
You tokens diminute and lorn—(not now the flush of May, or July clover-bloom—no grain of August now;)
You pallid banner-staves—you pennants valueless—you overstay’d of time
Yet my soul-dearest leaves confirming all the rest
The faithfulest—hardiest—last.
Not Meagre, Latent Boughs Alone

Not meagre, latent boughs alone, O songs!
(scaly and bare, like eagles’ talons,) But haply for some sunny day (who knows?) some future spring, some summer—bursting forth
To verdant leaves, or sheltering shade—to nourishing fruit
Apples and grapes—the stalwart limbs of trees emerging—the fresh free, open air
And love and faith, like scented roses blooming.
THE DEAD EMPEROR

To-day, with bending head and eyes, thou, too, Columbia Less for the mighty crown laid low in sorrow—less for the Emperor Thy true condolence breathest, sendest out o’er many a salt sea mile Mourning a good old man—a faithful shepherd, patriot.
As the Greek’s Signal Flame

As the Greek’s signal flame, by antique records told Rose from the hill-top, like applause and glory
Welcoming in fame some special veteran, hero
With rosy tinge reddening the land he’d served
So I aloft from Mannahatta’s ship-fringed shore Lift high a kindled brand for thee, Old Poet.
THE DISMANTLED SHIP

In some unused lagoon, some nameless bay
On sluggish, lonesome waters, anchor’d near the shore
An old, dismasted, gray and batter’d ship, disabled, done After free voyages to all the seas of earth, haul’d up at last and hawser’d tight Lies rusting, mouldering.
Now Precedent Songs, Farewell

Now precedent songs, farewell—by every name farewell (Trains of a staggering line in many a strange procession, waggons From ups and downs—with intervals—from elder years, mid-age, or youth,)
"In Cabin'd Ships, or Thee Old Cause or Poets to Come Or Paumanok, Song of Myself, Calamus, or Adam
Or Beat! Beat! Drums! or To the Leaven'd Soil they Trod
Or Captain! My Captain! Kosmos, Quicksand Years, or Thoughts Thou Mother with thy Equal Brood," and many, many more unspecified From fibre heart of mine—from throat and tongue—(My life's hot pulsing blood
The personal urge and form for me—not merely paper, automatic type and ink,) Each song of mine—each utterance in the past—having its long, long history
Of life or death, or soldier’s wound, of country’s loss or safety (O heaven! what flash and started endless train of all! compared indeed to that!
What wretched shred e’en at the best of all!)
An Evening Lull

After a week of physical anguish
Unrest and pain, and feverish heat Toward the ending day a calm and lull comes on Three hours of peace and soothing rest of brain.
Old Age’s Lambent Peaks

The touch of flame—the illuminating fire—the loftiest look at last O’er city, passion, sea—o’er prairie, mountain, wood—the earth itself
The airy, different, changing hues of all, in failing twilight Objects and groups, bearings, faces, reminiscences;
The calmer sight—the golden setting, clear and broad:
So much i’ the atmosphere, the points of view, the situations whence we scan Bro’t out by them alone—so much (perhaps the best) unreck’d before;
The lights indeed from them—old age’s lambent peaks.
After the Supper and Talk

After the supper and talk—after the day is done
As a friend from friends his final withdrawal prolonging Good-bye and Good-bye with emotional lips repeating (So hard for his hand to release those hands—no more will they meet
No more for communion of sorrow and joy, of old and young
A far-stretching journey awaits him, to return no more,) Shunning, postponing severance—seeking to ward off the last word ever so little E’en at the exit-door turning—charges superfluous calling back—e’en as he descends the steps Something to eke out a minute additional—shadows of nightfall deepening Farewells, messages lessening—dimmer the forthgoer’s visage and form Soon to be lost for aye in the darkness—loth,
O so loth to depart!
Garrulous to the very last.
BOOKXXXV. GOOD-BYE MY FANCY
Sail out for Good, Eidolon Yacht!

Heave the anchor short!
Raise main-sail and jib–steer forth
O little white-hull’d sloop, now speed on really deep waters (I will not call it our concluding voyage But outset and sure entrance to the truest, best, maturest;)
Depart, depart from solid earth–no more returning to these shores
Now on for aye our infinite free venture wending Spurning all yet tried ports, seas, hawsers, densities, gravitation Sail out for good, eidolon yacht of me!
LINGERING LAST DROPS

And whence and why come you?
We know not whence, (was the answer,)
We only know that we drift here with the rest
That we linger’d and lagg’d–but were wafted at last, and are now here
To make the passing shower’s concluding drops.
Good-bye my fancy—(I had a word to say But 'tis not quite the time—The best of any man's word or say Is when its proper place arrives—and for its meaning
I keep mine till the last.)
On, on the same, ye jocund twain!
My life and recitative, containing birth, youth, mid-age years Fitful as motley-tongues of flame, inseparably twined and merged in one–combining all
My single soul–aims, confirmations, failures, joys–Nor single soul alone
I chant my nation’s crucial stage, (America’s, haply humanity’s)–
the trial great, the victory great A strange eclaircissement of all the masses past, the eastern world the ancient, medieval Here, here from wanderings, strayings, lessons, wars, defeats–here at the west a voice triumphant–justifying all
A gladsome pealing cry–a song for once of utmost pride and satisfaction;
I chant from it the common bulk, the general average horde, (the best sooner than the worst)–And now I chant old age (My verses, written first for forenoon life, and for the summer’s autumn’s spread I pass to snow-white hairs the same, and give to pulses winter-cool’d the same;) As here in careless trill, I and my recitatives, with faith and love wafting to other work, to unknown songs, conditions On, on ye jocund twain! continue on the same!
MY 71st Year

After surmounting three-score and ten
With all their chances, changes, losses, sorrows
My parents’ deaths, the vagaries of my life, the many tearing passions of me, the war of ’63 and ’4
As some old broken soldier, after a long, hot, wearying march, or haply after battle
To-day at twilight, hobbling, answering company roll-call, Here with vital voice Reporting yet, saluting yet the Officer over all.
Apparitions

A vague mist hanging 'round half the pages:
(Sometimes how strange and clear to the soul
That all these solid things are indeed but apparitions, concepts non-realities.)
THE PALLID WREATH

Somehow I cannot let it go yet, funeral though it is Let it remain back there on its nail suspended
With pink, blue, yellow, all blanch’d, and the white now gray and ashy
One wither’d rose put years ago for thee, dear friend;
But I do not forget thee. Hast thou then faded?
Is the odor exhaled? Are the colors, vitalities, dead?
No, while memories subtly play—the past vivid as ever;
For but last night I woke, and in that spectral ring saw thee Thy smile, eyes, face, calm, silent, loving as ever:
So let the wreath hang still awhile within my eye-reach
It is not yet dead to me, nor even pallid.
AN ENDED DAY

The soothing sanity and blitheness of completion
The pomp and hurried contest-glare and rush are done;
Now triumph! transformation! jubilate!
OLD AGE’S SHIP & CRAFTY DEATH’S

From east and west across the horizon’s edge
Two mighty masterful vessels sailors steal upon us:
But we’ll make race a-time upon the seas—a battle-contest yet! bear lively there!
(Our joys of strife and derring-do to the last!)
Put on the old ship all her power to-day!

Crowd top-sail, top-gallant and royal studding-sails
Out challenge and defiance—flags and flaunting pennants added
As we take to the open—take to the deepest, freest waters.
To the Pending Year

Have I no weapon-word for thee—some message brief and fierce?
(Have I fought out and done indeed the battle?) Is there no shot left For all thy affectations, lisps, scorns, manifold silliness?
Nor for myself—my own rebellious self in thee?
Down, down, proud gorge!—though choking thee;
Thy bearded throat and high-borne forehead to the gutter;
Crouch low thy neck to eleemosynary gifts.
SHAKSPERE-BACON’S CIPHER

I doubt it not—then more, far more;
In each old song bequeath’d—in every noble page or text (Different—something unreck’d before—some unsuspected author,)
In every object, mountain, tree, and star—in every birth and life
As part of each—evolv’d from each—meaning, behind the ostent
A mystic cipher waits infolded.
LONG, LONG HENCE

After a long, long course, hundreds of years, denials Accumulations, rous’d love and joy and thought Hopes, wishes, aspirations, ponderings, victories, myriads of readers Coating, compassing, covering—after ages’ and ages’ encrustations Then only may these songs reach fruition.
Bravo, Paris Exposition!

Add to your show, before you close it, France
With all the rest, visible, concrete, temples, towers, goods machines and ores
Our sentiment wafted from many million heart-throbs, ethereal but solid (We grand-sons and great-grandsons do not forget your grandsires,) From fifty Nations and nebulous Nations, compacted, sent oversea to-day America’s applause, love, memories and good-will.
INTERPOLATION SOUNDS

Over and through the burial chant
Organ and solemn service, sermon, bending priests
To me come interpolation sounds not in the show–plainly to me crowding up the aisle and from the window Of sudden battle’s hurry and harsh noises–war’s grim game to sight and ear in earnest;
The scout call’d up and forward–the general mounted and his aides around him–the new-brought word–the instantaneous order issued;
The rifle crack–the cannon thud–the rushing forth of men from their tents;
The clank of cavalry–the strange celerity of forming ranks–the slender bugle note;
The sound of horses’ hoofs departing–saddles, arms, accoutrements.
Ah, whispering, something again, unseen Where late this heated day thou enterest at my window, door
Thou, laving, tempering all, cool-freshing, gently vitalizing
Me, old, alone, sick, weak-down, melted-worn with sweat;
Thou, nestling, folding close and firm yet soft, companion better than talk, book, art (Thou hast, O Nature! elements! utterance to my heart beyond the rest–and this is of them,)
So sweet thy primitive taste to breathe within–thy soothing fingers my face and hands
Thou, messenger–magical strange bringer to body and spirit of me (Distances balk’d–occult medicines penetrating me from head to foot,)
I feel the sky, the prairies vast–I feel the mighty northern lakes
I feel the ocean and the forest–somehow I feel the globe itself swift-swimming in space; Thou blown from lips so loved, now gone— haply from endless store God-sent (For thou art spiritual, Godly, most of all known to my sense,) Minister to speak to me, here and now, what word has never told, and cannot tell Art thou not universal concrete’s distillation? Law’s, all Astronomy’s last refinement? Hast thou no soul? Can I not know, identify thee?
Old Chants

An ancient song, reciting, ending
Once gazing toward thee, Mother of All Musing, seeking themes fitted for thee Accept me, thou saidst, the elder ballads
And name for me before thou goest each ancient poet.

(Of many debts incalculable Haply our New World’s chiepest debt is to old poems.)

Ever so far back, preluding thee, America
Old chants, Egyptian priests, and those of Ethiopia
The Hindu epics, the Grecian, Chinese, Persian
The Biblic books and prophets, and deep idyls of the Nazarene
The Iliad, Odyssey, plots, doings, wanderings of Eneas Hesiod, Eschylus, Sophocles, Merlin, Arthur
The Cid, Roland at Roncesvalles, the Nibelungen
The troubadours, minstrels, minnesingers, skalds
Chaucer, Dante, flocks of singing birds
The Border Minstrelsy, the bye-gone ballads, feudal tales, essays, plays
Shakespere, Schiller, Walter Scott, Tennyson
As some vast wondrous weird dream-presences
The great shadowy groups gathering around Darting their mighty masterful eyes forward at thee
Thou! with as now thy bending neck and head, with courteous hand and word, ascending Thou! pausing a moment, drooping thine eyes upon them, blent with their music
Well pleased, accepting all, curiously prepared for by them Thou enterest at thy entrance porch.
A Christmas Greeting

Welcome, Brazilian brother–thy ample place is ready;
A loving hand–a smile from the north–a sunny instant hall!

(Let the future care for itself, where it reveals its troubles impedimentas Ours, ours the present throe, the democratic aim, the acceptance and the faith;)
To thee to-day our reaching arm, our turning neck–to thee from us the expectant eye
Thou cluster free! thou brilliant lustrous one! thou, learning well
The true lesson of a nation’s light in the sky
(More shining than the Cross, more than the Crown,)
The height to be superb humanity.
Sounds of the winter too
Sunshine upon the mountains—many a distant strain
From cheery railroad train—from nearer field, barn, house
The whispering air—even the mute crops, garner’d apples, corn Children’s and women’s tones—rhythm of many a farmer and of flail
An old man’s garrulous lips among the rest,
   Think not we give out yet
Forth from these snowy hairs we keep up yet the lilt.
A Twilight Song

As I sit in twilight late alone by the flickering oak-flame Musing on long-pass’d war-scenes–of the countless buried unknown soldiers
Of the vacant names, as unindented air’s and sea’s–the unreturn’d
The brief truce after battle, with grim burial-squads, and the deep-fill’d trenches
Of gather’d from dead all America, North, South, East, West, whence they came up From wooded Maine, New-England’s farms, from fertile Pennsylvania Illinois, Ohio
From the measureless West, Virginia, the South, the Carolinas, Texas (Even here in my room-shadows and half-lights in the noiseless flickering flames Again I see the stalwart ranks on-filing, rising–I hear the rhythmic tramp of the armies;)
You million unwrit names all, all–you dark bequest from all the war
A special verse for you–a flash of duty long neglected–your mystic roll strangely gather’d here
Each name recall’d by me from out the darkness and death’s ashes Henceforth to be, deep, deep within my heart recording, for many future year Your mystic roll entire of unknown names, or North or South
Embalm’d with love in this twilight song.
When the Full-Grown Poet Came

When the full-grown poet came
Out spake pleased Nature (the round impassive globe, with all its shows of day and night,) saying, He is mine;
But out spake too the Soul of man, proud, jealous and unreconciled Nay he is mine alone;
–Then the full-grown poet stood between the two, and took each by the hand;
And to-day and ever so stands, as blender, uniter, tightly holding hands
Which he will never release until he reconciles the two And wholly and joyously blends them.
Osceola

When his hour for death had come
He slowly rais’d himself from the bed on the floor
Drew on his war-dress, shirt, leggings, and girdled the belt around his waist Call’d for vermilion paint (his looking-glass was held before him,) Painted half his face and neck, his wrists, and back-hands.

Put the scalp-knife carefully in his belt—then lying down, resting moment Rose again, half sitting, smiled, gave in silence his extended hand to each and all Sank faintly low to the floor (tightly grasping the tomahawk handle,) Fix’d his look on wife and little children—the last:
(And here a line in memory of his name and death.)
A Voice from Death

A voice from Death, solemn and strange, in all his sweep and power
With sudden, indescribable blow—towns drown’d—humanity by thousands slain
The vaunted work of thrift, goods, dwellings, forge, street, iron bridge Dash’d pell-mell by the blow—yet usher’d life continuing on (Amid the rest, amid the rushing, whirling, wild debris
A suffering woman saved—a baby safely born!)
Although I come and unannounc’d, in horror and in pang
In pouring flood and fire, and wholesale elemental crash, (this voice so solemn, strange,)
I too a minister of Deity.
Yea, Death, we bow our faces, veil our eyes to thee
We mourn the old, the young untimely drawn to thee
The fair, the strong, the good, the capable The household wreck’d, the husband and the wife, the engulfed forger in his forge
The corpses in the whelming waters and the mud
The gather’d thousands to their funeral mounds, and thousands never found or gather’d.

Then after burying, mourning the dead (Faithful to them found or unfound, forgetting not, bearing the past, here new musing,)
A day—a passing moment or an hour—
America itself bends low Silent, resign’d, submissive.

War, death, cataclysm like this, America
Take deep to thy proud prosperous heart.

E’en as I chant, lo! out of death, and out of ooze and slime
The blossoms rapidly blooming, sympathy, help, love
From West and East, from South and North and over sea
TO THE PENDING YEAR

Its hot-spurr’d hearts and hands humanity to human aid moves on;
And from within a thought and lesson yet.

Thou ever-darting Globe! through Space and Air!

Thou waters that encompass us!

Thou that in all the life and death of us, in action or in sleep!

Thou laws invisible that permeate them and all Thou that in all, and over all, and through and under all, incessant!

Thou! thou! the vital, universal, giant force resistless, sleepless, calm Holding Humanity as in thy open hand, as some ephemeral toy How ill to e’er forget thee!

For I too have forgotten
(Wrapt in these little potencies of progress, politics, culture wealth, inventions, civilization,)
TO THE PENDING YEAR

Have lost my recognition of your silent ever-swaying power, ye mighty, elemental throes
In which and upon which we float, and every one of us is buoy’d.
For his o’erarching and last lesson the grey-beard sufi
In the fresh scent of the morning in the open air
On the slope of a teeming Persian rose-garden
Under an ancient chestnut-tree wide spreading its branches Spoke to the young priests and students.

"Finally my children, to envelop each word, each part of the rest Allah is all, all, all–immanent in every life and object
May-be at many and many-a-more removes–yet Allah, Allah, Allah is there.

"Has the estray wander’d far? Is the reason-why strangely hidden?
Would you sound below the restless ocean of the entire world?
Would you know the dissatisfaction? the urge and spur of every life;
The something never still’d—never entirely gone? the invisible need of every seed?
"It is the central urge in every atom (Often unconscious, often evil, downfallen,) To return to its divine source and origin, however distant
Latent the same in subject and in object, without one exception."
The Commonplace

The commonplace I sing;
How cheap is health! how cheap nobility!
Abstinence, no falsehood, no gluttony, lust;
The open air I sing, freedom, toleration (Take here the mainest lesson—less from books—less from the schools,)
The common day and night—the common earth and waters
Your farm—your work, trade, occupation
The democratic wisdom underneath, like solid ground for all.
"The Rounded Catalogue Divine Complete"

The devilish and the dark, the dying and diseas’d
The countless (nineteen-twentieths) low and evil, crude and savage
The crazed, prisoners in jail, the horrible, rank, malignant Venom and filth, serpents, the ravenous sharks, liars, the dissolute;
(What is the part the wicked and the loathsome bear within earth’s orbic scheme?)
Newts, crawling things in slime and mud, poisons
The barren soil, the evil men, the slag and hideous rot.
MIRAGES

More experiences and sights, stranger, than you’d think for;
Times again, now mostly just after sunrise or before sunset
Sometimes in spring, oftener in autumn, perfectly clear weather, in plain sight Camps far or near, the crowded streets of cities and the shopfronts (Account for it or not—credit or not—it is all true And my mate there could tell you the like—we have often confab’d about it,)
People and scenes, animals, trees, colors and lines, plain as could be Farms and dooryards of home, paths border’d with box, lilacs in corners
Weddings in churches, thanksgiving dinners, returns of long-absent sons Glum funerals, the crape-veil’d mother and the daughters Trials in courts, jury and judge, the accused in the box
Contestants, battles, crowds, bridges, wharves
Now and then mark’d faces of sorrow or joy
(I could pick them out this moment if I saw them again,) Show’d to me—just to the right in the sky-edge
Or plainly there to the left on the hill-tops.
Not to exclude or demarcate, or pick out evils from their formidable masses (even to expose them,
But add, fuse, complete, extend—and celebrate the immortal and the good.

Haughty this song, its words and scope
To span vast realms of space and time
Evolution—the cumulative—growths and generations.

Begun in ripen’d youth and steadily pursued Wandering, peering, dallying with all—war, peace, day and night absorbing Never even for one brief hour abandoning my task
I end it here in sickness, poverty, and old age.

I sing of life, yet mind me well of death:
To-day shadowy Death dogs my steps, my seated shape, and has for years—Draws sometimes close to me, as face to face.
The Unexpresséd

How dare one say it?
After the cycles, poems, singers, plays Vaunted Ionia’s, India’s–Homer, Shakspere– the long, long times’ thick dotted roads, areas
The shining clusters and the Milky Ways of stars–Nature’s pulses reap’d
All retrospective passions, heroes, war, love, adoration
All ages’ plummets dropt to their utmost depths
All human lives, throats, wishes, brains—all experiences’ utterance;
After the countless songs, or long or short, all tongues, all lands
Still something not yet told in poesy’s voice or print–something lacking (Who knows? the best yet unexpresséd and lacking.)
Grand is the Seen

Grand is the seen, the light, to me–grand are the sky and stars
Grand is the earth, and grand are lasting time and space
And grand their laws, so multiform, puzzling, evolutionary;
But grander far the unseen soul of me, comprehending, endowing all those Lighting the light, the sky and stars, delving the earth, sailing the sea (What were all those, indeed, without thee, unseen soul? of what amount without thee?)
More evolutionary, vast, puzzling, O my soul!
More multiform far–more lasting thou than they.
Unseen buds, infinite, hidden well Under the snow and ice, under the darkness, in every square or cubic inch Germinal, exquisite, in delicate lace, microscopic, unborn Like babes in wombs, latent, folded, compact, sleeping;
Billions of billions, and trillions of trillions of them waiting (On earth and in the sea–the universe–the stars there in the heavens,) Urging slowly, surely forward, forming endless
And waiting ever more, forever more behind.
Good-Bye My Fancy!

Good-bye my Fancy!
Farewell dear mate, dear love!
I’m going away, I know not where Or to what fortune, or whether I may ever see you again
So Good-bye my Fancy.

Now for my last–let me look back a moment;
The slower fainter ticking of the clock is in me
Exit, nightfall, and soon the heart-thud stopping.

Long have we lived, joy’d, caress’d together; Delightful!–now separation–Good-bye my Fancy.

Yet let me not be too hasty
Long indeed have we lived, slept, filter’d, become really blended into one;
Then if we die we die together, (yes, we’ll remain one,)
If we go anywhere we’ll go together to meet what happens
TO THE PENDING YEAR

May-be we’ll be better off and blither, and learn something
May-be it is yourself now really ushering me to the true songs, (who knows?)
May-be it is you the mortal knob really undo-ing, turning–so now finally Good-bye–and hail! my Fancy.
